R. G. Bedlington, of Calgary and Edmonton, was a caller at the Toronto office of The Grocer last Thursday. Mr. Bedlington is an old traveler and grocer and though young in years has had a good training in grocery matters, he having for a number of years represented W. H. Gillard & Co., Hamilton, in the northwest. Business is reported good, the only great complaints being shortage of car service and freight delivery. A good season's business is being looked forward to.

AMONG THE ORANGES

Growing the fruit in Sunny Florida.

The business of orange-growing is peculiarly attractive. The tree itself is very beautiful in its dress of perennial glossy green. It is very productive of golden fruit, which, after maturity, can remain upon the tree for a long period, and still be in a condition to bear transportation to distant markets. It is so easily handled and so profitable that its cultivation naturally attracted the attention of many whom the mildness of the climate alone would not have induced to become residents of Florida, writes Nixon Waterman, in the Boston Transcript. Groves, large and small, were planted throughout the peninsula and seemed to promise good returns, if not wealth, in a few years.

It is generally thought that the orange is not a native of this country, but was brought to Florida by the early Spanish colonists. The orange is a native of Asia and the East Indies, as well of Florida. It was not grown in Europe till about the fifteen century, and it is hardly possible that the Spaniards, who cultivated it very indifferently up to the sixteenth century, brought it here very soon after their discovery of Florida in 1512. The fact that the early Spanish visitors here left no account of this fruit argues little, since they gave little account of anything they saw or undertook, beyond general expressions. The first elaborated sketches of Florida were given by the Bartrams, father and son, nearly a century and a half ago. There is much evidence that goes to prove that the orange is indigenous to the soil of Florida.

10,000 on a Single Tree.

The orange is the longest lived fruit tree known to this country. It is reputed to have attained the age of three hundred years, and has been known to flourish and bear fruit for more than a hundred years. It is said that no other fruit tree will sustain itself and produce fruit so well under neglect and rough treatment. It comes into bearing about the third year from the budding, and by the fifth year produces a good crop under favorable circumstances, though the yield is increased by age and bettered conditions. The early growth of the orange tree is rapid, and by its tenth year it has grown more than it will in the next fifty, so far as breadth and height is concerned, but it is age that multiplies its fruit stems. It is said on fair authority that 10,000 oranges have been produced on a tree at a single crop. It is a matter of undisputed record that 8,000 have been grown on a single tree. These figures are for the exceptional, matured tree, the ordinary tree's product being very much less. The tree itself is of handsome form, seldom over 20 feet in height, with a breadth of 12 or 15 feet across the branches or top, which is usually conical in form and not unlike the well-trained dwarf pear tree in general outline.

Cultivation is Easy.

A great consideration in favor of the orange over most fruit trees is the tenacity with which the fruit clings to the tree after it is fully ripe. The fruit when fully matured remains fresh and sound upon the tree for several months, while the winds and storms but gradually shake it off, when it may still be kept for many weeks, though, of course, with a slow deterioration in size and a loss in juiciness and fine flavor.

The orange is not only prolific, but is likewise a steady bearer. It puts forth blossoms during the last half of winter and the first half of spring. The peach, plum, cherry, quince, apple and pear bloom promptly and fully, not holding in flower more than 10 days, and their fruit progressing in growth uniformly, while the orange tree may hold in February, blossoms, green fruit and the matured and golden product. These advantages, in connection with its longevity, make it one of the most profitable and least expensive fruits grown in America. The ground needs only to be cleared of trees and underbrush to start an orange orchard, though of course, better results are obtained when the ground is thoroughly prepared and well cultivated. The wild orange tree is budded or grafted with the sweet varieties, and then with a minimum amount of care, nature does the rest. Were it not for the frost—the terrible, murderous frost!—that in a single hour in the night can destroy the growth and beauty of years of effort, Florida would ere this have become one vast orange grove. It is the fear of frost that keeps the people from planting orange groves of large proportions.

While the great damage to the orange industry by the frost was a severe blow to Florida, it has served to turn the attention of her farmers to the growing of other fruits and vegetables and the large trade already established with the Northern market assures the State a prosperous future even without orange culture, which bids fair to regain and supersede its former proportions. With the restoration of the orange there is now a tendency to expand the cultivation of the grape-fruit, botanically called the pomelo, which has become popularized in the north, during recent years, although previously regarded only as an ornamental prodigy of the citrus family.

The area of orange culture has also been extended northward in the State by the introduction of hardier species budded upon the trifoliata, a hardy but inedible species from Japan, while the extension of the railway facilities into the more southern portions of the peninsula has carried this industry into a much larger, and to some extent safer, portion of the State so far as danger from cold is concerned. The growth of the orange-growing industry was pretty steady from the year 1884-5, when 600,000 boxes were marketed, to 1894-5, when 6,000,000 boxes were sold. The freeze cut the next year's output to 75,000 boxes, but since then the output has gradually increased toward normal conditions.

STUDY THE CRANK.

Many clerks and store proprietors dread the crank above all other customers. Yet for all that, the crank frequently is the best patron the store has.

The crank is the man or woman who knows what he or she wants. The crank is satisfied that a certain article, a certain brand, a certain quantity is desirable and desired. There is no hesitation in the mind of the crank. Give him or her what is asked for and there will be no trouble.

Furthermore, the real, genuine crank has the money to pay for the goods. The man with the money in his pocket, who has the account in the bank and who can pay for the goods he buys naturally assumes the right to be particular.

We know one merchant who advertises his store as the store for cranks and the beauty of it is that he lives up to his advertisement and conducts a business which usually suits the fastidious, the particular, and the people who know what they want and have the money to pay for it.

"AD." RULES FOR RETAIL GROCERS

Pointers for Making Ads Take Hold—Store Adjuncts of Advertising.

By J. H. Larimore, in Brains.

I have found it to be generally true that, especially in the smaller cities and towns, grocers do much less advertising than the other men in different lines of business, and the reason for this is usually that the grocer feels, first, that, inasmuch as his goods are called to mind at least three times a day, whereas the need of clothing, boots and shoes, hardware, etc., is not so apparent, therefore he needs less advertising to induce people to buy. Second, the profits in the grocery business, for the amount invested and the number of sales, is so much less than in many other lines, that the grocer feels that he cannot "afford" to advertise so much.

Now, experience has shown me that these are the very reasons why he should increase his advertising and use every lawful means to promote his trade. I shall simply lay this down as a proposition for you to ponder over, however.

Supposing, though, that you agree with me; now you will ask, how and what can we advertise most profitably?

Use Enough Space.

By all means use the newspaper or newspapers if any are printed in your town. And, without going into excess, use pretty generous space. Instruct your printer to give you plenty of white space inside the border of the ad. Make the ad., both as to the copy and the type arrangement, cheerful without being "funny" or "smart aleck." I always advise three things in an ad. of any nature: first, the headline, to attract; second, the argument, to convince; third, the name and location.

The headline is a most important part of the ad. It should first attract, then it should so hold the attention as to induce the reader to give up his or her—and, by the way, make it appeal especially to her—time to the reading of the remainder of the ad. And, right here let me say, lest I forget, that it is highly important to change the ad., at least the headline, with every issue of the paper. Store news ought to be about as interesting as the other news in the paper—and it ought to be just as new and fresh. What would you think of the editor who printed the same headlines and the same news matter two or three days, perhaps a week or two, without change?

Your headline and what follows should be so attractive and interesting that people will look for Smith's ad. every time they pick up the paper.

Avoid Too Many Words.

Avoid too much wording in the head line. A short, terse sentence or question serves the point. The headline should be apt to what follows, just as the minister makes his text and sermon harmonize, and just as he sticks to his text, so ought you to yours.

In the body of the ad. you will, of course, go more into detail, but here, too, while giving ample descriptions, you should avoid too much verbiage. Quality is a good thing to keep to the forefront. Advertise cleanliness, prompt delivery, etc.—that is, if you are clean and prompt. Prices should always be printed. The aim you have is two-fold—first, to induce people to buy at your particular store; second, to buy those particular things that you have in stock at that time.

I believe it to be a good idea to adopt some particular size of space, some particular border, and some particular style or styles or type-face for your ads., so that Smith's ads. stand out like a hurt finger, separate and istinct from the rest of the paper. As a rule I should use but two series of type in an ad.—one series of display for the headline, subheads, signature and address, with the headline in one size, the signature in a slightly smaller, and the subheads and address still smaller. For the body of the ad., plain Roman, brevier or ten-point, is preferable.

Avoid too much capitalization. Lower case letters are much more easily read. Too much display detracts as much as too little.

Illustrations.

Illustrations, if they are pertinent, are good, and should be used frequently. They should always be in accord and spirit with the ad., however. About ninety per cent. of the cheap stock cuts are better destroyed than used. A good picture in an ad, attracts; a poor one repels.

Grocery advertising should be seasonable above all things else. You can't do much to interest a woman in canned corn while the baskets in your window or just outside your door are full of fresh roasting ears.

It is best not to advertise too many things in one ad. Get the reader's attention drawn and held to one or two things. If you can get the people into the store to buy these one or two things, you can sell them some other things. I have in mind one dealer who uses all his space in one issue to advertise Heinz products. He makes the ad. so appealing that his customers must come in any buy some pickles or baked beans. And he doesn't advertise all the fifty-seven in one issue, either. He wil interest the reader in three or four of the fifty-seven, depending upon his ability as a salesman to sell four or five other varities, and other groceries as well, when the customer comes in. The next ad. will deal with hams and bacon; then he comes out with a green goods ad. or a coffee and tea talk or something on fruits or canned goods; going from one department of the store to another, advertising the proper things in the proper season. He commands the best grocery trade in the town.

Back Up the "Ads."

What follows the ad. is of as much or more importance than the ad. itself. Store arrangement is necessary. If I advertised canned goods to-day, then tomorrow I should have my windows filled with canned goods, neatly displayed. Cleanliness is of prime consideration. Orderliness should not be forgotten. I have seen grocers weigh sugar, fine cut tobacco, beans and cheese in the same scales, and, for myself, at least, the effect of all their advertising was killed. I have seen them advertise a certain brand of tea, and then have to hunt all over the store to find the tea chest that contained it. I have gone into groceries and found the butter lying opened and exposed to the air, while around the stove four or five loafers smoked and chewed tobacco. Often I have seen the butter and cheese kept within three or four feet of the coal oil and gasoline.

Window display, as an adjunct to newspaper and other forms of advertising, is too often neglected. The proper and neat arrangement of seasonable, appetizing goods in a window will often lead to purchases that would not otherwise be secured. Of course, here, too, as in stock arrangement, there should be harmony of the goods displayed, and as in newspaper advertising, there should be frequent changes. I am a firm believer in circularizing, if done properly.

It is a good thing to take an evening off once in a while and commune with yourself about just what it is you are aiming at in this world.

Good Advertising in Canada

Good advertising in Canada means more than merely the publication of copy which may have given good results in England, or perhaps in the States, or elsewhere, in mediums in which space may have been purchased at even fairly low price.

Local color in the advertising copy will double the value of the space—while the choice of suitable mediums requires expert knowledge which is possessed by few ordinary business men even in Canada.

We have been handling many accounts, large and small, in Canada for many years and are in a position to know which papers have paid and which have given poor results. We have a staff of artists and copy writers who can prepare business-pulling ads.

We have as complete an organization to handle advertising in French as in English—(an essential feature in Canada).

The reproductions on this page are all of advertising matter prepared by us for firms whose appropriations we handle in Canada.

If you want to spend $500 or more in Canada it will pay you in the interest of Good Advertising to correspond with us. Plans and prices will be cheerfully submitted.

A PROGRESSIVE FIRM

Above we show a picture recently taken at Hamilton, Ont., showing Minto Bros. sample boys before starting on their routes through the city. This firm is systematically sampling all the towns and cities in Ontario and most certainly deserve great credit for the energetic way in which they "do things."

Under the able leadership of Mr. M. E. Gilbert—the advertising staff—whose pictures also appear in the cut—are leaving no stone unturned to keep "Melagama" Tea before the public—Melagama makes friends wherever it goes. People know when they buy a package of this tea that they are getting something good.

Another form of advertising used by this firm is the electric flashlight. One of these has been in operation for some time past at Ottawa and one is now in operation on the roof of one of Hamilton's largest buildings. It flashes the message, welcome to those who are acquainted with its good qualities, "Drink 'Melagama' Tea"—The firm are also placing a flashlight on one of the principal buildings on Yonge St., Toronto.

THE CLERK'S SPARE TIME.

If your clerks came with a demand for a one or two hour decrease in the length of their working day, the chances are that the demand would not be willingly conceded; but how much less than that time are they now really serving you? After taking into account their idle time between the demands of successive customers upon them, is it not true that their actual average daily service is curtailed by an hour or two? The mere fact that they are on hand prepared to work is not of itself a source of profit for their employer until he is able to utilize their readiness to his own advantage, says "Hardware." To devise between-time occupations that are evidently intended to use up their idle minutes more than for any other purpose is to secure their ill-will without obtaining their very hearty co-operation. That is the sort of thing which stirs up the spirit of "getting even." Instead, some useful form of invoicing work, or labelling or arranging, for each one in some special department should be devised; something as much a relief as possible from the regular duties and that will at the same time awaken a certain interest in its completion. Then don't make the mistake of telling them that you see they have a little spare time which you wish to utilize. Tell them instead that you are anxious to get this list made out or these goods labelled as soon as it can possibly be done without interfering with their other work: "Just watch your chance and get it done as soon as you can." A discreet manager will keep the between-times of his clerks profitably employed in tasks in which they will take a personal interest and will render willing assistance if worthy of their hire.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

is often asked by many people. There is everything in it when that name is Crosse & Blackwell on a package of preserves, pickles, chutneys or other food products packed by the firm, for it is synonymous with "the highest quality at the most reasonable price". The reputation of C. & B's. goods has stood the test of time and has been achieved by honest merit and the maintaining of the highest standard of quality. Ever since thefounding of the firm in 1706 their goods have possessed a reputation for quality and value unexcelled by any and approached only by a few.

The grocer who stocks C. & B. goods can rely upon their reputation alone selling for him many dollars worth; for when the best is wanted, C. & B. goods are universally asked for.

"Grocer Hashisownbrand bought flour of a firm of good millers and sold it under "Peerless" Brand. He worked up a large and profitable trade, when the siren came, in the person of a talkative salesman of another mill, who offered what he claimed was as good or better flour for 50 cents per barrel less. The bait was taken, and in three months Hashisownbrand had lost his trade in Peerless flour and then excused himself with 'I didn't mean to.'"

DO YOU SEE THE POINT?

On the chance of making a few extra cents you cannot afford to lose your trade.

CANADIAN CANNERS, Limited

There are more than a few reasons for the preference, so unanimously expressed, by the women of Canada in favor of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The climate, where our products come from, is ideal for the gradual and thorough nourishment of the vegetable kingdom. Too sunny lands and sultry winds mean premature growth and quick decay and nowhere else on the globe are climatic conditions just right for the best fruits and vegetables. Then we better nature's work by eliminating all fruits and vegetables, showing the least symptoms of coming taint, and mind you, the scrutiny of our experts is microscopic in its severity.

Canada's Ideal Canning Factory

Home of Old Homestead Brand

And there you see Canada's best canning factory—in fact, the ideal one. The ultra cleanliness of the place goes without saying. Numerous devices, making for perfection, obtain therein. Extravagant ! No sir ! We had simply determined to give you the concentrated goodness of fruits and vegetables in cans—a goodness so unapproachable by even the next best brand that the particular women of Canada called OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND—"Incomparable" People who want fruit and vegetable goodness condensed, order OLD HOMESTEAD RRAND. Can you supply the demand ?

People are being educated on every hand into the importance of pure Food.

The government, the magazines, the newspapers, are all in the good work—and the demand for adulterated articles must cease.

Your customers are learning how pure and good St. George's Baking Powder is—how free it is from alum, ammonia, lime and other adulterants. They have been reading about the law in England that makes it illegal to sell alum baking powders. They are beginning to realize what a large percentage of Canadian baking powders contain alum and acid phosphate. They know St. George's Baking Powder is guaranteed to be made of Cream of Tartar, 99.90 per cent. pure—and they will be asking you for St. George's.

It will pay you to stock St. George's—Alum and other adulterated brands will soon be impossible lines.

What Kind of a Collector Are You?

Have you people on your books who should pay, but don't?

Have you people who should pay but whom you don't wish to offend by pressing?

Have you people dealing at other stores because they owe you?

If you have—and the average retailer has—this advertisement will interest you and show you how to save time, postage and worry, give you ready money for your old overdue accounts and notes and simplify your whole credit business by one-half.

It doesn't make any difference how large or how small, how old, how long outlawed, or where the parties have gone, we can collect for you if at all possible and cheaper than any lawyer or agency.

You give your lawyer fifty cents to write a letter and five dollars to represent you in division court on one account. We'll do more work and better work on one hundred for the same money, and if we lose the cases, refund the money.

Will your lawyer?

Our plan is to send you an outfit of letters printed on our office paper and complete instructions for handling the account and using these letters, which are filled out as to name and amount by you and mailed to the debtor.

While we figure prominently in the transaction, WE RECEIVE NO MONEY OR COMMISSION other than the original price of the system.

You handle all the money and the accounts never pass out of your control.

You spend an average of three cents per month now, billing a slow customer; OUR SYSTEM costs very little more and BRINGS RESULTS. You know what your own plan does.

You have right now lots of single accounts on your books that you would gladly pay from one to five dollars to see safely in the till.

We'll handle these for five cents each and guarantee you better results than you can attain yourself.

Our system has been in use by many retailers during the last five years and with marked success, and we will gladly refer you to many of our clients upon receipt of a card from you.

The price of the system complete with supplies for 100 accounts is five dollars, and those who have used it during the last five years would not part with it for many times its original cost.

We find, however, that many retailers have not 100 accounts on their books, so in order to accommodate these and to enable anyone to give this system a trial at a merely nominal charge, we have had a number of sets made up as follows:

Full System, 50 accounts $3.00
Full System, 25 accounts 2.00
Full System, 10 accounts 1.00

Select the set which meets your requirements—best mail us an express order for that amount—and we'll forward prepaid the most complete collecting system in Canada. Give it a trial, and if it does not pay for itself in three months, say so, and we'll send you your money quickly and gladly.

Very truly yours,

SCOTCH HERRING CURING

A Failure in Canada after four years of experiment.

By M. H. Nickerson, M.P.P. Clark's Harbor, N.S.

It is now about four years since the Ottawa Government was induced to to patronize a scheme for teaching the coast-folk of Canada how to catch and cure herring after the famous Scottish fashion. This novel enterprise, undertaken by the state, was called an experiment, and put in the articles for a stated period, during which it was confidently expected to prove its usefulness and be adopted generally. No one appears to have counted the cost, or calculated the chances of failure. For three seasons past operations have been conducted at widely separated points on the Atlantic seaboard, with a brief test of the "cure" made in British Columbia last year, and yet the demonstration is officially held to be incomplete. Preparations are going on for another season's trial; the steam drifter will select new grounds, and the experts will work stations in a wider territory. But there is very little real achievement in the history of the scheme to warrant its continuance. It has neither expanded the industry nor increased values. The gain in practical knowledge is not perceptible, while the expense stands out in startling magnitude on the pages of the public accounts.

A Leap in the Dark.

It was a dual method which some of our well-meaning theorists sought to introduce—the catching of herring in more plentiful quantities, and the preparing of the fish for market in such a manner as to double the price. That problem had long since been solved in Scotland, and it was taken for granted that it would work out equally satisfactorily on this side of the "herring-pond." It was too hasty a conclusion to be safe. Because success had followed the undertaking in the British Isles, it did not necessarily follow that either part of the scheme would turn out well in Canada, under conditions of a vastly different nature.

In the herring, as in most other deep sea fisheries, a great deal depends on the set and constancy of the currents, as well as on the course taken by the schools of fish. There, everything is more favorable to drifting—that is, to the working of a long string of nets, called "a shot," one end of which is fast to the stern of a small steamer, which is allowed to drift without headway in the path of the passing schools. Here, the tides are more variable, and off some parts of the coast, much stronger; while the movement of the herring, except in spawning time, is erratic to a perplexing degree.

These new difficulties made themselves felt as son as the steam-drifter "33" went into commission in our waters. That boat had been brought over from England—where she had done good service—and been bought by the Dominion Government for the purpose of making the experiment. The crew to man her came from Scotland—all of them bred to the business—and a number of lassies were also imported to do the dressing and salting at the stations, which were the places chosen for the curing demonstration, each under the direction of an "expert," while Mr. Cowie, the chief missionary of the new method, had charge of the whole venture.

The First Attempts.

It should be said that drifting nets, both for the capture of herring and mackerel, is no new thing among provincial fishermen. From the earliest times mackerel had been caught that way, sometimes in abundance, when passing northward along our coasts in their spring migrations, as they are caught at the present time by some New England netters, intercepting them in southern waters. But drifting for herring had never been successful with us, for the reason that the off-lying schools are extremely elusive, and have managed to escape in all attempts hitherto made, whether with drift nets or purse-seines.

The "33" and her Scotch crew were not as well fitted in some respects as they should have been. Their nets were too deep for setting in shoal water near the coast, and of too small mesh to snare the larger variety of herring which tended off shore. All these circumstances combined to make the weekly trips fruitless, while the experimet was going on in the western part of Nova Scotia, which I had the opportunity of observing personally.

No Practical Interest in the Work.

At length, recourse was had to the catches of local netmen in order to demonstrate the process of curing as practised in the Old Country. Quantities of herring were bought from native fishermen, and the lassies set to work at their tasks, some to "dress" the fish, others to salt them in barrels, both of which they had been trained to do with great dexterity. There was always a gathering of spectators, but no pupils; no one to take instructions with a view to following up the business. It is hard to say who was responsible for this neglect of a good opportunity to learn something valuable; but it certainly has tended to make these shows, repeated from Cape Sable to Miscou, count more for amusement than profit to our own fisher-folk.

Usually, about four persons were employed at each station, one man in charge and three lassies to do the work. The process does not seem to require much skill, as it is actually more simple, in its first stages, at least, than our domestic mode of "gibbing" and salting, though perhaps a little more regard is had to the precise quantity of salt. This is always imported from Scotland, as well as the barrels, which are undoubtedly superior to our home-make, inasmuch as the staves are thicker and less bulging in the middle, with the hoops more securely driven on, enabling the packages to be handled in transit without starting a leak. These are about the only noticeable points of advantage, if such they may be called, for after all the pains and outlay, the fish do not appear to have taken the market by storm, either in New York, where a ready sale was said to be awaiting them, or in northern Europe, whither a few consignments have been sent. Domestic consumption has been next to nothing, the packages offered as samples to local dealers, during the first year of the experiment, having turned out most unsavory.

Not an Encouraging Outlook.

One small Nova Scotia fish company was half inclined to adopt the method, and, with that end in view, made enquiries of the New York commission merchant who handled Mr. Cowie's consignments as to the market outlook for the article in that city. The answers were very guarded, and little information could be obtained from that source beyond the fact that the fish had not brought more than $10 per barrel, and certain lots remained unsold. It was also stated that the best customers for the real Scotch cure, the Hebrew population and the East Side inhabitants, did not take to the Canadian article, as the "fish were unsuitable." The department at Ottawa has likewise been very reticent when asked what the returns had been, and in what way the experiment was likely to benefit the herring industry of the Dominion. A great deal of mystery hangs over the whole transaction, nor are the reasons entirely obvious for the failure to put up an article equal to that of the Old Country.

But such is, undoubtedly, the case up to this date. Veteran herring-catchers on our coast, whose experience covered many voyages to northern waters in the long ago, declared their opinion at the first that Scotish treatment could never transform our herring into anything like those of Scotland, which are, they contend, of a finer texture and better flavor.

Cost vs. Worth.

The cost of the experiment, however, is a more palpable and less welcome fact.The Auditor-General's report shows for each of the first two years an expenditure of about $15,000, on the steamer, her outfit and the staffs at the various stations. For the year ending June, 30, 1906, the account under those heads totals $20,041, of which the maintenance of the drifter is by far the largest item, and against which popular criticism at present is chiefly directed. It is pointed out that the steamer, at any rate, is a useless factor; that if the experiment is to be continued, in spite of poor results so far, it is only needful to keep the hands at the stations, since, if judiciously located, they can always obtain a supply of herring from the netmen in the neighborhood, as Mr. Cowie did in his experiments on the Pacific coast.

CLERKS' ORGANIZE.

Quebec Grocery Assistants Form an Active Association—Officers and Objects.

The recently formed Grocery Clerks' Association in Quebec seems to be forging ahead in good manner. Already there are more than one hundred and thirty-five members enrolled, and more are expected to join in the near future.

The primary objects of the association are: Instruction for the members through the founding of a course of practical teaching of various subjects which will be useful to the clerks; to obtain through legitimate means, the early closing of stores; the establishment of a sick fund for the members' benefit.

The officers are: President, Adj. Pouliot; vice-president, J. Rochette; secretary, W. Cantin; assistant-secretary, Alp. Gagnon; treasurer, G. Gingras; assistant-treasurer, V. U. Fiset; advisory committee, U. Lachance, L. Fiset, J. A. Rousseau, G. Drolet, A [illegible] Geo. Dube, J. A. Roy, J. Gosselin; auditors, N. Drolet and U. Lachance; commissioner, J. A. Trepannier.

There will be a general meeting first Wednesday of every month.

ADJ. POULIOT
President Quebec Grocery Clerks' Association
Manager Ely Turcotte's Grocery Department

Several social and euchre parties have been held and were very successful.

At the last meeting of the association The Canadian Grocer was adopted as the official organ.

GEO HASENFLUG AGAIN IN COMMAND.

Geo. Hasenflug, Waterloo, has purchased the large stock of groceries, crockery, granite, tinware, etc., of the Boehmer Departmental Store Co., of Berlin. Mr. Hasenflug was for nearly twenty-five years in the grocery and crockery and glassware business in Waterloo and his experience and knowledge of every detail of the business, combined with an energy rarely met with, should tend to make the present purchase an event in Berlin's business circles. Mr. Hasenflug's grocery in Waterloo was always recognized by judges as one of the best arranged and up-to-date business stores in Western Ontario and his conduct of the present business will in no measure be behind his previous record. The Canadian Grocer has shown in its columns pictures of Mr. Hasenflug's store windows and departments as models of what an up-to-date store should be, were hard to surpass. One of the earliest subscribers to The Canadian Grocer, he has always been on the lookout for new and modern ideas as published in its columns. The Grocer wishes Mr. Hasenflug success and prosperity.

WILFRID CANTIN
Secretary Quebec Grocery Clerks' Association.
Manager A. A. J. Gingra's Branch Grocery

It is a year and a half since Mr. Hasenflug sold his Waterloo business, but he has continued to subscribe for The Canadian Grocer and says he doesn't see how any grocer can be without it.

ENTERPRISING BISCUIT FIRM.

One of the best equipped biscuit and confectionery factories in the Province of Quebec is that of the Dussault Co., Ltd., Joliette. The premises are located in the heart of a thriving town and in the centre of a good agricultural district. All the necessary accessories to the manufacture of both biscuits and confectionery are easily available and the trade is constantly increasing. The building is a large brick structure well fitted up throughout with first-class machinery of modern type, and a staff of 75 hands is required in the work of producing the large variety of over 300 brands. Everywhere are the evidences of enterprise, care and attention to the perfection of manufacture, and the fact that there is a steadily increasing demand for their goods in all parts of the country proves their worth.

G. GINGRAS
Treasurer Quebec Grocery Clerks' Association.
Manager Myrand & Pouliot's Grocery Department

The company was founded only four years ago, but by constant attention to the wants of their customers the growth has been most gratifying. Still greater things are in sight for this company as the probabilities are that they will be compelled to enlarge before long in order to meet the demand. Their biscuits and confectionery are all branded and their price list is sent to enquirers promptly. Orders receive prompt, careful attention. The active members of the firm are J. E. Lalonde, manager, and J. H. Du Sault, president.

TEA COMBINE IN JAPAN.

The Tea and Coffee Trade Journal in their weekly bulleting under the heading, "Japanese Tea Trust," say: "T. Furuya, of T. Furuya & Company, New York, is at present in Japan organizing a company to control the Japan tea industry. The name of the new company will be the United Japan Tea Company, and the headquarters, Shizuoka, Japan. Mr. Furuya is now at work consolidating the leading tea firing houses as well as the tea grocers. It is also stated on good authority that the movement will receive Government aid."

ADVANCE IN BOAR'S HEAD.

Boar's Head compound lard has been advanced and prices now read: Tierces, 10⅝c; half barrels, 10⅞c; tubs, 18¾c; pails, $2.23; 20-lb. tins, $2.13; cases, 3's (60 lbs.) 11⅝c; cases, 5's (60 lbs.) 11½c; cases, 10's (60 lbs.) 11⅝c.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

CHATHAM.

W. E. Bensen, representing the Canada Flour Mills Co. in the west, returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Wodehouse, of Blenheim, are being congratulated on the success of their son, Dr. Robt. E. Wodehouse, recently appointed superintendent of the Toronto Isolation Hospital.

Fifty years ago Sunday John Hoon, of this city, first commenced the manufacture of his ginger beer—now and for many years past a well known beverage throughout western Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kitchen, of Electric, Montana, were city visitors last week. Mr. Kitchen was formerly in the grocery business here, being for many years junior partner of the firm of Heyward & Kitchen.

Nelson Vanidour has severed his connection with John McConnell's grocery staff, and intends leaving shortly for Detroit.

N. A. McGeachy & Sons have purchased a property on King street. They last week started their bottling process, and are now delivering aerated milk in bottles to their customers.

Peddlers' By-law Again.

The grocers' section of the local Retail Merchants' Association are proving themselves one of the most active units of that body. Since their organization a few weeks ago they have held several meetings, and grappled with a number of difficult problems.

One of these is the failure of the local magistrate to convict where charges are laid under the peddlers' by-law.

Long smouldering dissatisfaction among the retail merchants of the city in this regard was strongly voiced by Secretary Anderson when, at the meeting of the R. M. A. on the 13th, he presented a resolution from the grocers' section requesting the assistance of the association in inducing the city council to aid in the enforcement of the by-law by having a test case made, and appealing from the magistrate's decision should he refuse to convict.

"A stranger can come into town," said Mr. Anderson, "take orders to-day and deliver them to-morrow, and, according to the interpretation put upon the by-law by the police magistrate, he can't be got at under the present act."

Mr. Anderson added that the grocers felt that the act was meant for just this kind of people, and that the necessary information for the test case would be laid as soon as a move was decided on. The grocers felt, in common with other retailers, that competition from these transients, who took money out of the city without yielding any adequate revenue in return in the way of taxes, should be discouraged.

The matter was discussed at some length, other members present giving instances of similar unfair competition. On the suggestion of A. D. Westman, it was decided to communicate with the provincial board with a view to securing their interpretation of the statute, in order to be thoroughly posted preparatory to making a test case.

Assessment Matters.

With reference to the contention of Provincial Organizer Brubaker that the Chatham retailers should be assessed on a 30 per cent. basis instead of 35 per cent., it was stated at the R. M. A. meeting that A. B. McCoig, M.P.P., had interviewed Assistant Provincial Secretary Mulvey, and the latter had stated that, in towns whose population was, according to the last assessment, under 10,000, the rate would be 35 per cent. Chatham comes just within this figure, so that the present basis of assessment will continue another year.

In connection with Mr. Gamey's amendment to the present assessment act, designed to abolish the business tax and practically revert to the old system, exempting stock not actually purchased, the consensus of opinion at the meeting favored the present system on the whole, and on motion of Wm. Anderson and Harry A. Andrew, a resolution was passed endorsing the present system and protesting against the proposed change.

Market By-law.

In addition to the resolution re peddlers, Secretary Anderson, of the grocers' section, brought up another matter of importance to the trade at the R.M.A. meeting. This was the market by-law.

At present, retailers are prohibited from purchasing on the public market earlier than ten o'clock in the morning. Mr. Anderson asked the co-operation of the association in securing the repeal of this by-law. The resolution he presented proposed to make the market entirely free, or at least free to retailers. The association endorsed the resolution, which will likely come before the city council at an early session .

Uniform Potato Bags.

A matter which will come before the grocers' section at the June meeting will be that of securing Dominion legislation providing for a uniform weight in potato bags. The usual weight here is 90 pounds. In other provinces it is not always similar.

Secretary Winterstein, of the board of trade, at the last R.M.A. meeting, instanced an effect of this variance. In conjunction with another local man, he, some years ago, took a plunge into potatoes. He ordered a carload from New Brunswick. The number of bags was specified, and in this particular the shipment was found quite correct. However, the bags were found to contain 80 pounds instead of 90 pounds, and the potatoes had to be all re-bagged before they could be disposed of.

The local men had calculated on receiving 90 pound bags. The difference amounted to about $120, and quite ate up all possibility of profit.

War to the Knife.

Rivalry among local wholesale fruit dealers led to a police court case this week. One morning last week, Geo. Zakoor, Syrian, delivered some bananas to E. C. Gammage, the Queen street grocer. Frank Favata, an Italian fruit dealer on Queen street, who was accustomed to supply Mr. Gammage, ran out to Zakoor and proceeded to use forcible remonstrances, in the course of which, according to the Syrian's story, Favata drew a knife. Zakoor laid a charge of assault. The case was to have come up Monday morning, but Favata, who had been released on $30 bail, did not appear. It is alleged that he has gone to Detroit.

GUELPH.

Until the weather sunned up some, Guelph roads were in an abominable state. J. W. Lyon, one of the city fathers, and a great boomer of the city's future, told a story of the roads at a meeting of the Board of Trade lately. He said he met a man in Toronto who looked "wild and woolly." He asked him what his business was. The man said "I am a rough rider from Guelph." Mr. Lyon asked "How's that?" The reply was, "Well, I drive one of George Williams' grocery wagons."

Another man, a driver for McCrea & Son, broke an axle and the writer heard him muttering incoherently about "what is the use of having a boss an alderman if he cannot help the roads a little bit?"

The Kandy Kitchen has opened up a spendid new store of confectionery and fruits, on Wyndham Street, next to Robt. Mitchell's old stand. They are certainly the best in their class in Guelph.

Thursday and Friday seem to be order days with the grocers and on these days you may see quite a number of buggies scurrying around hunting the trade.

Every merchant in Guelph who had an overhanging sign has had to take it down, by order of the cop. Much kicking and grumbling is naturally made.

The Retail Merchants' Association held their regular meeting recently and business of much importance was transacted. They considered the question of "tainted" money; not Carnegie's, but the money we handle, and it was the unanimous opinion of all that while disinfecting the money in the banks might be an advantage, the only real cure was to never let a note leave the bank twice. They also considered the council's proposed action of lowering the price of pedlar's license from $80 to $30. It was said that the city solicitor thought that $80 was prohibitive, but a resolution was passed saying that they thought $80 was not sufficient for the privilege of peddling in the city of Guelph.

Your correspondent, while taking dinner in a good hotel in the city, sat next to this poor, prohibited Italian gentleman and entering into conversation with him, inquired casually how many pounds of peanuts he sold a day. The Italian said he didn't know, but he handled 300 pounds per week. I figured out that he must be making $30 per week; peanuts used to cost 8c, then 10c, and now 12½c per pound, but he buys them green, consequently costing him 11½c. I figured it out and told him that with $10 per week for his board at a good hotel and expenses, he must be clearing $20 per week. He answered that last week he made $25, and this is the man and his class that the city were considering $80 per year a prohibitive license fee. The result of the issue will be watched with interest by the merchants of Guelph.

KINGSTON.

The recent rains have made many a farmer's face wear the smile that remains. Everything has favored our best friends, the farmers, for a few years past, and we are glad of it. Big prices for cheese, butter, eggs, fruits and vegetables, and look at the price of horses. Phenomenal! Phenomenal!!

Just at present the merchants here are at their wit's ends to know where the supply of potatoes are to come from. As high as $1 a bag is being paid, and few to get at that price. Farmers are busy and won't leave their work unless it rains. Well, we hope it will pour. J. Y. Parkhill & Co. got in a car and they were all disposed of long before they arrived.

Farmers' prints, 23 to 24c. Eggs, 16 to 17c. Greens, 50c. a dozen.

A number of business men went down to the meeting of a Larder Lake syndicate being formed in Ottawa and took a leading lawyer along to look after their interests. Well, it will be wildcats or nuggets. Time only will tell. Never venture, never win, never lose. It's nice to feel there is a chance of being a millionaire. Better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all, so Longfellow said, and there is some truth in it.

The voters of Kingston will soon cast their ballot for or against the proposed zinc smelter. I guess it's a go. The board of trade is working hard to carry it.

The large power house being built by the locomotive works is a fine structure of steel and cement. They are going to make their own power from coal, and claim it can be done cheaper than from water power. The waste steam will be used for heating purposes. The locomotive works are Kingston's backbone.

W. G. Craig was badly hampered moving his large stock about 1st of May, when every carter was engaged. Not an extra man or horse could be had. Mr. Craig did not leave the old premises without sad feelings, for there he has worked faithfully for the past 35 years and it held associations in that time that were dear to him. In his new premises he will be able to give all his attention to the grocery trade. At the old site he did a large coal and shipping business and attention to these interfered with his grocery business.

James Nolan, formerly clerk in Dan Cowper's grocery, but latterly traveler for the Kingston Milling Co., has severed his connection and has accepted a position as manager of Mr. Harkness' general store at Port Arthur. His place has been filled by Alva James, formerly of Brockville, but for the past two years clerk in Ostler's grocery, University avenue. Alva is a hustler and will get there.

Stephen Summerville, clerking for the last year at Vanluven's grocery, has taken a position in Ostler's grocery.

Hugh Shannahan, for many years employed at Bilbert's grocery, has gone to Cobalt to seek his fortune. Hugh is as straight as a straight edge. He is a good draughtsman and held a position in that line at the Canadian Locomotive works here.

Albert Glover, grocer, purchased the handsome residence and grounds formerly owned by the late W. R. McRae, wholesale grocer. Joseph Cooke, who ran the North Star grocery, bought the fine residence of Professor Marshall on Union street. Evidently the grocers are making money. Well, they deserve all they get, for they earn it.

Arthur Callaghan, who ran a grocery at Napanee, has again joined the staff of W. G. Craig & Co.

Jas. McCulla, grocer, purchased a fine property on Bay street.

Government Roadmaster Campbell was here telling our council how to build roads, and he didn't come too soon.

We have only macadam roads here, but there is talk of asphalt or tar macadam.

Robertson & Nicolle report good trade and an increase in orders, probably owing to the advance which is taking place in fall lines, especially sugar.

The cereal works here have decided to make Orange Meat a 10c. package instead of a 15c., as formerly.

The tea travelers report a firm advance in teas. What do the correspondents or other merchants think about blending teas. Give out your secrets, don't be narrow-minded.

Some recommend say one pound Ceylon green, Indian green or Ceylon Hyson to three or four of Japan. It improves flavor and appearance.

What about coffee? Speak up. Do you find the public taste prefers a little chicory or pure coffee. If you want to reduce the price and don't use chicory, do you find a good Marcaibo O.K.?

NOVA SCOTIA NOTES.

J. W. Davis has severed his connection with Baird & Peters and is now the Annapolis Valley representative of the Geo. E. Barbour Co., of St. John. No traveler in this section has a better connection than Mr. Davis, and his having tied up with the Barbour Co. will certainly be the means of increasing their already large business in this territory.

A. H. Ellis is the oldest man to-day on the road. He has spent 37 years at it in the Maritime Provinces and knows every man, woman and child in the country. He is the representative of a well known paint house. Besides being a whole encyclopedia in himself, he is one of the most popular men on the road and many a man of forty years looks his senior. Alf. must have taken great care of himself to be so well preserved after 37 years of the strenuous life. May his shadow never grow less.

Martin & Wetmore, manufacturers' agents, have opened up an office and sample room at Magilton Building, St. John, N.B. Robt. H. Martin, of Toronto, is probably the best known crockeryware man in the Maritime Provinces, being one of the partners of Wm. J. Wetmore, of St. John, N.B. Mr. Wetmore has had quite an extensive experience, having represented Messrs. Waincjhk & Co. of St. John in P.E.I. and Cape Breton for several years. He started on his initial trip for the new combine along the Annapolis Valley and he succeeded beyond his expectattions.

This firm represent Myatt, Son & Co., of Cobridge, Staffordshire, England, and the Toronto Showcase Co. They have also been offered some fine lines which will later be added to their list. Mr. Wetmore, who will handle all the business at this end, is a very popular young man and a hustler who will make his mark.

KENTVILLE, N.S., NOTES.

The last Grocer was a very fine number in paper, type and presswork, as also in contents, some 75 pages in all. As regards the Nova Scotia Notes, I do not think much of them, but your Halifax correspondent gets up a very readable page. In the Nova Scotia Notes last week the reference to Kentville merchants was rather slim and would be apt to make your readers think we had very few merchants. At this writing, Saturday, May 11th, we are in the midst of a winter snowstorm which raged all day and by night the depth was about six inches. Local trade was very poor all day. The month has been very dry and cold and farm work is behindhand. The roads have been very good of late, but trade has not been up to the mark. Grass and trees are showing up well, but the appearance of the dreaded brown sail moth in a few orchards has alarmed the fruit growers and the Local Government are taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the insect. Should it obtain a foothold, it would mean ruin to our fruit industry.

Farmers are getting fine prices for anything they have to sell; potatoes are scarce at 75c. a bushel. Merchants report a steady trade, but money not so plentiful. Reports for the future are favorable and with fine weather the season will be a busy one. Seeds are moving slowly, but more seeding and planting will be done than for some years.

This is a very conservative town and very seldom does a new merchant set up qusiness here, and the same merchants hold the fort for years or until death calls them to their reward. A good deal of building will be going on among it a brick jail for the county, this being the shire town.

Tourist trade promises to be in large volume this season and this brings in a lot of money during the off months for regular trade. The lumber interest is in good shape and one large company, operating from the town, leave a good deal of cash, indirectly.

All stores are closed three nights in the week, but that barbarous practice of keeping open till midnight on Saturday is still adhered to, that is with the grocer and provision shops.

GALT.

The grocers in Galt are complaining of the loss of business on account of the backward weather. At this time last year the green goods, such as onions, lettuce, radishes, etc., were plentiful, while at the present time the demand cannot be nearly supplied. The demand for foreign fruit, shipments of which are beginning, is good, but the grocers say they would much rather see the native products coming in more freely.

The agitation in Galt for the weekly half holiday during the summer months seems to have met a premature end. At one time the prospects were exceedingly bright, and the holiday seemed to be an assured fact, but for some unknown reason the scheme has recently dropped out of sight, and become forgotten. Why this state of affairs should prevail is hard to imagine. Surely a half holiday is beneficial to employer and employes alike, and would not result in any material loss. The clerks are the people who should boom the agitation.

Nelson Sweitzer, of Sloan Bros., and Wesley Gerbracht, of Deans & Walker, grocery firms, were in Toronto this week, enquiring into the cause of the delay in the shipments from the wholesale houses. The representatives made a thorough investigation and ascertained that the shipments had been made promptly and that the wholesalers were exonerated from all blame. The cause of the delay is laid at the door of the railway companies, and the grocers in Galt will probably ask for an investigation.

Patrick Radigan, who has been severely ill for some time, is again presiding over the affairs of his well-conducted grocery.

Mr. Laird has recently raised a new delivery horse, and expects to have a winner at future horse shows.

Geo. Mutch, who for the past 17 years has been connected with the grocery store of Patrick Radigan, has severed his connection with that firm. Mr. Mutch is erecting a new grocery store on Bruce Street, and will shortly enter into business for himself. During his stay with Mr. Radigan, Mr. Mutch has made many warm friends, one and all of whom wish him every success in his new venture. He expects to open for business in about two weeks.

The local Italian fruit dealers are beginning their trips through the country, and trade with them is evidently brisk. Joseph Zuccaro, who recently opened business in Galt, drove to Ayr with a load of fruit last week. He returned with a strange tale of having shot a wild animal with his revolver, about four miles from Galt. Joseph exaggerated on his bravery to such an extent that a number of citizens drove to the scene of the fray to ascertain just what Joseph had secured. The party found that the son of Italy hgd managed to knock over an innocent groundhog, and, being ignorant of these beasts, supposed that he had made a good haul. There was some talk of raising a fund to give the animal a decent funeral, but the matter fell through.

Mrs. R. A. Briscoe, the esteemed wife of the proprietor of "The Little Giant" dry goods store, died last week, aged 40 years. She leaves a husband and two small children. The local merchants all attended the funeral.

A local grocer said to-day that if they had one thing to be thankful for more than any other, it was the fact that the big departmental store in the cities were practically harmless in so far as the grocery trade was concerned. "In no other line is there such immunity from the price-cutting of these big stores than in the grocery line," concluded the speaker.

Since the passing of the hawkers' and peddlers' by-law in Galt there has been a marked change in the number of these traveling gentry. At the inception of the by-law a number of peddlers were prosecuted. fined, and warned to leave town, and at the present time it is a very rare occurrence to see the man with the valise making a house-to-house canvass.

The price of flour in Galt has recently advanced 25 cents per hundredweight. About two weeks ago the local millers announced that on account of the shortage of wheat the price of flour would be advanced 10 cents per cwt. Two weeks later the announcement came that owing to the big increase in the price of wheat another advance of 15 cents per cwt. would be necessary. The raise has caused considerable indignation, but the question resolves itself into the old saw, "What are you going to do about it?"

ST. CATHARINES.

The wholesale grocery firm of Ross, Parnell & Atkinson, which has existed for some time, has been mutually dissolved. The business hereafter will be managed and controlled by Mr. Ross, who is sole owner. Before Mr. Ross entered into this business he had been a retail grocer on Queenston Street. Selling that business to Mr. Albert Phipps, he united with Mr. W. H. Merriman in the wholesale grocery trade and after a period closed the connection and went to Western Ontario. Returning to St. Catharines, he purchased the wholesale business from ex-Alderman E. D. Voisard and shortly afterwards associated his late partner, Frederick Parnell. Later on Mr. Atkinson also became a member of the firm. Parnell & Atkinson, since they severed their connection with Mr. Ross, have gone into the employment of Mr. Merriman. Mr. Ross was born in St. Catharines and is well and favorably known. He supplies a number of retail stores with stock, including the town of Welland and the villages of Humberstone and Port Colborne.

Howard McNulty, after closing his business, has returned to the manufacture of pop and soda water, having purchased the business of Reardon & Company, formerly of Niagara Falls, who opened the business on Ontario Street a few months ago.

Building operations for the coming season do not seem to be encouraging. There is imminence of a strike among the carpenters. The members of this union have demanded thirty-five cents an hour which the master builders refuse to grant and if the terms are not complied with in a few days the carpenters will cease to work until a settlement is obtained. The builders have been loath to take contracts, having been advised some time ago to prepare for the coming change. Should this disagreement end in a strike, other lines of work will be affected, which will materially injure the prosperity of the city.

WOODSTOCK.

The Retail Merchants' Association, Woodstock branch, will inevitably die if more interest is not shown in it between now and the annual meeting, next September. For the last two meetings there has been no quorum, and the three or four active workers are becoming thoroughly discouraged.

A grocer was speaking to your correspondent this morning of the necessity of organizing in this city a Retail Grocers' Association, but it would probably be difficult to set such a scheme in operation, after the unfortunate experience with the general association of merchants. "There is not much actual price-cutting,j' said this man, "but there are lots of little matters which we might adjust if we got together. There are many articles, in the price of which there is not a great deal of difference, and yet no two grocers sell them at hardly the same figure."

James O'Rourke, at one time a prominent grocer and liquor dealer in this city, died last Thursday, of general debility, at an advanced age. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, but had lived in Woodstock for forty-nine years in the same house. He was also engaged in the hide and wool business, and was a well-known horseman.

Dealers report trade a little slow this season. This condition is caused by the late spring, which delayed farmers in seeding operations, and consequently, when usually they are enjoying a certain amount of leisure, now they are busy with seeding and other spring work.

Flour has advanced in price again, for the second time within a week, and is now selling at $2.25 per hundred pounds. The exploitations in the Chicago wheat markets did not have much effect on the local markets, and wheat is now selling at 72 cents per bushel.

Geo. Parker, who for a number of years has been engaged in the grocery business in this city, is a valuable citizen in more ways than one. He has been for years a member of the public school board, where he has rendered dictinctly valuable services on behalf of education. He has also been prominent in the work of the First Baptist Church, where for eight years he was church clerk, and for a shorter time, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School. By pressure of other duties, he was lately compelled to relinquish both these offices, and the other night the members of the church and school recognized his services by presenting him with an appropriate address, and a very handsome Bible.

At the cheese market last week, a quantity of cheese was sold at 11 1-16 cents per pound. This price is absolutely without precedent, being the highest ever realized on the local market at this season of the year.

Woodstock's chances of securing a canning factory out of the negotiations which have been in progress for several weeks past, are exceedingly slim. The London capitalists, the same ones to whom a loan is being given at Ridgetown, wanted a loan from the city of $10,000, with which to establish an industry to be known as the Woodstock Canning Company. The proposition was at first very favorably considered, but later the finance committee of the city council decided to refuse to recommend the granting of the loan. The communicated their decision to the promoters of the company, stating that they would be willing to do something in the way of fixed taxation and cheap water rates as an inducement to locate here, but no reply has been received.

S. A. Kipp, of Blandford township, a veteran maple syrup manufacturer, who each year makes hundreds of gallons from the eight hundred trees he taps, made a small quantity of syrup one day last week. He has been in business for many years, and his father before him, and he says that in his opinion this establishes a record, at least for Oxford county. He does not know of another instance where syrup was made so late in the season. Of course, the quantity made was not large. He merely tapped a few trees after the recent big snow storm. The sap ran well, and a large quantity was received, considering the number of trees. When boiled down the usual amount of syrup was secured.

CHATHAM.

John Glasgow shipped over 100 cases of eggs to Toronto last week.

Blenheim is to have a canning factory. Mayor Shillington has received a favorable answer from the promoters of the enterprise and a by-law will in all probability be shortly submitted to the electors giving them some assistance.

C. E. Lister, of the Maple City Creamery, is preparing nearly 2,000 pounds of creamery butter for export. This will be the first shipment of the season. Mr. Lister has also inaugurated the delivery of bottled milk to his customers throughout the city.

Business Transfer.

Wm. Baby has disposed of his grocery business on the corner of King and Third Streets, formerly known as the Chatham Table Supply Company, to Messrs. Bradley & Son, of St. Catharines. The new proprietors, who control similar stores in Niagara Falls and St. Catharines, took charge on Saturday, the 18th.

The new proprietors have inaugurated a one-price, cash policy, coupled with four daily deliveries to all parts of the city. Mr. P. B. McQueen, of St. Catharines, has been appointed manager of the local store. He has had ten years' experience in the grocery business, and is a thoroughly practical man. Mr. McQueen has moved to this city and will reside on Forsyth Street.

PETERBOROUGH.

The annual meeting and first sale of cheese of the Peterboro Cheese Board for the season of 1907, took place recently and was well attended by the members of the board and salesmen. The board will again meet this season in Bank of Montreal Chambers. Election of officers took place, the prospects for the season were discussed, and about 800 boxes of cheese sold at 11½ cents per pound. The total registration of cheese was 809 boxes, and all sold except Fraserville factory, which only opened a short time ago, and only had ten boxes for sale. Mr. Wrighton, Mr. Cook, Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Whitten were the buyers who made purchases. Mr. Morton was also present but did not do any buying.

The prospects for an excellent season for the board are very bright, and today's meeting augurs well for the future.

The complete list of officers for the year is as follows:

President, John Riddell.

Vice-president, R. Tidhope (reelected).

Secretary-treasurer, Edward Hawthorne.

Arbitrators, Robert Ward and Jas. Ryan, with power to select a third man if necessary.

Auditors, Robert Bullock and W. Anderson.

President's Address.

In opening the sale of cheese, Mr. Riddell referred to the fact that the Peterboro cheese board was the premier board in Canada. At least that was what was said of it, and if it was not true it was the duty of those connected with the board to make it the leading organization of its kind in the Dominion. He hoped that buyers, salesmen, producers, and everyone who had an interest in the board, would work together unitedly and harmoniously to keep up the record of the Peterboro district as a cheese producing centre. Cheese was what is known as perishable goods, and in order that it might reach the consumer in good condition it was necessary that the best of care should be given the cheese from the time it left the factory until it reached the consumer in the Old Country. Nor did it follow that good cheese would be had if the care only commenced when the cheese left the factory. In the first place it was necessary that the milk should be right, that it should be delivered at the factory in good condition, that the factory should be in a clean, sanitary condition, and that the cheese-maker should be a first-class man.

The president also alluded to the evil effect of shipping green cheese. Much injury was being done to the trade in this manner, and he hoped the salesmen of the Peterboro district would break away from this practice. He did not believe that the Peterboro district was as bad in this respect as some other localities.

It is interesting to note that the first meeting of the board last year was held on May 23rd, when the offerings were 1,371 boxes. All sold at 11⅝c. and 11¾c., so that the prices last year were practically the same as the figures that prevailed last week.

The cereal companies and flour mills are all running night and day. The opening of navigation on the great lakes has brought down thousands of cars of oats and wheat. One firm alone handles fifty cars of oats per day. This means that over a hundred more hands were employed, and in this line everything is booming.

Grocers Should Learn Tea-blending.

Your correspondent called on Jas. Connal, of P. Connal & Son, one of the oldest retail grocers in the city, and found him engaged in blending tea. The process was a most interesting and apparently a very profitable one. Mr. Connal is a tea blender of no mean ability and his mixtures have gained him an enviable reputation in this district. He has had charge of this branch of the business for a long time, stepping into the place occupied by his father, who was an expert with very few equals, and did the blending for many years. In the course of a conversation in reference to grocers blending their own teas, Mr. Connal pointed out the many decided advantages he has over the grocer who handles package teas. In the first place, the grocer who handles package teas exclusively loses his identity as a grocer and becomes an agent. He is also at the mercy of the wholesale tea trade and is often disappointed in his goods. He does not know what kind of tea he is getting except what the traveler tells him and what he sees printed on the lead package.

If a grocer does know anything about tea, and he handles the package tea, all the credit of its quality goes to the package man as well as the profit of blending and putting up the tea. If the grocer who has a knowledge of tea was to buy in bulk and do his own blending he would receive all the profit and all the credit. In addition, he would know exactly what he was offering the trade and would be in a position to keep his grades up to the proper standard and to keep the flavor always right.

Mr. Connal strongly advised that all grocers make a study of teas. It is a very interesting and profitable subject, and has the advantage of requiring no time during business hours as it can be done at home at night. The only way that a thorough knowledge of the business can be obtained is through experience. The package men accomplished all they know through experience and very often at the expense of the retail grocer. But if a grocer knows nothing about teas, and is not willing to put in a good many hours in studying and experimenting, he had better keep to the package teas exclusively and make no attempt to produce his own. If he does know something of teas he can very soon get out new ideas of his own.

One great fault many grocers have in buying tea in bulk is buying from appearances only. In this case appearances are very deceitful. Some teas, which look high grade, are not nearly so good as teas which do not look so well but have better cup quality. The only sure test is by tasting. Mr. Connal never buys any tea without first drawing a sample. If it is satisfactory, the traveler gets an order. In this way he is able to know his goods and put up teas which he knows will satisfy his customers in both flavor and price. P. Connal & Son have a very complete outfit for blending both teas and coffees, and the amount of goods they turn out would surprise the majority of people. They buy mostly from tea brokers, and therefore stand to make all the profit that is going.

T. F. Matthews, manager of the Geo. Matthews pork packing establishment, has purchased a corner lot on Park and Sherbrook streets on which he will build a modern retail store. The Matthews Company are now conducting two retail pork and provision stores in the city and this will make a third. It will be fitted up with all modern improvements from a sanitary standpoint. That a large business will be worked up is almost a certainty, as this section of the city is growing very rapidly.

LONDON.

The New York Store, the oldest retail grocery establishment in London, having been in existence for nearly 50 years, is now to be used for other purposes. It is located on the south side of Dundas street, west of the market lane, and runs clear through to the Market Square. It was established, and for many years conducted by, the late W. Simpson Smith, father of Col. A. M. Smith, of A. M. Smith & Co., wholesale grocers, and for several years past has been run by C. H. Lee, ex-president of the Retail Grocers' Association. Mr. Lee has sold out his lease to the Canadian Packing Company, who intend using it as a retail meat store. The transfer is a most profitable one for Mr. Lee, who is now selling out his stock of groceries at bargain prices. He has not yet decided on plans for the future, but will, in all probability, be able to find premises elsewhere in the city in which to re-engage in business.

In consequence of the jump in wheat millers have advanced the price of flour 10c. per cwt., and there is a prospect of a still further rise. Grocers also complain of a scarcity of potatoes, which have been going up in price rapidly of late. All this helps to make housekeeping a serious matter these days.

The matter of the grocers' picnic stands just where it did a week ago. The suggestion is made that the association run an opposition excursion to the Falls via the Grand Trunk, and devote the rake-off of forty cents a ticket to purchasing dinner for each patron. The parties having the contract with the M.C.R. are said to be in the picnic business merely for the rake-off, and competition such as that now under consideration would hit them in a tender spot. Now, if the association were to run an excursion to Toronto it would not only prove popular, but would enable the grocers themselves to combine business with pleasure. But the fare is a most important matter, the excursion rate from London to the Queen City being $2.35, as against $1.60 to Detroit (about the same distance), and $2.10 to the Falls. The cause of this difference is that while Toronto is allowed to remain on the railways' commercial list, the Detroit Board of Trade has seen to it that that city has been placed on the transit list.

Wholesalers report teas to be maintaining high, and sugars, both raw and refined, still advancing. Canned goods are moving slowly. Brokers' advices report the currant market quiet; prices from Greece about the same as last week—23s. 6d. The supply in Greece is diminishing quickly, the only kind available at Patras being retention currants.

HAMILTON.

Grocers are booming the annual picnic, which this year looms up so large that the committee have decided that one railroad is not big enough to carry the crowd, and so arrangements are about completed with the G.T.R. and the T.H. & B.R. to divide this excursion and thus make it pleasant for everybody going. All kinds of amusements are being provided and all grocers will be welcomed.

The movement to close the stores on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August has proved a great success and cards announcing the fact are hung up in nearly all the grocery stores in the city.

A good story comes from Dundas. A prominent grocer ordered some Demerara Crystal Sugar in bags from a Toronto house and about the same time a fruit grower of the neighborhood ordered a new fertilizer for grapevines, an article he had never seen. The orders were both delivered in the freight shed at the same time. Mr. Fruitgrower, arriving first, made the mistake of taking the bags of sugar, and, not knowing what his fertilizer might look like, he proceeded to spread the sugar around his grape vines. In the due course of time the mistake was discovered and now Mr. Fruitgrower has been pretty nearly laughed out of town.

The wholesalers and retailers held a joint meeting to discuss the question of selling to consumers. After going into the merits of the case it was found that considerable hard feeling was being aroused over the matter, and meantime the retail men are awaiting developments.

VICTORIA.

Everyone here is jubilant over the inauguration of the Canadian-Mexican steamship service, which marks a new epoch in the commercial history of western Canada, or, rather, the Dominion of Canada. The steamer Georgia, Capt. Henderson, left here on May 2nd on her initial trip, her chief ports of call will be Megattan, Acapuleo and Saline Cruz.

The steamer Lonsdale, the second Mexican liner for this service, is now on her way from Iquique to Victoria, and is expected to arrive about the 25th. The steamer will leave for Mexican ports about the end of the month. Considerable freight is already awaiting her.

There is no doubt but this connection with the Mexican Republic will have some bearing on the grocery trade throughout western Canada, for many articles of commerce will be imported and exported directly between the two countries. Such products as coffee, spices, sugar, tropical fruits, etc., etc., are in great demand at all times in this country, and equally numerous are the articles which can readily be exported to Mexico.

The new service will also affect eastern Canada, and if, when the Tehuantepec Railway is completed, the Pacific and Atlantic steamship services are operated in conjunction with the railway, this will open up a competitive shipping route between the east and the west, and should prove of inestimable value to all merchants throughout the Dominion.

Early Closing.

The weekly half-holiday question has not been settled yet. The clerks seem to have overdone themselves. They banded together, and their latest request is that all merchants shall close their shops at 1 p.m. every Saturday and remain closed until Monday.

As far as the grocers are concerned in the matter it appears very probable that they will act independently of the other merchants, and give their clerks a half-holiday every Thursday for three or four months during the summer, and also close their stores at 6 o'clock instead of 6.30.

Albion Johns, one of the partners of the firm of Johns Bros, grocers, of this city, recently met with a very serious accident. Mr. Johns was engaged in stump-clearing on his farm and was making use of a very powerful stump-puller. The machine was in operation on a tough old stump when the cable parted and went whirling round and round, mowing everything before it. Mr. Johns was unfortunate enough to be within reach and the cable struck him, breaking both his legs and smashing one almost to pieces. The cable still kept rebounding like a spring and struck the unfortunate man many times, inflicting some severe wounds. Mr. Johns had to lie in his helpless condition for some time till help reached him from the city. He was immediately conveyed to the hospital, where he is doing as well as can be expected. The doctors report that he will recover alright, but that he will always have a slight limp, as the operation necessitated removing a portion of the bone from one leg, and this will shorten it somewhat.

Mr. Johns is well known among the grocery trade in this city, and is always ready to work for anything connected with the good and advancement of the trade and all connected with it.

The Queen's Birthday.

All merchants are preparing for the great celebration here on Victoria Day. The celebration is only to extend over two days this year, the 24th and 25th. It is doubtful if there is another city in the whole Dominion which celebrates the late Queen's birthday as Victoria does. For years it has been the custom here to make this yearly celebration and bring thousands of visitors to the city, no effort being spared to make it a grand success. Money is donated on all sides, and everyone does their little towards making things attractive for the visitors. Usually the stores close one day, thus giving everyone an opportunity to see the regatta. It also allows the grocers to place their delivery waggons in the grand parade, in which the competition is very keen. Any stranger visiting the city just at present would wonder why the grocers kept such poor delivery waggons. The explanation is this: The best waggons are all in the hands of the carriage makers being prepared for the parade, and in a few days newly painted, rubber tired delivery waggons make their re-appearance all over the city. Every city has its automobiles, but very few can boast of rubber-tired grocery waggons.

In past years Dixi H. Ross & Co. have been the successful firm in carrying off the prizes, but it is whispered around that this time they will have to look out for there are some five turnouts in the opposition.

New Milling Company.

Rice milling is quite an industry in Victoria. There are two mills operating here, and we are to have another one in the near future. Work has been commenced by the Mount Royal Milling and Manufacturing Co., of Montreal, putting in machinery, and they expect to have a new and up-to-date plant running early in June.

Mr. McLorie, of Montreal, will have charge of the mill. According to present plans the company will install a large dynamo and operate by electricity. The product of the mill will be placed on the markets of the prairie provinces.

The hotel and restaurant waiters went on strike here yesterday. They want better wages and a six day working week. From all appearances they will get their demands, which do not seem to be unreasonable. It seems exhorbitant to ask any man to work more than six days a week, and as for holidays, when everyone else is celebrating that is the time the waiter is slaving.

Flour has advanced 40c. per barrel, and there is considerable interest being displayed here in the raise, for everyone is wondering if it will mean an advance in bakers' bread, of which the present price is 5c. a loaf.

The Fruit Outlook.

California strawberries have been on sale here about a week now. They are arriving in splendid condition this season, and at first retailed at 35c. per 1-lb. box, but now are down to 25c.

Local strawberries are not expected till about the 1st of June. The outlook for the crop is very good, but a high price is looked for, as the cost of packages has more than doubled and growers will have to pay higher wages for pickers.

The first consignment of California cherries reached here on the 11th, and sold readily at 50c. per pound.

Australian apples are in the market once more, and opening up in good condition; fine yellow and red fellows. The Australians certainly know how to pick their fruit for export trade. Apples are packed in strong boxes that will not bend with pressure, and round the inside of the box is placed a lining of excelsior—this prevents bruising—, then every apple is wrapped in soft white paper; the boxes are then nailed and corded, and stamped with the grower's name and the kind and grade of fruit and quantity in each box. The present price is $3.50 per box wholesale.

Australian brown onions are also in the market again. These are as sound and dry as it is possible for an onion to be, are packed in 100-lb. crates, and are selling at $3.75 wholesale.

Butter is still very scarce. Local creamery, 35c. lb. California and Washington creamery, 30c. lb. (wholesale).

California cheese is just in at 18c. lb.

Eggs are a little more plentiful.

Potatoes are almost cleaned up and are holding at $35 and $40 per ton, and steadily advancing. New California are in the market but the price is so high that it prohibits any great sale.

GODERICH.

Tom Nairn, for so many years with Chas. A. in the store on the square, is leaving for Walkerville, and with his sister, Miss Jennie, will live there. Geo. Nairn & Co., of Windsor, are opening a branch store in Walkerville, of which Tom will be manager. The I.O.O.F. presented him with a handsome jewel in token of long and friendly relations.

A. B. Davison, formerly with G. M. Elliott in the Maple Leaf grocery, has left with his family for the west. Before departing, Mr. Davison was the recipient of several presentations from church and other friends. Mr. Elliott is now on the road for Ryerson Bros. and the Matthews Packing Company, Brantford.

TORONTO

With the coming of warmer weather and the prospect of baking afternoons behind the counter, the early closing movement is advancing steadily in popular favor. A. Irving is stirring up the grocers on Bathurst Street and surrounding vicinity and expects that an understanding will shortly be arrived at that will be mutually satislactory to all concerned. W. C. Cork, who sold his store at 964 Bathurst Street to A. Irving some months ago, has started up again a few doors above his old quarters. Mr. Irving, since he took hold of Mr. Cork's business, has achieved surprising results. Almost every week has shown an increase in sales and last week beat the previous best record. Mr. Irving is a hustler and deserves to win.

F. T. James & Co., the wholesale fish merchants on Colborne Street, have just emerged from spring housecleaning with eminently satisfactory results. The exterior of their establishment is now finished in bright vermilion and salmon pink—the latter color should blend harmoniously with the business. The interior has been scrubbed and cleaned and whitewashed, and a new sign put up on the east wall.

Robt. M. Cooper is opening up a new store on Yonge Street, north of Bloor. The fixtures are of Walker Bin manufacture, and the wall casing, counters and shelving are handsomely finished.

Mrs. Dawson, mother of C. E. and W. Dawson, the well known commission merchants of this city, died this week at her home at Brantford, of which town she has been a resident for more than fifty years. The sympathy of the street is extended to the brothers in their bereavement.

POISON.

A family in Toronto ate some tomato soup and a few minutes after were violently ill. Two or three of those at the table who did not partake of the soup but did of the rest of the meal, fish, pie, etc., were not ill. The family are naturally convinced that they were poisoned by canned tomatoes. They have asked the canner to foot the expense occasioned in the way of doctor bills.

The Canadian Grocer knows who the canner of the tomatoes was. Naturally they disclaim any responsibility and, under existing conditions, we think rightly enough. The cannery is one of the best in Ontario and is very favorably reported upon by the Government inspectors who have gone over it. On the other hand there is no evidence in regard to what treatment the tomatoes were subjected to between the can and the table; or how long they stood in the can after it was opened. The canneries say: "The tomatoes were good when they left the factory. The can may have musted through. We don't know."

That's the trouble. The entire canning industry and the grocery trade don't know enough about toxic and ptomaine poisoning. It is time the food branch of the Department of Inland Revenue devoted some attention to this subject for the benefit of the public, the trade, the canning and agricultural industries.

Wm. Beaumont, grocer, of Quebec, is dead.

A. W. Wills, secretary of the United Factories, was in Montreal during the past week and reports trade well up to the mark.

POISIONED BY TOMATO SOUP

Four Suffer as a Result of Eating Soup —The Stewart's Story — Dr. Adams' Views—The Probable Outcome.

Ex-Alderman Stewart, his wife and daughter, and another member of his household, were all made seriously ill last Saturday afternoon through eating canned tomato soup at lunch. Mrs. Wm. Stewart and Mrs. Walter Stewart were still in bed Tuesday, though out ol danger.

Walter Stewart and his wife and their two small children, a boy and a girl, dined with ex-Alderman and Mrs. Wm. Stewart on Saturday afternoon at the latter's house at 148 Morse Street. The lunch consisted of canned tomato soup, fresh caught haddock and potatoes, apple pie, tea and bread and butter. Ex-Alderman and Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Walter Stewart, and a Miss Killmaster each drank some of the soup, making no comment at the time upon its being in any way distasteful. Walter Stewart and the two children did not take any of the soup, but the former ate heartily of the fish and remarked upon its excellence. The four members of the family who drank the soup all partook of about the same quantity.

Result of the Poisoning.

Within half an hour after lunch had been finished, Mrs. Wm. Stewart and Miss Killmaster were violently ill, and went to bed suffering intense pain. Mrs. Walter Stewart complained ol a feeling of nausea, but was not seriously affected at once. She went down town later in the afterooon, fainted while waiting for a car, and was brought back unconscious. Dr. R. Herbert Adams was called in, a trained nurse sent for, and for four hours Mrs. Stewart lay literally between life and death. At one time Dr. Adams had practically given up all hope, but consciousness was eventually restored, and by evening she was out of danger.

Ex-Alderman Stewart, while attending the funeral of the late Alderman Wilson on Saturday afternoon, was attacked with nausea, and at once started for home. By the time he reached it he was in a weak condition. He went to bed and remained there all Sunday. A naturally strong constitution has enabled him to throw off the worst effects and on Tuesday he was at work again.

Walter Stewart Interviewed.

Walter Stewart and his two children, the only ones who did not drunk any soup, suffered no ill effects whatever. Seen by The Grocer, Walter Stewart declared he would not go through the same experience again for a thousand dollars. "At one time," he said, "I thought I was going to be left an orphan and a widower." Asked what his intentions were with regard to claiming compensation from the canning company, Mr. Stewart said that the matter was already in the hands of his lawyers, and that, failing immediate settlement, suit would be begun against the company on Friday. Mr. Stewart would not state the amount of damages claimed, but it is understood that the medical and other expenses incurred have been very heavy.

The Doctor's Opinion.

Dr. Adams, when questioned as to the possibility of the poisoning being due to any other cause, stated emphatically that all the evidence pointed direct to the presence of poisonous matter in the tomatoes from which the soup was made and that in his opinion the soup alone was responsible for the subsequent events.

"Ptomaines," said the doctor, "are a series of organic, introgenuous bodies, closely resembling the vegetable alkaloids in many of their chemical properties. Most of the ptomaines are ammonia compounds. Ptomaine poisoning is usually due to some form of toxin, and while a certain proportion of the ptomaines are inert and harmless, the toxins are highly poisonous and injurious. This, I consider, is a clear case of toxic poisoning."

The retailer who sold the can of tomatoes to the Stewart family was next seen, and the remainder of the case from which the can was taken, examined. The case, which was one of two obtained from a prominent commission house in the city, had been entirely sold, with the exception of five tins. The brand is one which had hitherto given every satisfaction, the retailer having distributed three or four dozen tins among his customers previous to the one sold on Saturday morning. The brand, in fact, appeared to be so popular that two more cases had been ordered. At the first news of the poisoning, however, this order was countermanded and the remaining half dozen tins returned to the jobbers. The retailer declares that he will not touch this brand again.

How it All Happened.

The perversity of Providence, as touching the present case, is well illustrated in the following incident.

The Stewarts usually deal at a small retailer's whose store is opposite that at which the can under discussion was bought. The little girl who was sent for the tomatoes by Mrs. Stewart on Saturday morning went naturally to the store to which she had always gone, but this time, as luck would have it, she was kept waiting while two or three other customers were being served. With the curiosity or cussedness of childhood, she began poking her fingers into this box and that, until finally the proprietor, who had been keeping an eye on her movements, was irritated into giving her a scolding. At that the little girl fled from the store and made her purchase across the road. The brand she bought was different from that handled by the other store and it is therefore upon this one trivial little incident that the whole situation hangs.

It is only fair to state that the brand of tomatoes from which the soup was made is one which has advanced in popular favor from the moment it was first put on the market. A tin of vegetables may go bad from a variety of causes and while circumstantial evidence is strong against the company in this case, it may be difficult to prove that the poisoning was the direct result of some harmful matter in the tomatoes themselves, and not due to one or more of the ingredients with which the soup was made.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

St. John, N.B., May 20, 1907.

Trade continues brisk and all lines of goods are very high. All grades of flour have advanced. Manitobas have taken an upward bound from $5.25 to $5.75, this was in instalments of 15, 10 and 25 cents at a time. Ogilvie's advanced 50 cents at one bound and a later jump of 20 cents was recorded. Ontarios have also taken a skyward tendency, going from $4.10 to $4.40 a barrel. Sugar was again advanced 10 cents and the market is very strong.

MOLASSES—Reviewing the molasses situation a prominent jobber said that importations in molasses this year will probably show that Porto Rico molasses has become a thing of the past. The introduction of United States capital and the development of the sugar industry there has entirely done away with the old style process of making sugar, and the only kind of molasses now made is a low grade centrifugal, that is only fit for distilling. The real old Simon pure article of Porto Rico molasses is very scarce. In the last two years a quantity of so-called fancy molasses has been sent out from Barbadoes, which is taking the place of Porto Rico stock. The importations of ordinary choice Barbadoes molasses are very light, the fancy proving more satisfactory and a better seller.

FISH—The fish market is pretty well cleaned up on almost all kinds of salt fish. Some dealers are carrying a few pickled herring, but nothing more than would fill local requirements. Stocks of last year's cod and pollock are almost entirely cleaned up and already new fish are being received. The price is slightly lower.

The backward weather, the dealers say is to blame for the shortage in fresh sh. The catches have been very small and scarcely anything except gaspereaux are being caught. The shad season should commence this week, and salmon are expected about the first week in June.

SEEDS—The very late spring has resulted in holding back the sale of seeds considerably. Whereas in previous years the jobbers were over their busy time in this trade, it is now just at its height and though there is a good demand right now, it is probable that the sales this year will fall below past seasons.

Potatoes are now a luxury and farmers up the river are reaping the harvest. The wholesale price is now $2.35 per

THE SITUATION IN THE WEST.

Seeding is about five weeks late this spring in Western Canada and naturally there is considerable anxiety in business circles. Two weeks ago the outlook was gloomy and many leading business men were inclined to be pessimistic, but warm weather has restored the confidence of most of the doubters and crop reports from the three western provinces indicate that the situation is by no means so serious as was at first supposed. Undoubtedly the acreage will be smaller than would have been the case under normal weather conditions. The rush of immigration would naturally have resulted in a greatly increased acreage, but the best that is now expected is that the area under cultivation will equal that of last year. The wheat acreage will probably show a decrease but the farmers are, this year, paying more attention to oats and barley and these two crops will show a big compensating increase.

Reports issued by the railways and secured by the Winnipeg daily papers from their corps of correspondents throughout the country indicate that seeding is now pretty well completed, Saskatchewan and Alberta being further advanced than Manitoba. Of course there is considerable anxiety owing to the long delay in completing seeding operations, but grain growers of many years' experience in the West state that there have been many and repeated instances of good crops resulting from seeding as late as May 20th and their testimony has served to allay the general feeling of anxiety. It is felt that with favorable weather during the summer the western crop will be all right.

In the meantime the railways are rushing wheat to the lake front and already the effect is being felt throughout the country. Money is circulating more freely and wholesalers report considerable improvement in country collections.

RAILROAD RESPONSIBILITY.

From time to time, some railroad or other, happening for the moment, to incur popular disfavor, comes in for a storm of abuse that threatens to rival in its intensity that created by the late packing house scandals in Chicago. To make the railroads a clearing-house for the public conscience is hardly living up to the letter of the 11th Commandment, which says "Thou shalt give unto every man a square deal," nor is it, to our mind, showing gratitude for blessings received in proportion to vituperation over those withheld. To the railroads is directly due the development of the great west and the consequent widening of trade throughout Canada, and it does not behoove us, in an editorial or any other capacity, unduly to create faction and prejudice against them.

In the recent tie-up of traffic in the west, the C.P.R. and C.N.R. have, individually and collectively, been accused of wilfully neglecting to provide adequate service, of making no preparation against the possibility of just such a situation arising, and of failing to keep in touch with the growth of the country to whose inhabitants they represent so much. They were accused also of deliberately disregarding the congested state of the roads until it was too late to unravel the tangle, and of then making wild promises to the farmers and grain dealers which they well knew it was impossible for them to fulfil.

It is true that a great part of this wholesale arraignment was too hysterical to carry much weight or to command serious attention from those whose opinions were worth consideration, but much bad feeling has been created between the railways and the people which might have been avoided.

The railroads, on the other hand, taking the rap from their critics, have advanced excuses which are unconvincing. In their capacity as public carriers it is their duty to provide rolling stock and other equipment adequate to the needs of the country through which they run. A plea of being caught unprepared is simply a confession of not being big enough for their job. A railroad assumes an increased burden of responsibility with every mile of track laid down.

AN EXPENSIVE EVENING.

There is a case now pending in Wisconsin which, if decided favorably to the plaintiff, should do much towards forcing the railroads to install better heating and ventilating apparatus throughout their trains. S. E. Narcott, a traveler for the Dousman Milling Co., of DePere, Wisconsin, has entered suit against the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, alleging wilful neglect on the part of the company in failing to provide adequate heating for a sleeping car in which he traveled from Minneapolis to Escanaba, and claiming $50,000 damages on account of injury to health contracted during the journey.

Mr. Marcott is at present in hospital at Escanaba; the severe cold which, it is claimed he suffered as a direct result of his chilly night, rapidly developed into typhoid pneumonia, and for a time it seemed doubtful whether he would live to see the outcome of his unique claim. It is unlikely that so large a compensation will be conceded by the court, but the case will be watched with interest by a large circle of men who will be almost as vitally concerned in the decision as the plaintiff himself. And it will be educational as well as significant.

TRAFFIC DELAY.

A Toronto grocery broker said this week that in twenty years' experience he had not seen business so quiet on the "street" as this spring. The backward season is blamed of course but the chief cause of the backwardness, according to the trade view, is the congestion of railway traffic. Wholesalers are unable to get goods either in or out on anything like time. Complaints are innumerable. Ten days for a car of sugar between Montreal and Toronto. A car of goods lost for three weeks and the grocer quite out for two weeks. These are just samples. The whole trade of the country is clogged because of this traffic delay.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—

Fish—Revised.
Sugar—Advanced again.
Canned Goods—Very scarce.
Molasses—Firm.
Beans—Firm.

Montreal, May 23, 1907.

Jobbers report a very good demand for general grocery lines but complain of the poor weather as handicapping business. Everybody has been expecting a bit of the summer before this, but evidently it will be a few weeks yet before the real hot weather sets in. The strike in the harbor of Montreal is still affecting business and to make matters worse the carters working for one of the largest cartage companies have gone on strike. As a consequence one of the railroads will not take any goods from outside points for delivery into Montreal and will not accept freight in Montreal for delivery to outside points unless the shipper carts the goods to the station himself.

Sugar is firm at advance, but jobbers report that buying is checked. Molasses is firm, as are also beans. All varieties of canned goods are very scarce and higher prices would not surprise. Teas are selling very well. There is no startling news from the Japan market to date. Raisins and currants are slow. Coffees are fair. Evaporated apples are still quoted at the old price. Butter is easier, but cheese has been advanced. Flour is very high, owing to the increase in the price of wheat.

SUGAR—Sugar is strong at last week's advance. Prices are very high and demand is checked for that reason. Some orders are being placed, but these are more for sugars which are required for immediate use than anything else.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—For all lines of canned fruit and vegetables demand is strong but business is handicapped by short stocks in every line. French mushrooms have been advanced from $2.50 to $3 and are now quoted by jobbers at $18 and $27 a case. Prices of Canadian canned goods have not advanced, but it would not be surprising to see a change, so scarce are the majority of lines.

TORONTO.—Continued cold weather has added to the strength of the canned goods market. Blueberries, peaches, green gage plums, and strawberries are very scarce, some houses being quite cleaned out and unable to get more. Peaches are advanced and $2.10 and $3.25 are being asked for yellow 2's and 3's, respectively.

Many farmers have lost their young tomato plants and the crop outlook is not favorable. Peas are also firm.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Still firm.

Canned Goods—In demand.

Fruits—Scarce.

Dried Apples—Easier.

Beans—Firmer.

Butter—Lower.

Toronto, May 23, 1907.

Business is not quite as active as it was a little while ago and the weather is generally blamed. Another drawback is the difficulty in securing the shipment of goods by rail. It might be said that the railways are about a week behind with their freight traffic and one must think a while to appreciate just what that means to the grocery business throughout Canada. Sugar, since the advance, is not going out very fast, the retail trade having stocked pretty heavily prior to that. The market is regarded here as continuing vert strong. The continued cold weather is improving the situation in relation to all canned fruits and vegetables. This is due partly to the delay in getting green stuff and partly to the doubtful crop outlook, Canned fruits are getting into very small compass and some lines are quite unobtainable. White beans are firmer. Evaporated apples have gone off somewhat, though in neither case is the spot price here affected.

TEA—There is a fairly active demand and prices continue firm. Abroad there are no special features to the marketiexcept the reported amalgamation into a trust and combine of the larger native Japan tea firms.

COFFEE—Willett & Grey, New York, say: "The receipts in Brazil continue large and encourage writers opposed to coffee to dwell upon the weight of stocks an argument which cannot be gainsaid. However, those who are continually speaking about large supplies have no coffee themselves and are probably short in the market, whereas those who are carrying large stocks are complacent and in a position to hold with relative ease.

"The San Paulo Government commenced to take up the surplus of this crop with the purchase of 2,000,000 bags, and as the size of the crop became known they resolutely continued their operations until they accumulated in excess of 6,000,000 bags, and they follow up their purchases with full determination to hold the surplus. Furthermore, the Federal authorities in Rio are fully in accord with the action of the Coffee States, as the larger this crop is the more necessary this action has proved to be. On the other hand, the larger this crop turns out the smaller will be the next crop, in fact the next two crops, as a natural result. It is this feature of assured small production that will bring full vindication to the Government after having been severely and unjustly attacked even before the details of their plan to protect their principal industry were known."

SUGAR—Sugar prices are unchanged since last week but there is a very firm tone to the market here despite the fact that buying has appreciably slackened. In raws, beet declined toward the end of last week but advanced again this week to 9s. 11½d., though not quite making up the recession. At the close of last week, Willet & Gray, New York, said of raws:

"During the week under review the raw sugar markets, both at home and abroad, reached the highest point of the campaign, beet sugar being quoted at 11s. 2½d. and centrifugals at 3.86c. per lb. for 96 degrees test on the spot, with large sales of Cubas for June shipment at 2⅝c. c. & f., basis 95 degrees test, equal to $4.01c. landed for 96 degrees test. Porto Rico centrifugals for June shipment have been sold to New Orleans at 4c. for 96 degrees test.

"A natural reaction followed the continued advance in Europe, the close being at 9s. 9½d. for beet sugar.

"In this market trade came to a stop for a while, partly because of Europe, but more because of the continuance of the longshoremen's strike, which makes difficult the receiving of sugar by refiners.

"At the close the market is distinctly weaker, there being a number of sellers on basis of 2 9-16c., 95 degrees test, for June shipment, which refiners refuse to pay. We look for a decline very soon, if it has not already occurred, to a slightly lower basis.

"Although the Cuba centrals are closing down rapidly, as expected, yet it is learned that planters' holdings of sugar on estates are considerably larger than was indicated a few weeks ago. These are now appearing in the receipts, and make it necessary for us to increase our maximum estimate of the Cuba crop to 1,375,000 tons. The total receipts to May 1st amounted to 1,231,787 tons and the visible production to date is 1,290,000 tons."

DRIED FRUITS—Stocks of prunes on spot are getting into small compass. The market is very firm because of the crop outlook. Next season's prices have opened, at the coast at least, a cent higher than a year ago. It is said larger sizes will be scarce this coming season. Seeded raisins have opened 2c. higher than last year. Evaporated apples are decidedly easier outside and the price here will probably follow.

THE LATE G. F. MARTER.

Was Conservative Leader in Ontario—Temperance Man.

Death came to George F. Marter, former leader of the Conservative opposition in the Ontario Legislature, at his home in Parkdale, Toronto, early on Friday morning. He had been ill some months. Mr. Marter was a far better business man than he was a politician, which is a whole lot to his credit. His influence upon the history of his country was exerted rather as a temperance reformer than as a political adherent.

For many years Mr. Marter engaged in a general business in Gravenhurst, and it was in business he got the training that made him in his later years so capable a head of the Dominion Temperance Alliance in Ontario.

The late George Frederick Marter was born in Brantford nearly 67 years ago and early engaged in mercantile pursuits. His public spirit led him also into an active participation in municipal affairs.

Early at Gravenhurst.

He removed to Gravenhurst and built up there an extensive general store business. Though scarcely a pioneer, Bracebridge was on the march of civilization when he went there. Again he was active in municipal affairs, became reeve of his town and in 1886 was elected to represent Muskoka in the Legislature. He sat for that riding until after his removal to Toronto, in 1891, to engage in the fire insurance business. In 1894 he defeated Joseph Tait, the Liberal member in North Toronto. For many years Mr. Marter was prominent in the counsels of the Conservative opposition, and when Sir Wm. Meredith was raised to the bench succeeded to the leadership in 1894. His duties began with the opening of the Legislative session in the February following and he resigned the leadership a little more than a year later. He was succeeded by J. P. Whitney.

As a Temperance Worker.

Probably the most important feature of Mr. Marter's public life was the great influence which he exercised in connection with the Dominion Alliance. Always a staunch temperance advocate he introduced a prohibition bill into the Legislature in 1891, but he first became associated with the Alliance in 1902, when he was elected first vice-president and chairman of the executive committee. It was under his leadership that the campaign of that year was fought, and the following year he was selected to fill the office of president, a position that he continued to occupy until his death. Practically the existing temperance platform was laid down by him, and it may be counted to his influence that the temperance cause occupies the position that it does to-day.

Globe's Tribute.

The Globe says of him: "G. F. Marter, whose death is mourned by a wide circle of friends, was of recent years one of the best known public men in the Province of Ontario. After his retirement from political life he took up with zeal and energy the work of temperance reform, to which he had long been openly committed. He was elected to succeed the late Rev. Dr. MacKay in the Presidency of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, and he discharged its exacting duties with self-sacrificing devotion. He was never known as a popular temperance orator, but his practical ability and business methods fitted in well with the character of the more recent moral reform propaganda, which relies less on arousing enthusiasm than it does on securing adequate enforcement of reasonably stringent parliamentary enactments. The local option movement has always had his earnest support, both as a member of Parliament and as a private citizen. It will cost his fellow-members of the Alliance some effort to find a successor as well qualified for the work. * * * * Always respected for his uprightness, he became, with advancing years, noticeably broader in his political outlook, and developed a strain of robust independence that made it impracticable for him to remain in Parliament."

barrel, and the scarcity of the tubers is given as a reason for the high figure.

The supply of eggs is limited and prices are firm, but on the other hand, butter is now coming in freely and the quotations have eased off somewhat.

The Provincial Government has appointed N. S. Dow, dairy inspector for the counties of Carleton and Victoria. Mr. Dow has had considerable experience in connection with dairy work and Teachers' Institute lectures. It is understood the appointment is temporary, pending the return of the commissioner of agriculture, and has been rendered necessary by increased activity in the manufacture of creamery butter, the time of the other inspectors in the province being fully occupied.

MAKING THE PROVISION COUNTER PAY

By a Guelph Man.

Don't try to dignify your provision counter into a department; just have it a counter, neat and handy, and push it when you sell groceries. Suggest half a pound of tongue—40 per cent. profit—for supper. Just point out your delicious pea meal bacon, the best in town and you are the only man that sells it. Then a specialty, like ox tongue, at 40 cents a pound pays 75 per cent. profit, and sells to good people. Our monthly bill with a home wholesaler would run into $300. We, in a corner store, handled everything from chops to headcheese.

Don't imagine you have to be a butcher to sell provisions. Make the butcher do the work. Buy your chops chopped; buy your hams boned—that saves sawing. Get good sharp knives—like shaving, there's less danger of cutting yourself. Get hardwood slicing boards; dress up your marble table with hams, bacon, tongue, hocks, chops, sausage and bologna. Dress all these with parsley. Buy your stock fresh every day if possible. Do all this—don't forget. Sell pork and you will not only make a nice profit but increase your other sales as well.

DRUMMERS AS EDUCATORS.

"It is interesting to note with what spontaneity the demand of the retail trade throughout the country follows my Saturday talks with my salesmen," said a prominent jobber the other day. "I find that inevitably I make a strong point about a certain line of goods with my men, the orders of the following week reflects that fact. I believe I could sell white elephants if I would only make it strong and attractive to the salesmen to talk them up big."

The elephant story may be a bit overdrawn, but it is unquestionably true that the drummer has a great influence on the retailers of the country as to what they shall and shall not handle. Let there be a strenuous situation in the market with a given commodity and the jobbers send their drummers out to preach that fact, immediately the trade will respond to what they are told and buy to get in out of the rain or withhold their orders lest they go down in a collapse. It all suggests that the drummer is a great educational influence throughout the country, directly upon the retailer and indirectly on all the consumers of groceries.

T. A. Rowat & Co., Dundas street, London, are opening a new store in London south and are fitting it with Walker Bin fixtures in golden birch. It is a very pretty interior.

ADVERTISING SHOW.

At Madison Square Garden, New York, an advertising show, which ran a week and a day, has just closed. It included displays of every kind and sort of device, demonstrated method, scheme and style of advertising, with elaborate and artistic incidentals and supplemental features. One of the most interesting and valuable items in the general programme was a series of lectures given by leading New York experts on methods, scope and achievements of modern advertising.

FRUGALITY AND MEANNESS.

While frugality is unquestionably an element of success, there is probably room for exceptions to the conclusions of the American Grocer, regarding a man whose example it cites as how successful business men get a start in the world. This man, it says, "began as a teacher with less than $40 a year salary. He saved the piece of sugar he got with his coffee at breakfast, and when he had a pound sold it. After a few years he had enough to begin business in a small way. He was willing to practice self-denial in order to get a start. And that is about the only way one attains success."

Perhaps so, but the man who would be small enough to do a thing like that to-day would be so small that there wouldn't be room inside his skin to preserve a grain of self respect, let alone enough respect on the part of his neighbors to ever lend themselves to his successful business. Frugality is one thing and meanness is another. There are too many successful business men of the latter stamp already.

GARNISHEE IN GEORGIA.

Down in Georiga the retail grocers are laying plans to invade the next legislature with a garnishee bill that will garnishee. The present Georgia garnishee law does not always work to advantage. He tells a story of one of the Atlanta Association's members who recently sued a debtor and got judgment against the man on his bill, $20; then the debtor sued the merchant and got judgment against him for $200, claiming that he lost his position through the suit, which was that of a locomotive engineer.

B. Macdonald, Winnipeg, manager of the Ottawa Fruit Exchange, has gone to Kelowna, B.C., to become manager of the Kelowna Farmers' Exchange. He was presented with a handsome Masonic ring by some of his Winnipeg friends.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, May 22, 1907.)

Sugar continues to advance and is the most interesting feature in the grocery market at present. The recent advances have induced heavier buying by a few retailers, but the majority are buying only for present requirements.

Milder weather has had a marked effect on business, the trade showing more confidence in the business outlook. The railways are rushing wheat to the lake ports and as prices are high a large amount of money is being put in circulation. Wholesalers report considerable improvement in country collections.

FOOD LAWS OF CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

By A. McGill, Assistant Chief Analyst, Pure Food Branch Inland Revenue Dept., Ottawa.

Food legislation, as we understand that term, is a product of very recent years. This is easily explained, by a consideration of the facts that it is only within recent years that rapid and cheap transportation, modern methods of manufacture, new discoveries of available food materials, and above all, the resources of chemical science, have placed in the hands of food purveyors the means which render adulteration possible.

The English Adulteration Act was first passed in 1860, but only became workable in 1875. The first of the United States to carry out food legislation was Massachusetts; and in this State the food laws have been efficiently administered since 1886. The remaining states of the Union have followed, with varying promptness, the example of Massachusetts, until at the present time, I believe that every state has food laws on its statute books; and, in the great majority of cases, is possessed of the means of enforcing these laws. But there is great diversity among the various states in this matter; and I can best give an idea of the existing state of things by quoting Dr. Wiley's introduction to bulletin 69, of the Bureau of Chemistry at Washington. This bulletin contains a compilation of the food laws of the various states.

Situation in United States.

Dr. Wiley says:

"During recent years the number of states enforcing food laws has increased, and the necessity of collecting and unifying these laws has become more apparent. There is little uniformity in the laws of different states with respect to requirements of composition and labeling of food products. The food which meets all the requirements of a law in one state is sometimes forbidden to be sold in another. A manufacturer may be required to put a certain label on a food that is sold in New York and another on a similar package if sold in Illinois or in Michigan. This state of affairs has tended to make food manufacturers and dealers antagonistic to a great deal of the food legislation which has been enacted. They find it difficult to keep informed respecting the requirements of the laws and regulations of the different states in which their products are sold. This difficulty is increased in the case of the consumer.

"The lack on uniformity, even if the laws were more permanent, would cause considerable annoyance and uncertainty, but one of the most troublesome features of State legislation is found in the many changes made in the laws regulating food inspection and control in the various states.

Forty-five New State Laws.

"The first edition of bulletin No. 69 of the Bureau of Chemistry contained the laws in force in the various states on July 1, 1902. The following winter sessions of the legislatures were held in forty-five states. In three of these states new food laws were enacted, and in fourteen states very material changes were made in the laws which had previously been enforced. In the summer of 1903 bulletin No. 83, part 1, was published, in which sixty-five pages were devoted to changes in food legislation in eighteen states. In the winter of 1903-4 the legislatures of fifteen states, including Porto Rico, met. In three states, material changes were made in the food laws at this session of the legislatures. These changes in legislation occupied eleven pages of bulletin 83, part II, of this bureau.

ANTHONY McGILL
Government Analyst, Ottawa.

"In the winter of 1904-5, the legislatures met in forty-three states. It was the original intention to publish again the new legislation and the amendments enacted at these sessions. It was found, however, that the changes were so extensive that a revision of the entire bulletin, giving all the legislation now in force in the United States and Canada, seemed preferable to again printing the new laws and amendments. In some cases the new laws are identical with the old, with the exception of a few unimportant words. Although but three years have elapsed since the first publication of bulletin No. 69, it will be found that the present revised edition is materially different from the original compilation.

"The importance of harmonizing the requirements of the several states becomes more important as food legislation in the various states receives greater attention. It is believed that this compilation will do much towards securing in the near future this desirable end. It will afford to the food dealers in the various states a means of comparing the laws of each state with those of the others which it will be difficult to find in any other publication. The comparison will also be of great benefit to the manufacturers and consumers and will prove of special interest to those who in the future may be charged with the enactment of State and National legislation relating to food control."

Most Important Year.

The year 1906 was the most important in the history of the United States so far as food legislation is concerned. A federal pure-food bill became law on June 30; and further important legislation was enacted with reference to the inspection of meat, and meat-food products. There can be no doubt that most of the states of the Union will, eventually, either adopt the federal law, or bring existing State laws into practical conformity with it.

Definition the Obstacle.

I may, however, point out that the chief existing hindrance to the effective carrying out of food legislation in every country is the matter of definition. In the matter of drugs we have the pharmacopoeias to refer to; but how are we to define, for legal purposes, such common terms as flour, vinegar, pepper, mustard, whisky, etc.?

An Act of the United States Congress of March, 1903, empowered the Secretary of Agriculture to appoint a committee to establish standards of purity for food products, and a first instalment of authoritative definitions was proclaimed in December, 1904. The latest issue of a report by this committee, was dated June 26, 1906. The work of this commission has been performed with the greatest care, and with the assistance of manufacturers, dealers and importers, as well as of chemists. Of course much remains to be done yet; but there can be no doubt of the ultimate success of this work, or of its value to all concerned. In the case of most food stuffs defined, the conclusions reached will doubtless apply beyond the boundaries of the United States. It remains to be seen how far these conclusions can be advantageously accepted by Canada. Our own Act empowers the Governor-in-Council to make such regulations, from time to time, as are necessary for carrying the Act into effect, and this, of course, covers the matter of definition, so that there can be no difficulty in Canada availing itself of the work of the commission referred to, should such action be considered desirable.

WINDOW THAT DREW A CROWD

Ingenious Mechanism Turned a Trick that Aroused Curiosity — Awarded Second Prize in The Canadian Grocer Competition for February-March.

The accompanying illustration shows the window that won second prize in The Canadian Grocer's March competition. The display is Magic Baking Powder and the attraction is a magician. He has under the cloth cap in his hand a small sample can of Gillett goods and apparently by a wave of the wand in his other hand changes the color of the label from red to blue and vice versa. It is, of course, a mechanical figure.

The window is Gibbons Bros., Queen street east, Toronto, and it was dressed by one of their clerks, J. M. Thom, now with D. W. Clark, Avenue road. Mr. Thom won for Gibbons Bros. the first prize in The Grocer's 1905 Christmas window competition.

Mr. Thom, writing of the window, says:

"As this was the first time this machine had been in any store, Mr. Dobie and Mr. MacFarlane, of the Gillett Co., took the trouble to come down and see the window, and they said it was the best display they had ever had and requested me to enter in the monthly competition. There is very little to explain as to the dressing, except rows and pyramids, with two chutes filled with different sized tins, carelessly placed, while an electric bulb at the top of each chute makes it bright and catchy.

But the magician was the drawing card, both for big and small, and they blocked the sidewalk in front of the window at times. The magician is worked by motor.

THE MAGICIAN GOT SECOND PRIZE.

SIBERIAN BUTTER IN ENGLAND.

A curious factor in the provision market at the present time is Siberian butter, writes P. B. MacNamara, Canadian Commercial Agent at Manchester, under date of April 15. Huge supplies are being brought to London, and, according to expert advice, shipments will be 20 per cent. in excess of last year. The strange statement is made that there is no demand in Siberia for this butter, and it is mainly manufactured for English consumption. Last year over 600,000 cwts. were imported, though six years ago about one-third that quantity was received. New Zealand and Australia are complaining that it is adversely influencing their butter, for it can be obtained 25 per cent. cheaper. It is stated that a considerable quantity is sold in Manchester and district.

UNITED FACTORIES TO BUILD.

The United Factories Limited expect to make large alterations and entensions to Boeckh's brush factories at Toronto, owing to the rapid growth in the demand for these well known lines, the directors are making plans for new buildings and extensions in time for fall and spring trade. While weather has been backward this spring, it is indeed remarkable how business has kept up. There will be lots doing for some time to come, judging from the large amount of orders on hand.

NOTES.

L. O. Ratte, who conducted a general store at Methot's Mills, is dead.

Never lose sight of the cost of doing business. You will then probably always get a profit.

E. A. Shoebotham, of Sanitas Toasted Corn Flakes, Ltd., London, Ont., dropped in to the The Grocer on Friday last. He reported an excellent demand for the new breakfast cereal lately introduced to the Canadian trade, and stated that orders were in excess of present output capacity of their mills. A carload order in Toronto was the reason for the amiability shown by Mr. Shoebotham.

TO THE BOY IN BUSINESS

Some of the Qualities That Make for Success at the Start.

Harlow N. Higinbotham, of Chicago, began business as a boy and became a partner of the late Marshall Field, the greatest of modern retail merchants. Mr. Higinbotham was president of the Chicago world's fair and is now a prominent financier. He has written a splendid book, "The Making of a Merchant," and in the opening chapter says to the boys :—

"As a majority of business positions to-day are filled by men who entered the harness as boys, the manner in which a boy looks at his first employment is of fundamental importance. Generally he does not take himself or his duties with sufficient seriousness. He is inclined to think that he is only a boy, and that his work is of boyish inconsequence. Nothing could be further from the real facts than such an impression. To realize this it is only necessary to go into the office of any large establishment—the business heart of a commercial enterprise—and observe the swarms of boys that flit between the desks of the older workers.

"Who is always at the elbow of the executive head of an establishment of this kind? A boy! He comes into closer and more continuous contact with the proprietor, the general manager, or the department head than any adult. Because he is only a boy' he is a party to private conversations and transactions from which even the 'confidential man' might be barred. This means responsibility and opportunity, and his conduct is, therefore, of greater personal interest and moment to a business executive than he is generally inclined to think.

"Boys fail to satisfy the demands made upon them more from the lack of promptness and punctuality than by any other reason. Thousands of dismissals, rebuffs, discouragements and failures at the beginning of a career could have been avoided by these small workers had they made a cardinal point of being always on hand in their proper places during every moment when subject to duty. It is not enough that they should be generally at their stations. The time is sure to come, no matter how sparingly they allow themselves the indulgence of straying only a little from the rigid requirements of office rules, when they will be suddenly wanted—and will be found wanting!

"Many fall into the habit of being a few rods or perhaps only a few feet, from the spot where they are expected to be. This means that the busy employer must leave his desk or resort to a little extra effort to secure their attention. The actual inconvenience may seem trifling, but he is annoyed. If very charitable, he says, 'That's the boy of it,' and patiently gives the little toiler another chance. But the boy has failed to come up to reasonable requirements, and suffers accordingly in the estimation of the man that depends upon him for a certain service.

"Another seemingly petty fault very common to the younger employes is the habit of watching the clock. This is little short of infuriating to the man who is genuinely and seriously absorbed in his business. It tells him that the spirit of time serving instead of the welfare of the business is the controlling force in the work of such an employe. This is peculiarly irritating to the man who has a thoughtful and conscientious grasp of the serious side of business life. Any large employer of labor, particularly in office positions, will place heartfelt emphasis on the advice : Let the clock take be useful without regard to time or closing bells! This is the secret by which a boy or a young man of even mediocre talents may win the approval of those whom he serves. 'Anything but a time server!' has been the exasperated exclamation that has preceded many a dismissal.

"Quickness to perceive the little things which annoy a busy executive and promptness in removing them has secured the promotion of scores of boys and young men who, as the saying goes, 'have their wits about them.' Proprietors and managers of large businesses are human and susceptible to those delicate personal attentions which count so largely in home and social life. And the fact that such an attention comes from a boy and amid the hurry of business and the commercial surroundings of an office only goes to make these exhibitions of thoughtfulness more acceptable, pleasing and conspicuous.

"In a very large degree, whatever of success I have been able to achieve in the mercantile field is due to reaching out for new responsibilities and doing new things without being told. The man who rejoices the heart of the head of a great business is the man who sees something to do and does it without asking any questions. Of course, I do not mean by this that any employe should recklessly usurp the duties or responsibilities of another or of his employer ; but within the bounds of reason he should be extending the radius of his authority and responsibility, and lifting that much, as it were, from the shoulders of his employer. The latter is quick to see the force and value of such a servant and inwardly remarks : 'Here is a man who not only acts, but thinks for me. He sees through the eyes of my own self-interest and initiates and executes in my stead.' "

SHIPPING GREEN CHEESE TO GREAT BRITAIN

By J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner.

A PROTEST.

I am informed by some of the dairy instructors in Ontario, that many of the cheese factories are shipping their cheese in a very green condition. In fact, one instructor writes that he has seen Monday's cheese boxed and shipped on Tuesday. It is difficult to understand how intelligent men can be induced to act so foolishly, in the face of the positive warnings which they have received from time to time during the past year, as to the injurious effect of such a practice on the cheese trade of Canada. If we continue to ship green cheese to Great Britain at a time of the year when they are most likely to go into direct consumption, there can only be one result, and that will be to check the consumption of cheese enormously, with a consequent decrease in the demand, which is bound to have the effect of reducing the price before the season is over. It would seem to require scarcely a second thought to convince any person that it is a most suicidal policy to allow the cheese to be shipped when they are not in a condition fit for food and when their presence on the market will have the effect of stopping the consumption of cheese, and encouraging the consumers to look for some other article of food.

Buyers Not to Blame.

It is useless to throw all the blame on the buyers, and to let it go at that. The buyers know the danger of this sort of thing well enough, and the fact that they are offering to buy the cheese is proof that they will not act in the interest of the producer when it serves their purpose to do differently. The factory manager or salesman cannot escape his responsibility for the protection of his own business, or the business of his patrons. It is quite evident that the only way to deal with this question is for the salesman to refuse to sell the cheese until they are fit for market. I appreciate the difficulty of individual action in a matter of this kind, owing to the strenuous competition among factories, but there is nothing to prevent the salesmen on the different cheese boards from agreeing as a body not to allow cheese to leave their factories until they have attained a reasonable age, say at least ten days or two weeks. Some of the cheese boards have already done so, and I venture to say that the factories represented will reap a handsome reward before the season is over, because the district which resolutely refuses to allow the cheese to go forward until they are in a proper condition, will add very materially to its reputation on that account. I know of no surer way of forcing the market down than by selling green cheese.

Government Instruction Nullified.

Those who are following the sales on the cheese boards closely, will have noticed that certain districts are receiving a handsome premium over others, simply because they have sufficient foresight and good business judgment to recognize that it pays them to protect the reputation of their cheese in every possible way. When the patrons of cheese factories come to fully realize how vitally they are interested in the actual condition of the cheese as it reaches the consumers in Great Britain, they will make it warm for any factory manager or salesman who allows absolutely green cheese to be shipped from the factory. What is the use of the Government spending money for the purpose of instruction if cheese are to be shipped before any one can determine anything about their quality? The instructors might just as well remain at home, under such circumstances. Any of the improvements which have been made in recent years, and which have done so much to help the cheese industry, will be almost wholly nullified if this sort of thing goes on.

With the knowledge that I have as to the effect of this practice on the British market, I conceive it to be my duty to protest as vigorously as possible against a continuance of this practice and point out the inevitable results if it is continued.

BUTTER TEST.

Early this year samples of butter taken from twelve different districts in Canada were examined by the district analysts and reported upon in the official bulletin issued by the Inland Revenue Department at Ottawa. These districts included Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Manitoba and British Columbia. Out of ten samples from Toronto, all were found genuine; out of twelve from Montreal, six were genuine, two doubtful and four adulterated. Montreal, in fact, made the worst showing of the twelve. A good proportion of the adulterated samples contained large quantities of water and two consisted almost entirely of foreign fat.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

That cheese prices continue so high is a matter of surprise in some respects, but is not otherwise than could be expected when viewed in another light. Quotations, instead of declining, as they should at this time of year, are slowly climbing upwards. This is the export season and under ordinary circumstances figures quoted this week would be quite low when compared to ruling prices. As it happens, this is not an ordinary season. The make to date has been considerably less than for the same period last year and consequently supplies are short of requirements. The spring has certainly been very backward and general conditions have been against a successful cheese making season to the present. And again, there has been a lot of short selling. The make has increased little by little, but the most optimistic must admit, slowly. Receipts have not been nearly as large as they should be to take care of the trade, which is always to be transacted this month.

To make matters worse, it is next to impossible to secure delivery from some districts in anything like reasonable time after the cheese has been purchased, owing to labor troubles. The carters working for one of the large railway companies operating into Montreal have gone on strike, and this railroad cannot take freight, cheese or anything else, for delivery from any of the districts through which it runs. Nor can the same company accept freight for transportation from Montreal, unless the shipper be willing to do the carting himself. There is further troublt through the strike of the 'longshoremen in the harbor. Sometimes good-sized lots of cheese are received by river boats, but now since the regular wharf laborers have quit work it is a very difficult matter to handle cheese arriving by water.

Such lots as are received in Montreal are rapidly cleaned out. Export demand is strong enough in itself to eat up present receipts, while the ordinary local trade must also receive its share of attention.

It would be unwise to prophesy the future, but from present indications high prices will be the rule for a short while at least. More cheese is required and better transportation facilities, then a decline may be expected.

Practically every week sees a slight decline in butter. This is not an exception. Figures asked are now nearing a level which will permit thoughts of an export trade, although they must decline still further to interest buyers in England. From all reports Old Country importers are none too anxious to buy Canadian butter and they are likely to wait for figures which suit them. There has been a great deal of money lost on Canadian butter in England, as has before been stated in these columns, and English houses have taken down the old motto, "He who hesitates is lost," and are substituting such old saws as "Slow but sure" and "Better sure than sorry." However, there is no necessity for adopting too pessimistic an attitude. Exports business will be transacted this year as every other season. Perhaps it will not open as early as some would wish, nor will it likely be large enough to suit everybody, but it will come.

Receipts are arriving mostly by express, and deliveries are not so bad as in the case of cheese. Not many lots of dairy rolls are being received. This grade arrives in bad condition, and from now until next winter dairy will come in tubs,

THE PROVISION SITUATION

A very much improved market in the Old Country has put new life into the packing industry in Canada. Prices for best have advanced from 6s to 8s in about 10 days and are now at 62s to 63s. The advance began when the Old Country agents of Canadian packers decided that the situation justified a rise. Buyers there realized that the increase in Danish killings did not make up for the decrease in Canadian and that the summer trade was very near with very small stocks on hand. The advance was realized. Then came the labor troubles at Montreal and New York with difficulty in getting supplies forward. To help on the movement the Danes last week killed two or three thousand less hogs. The change in the situation came suddenly, after months of stagnation with the Old Country market on its back. Now there is a reasonable prospect of the Canadian packers making a little money.

Maybe this is going too fast. With the improvement in prices has come the inevitable scramble for live hogs and a boosting of prices. As high as $6.65 f.o.b. country points is quoted this week, but the price is more nearly $6.50 to $6.60, while there are quotations as low as $6.40. This is an advance of from 10 to 25 cents over last week. Deliveries last week were heavier than for some time, about 28,000.

Cold weather is hindering demand for products in Canada. There is a fair consumptive demand but not nearly what it was a year ago, and not what it will be soon if warm weather sets in. The doubtful crop prospects, however, are said to be making people hesitate in their expenditures. Lard is said to be stiffening up.

Figures regarding the Canadian packing industry have been compiled by the Cincinnati Price Current and are being widely quoted, but they don't agree at all with Ontario Government reports unless a wide margin be allowed for hogs disposed of other than by way of the packing house. The Price Current states that the number of hogs packed in Canada during the year 1906-07 shows a serious decline from the totals of the three preceding years. Hogs packed during the year ending March 1 last were 1,250,000, this number being a decrease of 50,000 from the previous year, and 400,000 less than the year ending March 1, 1905, which was the record year in the Canadian packing industry, the number of hogs packed being 1,650,000. Five years ago 970,000 hogs were packed, and ten years ago the number was 800,000.

Official records for the Province of Ontario show the number of hogs sold or slaughtered in Ontario for years ended June 30 as follows :

1898	1,592,679
1899	1,875,467
1900	2,656,049

1902	1,991,907

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Wheat Still Advancing—Flour at Higher Prices and Unsettled—Crop Prospects in the West—Good Confectionery a Winner.

The grain trade is hanging on the crop news and all reports with any semblance of reliability are eagerly canvassed. The fact remains that prices are going higher. Grain men express the fear, though, specifically stating that they are not expressing an opinion, that we shall see $1.50 wheat. The millers naturally lean to the other side. Among them it is reported that the acreage in the west may be 10, possibly 25, per cent. less than last year. Now that the wheat is in it is reported that the country is suffering from a lack of rain. In Ontario, however, the wheat crop outlook is fairly satisfactory. Some nice warm rain would put things into very good shape. This is the pretty general view of commercial travelers.

Flour prices are advancing and unsettled. The present situation retards buying except for immediate needs, and no export business is possible.

Oats are very firm and the products are advancing, though a settled higher level of prices has not been reached. A Toronto dealer paid 45c. outside for oats on Tuesday, and they are being held in Toronto at 48c.

Confectionery.

Confectionery is like tea, attractiveness is all in the choicer kinds. High grade confectionery, well displayed, will sell itself and give a good margin of profit. The best grocers almost always handle confectionery and specialize it. For the capital expended, there isn't any more profitable department of the business. It is time now to get ready for the summer trade.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—Owing to the continued advance in wheat millers have found it necessary to further advance prices. As will be seen from quotations, prices now asked are considerably higher than they have been for some time past. It is a question whether these figures will last, all depending upon the future action of the wheat market. Business is not very large, most people having stocked up pretty well before prices began to climb. Export trade is fair.

FLOUR — Prices continue very unsettled, waiting for something definite in the wheat market. Export business is suspended. CANADIAN FLOUR IN WEST INDIES.

Watson, Boyd & Co., Port of Spain, Trinidad, writing to The Canadian Grocer some little time ago, said:

"What we in Trinidad want to see is the drawing of all our food-stuffs from Canada instead of, as at present, from the United States, but unfortunately there is a deep rooted prejudice against Canadian flours, on account of the past experience of the ill-keeping qualities of most brands. This prejudice must be removed and we are glad to say there is a tendency in that direction."

TELEPHONE COMPETITION.

A woodenware traveler writes:

"Uxbridge is fighting the Bell Telephone monopoly. More power to them. Competition against this company is badly needed, and there is no lack of evidence that such is the case. A shareholder of a rival concern at Markham informed the writer that their private company paid 35 per cent. dividend last year. On this basis what are the Bell people doing with their enormous income. One thing certain, commercial travelers should get special rtaes on all long distance calls."

MILK-TESTING SYSTEMATIZED.

The Canadian Cow-testing Associations, of which there will be about 50 in operation in Quebec and Ontario this year, have now got their work well in hand, and each farmer is receiving monthly reports detailing the total estimated yield of milk and butter fat of each cow whose milk he has weighed and sampled.

The work is carried on under the direct eye and auspices of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner at Ottawa. About 8,000 individual cows are under regular test, their milk being weighed every tenth day and the composite samples tested each month. At North Oxford, Ontario, one cow gave 1,725 lbs. of milk in a month, testing 3.3 per cent. fat. This cow is owned by the secretary of the association there, and as a 2-year-old gave over 10,000 pounds in twelve months.

Theo Miles and J. C. Boeckh are working the Northwest and British Columbia trade at present and report business booming, notwithstanding the adverse weather conditions of the past winter, so Boeckh's brushes will be still in the lead.

CHEWING GUM

A Habit that has Created a Great Industry.

Raw Product and Process of Manufacture.

Chewing gum is a habit that has been capitalized at $9,000,000. Why people chew gum few of them could answer except the dyspeptic who work on the medicated variety as he has experimented with so many other reliefs. Pretty nearly everyone who originated in the country remembers the home-made spruce and tamarack gums for which he gathered the crude material and which were supposed to be good for coughs and colds. To-day gum, like most other things, is factory-made. A few years ago vast quantities of gum arabac were utilized in gum-making but now the gum that is the motive power for so many millions of jaws, is made from chicle. There is a little spruce, tamarack and wax gum used still, but there is comparatively so little demand for those varieties that the American Chicle Co., the gum trust, has stopped making them.

The manufacture of gum is a very simple process, and in so far as the bulk of the gum made in Canada is concerned, there need be no question as to its cleanliness. The other day a Canadian Grocer representative paid a visit to the Toronto factory of the American Chicle Co. to find out how gum was made.

The Raw Product.

Chicle is a product of the sapodilla tree of Mexico, known botanically as archeas sappotta, and is got from the sap which is collected and boiled somewhat after the manner of maple syrup. The product is a solid substance, light colored, porous, containing so much moisture, and when broken the inside surfaces appear wet. The Mexicans use the raw chicle as a gum. When Columbus came to America the natives chewed chicle to quench thirst when water was not obtainable. There is a record of Columbus having been granted rights for sapodilla so that it early assumed a commercial value in the eyes of Europeans.

Chicle arrives in this country in conveniently sized pieces for handling, wrapped in canvas. The American Chicle Co. have a warehouse for it apart from the factory. On account of the moisture in it care is taken for thorough ventilation. The chicle is placed crossways in long, narrow piles on platforms raised a few inches above the floor.

Breaking It Up.

The first course in the process of manufacture is to break and grind the chicle. This is done in a primitive-looking machine. A round iron pot, with solid bottom and grated sides receives the chicle, and a power hammer, its face armed with eight dull blades radiating from the centre, does the work. The object is to break without cutting the chicle, because the principal impurities are little pieces of bark of the sapodilla tree and if these were cut up there would be the more difficulty in getting rid of them. As the chicle is broken up the pieces fall through the round grating into a zinc covered table and a workman with a shovel returns the coarser parts to the hammer till the whole is fine enough.

The Singing Cleaners.

The ground chicle is taken to a long well lighted room with well scrubbed hardwood floors where scores of girls pick the bark and other impurities from it. Four girls sit at a table and each has before her a tray with a glass bottom over a white underlay. She spreads the chicle in a thin layer on the tray and deftly and rapidly removes the foreign matter, principally the pieces of bark. But the cleanliness of the product is not intrusted to one girl. All the chicle is carefully examined by other girls called "inspectors," who examine it, not as the others have done, but more quickly. This workroom adjoins the office and when alone with their work these girls keep up almost a constant singing. It relieves the nervous strain and monotony of the rapid search for bark impurities.

After being cleaned the chicle is spread out in bins about a foot deep in a long room with hardwood floors. Here it stays from 30 to 60 days to dry and every three or four days is turned with a hoe. Here, too, the floor is scrupulously clean. It is scrubbed after each lot of chicle is removed. Keeping the floors clean in a gum factory is something of a task, too, for a piece of chicle when stepped on flattens down and adheres as much as taffy would. After being dried it is baked and placed in an enormous steam heater kiln where the last particle of moisture is removed. The quantity of crude chicle brought into Canada last year was 4,214,259 pounds, valued at $1,049,087.

All the chicle for the nine large factories of the American Chicle Co., seven in the States, one in Canada and one in England, is prepared, that is cleaned and dried, at the Toronto factory, of which J. A. Phin is manager. Labor is cheaper in Canada than in the States and it has been found more advantageous to distribute the refined than the raw product.

Making the Gum.

The actual making of the gum is simple enough. The prepared chicle is placed in a barrel-like, steam-heated kettle and melted up or down, as you please to say it; then the necessary amount of pulverized sugar to make the chicle into the consistency of a stiff dough is added with the requisite flavoring. The barrel-kettle is fitted with curved knives that knead the contents much as bread is kneaded in a modern bakery. The cooking and kneading is altogether a four-bow operation. The batch is then removed to tables, and while still warm is further kneaded and shaped into loaves by white-suited workmen and women. It is then passed through rollers and made into long thin sheets, pulverized sugar being used as flour to keep it from sticking. The sheets are then passed two ways between corrugated rollers which mark them into "sticks." The sheets thus marked are taken to a table where girls rapidly break them into smaller sheets containing about 24 sticks each. In this form they are removed to the packing room where girls with a skill acquired by practice and inspired by the pro rata system of pay wrap the "sticks" and place them in boxes.

A Lot of Chewing.

The annual output of the American Chicle Co. is 960,000,000 sticks of gum a year. It owns more than three million acres of land in Mexico thickly wooded with sapodilla, which is a species of palm. The company pays a fixed dividend of 6 per cent. on $3,000,000 preferred stock and in 1905 earned 13 per cent. on $6,000,000 common and last year 16 per cent.

Other large manufacturers of gum in Canada are, J. D. Bradshaw, Toronto; Row and Co., Brockville; The Bode Gum Co., Montreal; and C. R. Somerville, of Stratford.

J. W. Burgess, Bala, has built a nice new store. An attractive new fitting will be Walker Bin display counters.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Slow Movement in All Lines Accounted for by the Elements—Potatoes Scarce and High—The Montreal Sales.

The recent cold snap has put a damper on trade generally. The fruit and vegetable markets especially have been almost featureless. Fish has been stimulated to an unusual activity in preparation for the extra fast day this week, and the cold weather has played its part in boosting the trade. A car of halibut was received by one dealer and disposed of in four days, at prices ranging between 7 and 9 cents.

Potatoes seen impossible to obtain. It is doubtful whether more than four cars of Delawares and three of Ontario stock were received in Toronto last week. Prices have advanced steadily and now rule 40c. to 50c. per bag higher than at the same time last year for both eastern and Ontario stock. Any supply that can be obtained is readily disposed of at these figures. New potatoes, which have hitherto been arriving in boxes, will be shipped in carload lots from now on. The first consignment came in on Tuesday and was quoted at from $2.50 to $2.75 per 100 lbs.

The Bellona orange sales in Montreal attracted a good deal of attention from buyers all over the country. The stock opened up in fair shape, but was not above the average. The Fremona's cargo will be ready for auction probably this week.

Strawberries are not yet up to the mark, but are improving. Better quality may be looked for shortly, as the Norfolk, Virginia and Maryland berries will soon be in full supply. The nearer home they can be got the better.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS — Continued unfavorable weather has handicapped business in fruits considerably and summer trade has not by any means commenced in earnest yet. Strawberries are quoted this week but are yet rather high to tempt the ordinary buyer. Valencia oranges are higher, as are also lemons. No other new lines are quoted this week.

VEGETABLES — Only a fair business is being transacted, at prices quoted below. Weather is too cold to warrant a very strong demand for various lines. Potatoes are higher than they have been for some time. Owing to the strike of the G.T.R. carters, supplies in Montreal are very short and as a result still higher figures may rule in the near future unless the labor troubles are shortly settled. As it is now, the railway company will not accept shipments in the country for delivery in Montreal. Sweet potatoes are advanced. New potatoes are lower. Cucumbers are easier.

FISH — Fish business has been very good during the week owing to there having been three fish days. With the exception of shad and haddock all lines of fresh fish are plentiful. Shad is 5c. higher. The season for dore is now open, and demand for this line is increasing. The price is 8½c. Smoked and salted fish are quoted at prices which are practically unchanged.

TORONTO.

FRUIT—Sorrento oranges are quoted this week for the first time. The Toronto dealers were all fairly heavy buyers at the Montreal sales of the Bellona's cargo. The strawberry supply is still light, but the stock is getting better. The first car of Arkansas berries was received on Monday and for the most part showed up firm and sound.

VEGETABLES—The cold weather has reduced trade to a low ebb in all lines. New cabbage has advanced 30c., and the demand is stationary. MUTUAL FRIENDS.

The Toronto office of the MacLean newspapers was paid a pleasant visit on Saturday last by Henry Fatum, a well-to-do merchant of Gowanstown. Gowanstown is situated in the north part of the thriving county of Perth, and as Mr. Fatum explained, though the town itself is not large, business conditions were good, upheld by a particularly prosperous farming community all round about. This was Mr. Fatum's first visit to Toronto in seven years, and he spoke of the marked improvements which the city had made during this time. Mr. Fatum is a subscriber to four of the MacLean newspapers, The Canadian Grocer, Dry Goods Review, Hardware and Metal and Busy Man's Magazine. "They are old and tried friends," he said, "and I would not like to be without them in my business. The information they give is most valuable to any retail merchant, whilst your new paper, The Busy Man's Magazine, is full of interesting reading matter." Mr. Fatum was much interested in seeing the home of these newspapers and learning how they were gotten out.

JAPAN IS HURRYING.

The value of the tea exports from Japan to Canada for the first two months of 1907 were $31,123. This is an increase of $17,670 over the total quantity exported in January and February last year. The exports of rice for the two months were $46,080, a gain of $32,627 over 1906. By a curious coincidence, the tea and rice exports for January and February, 1906, were identical in value—each showing returns of $13,-453.

NOTES.

R. Clarke, Troy, Ont., recently burned out, is rebuilding on his old site and has placed an order with the Walker Bin Company for the complete furnishing of his new store. Though doing largely a country trade, Mr. Clarke believes in having up-to-date fixtures for the handling of his large business.

Rose & Laflamme, of Montreal, are showing a very handsome and large assortment of new season's Christmas crackers, stockings, wedding cake ornaments, confectionery novelties, manufactured by Batger & Co., London, England. Their salesmen will visit the trade throughout Canada with a full line of samples.

N. Fink, a progressive grocer of Mattawa, is building a fine new store which he expects to occupy early in June. The Walker Bin people are putting in the fixtures, which are ta be oak throughout. The fittings include a 34-ft. main wallcase and shelving, counters equipped with large capacity bins, and a 30-ft. case for the display of china and glassware.

Frank Creed has returned from a successful trip to British Columbia and the Northwest in the interests of the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton. Mr. Creed is known to the trade from coast to coast, having represented Lamont, Corless & Co., New York, and Thos, J. Lipton in the Canadian field. He is a son of Chas. M. CANADIAN APPLES IN ENGLAND

The Dominion Contributes Three-Fifths of the Supply—Ontario Well to the Fore—Buying by Appearance or Weight.

J. B. Jackson, commercial agent of Leeds and Hull, England, writes forcibly and to the point on the possibilities which exist for expansion of trade between Canada and the north of England. He says: "The most remarkable development which has occurred in recent years is the great expansion in the imports of Canadian apples. According to the most reliable estimates three-fifths of the apples which have been offered for sale in the three northeastern counties during the past season were shipped here by Canadian growers, Ontario contributed the most to this supply, the shipments from Woodstock, Bowmanville, Dundas, Palermo and Colborne, being especially plentiful.

Prospects for Next Season's Trade.

"Judging by the preparations which fruit salesmen are making for the coming season there is every indication that the imports of Canadian apples will even surpass those of last season. Under the system of importing fruit direct from the actual Canadian grower to the merchant house on this side, the trade done was considered remarkable. It is computed that no less than 53,000 bbls. of Canadian apples came direct to Leeds one firm alone accounting for 35,000 of this number. With a reliable Canadian packer and a reputable English merchant house, local salesmen have begun to realize that this direct trade can be conducted with perfect harmony. There is not the least doubt that many firms who refrained from importing direct last season in order to see what success their more go-ahead competitors would meet with, will, themselves, be working under this system during the coming season, as the strict Government inspection of Canadian apples before shipment, (which is becoming to be a well-known fact on this side) gives them a greater confidence in buying Canadian-packed apples over any other fruit.

Canadian vs. United States Fruit.

"Some of the representatives who also visited the chief apple-growing districts in the United States, reported that fruit growers in that country were much concerned at the headway which Canadian apples had made on the British market, and the preference shown for them whenever they could be obtained. This they attributed to the strict Government inspection of Canadian apples before shipment, and some exporters are said to be asking that the United States Government should adopt a similar inspection to protect the reputation of United States fruit being further injured by unscrupulous packers in that country. There is also a unanimous opinion among local fruit men that the United States packers reduced both weight and the size of their barrels last season."

The Canny Scot.

According to suggestions made by some importers in the north of England, Canadian apples should be sold by weight. In Scotland this method has been adopted, for in that country the well-known superiority in the weight of Canadian apples over those of the United States has long been recognized, and for this reason, the imports of Canadian apples into Glasgow last season are said to have equalled those into Liverpool.

A barrel of Canadian No. 1 will weigh on an average 14 pounds more than a barrel of United States fruit of similar quality, and the suggestion has been made that each barrel have srencilled upon it the exact gross weight of the barrel and the net weight of its contents. The English buyer buys on appearance every time, regardless of the fact that a decision in favor of the American Eagle will sting him to the tune of just one stone. The Scotchman, on the other hand, looks neither to the left nor to the right, but fixes his eyes upon the scales, making weight the first consideration, and quality the second.

Nova Scotia Apples.

"Apples from Nova Scotia are not in demand here," says Mr. Jackson, "not because the fruit is inferior, as it is quite the equal of the apple from Ontario, but because the capacity of the Nova Scotian barrel is smaller than the one from Ontario, by at least twenty pounds. The sooner the Nova Scotia men use a barrel the equal in capacity to that from Ontario, the better for their trade, for if the smaller barrel is used much longer, their trade, as far as the Leeds and Hull districts is concerned, will be almost entirely lost."

There are between forty and fifty fruit firms in the north of England, which have capacities for disposing of from 250 to 1,000 barrels per week during the season, and who are anxious to do Canadian trade.

A BETTER MARKET FOR FRUIT.

J. S. Larke, Canadian Commercial Agent at Sydney, Australia, writing to The Canadian Grocer under date of April 15th, says: "Just now, between the cool season in Australia, high duties, and the demand in Canada, there is very little provisions, produce, or fruit being shipped from Canada though there is no doubt that the British Columbia apples could be more profitably sold in Australia than in the Canadian new provinces. Of course fish is a standatd article and the short pack of salmon makes the demand larger than the supply at ordinary prices.

RABBIT EXPORTS.

While experiments are being made in one of the Australian states, writes D. H. Ross, Canadian commercial agent for Victoria, with the object of annihilating the execrated rabbit—they are not, at least, in some directions—being looked upon with great favor. The Victorian inspector of exports has prepared a return showing that in the export of frozen rabbits there is a valuable asset to the country. It is estimated that in 1906 over £600,000 was paid to Australian exporters for their rabbits, besides which about £39,000 was spent in labor and materials for the crates in which they were packed. Upwards of £90,000 was expended in shipping freights to London. Further benefits were derived in the freight paid to the various Australian railways for transportation of rabbits to the ports of shipment. The number of crates exported from Australia in 1906 was 944,573, each crate containing 24 rabbits, which were inspected, graded and frozen —so far as Victoria is concerned—under government supervision.

IX COMMANDMENTS OF GROCERY MANAGEMENT

A Westerner's Views on the Elements of Successful Store Keeping.

By X.Y.Z., Edmonton

A few weeks ago The Canadian Grocer invited correspondence on Shop Management. Well, in details, we all have different ideas, but after all there is only one road to success, and that is the road of hard work and by laying the foundation of your business on general fundamental principles, i.e., profit and loss. Without a knowledge of the details which go to make profit or loss your business is very flimsy, and you will be amongst the nine out of every ten who commence business but go to the wall.

I will give very briefly what I would do if I were to take the management of the grocery department in a big general departmental store, that is about the same as a separate grocery.

I. On my first entering the department I would secure an introduction to my subordinates, shake hands with each one and couple with the introduction some appropriate remark. Give a quick and perspective glance to counters, scales and fixtures, taking care not to let those who may be in charge of those things notice I am observing or taking a mental note. Those untidy counters, inaccurate scales and dirty fixtures will be all straightened up within a week or so without any great splash or to-do, almost without jar to those who have hitherto allowed them to get untidy. This will be done by gentle and polite suggestions or by a little extra unobtrusive effort of my own. Example is better than precept.

II. After carefully noting my staff and the building I would go direct to the stock. Take notes of what stock we require and of what stock wants clearing out. Then I would go to the invoice clerk and get a list of the wholesale houses with whom we have an account. Say I am wanting soap. Well, I know a hundred case lot is cheaper than a five case lot by 10 per cent. But have I the space for it? How long will it take me to dispose of it? A year! Well, then, I won't buy one hundred cases, for my capital is limited and I can invest it better by turning it over quicker on other articles which otherwise I would not be able to stock were I to tie my capital up in soap. Perhaps the money would be better at the bank at 4 per cent. than in soap, risking a fire insurance, at 3 per cent. Then, again, should I have a respectable balance at the bank my bankers would more agreeably accommodate me with an overdraft should I ever require it.

Cut to Suit Your Cloth.

If your capital is limited, buy within its limits. A boss of mine had a full, complete and big stock of canned goods, but we were sold out of certain lines for which there were daily enquiries, and consequently the disappointing of customers and losing of sales. Why was this? Well—whisper—we had sunk our capital in canned goods. A customer whom we had disappointed lots of times by being "sold out," "expecting it every day," " just ordered," smote me in such a way that I will never forget the importance of keeping a good, varied stock of sundries. She said: "Oh, dear, dear, I'll go to Smith's; you can get anything there." Now, boys, keep your stocks up or else the customers by going to Smith's so often will get a liking for Smith's, and we will finally find Smith's have got the best of them. The lesson is: Have a grocery stock, not a canned goods or proprietary soap stock.

III. I now go to cashier for information as to our annual turnover, cost of working expenses, what capital there's invested—for I intend to pay interest of 5 per cent. on capital invested; see that the book debts have been sufficiently depreciated in value. Having got this information, I find the working expenses are 10 per cent. of the gross turnover. My first invoice arrives: 1 box soap, $5.50; cartage, 25c. I enter it in cost book thus: $5.50 plus 25c. plus 10 per cent working expenses equals $6.33 per box. Thus, $6.33 includes freight and departmental cost, and to sell at $6.33 per box is to sell at a sure and certain loss. Well, I have got the cost. What profit can I get? It is a proprietary line and the net profit will be only 4 per cent. Like sugar, it won't do to push. So we must push sundries, which leave a net profit of 20 or 30 per cent., to make up for the unprofitable handling of common soaps and sugars.

Do not guess at your freight and cartage charges. It's just as easy to have the correct charges added to invoice as it is to guess, and, besides, your mind is at ease because you know you are on the right side. Your neighbor may guess at freight and working expenses, but he is a fool and some day he will find it out. If you cannot get working expenses out of an article don't sell it—that's all.

Do Your Own Delivering.

For goodnes sake keep your own rigs. By doing so you will make a departmental saving. The contractor who is now delivering your goods makes a profit out of you, and you cannot afford to be a philanthropist yet. You are neither Carnegie or Gould. Even if you were a millionaire your charity could be credited in a more noteworthy way than given to a contractor who, after all, seldom patronizes your establishment; besides, it's positively certain your own employe takes more interest in the welfare of your business than the contractor's man.

I remember a lazy driver having a sack of bran to deliver but as our neighbor's rig was passing our consignee our driver dumped the bran into their rig and our neighbor delivered it. As soon as I found out what had happened I went to our driver, and said: "Gilbert, you have done a silly thing. You've introduced Allen Bros. to our customer. Their traveler will call upon them. You must never do such a silly thing again." Their traveler did call, and quoted such cutting prices that it was with great difficulty we managed to keep our customer. Most emphatically, by all means, even though at extra cost, keep your own rigs and men. There's lots of advantages, but to say the least—it's efficient and a good advertisement.

V. Never reprimand your assistant in the presence of a customer except in serious cases. Cross words hurt a customer and makes her feel uncomfortable. You will have more weighty effect if you leave the matter over until the boiling point has simmered itself. You and your arguments will be more forcible and impressive and you will win the respect of your subordinate.

VI. Always be on top of your work.

VII. Whatever you sell a lot of, in small quantities, have them ready weighed up. Weights are more correct and the orders are despatched quicker.

VIII. Always have your employer's interests fore and foremost in all your actions.

IX. Cleanliness, punctuality, honesty and patience are essential features to success.

MARKET CONDITIONS ON THE ATLANTIC COAST

Halifax, N.S., May 20, 1907.

The advance in the price of flour in the western provinces has had its effect on the Halifax market. While the merchants here are inclined to discount the unfavorable reports from the west by fifty per cent., they believe, however, that the price of flour will advance materially. It is not the usual proceeding of the local dealers to respond immediately to the western market, yet they have found it necessary to stiffen the price on this occasion, and the prospects bid for a further increase. The increase is not confined to any particular brand, but is general. The advance is from fifty to seventy-five cents per barrel.

All provisions have a higher tendency. Plate beef has advanced from fifty cents per barrel, and pork is from fifty to seventy-five cents higher. Lard is again stiffening up in sympathy with pork. Beans have advanced from five to seven cents per quart by the barrel, and they may go still higher. Sugar continues strong and with an upward tendency. The refineries made another advance of ten cents per hundred pounds last week. This advance, however, was not unexpected. The probable shortage of the tomato crop will advance prices. California raisins are still very fine.

EGGS.—The price of eggs is advancing, and the receipts are slackening up considerable. They are now quoted at 17 cents for Nova Scotia stock, and 16 cents for Prince Edward Island. The receipts of eggs from the island up to the present have been away below the average, but it is thought these conditions are due principally to navigation. As the cold storage men are now commencing to stock up, the price is likely to go still higher.

BUTTER.—On all sides the complaint is heard of the scarcity of butter. The creameries are taxed to their utmost to supply the demand, and there is very little dairy butter being marketed. Small tubs are very scarce. Creamery is quoted at 27 cents, and it costs the consumer 30 cents. Dairy tubs cannot be bought under 28 cents at retail. Judging from the present outlook, it will be some time before any relief as regards prices will come to the consumer.

BEEF AND PORK.—There is a good demand for pork at the present time, but there are very few fresh carcasses marketed. Navigation between Prince Edward Island and the mainland has greatly affected shipments from the former place. The local pork packers, Davis & Fraser, and the A. J. Matthews Co., are both doing a large business, and they are kept busy filling local orders. Prices on all pork products are very firm. Following the example set by some of the Ontario packers, the local men here are now selling boiled ham to the grocers, and it is a very salable article. Some of the local grocers say that the home-prepared article is preferable to the imported, as they can get supplies at short notice, and it is always fresh. In buying from Ontario firms the grocers could not get their orders filled as promptly as they would have liked, and then the transportation was very slow. Beef is not over plentiful, and the price has not changed since last quotations. The market is almost bare of poultry. Some turkeys are offered for sale, but the price asked is almost prohibitive. Fowls are quoted at $1.25 to $1.50 per pair, and good birds are scarce at these figures.

The appearance of the brown tail moth in some of the orchards in the Annapolis Valley has caused considerable alarm among the fruit growers and every effort is being made to stamp it out. Government horticulturists are lending the fruit growers valuable assistance in their efforts to save the orchards from destruction by this pest.

Fred Pierce, of Pierce & Wiltse, general store, Athens, is dead.

W. A. Sadler, representing Edwardsburg Starch Co., was in Toronto last week. Mr. Sadler was doing some special work among the retail grocers of the city.

ONE LITTLE WORD

Anything that is "BEST" may be said to have reached the limit of present wisdom.
Nothing is more true than that "the best things are the most difficult."
It is not therefore without difficulty that

Best in Quality. Best in Purity
Best in the Roast. Best in the Blend.

are made the crucial test in preparing for market

"WOOD'S COFFEES"

They present an example of difficulties overcome.
They ARE the Best.

of his stock is what every grocer is looking for. The quicker his shelves are emptied the more profit he makes. It is, therefore, imperative that he should stock only goods which are ready sellers and goods which do not require to be pushed in order to sell them. There are no food products on the market to-day which are quicker and easier sellers than the C. & B. lines. They have quality, reputation and their price is right. The firm has been in business over two hundred years, and their goods are known all over the world. C. & B. do all in their power to help the rapid sale of their goods by giving the most uniform high quality and by advertising to the general public largely and systematically.

EXPERIENCED ADVERTISEMENT WRITERS

who are open for a situation are requested to register their names with the MacLean Publishing Co., at any of their offices. Inquiries are occasionally made by manufacturers and wholesale houses who contemplate establishing their own advertising department.

"Grocer Hashisownbrand bought flour of a firm of good millers and sold it under "Peerless" Brand. He worked up a large and profitable trade, when the siren came, in the person of a talkative salesman of another mill, who offered what he claimed was as good or better flour for 50 cents per barrel less. The bait was taken, and in three months Hashisownbrand had lost his trade in Peerless flour and then excused himself with 'I didn't mean to.'"

DO YOU SEE THE POINT?

Aylmer, Little Chief, Log Cabin, Horseshoe, Auto, Kent, Lynvalley, Maple Leaf, Lion, Thistle, Grand River and White Rose Brands have been on the market for over a quarter of a century.

You have been selling some, or all of these brands ever since you have been in business. You know that your Customers have been well satisfied. You know that the Canners' guarantee is behind every tin, and that you run no risk.

DON'T listen to the siren. HOLD FAST to those Brands that have satisfied your customers in the past.

On the chance of making a few extra cents you cannot afford to lose your trade.

CANADIAN CANNERS, Limited

Reputation and Profit

The wise grocer is just as anxious to secure a high reputation as he is to make money. Since both are essential to lasting success it is evidently short sighted policy to stock an inferior brand of canned goods. You clinch both reputation and profit by stocking the housewife's favorite, the far famed because that brand is simply a revelation of sterling goodness through and through. Some competitors wonder because we don't claim more in our advertising, but we prefer to let Old Homestead Brand prove our claims.

Let your customers decide for us. If you've never carried Old Homestead Brand let's ship you a trial order and we're willing to stand by the decision of your customers.

There's just another interesting reason for stocking

a cash reason—there's more profit, direct and indirect, in handling Old Homestead Brand of canned goods than any other most grocers know about.

Yes, you clinch both reputation and profit by stocking Old Homestead Brand.

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

Important—I wish every Grocer in Canada, who has not proven my claims, to send us a post card asking for the proofs.

Credit and Money

Nine-tenths of the grocers who sell Windsor Salt (pure, white, crystaline, won't cake) have money in the bank. They discount their bills. Their credit is "A, Number One." Happy grocers they!

Windsor Salt plays its own little part in bringing about this contented state of things. It never disappoints the grocers' customer who buys it. It serves to hold confidence in the quality of a grocer's general stock. It establishes permanent family trade. It helps a grocer's credit—it brings him money.

GREIG'S
WHITE SWAN
PREPARED
COCOANUT

In cocoanut you want something true in flavor, fine in texture, bright in color, good in appearance, and pleasing in taste. Something that will not grow rancid quickly, thus causing you loss and annoyance.

That's the kind we make—beautiful long threads that will satisfy the most exacting.

An important point, too, is that it does not cost you any more—perhaps not as much—than inferior and poorly-made cocoanut.

Our WHITE SWAN guarantee is behind every pound.

Try a lot, and if all we claim for it is not abundantly proved, send it back at our expense.

Samples and quotations cheerfully sent on request.

THE ROBERT GREIG CO., Limited, WHITE SWAN MILLS, TORONTO

St. George's Baking Powder

Mrs. Rorer, the famous Food Expert, said recently: "The stingiest people I know have stopped buying 'cheap' foods . . . they are buying the best to be had."

Your customers don't take long to decide that a pound of sugar, half sand, at 5c., is more expensive than a pound of pure sugar at 8c.

And they won't hesitate in deciding that St. George's Baking Powder, with its 99.90% pure Cream of Tartar, is less expensive than Baking Powders containing "Commercial" Cream of Tartar which has 10% to 15% lime and other adulterants in it. Yet "Commercial" is the next best—many worse.

Most of your customers have likely figured it out by this time—for they've probably read our advertising—could hardly miss it—and they'll be glad to get St. George's, which is guaranteed to you and to them.

St. George's is the best Baking Powder that chemistry can evolve.

We've tested it every way.

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

This fact explains the ever-increasing demand for Farmer Brand—tells the whole story of our race for supremacy in the Canned Goods industry.

Our ideals were high when we started business. We determined to be something more than just another canning concern. So we engaged the services of men who had come near making the canning of fruits and vegetables an exact science. With practically unlimited capital and controlling vast areas of the best fruit and vegetable lands on the face of this planet, we were able to live up to our ideals.

We can——the goodness, not some of it but all the goodness of ripe, juicy fruit and all the energy-building qualities of fresh vegetables. Do you wonder that the women of Canada insist on

Dear Sir,—

Your letter of April 10th, 1907, to hand stating that my business with you in 1906 increased about 25 per cent. over 1905.

For the last year I have handled no other Tea but "Red Rose." I have found that Red Rose Tea gives better satisfaction than any I have ever handled, and if you continue sending me as good Tea in the future as you have in the past (which I believe you will) I will handle no other.

Please send me by first trip up of Steamer "Crystal Stream" 1 case Red Rose Tea, and greatly oblige.

Yours truly,

TIME FOR CAUTION

The market in Canned Goods continues so very active the temptation will be to buy inferior grades rather than pay the higher prices. We urge grocers in their own interest to stick to lines they know to be good, and to get their orders placed without a moment's delay. EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

HOW TO PRODUCE IT

Brief Talks Given Occasionally by T. Johnson Stewart.

"High and mighty thoughts in an ad. are like flowers at a funeral—pretty; but don't put much life into the subject."

Rusty Mike's Diary.

There have been a few ads. sent in lately full of high and mighty thoughts—one primed with quotations from Shakespeare and another shot with phrases which only Lord Byron could have coined. Picturesque! Well, yes. But picturesque literature is seldom advertising. The business world is material through and through. Material interests only sway the lady who sits on the family wool sack. And she has not time to read Shakespeare, or Lord Byron or Macaulay before shopping. Besides, grocery ads, should be grocery ads., nothing more—nothing less. The space costs money. Tell your story. You wouldn't talk over the long-distance telephone with your wholesaler about the new theology or the imperial conference. These subjects are mighty interesting, but Mrs. Jones wants to know something about your groceries and provisions. It would be as reasonable to talk political economy over the long distance telephone when you intended to talk business as to talk poetry in an advertisement which should be all business.

Although some ads. sent in the last two weeks have been poetical in the extreme, yet we have received more than the average quantity of really good ads.

Fitzpatrick & Co.'s ad. appears for the first time in print. This ad. was struck off on the typewriter and then copied on a mimeograph, because there is no local paper in Lambton Mills. The wording of this ad. is exceptionally good. The writer wastes no time, but gets down to the essential facts at once. Fitzpatrick & Co. realize the superiority of newspaper publicity to all other brands- of advertising, but their ad. seems to me to be about the best they could do under the circumstances.

C. E. Choat & Co., Halifax, say: "We always send the same wording to each paper and we notice that some ads. are set up so much better than others when the material is exactly the same."

I think that most advertisers experience the same thing. The best set-up ad., as a general rule, is the most attractive ad.; but this is just where the shrewdest critic on earth would go up against it. What appeals to me—what seems attractive—may or may not be attractive to the other fellow. I cannot discern any material difference in the set-up of the ads. sent in. There is one thing sure, that the writer of your ad. has not been at all explicit. The printers seem doubtful of his meaning "C.O.D. for some," stands serenely alone in The Mail copy. It isn't quite so lonely looking in The Echo, while The Recorder has tacked it on in front of "Best Quality Lime Brushes." Undoubtedly The Recorder ad. is some better than the other two. However, your copy could not have been very neatly or clearly arranged when two printers stumble at the same place. The Recorder man used his brains, and he discovered what you meant. Apart from this fact, the other two ads. are very creditably displayed. We will be pleased to give you the opinion of our expert on printing and set-up whenever you desire.

Mr. McCrea, of Guelph, sends us in "The ad. that shook the town."

This is what Mr. McCrea says, "You may think it strange to cut on an article like bread—so staple—so little profit; but in our case we found it a great benefit. Bread is 10c. in Guelph; 8c. other places. The people were complaining bitterly, and in one week our sales rose from 20 loaves to 200 per day. We wouldn't deliver bread alone, so the people had to order their groceries to get the bread. The Guelph bakers shut our supply off but we are now getting better and cheaper bread from Galt. It pays to do the right thing at the right time."

Of course it pays. We would like to reprint McCrea's ad. but space forbids. However, if our readers will turn up our last talk in a recent issue of The Grocer they will have a pretty good idea of Mr. McCrea's advertising style.

FITZPATRICK & CO.

LAMBTON MILLS

He wastes no space but gets down to facts right away.

That's the main thing about all advertising. Don't waste space and use common sense. The people of your town simply want to know the values you have for them—the wholesomeness and purity of your groceries and provisions. High sounding phrases may be all right in some cases, but they are all wrong in grocery advertising.

TELEPHONE AS ORDER CLERK.

The average retail grocer has long since come to regard the telephone as an essential to his business, but one of questionable blessing. True. it brings him trade without the necessity of sending around his delivery order clerk, but it is also convenient for the housekeeper that the grocer may be called on to send up a yeast cake and use the time and wear and tear of a delivery wagon and driver to do it. One grocer says that since he put in the telephone he has had to triple his delivery service to accommodate the little calls made on him by 'phone.

In view of this questionable benefit of the 'phone, the experiment being tried by the largest grocery house of Mossup, Connecticut, is worthy of consideration. This house has undertaken to replace its order clerks by the telephone and will undertake to make it a success. Fifty telephones have been installed in the houses of regular customers at the expense of the grocery house, and hereafter the users of them are expected to send in their orders direct to the store, thus eliminating the order clerk. If it turns out that the scheme is a success, more 'phones will be established and a private exchange established with the grocery store as its "Central."

PURE FOOD LAW RESULT.

Not only has the manufacturer and dealer in honest food products come to regard the Pure Food Law as his best friend, says the New York Journal of Commerce, but so has the public generally. From various classes of trade come reports that since the law went into operation, it has served to inspire confidence in goods which had fallen into disrepute by reason of adulteration and impurities which prevailed under the old system. One of the most notable of these is package coffee, trade in which has enjoyed a decided improvement within the past six months, attributable to the assurance of the Pure Food Law. Coffees in packages had come to be understood by discriminating consumers as goods justly to be regarded with suspicion. Peas, beans, chicory, rice and various grains were freely mixed with real coffee, and once ground would escape detection. But the Pure Food Law has changed all this. It is now a punishable offence to make or sell such mixtures unless the truth is plainly told on the label. Wherefore, legitimate coffee houses have come to sell more and more package coffee in the ground form, till once more the trade has assumed profitable and creditable proportions.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

BROCKVILLE.

The 1st of July celebration, to be held annually here, is now an assured fact, the committee having secured enough of the necessary to warrant their going ahead. A fine program of sports and entertainment, including balloon ascension, horse races and a 10-mile road race, having been arranged. The advertising committee are hard at work on their share of the labor.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association was held last Thursday evening in the town hall. Delegates were elected to represent the Brockville branch of the association at the convention to be hald in Hamilton on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th of July.

A committee was appointed to wait on the manufacturers to try and have them arrange to have their pay-day on Friday evening, instead of Saturday, as is now the custom.

The object of this is to give the merchants a chance to close their places of business on Saturday night at ten o'clock.

The sum of $100 was voted to the 1st of July celebration committee. A resolution was here read re the Wednesday half-holiday, which was duly seconded.

Considerable discussion pro and con was held as to the advisability of having the holiday, some being in favor of a five o'clock closing hour during the week, while the majority favored the half-holiday during the months of July and August. After nearly everyone present spoke on the resolution, it was put to a vote and carried.

The 8th Royal Rifles, of Quebec, spent the 24th and 25th in our town, and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

During the afternoon of the 24th a program of sports was arranged and took place at the fair grounds, in which a number of the military and civilians took part. On the afternoon of the 25th both officers and men were entertained by the 41st Regt., and treated to a boat ride up the St. Lawrence river among the islands, arriving back in town about 6 p.m., leaving again for Quebec about 11 p.m.

EDMONTON.

H. W. Adams, F. J. Leonard, W. A. Hoffman and Warren Beckhart, all connected with Swift & Co., Chicago, are in Edmonton, at present. They have secured 20 acres at the junction of the Canadian Northern and the surveyed line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and purpose erecting a large packing plant, with subsidiary factories on the property. Plans have been accepted for the work and calls for its completion by September of this year. The plant will have a large killing capacity and at first will be able to dispose of at least 500 hogs, cattle and sheep, and will be in a position to handle 5,000 each day as soon as the country can produce the quantity.

Monnville, eighteen miles north of Edmonton, promises to become quite a coal mining centre. The present capacity of the mines is 350 tons a day, and the company expect to increase it to 1,000 tons. Some of the capitalists interested are Mr. Alfred Allayne Jones, Dr. Chas. W. Wilson, of Montreal, Messrs. J. H. Morris, Chas. Carey, J. H. Picard, Oscar Sessier, and others.

W. H. Harvey & Co. have 75 men at work laying carbolineum, with which a number of streets in the city are to be paved.

E. E. Vincent, Alberta, manager of the Office Specialty Company, is in the city this week.

Kennedy Bros., of Summerside, P.E.I., have purchased a number of lots here and intend erecting a wholesale warehouse this summer.

J. J. McLaughlin & Co. are instaling machinery and expect to begin the manufacture of aerated waters next week.

The building permits for the first two weeks of May run up to almost $200,000.

The first volume presented to Alberta provincial library arrived this week. It came from John Ross Robertson, of the Toronto Telegram, and is a copy of Morgan's Canadian Men and Women.

Col. Talbot, M.P., for Bellechasse, with a party passed through here this week. They are heading for the Brazean river and will prospect for coal, etc. Brazean is about forty miles south of the proposed line of the G. T. Pacific.

The Edmonton Logging Co., composed of local capitalists, of which the president is Robert F. Lee, of Crofts, Lee & Gallinger, have sold out their interests in Vancouver Island for a sum in the vicinity of $200,000.

R. A. Bowes and R. Van Frank, of the Home Bank department, in connection with the Northern Bank, are in the city establishing this branch of their institution.

The Oscar Brown Co. have the credit of unloading the first carload of bananas in Edmonton, shipped directly from New Orleans. It was ten days in transit.

The week just ended. though a little cool, has been fine, sunny weather, and seeding has been going ahead briskly.

P. E. Bulchart, of the Great West Land Co., will go to the coast and possibly south to California on a holiday trip for the benefit of his health.

KINGSTON.

Thousands of merchants, travelers and business men and their employes enjoyed a big treat last week in the spring number of The Canadian Grocer. It certainly is a credit to the MacLean Publishing Co., and well worth the whole year's subscription to any merchant. The wholesalers who doesn't have his name in its columns is blind to his own interests, and the retailer who is not a subscriber is two dollars ahead and hundreds of dollars behind. The information each week is better than Cobalt at 10 cents a share.

John Eves, grocer, Market street, has closed down, not being able to re-lease his present premises, as they are going to be used for offices. He has bought a boat and intends carrying freight in the upper lakes.

Those who tendered for institutions for the coming year and for the military camps are not pleased at the advance in prices. Potatoes went as high as $1.25 a bag on our market, and a good many are wanted, and the price tendered is around 90c. Too bad; no wonder the Government gets rich.

Chas. Porter, for the past thirty years a faithful employe of Fenwick, Hendry & Co., wholesale grocers, severed his connection on account of ill-health. His fellow employes presented him with a gold ring. He has gone to see his son-in-law, Frank Brown, of Farnaham, Que., who had his leg taken off in a railway accident.

Hard to get good brooms. Some of the corn used looks like hay. Illinois corn is dear and scarce. Some factories are not putting up anything under 25c. brooms.

There seems to be a steady advance in all lines and the prospects of futures going higher makes the grocer load up. Every storehouse is full of sugar and flour.

Kingston expects to reduce gas for lighting and heating to one dollar. Everyone feels good over it, especially business men.

Victoria Day passed off fine. Everyone was pleased. A finer day couldn't be ordered. The fair grounds had an audience of 7,000. The games were good and the horse races the best in years. Nothing is equal to an honest horse race. That is, leaving out the betting and jockeying. Why? Because then the best horse wins.

Crowds came on excursion boats from many parts of the States, Canadian and American flags floated from many buildings. One Yankee lady put the Stars and Stripes on top, but had to change the position and put the Union Jack above, and a lady made her do the act.

The Humane Society are taking active steps to protect dumb animals. Some boys seem to be born with a devil in them. As a rule a slow driver will sit and gape at a baseball match, then grab his whip and make the horse go like mad to make up. The poor horse cannot complain and that is where the society comes in. Several drivers lost their places lately and were given short notice. May the good work proceed. The meanest man I know of is the one who beats a willing horse. There are exceptions; some lazy horses need a touch-up, but they know a thing or two and generally get fat. Don't fault your delivery horse for being a little lazy, he will last longer than his giddy brother who wants to make a 2.40 clip.

A few grocers met on the corner of the market and discussed the market by-law prohibiting merchandising before 10 o'clock. The president of the Growers' Association said it was a darn shame for the city council not to wipe off all such by-laws, which were injurious to the county and city. He was going to bring the matter before the city council next meeting, and counted on the support of the local merchants and Retail Merchants' Association. Mrs. Brown, with the plaid shawl, sitting on a rig close by, said, "More power to your elbow, Bob. I am disgusted sitting here listening to people asking prices and thumbing my butter. I want to sell out and get some dry goods and hardware. I have twenty miles to drive. I am told that only one alderman is in favor of sustaining the by-law and that the other aldermen are afraid of him, for he has two big fists and knows how to use them. My daughter in Chatham says the same darned by-law is there, but they are going to kill it this summer and bury it deep." The man with the monocle said, "Hear. Hear. I can't see why the merchant can't quit business for half an hour and attend a meeting once in a while for their betterment. Stick in the mud—stick in the mud." Meeting together often created harmony and harmony is what is wanted in grocery circles to-day; too jealous of one another, too much knifing, and going-to-run-the-other-fellow-out-of-business. What rot! Give it up, boys, and forget about the other fellow. Lend him a bag of potatoes if he runs out and you will feel happier and gain true riches that is not affected with moth or rust.

ST. CATHARINES.

The various branches of business are so interwoven that speaking of one touches the other. The grocer is so intimately associated with the market gardener that both classes must be in unison. It is thus in St. Catharines, and the gardener brought to the grocer some of the finest asparagus ever grown, though the season has been backward. Early spring vegetables were late to mature this season but the gardeners feel hopeful that the result will be satisfactory.

The village of Merritton, a suburb of St. Catharines, is a manufacturing centre that attracts public attention. W. Thompson is one of the leading grocers, and being in a good locality does a lucrative and safe business and owns the store he occupies as also his dwelling house. Mr. Gander is another of Merritton's prosperous grocers who, being in the heart of the business centre, captures a good many of the mechanics and workers in the manufactories.

Among the manufactories are the Riordon paper mills, the Lincoln paper mills, the cotton mills and James Wilson's foundry. Thorold, immediately south of Merritton, once a centre of manufactories, has lost by fires many of the most prominent flour mills, though two remain—the Welland Flour Mills, owned and operated by the Hedley-Shaw Milling Company, and the Fife Mills, owned and operated by Rowantree and ex-Mayor Munro.

Leslie McMann, ex-mayor of Thorold, chairman of the Board of Trade, a veteran of the Fenian Raids of 1870, is one of Thorold's most prominent and prosperous citizens and as a grocer conducts an extensive trade. Mr. McMann is a native-born citizen of Thorold. His father, Benjamin McMann, held a trusty position on the Welland canal for many years.

J. Simson is another of Thorold's old established grocers, having been in the business many years. He, too, has the confidence of his fellow townspeople and is popular.

Robert Dougan is another of Thorold's native born citizens and embarked a number of years ago in the grocery business. He is one of Thorold's sturdy sons and at one time was in the hardware trade.

WOODSTOCK.

From time to time the statement which is so often made, that the cost of living is continually going up, is substantiated by material increases in the purchase price of articles of every-day and every-meal consumption. The latest staple article of diet to advance in Woodstock has been bread, which went up one cent a loaf this week. It now sells at five cents for the pound and a half loaf instead of four cents as for some time previously. Some weeks ago the bakers of the city decided to abolish the two-pound loaves, and make none larger than a pound and one-half. The price was accordingly reduced from five to four cents. In the past three or four weeks, however, flour has advanced thirty cents per hundred pounds, and as the result, at a meeting on Saturday the bakers agreed to put the price back to its old position, without, however, changing the size of the loaf. It is improbable that the price will go higher.

Elmer Day, of Morden, Manitoba, was in the city the other day, and dropped in to see your correspondent. Mr. Day is here for a few weeks, visiting in this city and in the vicinity of his former home is East Missouri township. He is not as pessimistic in regard to this year's crop in the Northwest has has been the tone of many interviews and statements coming from the West. Of course, he says, the acreage of wheat this year will not on the cultivated part of the country be as great as last year. But there is continually so much more land being brought into cultivation, there will this year be so much more than last, that the difference in the amount planted with wheat will not be as great as it seems. He thinks if the weather from this time is half way favorable, the crop will be fair.

At this stage of the spring not much has been heard about the weekly half holiday. This is doubtless due to a great extent to the backward season. When men are going around in their overcoats and gloves, and have experienced so few really fine days that they may be almost counted on the fingers of one hand, they do not think very much about the necessity or pleasure of a weekly cessation from labor for the suace of half a day. Last year nearly all trades and lines of business enjoyed half holidays, but things were pretty much muddled by the manner in which they were arranged. Grocers and some other lines observed one afternoon in the week, barbers another, lawyers still another, while various of the factories closed one afternoon, each choosing the day which best suited its individual convenience, without consulting the general interests of the whole. The result very naturally was that people from the country hardly knew when to come in to town to do shopping, if they were unable for any reason to come Saturday, and no matter what day they struck very probably the premises of some person or firm with which they wished to do business would be closed.

If anything is done this season towards establishing a holiday, an endeavor will be made to so arrange things that the confusion of last year wi,l be avoided, while all its benefits, and more, will remain. But who wants to talk of holidays when on this, the twenty-seventh day of May, snow has been falling in occasional flurries all day?

W. M. McElheran has returned from Winnipeg, to become business manager of the Sentinel-Review, the position which will be vacated this week by R. F. Parkinson, as noted in this column a week or two ago. Mr. McElheran was formerly manager of the job department of the Sentinel-Review. Less than a year ago, he went to Winnipeg as western manager for the Farmers' Advocate. The West did not come up to expectations, and as a place to live, he says, cannot touch good old Woodstock, hence his return. Mr. Parkinson goes to Montreal to become associate advertising manager for the McDougall publications.

Speaking from the pulpit of the Central Methodist church Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. G. H. Cobbledick, in giving a sermon on the proper observance of the Sabbath, made an earnest plea to his congregation that they refrain from leaving unnecessary shopping until Saturday night, and then ask that parcels be delivered that night. It was time he spoke. The practice of ordering goods Saturday night, which might just as well have been purchased early in the week, is very common. That is what keeps many a proprietor and his clerks, working up to a late hour and sometimes even past the midnight hour into the Sabbath, straightening up his stock and premises ready for Monday morning opening after a busy day's trading. And this is not the worst. By their thoughtlessness, these people keep boys of tender years at work until late Saturday night delivering parcels long after such boys should be at home. Such conditions are not peculiar to Woodstock. They exist all over, despite all the endeavors made from time to time to secure their correction. Though for a time it would seem strange, it would cause no permanent inconvenience and no actual financial loss to merchants, if all stores and shops closed at six or seven o'clock Saturday nights the same as they do any other night in the week.

Trade has not yet picked up very much, but little can be expected while this weather continues.

YARMOUTH N.S. NOTES.

Cain Bros., Yarmouth, have recently put on a fine covered delivery wagon for their grocery business, which is a credit to the firm and which shows their progressiveness. This firm, in the lobster season, makes a specialty of shelled lobster, sending it to the homes all ready for the table, which is much appreciated by housekeepers. The store of this progressive firm is laid out in a very fine way for the display of their goods, and is one of the best kept stores in this vicinity. No wonder the firm are doing the bulk of the grocery business in this town; their store is full of activity from morning till night.

It would be well for the "Poor Food" inspectors to make a round of this section, for there are a lot of inferior goods being sold and there is grave doubts as to their meeting the requirements of the pure food law.

W. P. Crosby has recently moved into his new store, two doors north of the old one. This is one of the best fitted-up stores in Nova Scotia, everything in the fittings being of the latest and best. Mr. Crosby makes a specialty of carrying the finest goods, and reports his sales as double what they were this time last year.

The right man in the right place is what the knights of the grip say of Manager Geo. A. Pattee, of the Grand hotel, Yarmouth. Mr. Pattee is an American hotel man and he knows how to run one. It is by far the most popular hotel in Nova Scotia. There is no bar at this hotel.

Jacob Boyd, the north end grocery man, of Yarmouth, is an ardent sportsman. He has brought home some wonderful fine catches of trout the past week. Jake has a spot all to himself that the other followers of Isaak Walton have not yet got on to, and if he has his way they will not get on to it just at present. The two strings we saw were beauties, running from ½ to 2 lbs. It made one's mouth water to see them.

G. Murray Cain, the cash grocer, of Yarmouth, is certainly doing quite a business. His prices tell and he sells and buys entirely for cash.

The many friends of Mr. McGrath, of Dichrie & McGrath, Tusket, will regret to hear he was under the weather for a day or two recently. Mr. McGrath is very popular with the travelers.

T. G. Hatfield, of Tusket, has begun to build a new store at the three corners, which will be by far the largest in Yarmouth county. Mr. Hatfield is one of Tusket's and Yarmouth county's most progressive merchants.

Under the new management the Ellis hotel, at Port Maitland, promises to become one of the most popular summer resort hotels in the province. The new manager, Mr. Baker, runs an automobile to and from Yarmouth during the summer months twice a day.

"Dad" Fuller, the most popular man on the road, was a recent visitor to Yarmouth. The Flavelle Milling Company are to be congratulated on having so popular a representative as "Dad." Everyone is his friend, travelers, merchants and hotel men.

Yarmouth, N.S. and Vicinity.

One of the most progressive and up-to-date firms in the Maritime Provinces is that of Nickerson, Grant & Co., of Yarmouth, jobbers of fruit and confectionery, and manufacturers of mineral waters and fruit syrups. This firm also puts up one of the best breakfast foods on the market. "Whole Wheat and Meal." They have also a fine trade in "Not a Seed" raisins, which are put up specially for them and which are giving the best of satisfaction to the trade. This firm's advertising of "Whole Wheat and Meal" is unique, and a very handsome picture represents a fine moose head in burnt wood effect. They are also agents for the United Fruits Co.'s line of steamers for the Maritime Provinces.

HAMILTON.

The tomato situation here looks as if this year's crop would be a short one. Growers say that the plants are not doing at all well and when the season opens for transplanting they will not be in as good a condition as they should be and as the growing time promises to be very short the outlook is not encouraging. For some cause or another the wholesale grocers are not pressing the sale of futures and it is generally supposed that the Canadian canners are not as anxious this year as they have been to fill up the trade with futures or possibly the retailer has found out that the run of the market pays better than loading up with stock that takes him nine months to dispose of.

One enterprising firm is quoting for sporty grocers a speculative price on corn, peas and tomatoes, with a guarantee of sixty per cent. of the order filled if crop is short. This looks better than buying at open figures and letting the seller fix the price. That way looks too much like the seller betting on a sure thing.

The firm quoting prices for futures seems to have done a pretty large business, from what can be learned about it. This may be an incentive to others to follow suit and the retailer will know just about where he is at if he buys on a settled price.

Trade here is a little quiet; the extremely cool weather seems to have had a depressing effect. Our market, one of the best in Canada, has been a little slow the last few days, farmers seeming to have little to bring in at present, but it has been a splendid season for the market gardeners who have a hot-bed attachment. They have sold immense quantities of lettuce, spinach, onions, radishes, etc., at fancy prices. Growing this green stuff for city trade looks like a veritable gold mine and pays better than most of the Cobalt stocks!.

R. T. Steele, formerly of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, has become a very large factor in the Laidlaw Lithographing Co. It is expected that this concern will become one of the largest in its line in Canada.

E. Hazell, of Hazell & Dawson, Main St. grocers, was operated on on Sunday at the City Hospital for appendicitis. He is a very popular young man and his many friends are hoping for his early recovery.

LONDON.

The Retail Grocers' Association is to hold a meeting to-morrow night, when the picnic matter will likely be settled. The committee has obtained rates from the Grand Trunk to the following places: Toronto, Hamilton, Sarnia and Detroit, and from the Canadian Pacific to Toronto and Detroit. Whichever place the majority prefer will be the one chosen.

In this connection it has been learned that if the association so desires it can successfully fight the individuals who have a cut-and-dried arrangement with the Michigan Central to run an excursion to the Falls as a "grocers' picnic" on whatever day the association may chose for its outing. It seems that according to an agreement among the railway companies no persons except those formally organized, holding regular meetings with duly elected officers, can run excursions on any of the roads. The parties having to deal with the Michigan Central are not an organized body, and consequently in contracting with them the railway company is violating the agreement. It is not improbable that the Grocers' Association will put the matter to the test.

Mr. Vanderveer, who was recently elected secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, finding it impossible to devote the time to the office necessary, has intimated his intention of resigning, and Mr. Hays, the former secretary, has been prevailed upon to again take the position.

Quite a number of grocers in the outlying parts of the city are in the habit of keeping their stores open to all hours every night in the week, and the association is endeavoring to bring them into line and induce them to observe a uniform early closing hour, as in the down-town stores.

With the retirement of C. H. Lee from the grocery business, the central part of Dundas street is left with but two or three grocery stores, where once there were a score or more. The cause of this undoubtedly is the high rents prevailing on this street, which the profits of the business will not permit the grocer to pay. More remarkable still is the fact that many of the best locations on both Dundas and Richmond streets have been taken by Greeks and Turks, who appear to possess the secret of paying the highest rents and still making money out of restaurants, billiard rooms bowling alleys and shoe shine parlors. The fine premises of W, J. Reid, the Crystal Hall, on Dundas street, is the latest to be turned over for this purpose at an annual rental of $7,000 or $8,000. What grocer could stand such a rent as this ?

During the past two weeks flour has twice advanced—first 10c., and then 25c. per cwt., Thus far, however, the grocers have only made an increase of 20c.

Garden stuff is remarkably backward this season. This time last year homegrown strawberries were in the stores. Now the berries have barely formed.

Brokers' advices regarding California fruits indicate about half a crop of prunes. The prospects for raisins thus far are good. No Spanish quotations have yet been received. Teas continue high. Raw sugars, if anything, are easier, while refined show no change in prices, the market being stiff. Wholesale business has shown considerable improvement the past two weeks. Canned goods are moving slowly, owing to high prices, although there is still some cutting among retailers.

In connection with their new, big establishment in the East End, Gorman, Eckert & Co. will have a large canning factory, where vegetables of various kinds will be put up on a large scale. This is an entirely new branch of business for this firm, but that they will make it a "go" no one familiar with their business methods and enterprise doubts.

PETERBORO.

The usual agitation has been started for the weekly half-holiday during the summer months. Needless to say, the grocery clerks are enthusiastic over the idea. But it is not likely that they will get it. Last year an effort was made to have all the stores close for half a day each week. All the larger stores, and especially those in the centre of the city, signed the petition, but one or two kept open. This year very few grocers will sign.

Another important feature is that many of the grocers handle fruit during the summer, and as fresh fruit will not keep, the grocer stands to lose considerable by the half-holiday. One grocer said that last summer he invariably received a large shipment of fruit the morning of the half-holiday or just before a regular legal holiday and very often he lost more than the profits on the whole consignment through spoilage. Then, the grocery stores close at six o'clock every night the year round, except Friday and Saturday nights and nights before a holiday. Clerks have no trouble in getting off any time they wish, and therefore the merchants do not think it fair to themselves to give a half-holiday also.

Cheese and Flour.

The cheese makers in this district had an idea of running their factories on Sunday. But when a despatch from Kingston was received to the effect that the Lord's Day Alliance there intended to prevent such work, the idea was dropped.

The flour mills in the city are all running to their full capacity, and have many orders ahead. The article turned out here is of a superior quality and the demand is rapidly increasing. The Peterboro cereal mill will shortly double its capacity. After waiting for several weeks the Peterboro Cereal Co. yesterday received the two big rolls which will be used in manufacturing the new cereal known as Korn Flakes, The rolls are the first of the kind made in Canada and special patterns had to be made for them. There are two rolls which are 24 inches in diameter and 24 inches long, while the journals are 6 inches in diameter. Both the rolls and journals are water cooled. The rolls weigh one ton each, while the whole machine weighs six tons and is capable of exerting a pressure of thirty tons. The machine cost $1,500, and will be installed the first of the week.

The export trade of cereals, except rolled oats, has been found by some of the local manufacturers to be unprofitable and that end of the business is being dropped. The reason given is that the English people have not yet been educated to the use of modern breakfast foods, and to accomplish this means a very large amount of money spent in advertising. A great deal has already been spent but not in the right way and until a new scheme, one which will appeal to the English people, is adopted, the export business is not likely to prosper. Mr. Sutcliffe, of Manchester, England, was in the city last week trying to make arrangements with W. H. Meldrum, manager of the Peterboro Cereal Co. for handling their goods in England. It is likely that Mr. Sutcliffe's firm will get the agency, although the local firm is not anxious about the Old Country trade. The local demand is growing so rapidly that it keeps the mills running night and day to handle the orders.

Canned Goods a Profitable Investment.

In speaking with Mr. Davies, manager of T. Kinnear & Co.'s branch here, your correspondent learned that the very late season and cold weather did not affect the wholesale grocery trade. He said that business is getting better every week. The only difference noticed so far is that the price of early vegetables is very firm and it will not likely be any cheaper until the weather becomes more seasonable. Canned goods, such as fruit and vegetables, will very likely be much firmer next year, as prospects for early fresh fruit are very poor.

When asked what he would advise retail merchants to do who happened to have a large stock of canned fruit and vegetables on hand at the present time, Mr. Davies replied that for himself he would hang onto them. He would not advise any merchant to put any canned goods on the bargain counter this year. There is every indication that next fall the output of the canning factories will be considerably smaller than usual, and the demand for them is continually on the increase. It looks as though it might be good speculation to purchase a large stock of canned goods now, if they can be got at a right price, and hold them until next fall and winter.

OTTAWA.

Grocery trade here is reported quiet, owing somewhat to the very cold weather, farmers being busy and not coming in; also as is usual towards the end of the month business slackens considerably.

The judgment rendered by Justice Britton on Saturday last in connection with the case of D. Halliday, asking for the quashing of the early closing by-law, which case was tried here a short time ago, was received by most merchants with a sense of great disappointment, as the advantage of closing their stores at 6 o'clock on ordinary week days and 9 p.m. on Saturdays, was being felt as a blessing and just what you would call ideal conditions for the grocery trade. In fact some of those who approved the by-law when before council expressed their regrets for doing so after having a taste of the new regulation. However, things are not much changed, as the general by-law closing all stores in the city at 9 p.m. Saturdays will include the grocers, this fact having been pronounced so by the city solicitor to-day, so that 7.30 p.m., the hour stated in the old by-law for ordinary week days, and 9 p.m. in the general by-law, will govern the closing of grocery stores for a time. It is generally agreed by most of the leading grocers, that they will still close their stores at 6 and 9 p.m. by mutual consent now that the people are educated to these hours, so that very little change will be noticed, regardless of the recent decision of the courts.

The Retail Grocers' Association will go to Alexandria on June 26 for their annual outing. It will take the form of an excursion from Ottawa, and, at Alexandria on that day a large picnic will be held by the Roman Catholic Church there, which will provide the programme and also the meals. The Montreal Grocers' Association will hold their annual outing the same day at Alexandria, so that altogether some 5,000 or 6,000 people are expected to be in attendance as the church people hope to see a large turnout from their own neighborhood. Special rates from Ottawa and all intervening points will be given by the Grand Trunk for that day on the Grocers' special train.

The Ottawa delegates to the Retail Merchants' Convention in Hamilton, July 2nd next, are looking forward to the pleasure of meeting so many of their confreres from Ontario.

Ottawa is holding an Old Boys' Reunion which promises to eclipse anything of its kind ever held. Most of the capital's best citizens are entering into the spirit of the thing and are helping to make arrangements on a large scale in the way of entertainment. The city will look its prettiest and any old resident of Ottawa should not fail to arrange for a visit at this time. It's simply going to be immense.

STRATFORD.

The market on Saturday was fairly attended by both buyers and sellers, but there is little change to note in prices. Eggs sold at from 16c. to 17c. per dozen, and butter was slightly easier at 22c. per pound. There are very few apples now and for what were seen the price of 25c. per peck was asked. Farmers express the fear that if the cold weather continues the crop this year will be poor. It is said that early apples have already been blighted by the frosts. Tomato plants were offered at 25c. a box or 15c. a basket, and cabbage plants at 30c. a hundred.

Owing to the backwardness of the season green stuff is not offered in large quantities yet. On the market Saturday it sold at the usual prices of 5c. per bunch. However, despite the scarcity of the article, our city grocers are managing to meet the demand.

W. J. Norfolk, the popular grocer on Ontario Street, was forced to vacate his old stand and has moved across to the other side of the street. His former premises have been leased to the manager of a new theatorium. Mr. Norfolk's new stand is larger than his former one, and he has had it retouched in many ways, making it one of the best grocery stores in the city. It is well lighted, bright and clean, and is an even better stand than his former one.

Special Number a Winner.

Your correspondent called on a Grocer subscriber the other day and was greeted with the following remark: "I tell you what, The Grocer got out a splendid Spring and Export Number last week. I thoroughly enjoyed reading the news of the grocery trade contained therein." Others spoke along the same lines and one handed us the following clipping which he said should be read by all clerks. "Send it to The Grocer where it will be read by hundreds of clerks."

Don't forget loyalty to your employer.

Don't get sore and take it out of customers.

Don't let a customer stand without attention; show him or her at least that you know he is waiting.

Don't use slang in addressing customers.

Don't growl at taking a short luncheon on busy days.

Don't talk about bad luck.

Don't forget the old customer is one of the most valuable.

Don't misrepresent your goods.

Don't dodge the cranky customer; he can teach you.

Don't think no one else can fill your place.

Fruit Damaged.

On Monday it snowed here in the afternoon, and frosts followed at night. The grocers are of the opinion that the fruit season will be a failure in more ways than one. The frost is bound to affect the progress of all lines of fruit. Some of the grocers complain of loss of business on account of the backward weather. At this time last year the green goods were plentiful while at present the supply is somewhat scarce.

A glance over the industrial and commercial relations of Canada, the United States and Europe brings to the mind the importance of the biscuit manufacturing business. During the past few years this branch of industrial life has been one of phenomenal growth. One of the outstanding instances of this truth is found in the story about the Mooney Biscuit and Candy Co, of this city, a company which has in four years jumped into prominence in the business world. It is only four years ago that the manager and president of the company, W. J. Mooney, who is also the new President of the Board of Trade, put into effect his idea of starting a factory. Prior to that time he was a hustling traveler. To-day the company are enlarging their five-storey building and have branches in Montreal, Winnipeg, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Calgary and Sydney, C.B. Mr. Mooney is a man who thoroughly understands every department of the business. The Mooney Perfection Cream Sodas are to-day considered the best made in the Dominion. In the few seasons since the company started to do business trade has extended to the West Indies and even to the Arctic regions, while their products are to be found in all parts of the Dominion.

W. J. MOONEY
President Stratford Board of Trade.

INGERSOLL.

By the death of Arthur L. McCarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCarty, which occurred on Tuesday of last week, Ingersoll lost one of its most popular young men, and a musician whose abilities were recognized wherever he went. The deceased had been in poor health for some time and his demise at the early age of 30 years was deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends. Several weeks ago the deceased returned from Portage la Prairie, Man., where he had been residing for upwards of a year and a half as the leader of the band of that place. When he reached Ingersoll it was known to the members of the family and his intimate friends that the end was not far distant.

As a musician the late A. L. McCarty had few superiors. When a mere boy he sprang into prominence as a clarionet player, and from thirteen to seventeen years of age he was connected with Ingersoll bands. His career was one of continual advancement. He became a complete master of the clarionet and his ability won recognition from such a famous organization as the Guy Bros.' minstreals, with whom he toured Canada and the United States for two seasons. As a band leader he was also eminently successful. He was associated with Ingersoll bands in this capacity for some time and his services were not only appreciated by the members, but by citizens generally.

In 1900 he engaged in the confectionery business in London, which he conducted very successfully for four years. During his residence in the Forest City he was a member of the Evans orchestra. In the summer of 1905 he went to Toronto, where he was identified with the Queen's Own band. The funeral, which took place on Thursday afternoon to the Ingersoll Rural cemetery, was very largely attended. Many floral tributes from friends far and near indicated the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The Much-abused Elements

Many have been the complaints that have been heard during the past few weeks at the weather conditions. The weather is always a ruling factor in connection with trade and merchants generally have had just cause for complaint this season. In place of the bright sunshine and balmy zephyrs, characteristic of the month of May, and which always add a swing to business generally, there have been snowfalls, and high winds that compelled one to cling tenaciously to the winter overcoat and the heavy underwear. One passes the clothing store, where the straw hats are artistically exhibited, with chattering teeth and a longing for the opportunity to step in and buy. The general inclination is one of willingness to be separated from a couple of dollars if the investment would bring about a more salubrious climatic change. The grocers, however, have not the same cause for complaint, as those engaged in other branches of mercantile trade, and while the clothier, the tailor and others are waiting for the bright days, the grocer is still handing out the "necessaries of life."

It is gratifying to the Ingersoll grocers, to know that there is a consistency about their trade that is probably not found everywhere, and the week ends always balance up well. The farmers who do not get into town on Saturday usually manage to get in some day the following week, and in this way trade is kept up to a uniform mark.

Eggs.

People who rely upon the market for their supply of eggs invariably feel the effects of the rounds of the buyers in the country. It has been a long time since the price of eggs was kept at such a high point as has been the case this speing. Two weeks ago all that were offered were freely taken at eighteen cents a dozen. On Saturday last the price showed a slight reduction, the majority of the sales being made at sixteen and seventeen cents. It appears that the large buyers buy up the eggs almost as quickly as they are gathered and that many farmers would rather dispose of their supply on the premises than take the time to drive to town, even if they can get a cent or so more a dozen for their offerings. This state of affairs has had the result of greatly curtailing the market offerings, and the vendors do not lose much time in learning that they practically control the situation.

From what can be learned from the surrounding country the backward weather has had a disastrous effect. Considerable Fall wheat is said to have been killed, while it is also feared that much of the fruit, especially plums and cherries, have been seriously damaged. Some farmers who have large plum orchards went to the trouble of protecting their trees by lkeeping a fire burning all night, but the majority of producers did not take any precaution and it is believed that they have suffered severely.

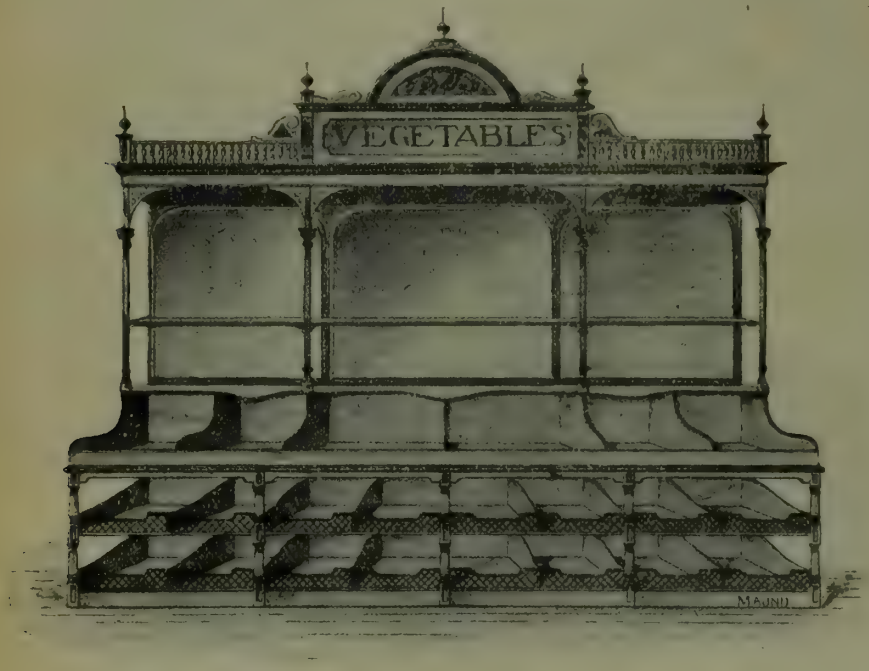
With the commencement of spring the demand for canned goods generally has shown an improvement and the indications point to a rather brisk trade in these lines.

Arrangements are now being made for a monster 12th of July celebration. It is expected that several counties will send large contingents of Orangemen, and that one of the most successful celebrations in the history of the town is anticipated.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

St. John, N.B., May 27.

Despite the cold and backward weather business continues brisk and jobbers report that trade up to the present time is ahead of last year. High prices rule in almost all lines. Cheese declined half a cent and cornmeal has advanced ten cents. Manitoba flours now sell at $5.75 to $5.95 a barrel, and Ontarios are quoted at $4.55 to $4,85. The cold weather is having a bad effect on the harbor fisheries and the indications are that the catch will be very much behind the past few seasons. Only a limited catch of gaspereaux is reported, and salmon and shad are only being taken in small numbers and may be classed as luxuries, salmon selling for thirty cents a pound wholesale.



STORE SUGGESTIONS—Stand for Displaying Vegetables, English Design.

Eggs are very firm, but butter is coming in quite freely and the price is dropping somewhat. Potatoes are very scarce and there is a big demand for them at $2.25 to $2.50 a barrel. Only a limited quantity are arriv ng on the river steamers, as the farmers are holding them back for seeding purposes. Nova Scotia and P.E.I. shipments have arrived during the week, and prices ranging from $2 to $2.50 a barrel were paid.

M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways, and Hon. H. R. Emmerson visited the city on Thursday last, and with G. M. Jarvis, divisional superintendent; L. R. Ross and other terminal officials, went over the I.C.R. terminals and mapped out some important changes that will be welcomed by wholesale grocers and merchants in general. It was decided to commence the erection of a large flour shed near the Mill street crossing. It will have a capacity of 7,000 barrels and is expected to prove a great convenience.

Another important step will be the extension of the yards by the moving of freight shed No. 3. This shed will be moved out to the Paul street line and rebuilt. This will give room for the laying of several tracks, which are sorely needed at the time the heavy winter traffic is on. During their visit Mr. Emmerson and Mr. Butler attended a meeting of the harbor committee, which was appointed recently to make arrangements for the future development of the harbor. The committee will meet again in the near future and prepare plans, which will be submitted to Mr. Butler. He has promised them every assistance.

The members of the grain commission appointed by the Dominion Government arrived in the city last Thursday, and after inspecting the shipping facilities, wharves and elevators, left for Halifax. They appeared very much interested in the work now being carried on to provide more room for the increasing business of the port.

Elijah Terxa, of Fredericton, and Parlelou Terxa, of Boston, have bought out the grocery business carried on at Fredericton for some years by the Two Barkers, Ltd.

GALT.

Grocery affairs in Galt are rather quiet at present, owing to the backward state of the weather. "We simply cannot supply the demand for green vegetables," said a Main street merchant to your correspondent.

Galt was visited by a regular winter blizzard on Monday. The snow fell at intervals almost all day, and the wind reached a high velocity. None of the old timers can remember a year in which there was such a severe snowstorm as that on May 28.

Considerable anxiety is felt among the Galt grocers regarding the probable outlook for the fruit crop. The reports of heavy frosts in the fruit growing district are serious, and the merchants here who do a large fruit business have about decided that their income this year from that source can be estimated in very few figures.

Joseph Zuccaro has requested your correspondent to state that the groundhog which fell a victim to his trusty revolver was interred with all due solemnity.

The grocery store of Pat Radigan is being remodelled and repainted, and, when finished, will present a much improved appearance.

The merchants in Galt are beginning to renovate and repaint their premises in order to make a good showing when the Old Boys return in August next.

There is a rumor current that a new grocery store will shortly be established in a new building to be erected on South Water street.

The half-holiday project is still a dead issue, and the probabilities at the present time point to the fact that the project has been interred with the epitaph "Requiescat in Pace."

The grocers in Galt speak in most complimentary terms of the excellent special spring number issued by The Grocer. One merchant made the remark that he had seen many trade journals, but that The Canadian Grocer was easily the best.

CHATHAM.

Ald. Potter has, since the beginning of the year, been the head and centre of a hard fight on behalf of municipal ownership in connection with the civic lighting plant. The alderman is a staunch advocate of continuing the lighting business as a municipal undertaking, and is a steadfast opponent of the proposal in certain quarters to transfer the lighting to the Chatham Gas Company, a private corporation. As chairman of the civic property committee, Ald. Potter has had his work cut out for him lately, his investigations into the subject of lighting involving much labor and research. At a recent council meeting, when it was decided to refer the matter to the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board, Ald. Potter was warmly congratulated both by Mayor Stone and by Ald. Kerr, the chief champion of private contract, on the manner in which he had attended to the work of his committee.

"There is every indication of a boost in the prices of beans this season," said N. H. Stevens, president of the Canada Flour Mills Company last week. "The prices have already advanced 45 cents in Detroit, and it is likely there will soon be a corresponding advance here. In spite of this the crop, it is feared, will be a poor one. The farmers are afraid to plant for fear of their plants being frozen and the seed wasted. The cold is still so severe in the north that the prospects for the bean crop here are not very bright."

There is still another canning factory in view for Kent county. This time Blenheim is the prospective location. On Monday evening Bates & Lloyd, the promoters of the enterprise, met the Blenheim council and discussed the project. The council decided to submit a by-law to the electors, providing for a loan of $10,000 for ten years, repayable without interest.

30 Per Cent. Assessment.

Henceforth the assessment of Chatham retailers will, in all likelihood, be on the basis of 30 per cent., instead of 35 per cent. as heretofore.

Such, at least, is the interpretation of the Assessment Act given by no less an authority than Provincial Secretary Hanna in a letter to Secretary Mills, of the Board of Trade.

At the organization meeting of the retail merchants last winter, Dominion Organizer Brubaker brought the matter up, claiming that Chatham retailers were assessed at too high a rate, higher than that obtaining in certain towns and smaller cities. The matter was referred to a committee, who waited on the Provincial Secretary at Toronto. While they failed to see that gentleman personally, the Assistant Provincial Secretary expressed the opinion that under the act the 35 per cent. assessment applied to Chatham.

Secretary Mills wasn't satisfied with this interpretation. Like Organizer Brubaker, he was a resident of Berlin at the time the act was drafted and remembered that in its original form it placed the rate for cities at 30 and for towns at 35 per cent., the extension of the 30 per cent. rate to towns over 10,000 population being made at the instance of Berlin, where the retailers claimed that it was unfair to levy on them a higher rate than in cities whose population was smaller.

Provincial Secretary's Letter.

Mr. Mills accordingly laid the matter in detail before Provincial Secretary Hanna. In reply Mr. Hanna wrote:

"Replying to your letter re percentage of assessment payable by the retail merchants in Chatham, it would seem that the words 'in other cities' in line 4, sub-section 1, section 10 of the Assessment Act must be construed to mean 'all other cities,' and the limitation of population applies only to towns. Under the general law, a town cannot be erected into a city until it contains 15,000 inhabitants, and I think it must be assumed that a city incorporated by special act containing less than 15,000 becomes subject to all laws applying to cities."

After pointing out that Chatham was clearly subject to the act, the Provincial Secretary went on to state that, while the matter was not entirely clear of doubt, he was of the opinion that under the act the business assessment of Chatham should be on the 30 per cent. basis.

The letter was laid before a special R.M.A. meeting Tuesday evening, when Messrs. C. H. Mills and G. W. Cowan were appointed to wait on the city council and lay the Provincial Secretary's interpretation of the act before them.

If the council refuse to carry out this interpretation—which is thought to be exceedingly unlikely—a test case will be made.

That the grocers, despite unfavorable hours, are doing their share in the work of organization, is strikingly evinced by the fact that their section of the R.M.A. is one of the most active in the city. In addition, at Tuesday evening's special meeting of the R.M.A. members of the grocery trade comprised fully fifty per cent. of the gathering.

C. L. Marshall, manager of the brokerage department of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., will start to-morrow on a trip to Halifax, Sydney, St. John, Quebec and Montreal, especially in connection with the firm's business for Maconochie's goods. NEW CONNECTION FOR OLD FIRM.

Nicholson & Brock, the birdseed and mince meat manufacturers, have arranged with Frank L. Benedict & Co., of Montreal, to act as their representatives in that city.

Nicholson & Brock are a live firm and deserve all their success. This new venture should go far towards enlarging their trade in Ontario.

HAWKERS' AND PEDDLERS' BY-LAW

Retail Merchants' Association Prosecute Case at Galt—Magistrate Says By-law is in Restraint of Trade—Decision Will be Appealed.

The first real case of an infraction of By-law No. 87, known as the Hawkers' and Peddlers' By-law, was heard in the Galt Police Court by Magistrate Blake on Tuesday, May 28.

Wesley G. Hull, of London, was charged that on May 27th, 1907, he being a transient trader, or a person not appearing on the assessment roll of the town of Galt in respect to business or income assessment, unlawfully offered goods for sale, contrary to By-law No. 487.

The Retail Merchants' Association, who are prosecuting the case, were represented by M. A. Secord, and the defendant by J. H. Hancock, who pleaded not guilty for his client.

Mr. Secord said that the defendant was being prosecuted under Section 3 of By-law No. 487, which reads as follows :

> Every transient trader or other person whose name has not been duly entered on the assessment roll in respect of income or business assessment for the then current year, and who may offer goods or merchandise of any description for sale by auction or any other manner, conducted by himself or by a licensed auctioneer, or by his agent or otherwise, is liable to prosecution.
> The words "Transient Trader" wherever they occur shall extend to and include any person commencing in the municipality the business in the said clauses mentioned ; who has not resided continuously in such municipality for a period of at least three months preceding the time of the commencement by him of such business therein.

Never Asked for An Order.

Chief Gorman and Town Clerk McCartney gave evidence to the effect that the defendant had not secured a transient trader's license, and the latter to the fact that the defendant's name did not appear on the assessment roll of the town.

Mrs. Mary Christie was called by Mr. Secord, and said that Hull had sold her three pounds of tea on Monday. He had delivered the tea.

To Mr. Hancock : Did not buy tea on Monday, but had ordered it same time previously, and it was delivered on Monday.

This evidence closed the prosecution and Mr. Hancock called the defendant, Mr. Hull, to the stand.

Mr. Hull said that he was in the tea business for himself with headquarters in London. He had regular customers, and at certain intervals he supplied these with a certain quantity of tea. He did not carry samples. Had no stationary premises in the town of Galt. He never delivered the tea at the time of taking the order and never asked for an order.

To Mr. Secord : Had standing orders with customers. By this he meant that he delivered so many pounds of tea once every two months. Took three pounds of tea to Mrs. Christie on Monday and received $1.15. Had also delivered tea at Mrs. Christie's on March 25. Had been supplying Mrs. Christie since November, 1906. Did not live in Galt.

To Mr. Hancock : Tea delivered on Monday was ordered March 25th.

To Mr. Secord : "I have no transient trader's license and have not had this year."

Three Opinions.

Mr. Secord submitted that the prosecution had made out a case under Section 3 ; the defendant was not a resident of Galt, not on the assessment roll in respect to business or income tax, and, finally, he had sold tea. Mr. Secord said that all the facts considered he would ask for a conviction.

Mr. Hancock submitted that no case had been made out. The by-law said "offer goods or merchandise for sale." At the time the tea was sold there was no offering of goods or merchandise. Mr. Hancock said the defendant simply took orders on foot and then delivered the goods. There was no provision in the by-law regarding the delivery of goods. Mr. Hancock submitted that no case had been made out against the defendant.

Magistrate Blake said that he had no doubt that Mr. Hull had both offered for sale and sold tea. The point was whether or not Mr. Hull was a transient trader. If he was not a transient trader he could peddle tea until kingdom come; if he were a transient trader he would be fined.

Mr. Hancock said that he would submit that Mr. Hull was not a transient trader, for the reason that he could not be placed on the assessment roll.

Mr. Hancock said that if there was a conviction the case would be appealed.

Mr. Secord said that a person who did not continuously reside in town was a transient trader. If a person was on the assessment roll, in addition to that, he would have to reside in town before he could comply with the provisions of the by-law.

In Restraint of Trade.

Magistrate Blake said that so far as the evidence was concerned he thought that Mr. Hull was a transient peddler. The magistrate said that in his personal opinion the by-law was in restriction of trade, but that officially he would have to follow the law as laid down in the by-law. As the case was a technical one he wodld impose a nominal fine of $1 and 50 cents costs, which would allow for an appeal.

Mr. Hancock, at the conclusion of the case, said that an appeal would be made and the by-law tested.

T. A. Rutherford, president of the Retail Merchants' Association, F. L. Hamilton, secretary, and a number of other merchants were in court and took notes of the proceedings.

Toronto's Transient Traders.

In connection with this case it may be interesting to note that Sub-section 14 (a) of the Transient Traders Act was passed in 1906 in consequence of a decision of the Privy Council in the case of City of Toronto v. Virgo (1896) appeal cases p. 88.

The City of Toronto had assumed to pass a by-law prohibiting any hawker, etc., from prosecuting his trade or calling in any of the streets or portion of streets in the city of Toronto therein named. The hawkers contended that this by-law was invalid as going beyond the powers in that regard conferred on the city by the Municipal Act. They argued that the power to "license, regulate and govern" did not include the power to prohibit and prevent, which had been assumed by the city. Their contention was upheld by the Privy Council and the by-law was held to be in excess of the city's powers, therefore of no effect.

Sub-section 14 (a) was accordingly passed to cover this point, and under the power conferred by this amendment the Police Commissioners of Toronto passed in July, 1906, a by-law prohibiting the sale of fruit, candies or peanuts from any basket or from any wagon, cart, or other vehicle upon the principal business sections of Yonge, King and Queen Streets, under penalty of $50 and costs or six months' imprisonment.

The provisions following the words "peace officer" in the first proviso to Sub-section 14 were also added in 1906.

A COMPLIMENT.

The Stratford grocers have just received the annual spring and export number of The Canadian Grocer. It is a very bright number and besides containing a large budget of grocery news from the Stratford correspondent, it also reproduces a pen and ink sketch of the "maple product" window recently exhibited at H. T. Barker's store. The sketch was made by Albert H. Myers, a clerk in Barker's store.—From the Stratford Daily Herald.

TAILOR-MADE HOUSES.

J. M. Taylor, grocer, of Montreal, is dabbling in real estate futures. He is building two good looking three-flat dwellings on Rozelle Street and says he has experienced no difficulty in finding tenants. The houses, which are comfortable, roomy and well designed, will be ready for occupation in September. Why do not more grocers go and do likewise ?

MRS. RICHARD CADBURY DEAD.

Mrs. Richard Cadbury, wife of the millionaire English chocolate manufacturer, recently met death under peculiar circumstances. She had concluded a tour of the world with her four daughters, and was returning on the Empress of India when, on May 21, during a terrific gale, she was thrown violently down the saloon stairway of the steamer and died of the effects. The body was embalmed and is being taken to England by her daughters.

BUTTER.

The North of England is the stronghold of Danish butter, and if Canadians mean to make any impression with their product it is essential that they should follow the Danish method of packing. The present system of shipping butter in boxes is ruining Canada's chances of obtaining any foothold in the Leeds and Hull districts. The butter should be shipped in casks and the Canadian trade agent at Leeds reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa that practically every dealer has suggested continually that all Canadian butter sent to the north of England should be packed in this manner. If we do not conform to the requirements of our customers, we need expect no consideration or favor at their hands. Independence carried too far becomes pigheadedness.

CAUTIOUS CHICAGO.

Owing to the packers having notified the commission men that they will no longer stand the loss on condemned cattle, and that they will refuse payment on cow-stuff until it has been passed by the Government inspectors, meat prices in Chicago are expected to take a big jump within the week.

The commission men have notified all their customers of the action taken by the packers, and have advised them to withhold all shipments of cattle to the big markets controlled by the trust untill the matter is adjusted. Meanwhile meat will be virtually at a premium before the week is over, and it is a bold man who undertakes to phophesy where the prices will go to. Chicago, at any rate, has learnt her lesson from "The Jungle," and is taking no chances. Mr. Sinclair will be growing egotistical.

WHEAT.

A well-known daily paper recently wired 130 of its correspondents the following questions:—"Have farmers stopped seeding wheat? How does acreage compare with last year? Has there been any growth? What acreage is being sown to coarse grains," On this somewhat comprehensive list they demanded 50 words of information from each man, and the summarized result can hardly fail to be instructive.

The average tenor of the reports is optimistic, but indicates that in Manitoba the wheat acreage will be from 8 to 10 per cent. less than last year. Saskatchewan, while a gain is confidently looked for, will not show so large an increase as was originally anticipated. From all points throughout the west the soil was reported in splendid condition and well seeded. Some warm weather, followed by light showers, will ensure a crop equal, if not in excess, of those reaped in the last two years.

The wheat market may conceivably suffer as a result of these improved crop conditions. Its extraordinary activity is certain to be somewhat depressed, but no one is likely to object to that. What is of quite as much importance is that confidence in the west will be restored and strengthened by the present favorable outlook.

A PARABLE.

There was a Grocer who refused to read the Advertisements in his Trade Journal. He said it was Principle, and he spelled it with a capital P. He said he Knew his Business, and he Knew who he wanted to Buy from, and no one could Teach Him anything. No—Sir-ree. The Rut he lived in finally grew so Deep that he was scarcely visible to Passers-By.

Just at this Time, along came Opportunity, and, seeing the Wretched Condition of the man, he bent down and offered him his Hand. The Rage of the Grocer over this Piece of Presumption was Terrible to witness. He cursed Opportunity for daring to Address him, and his face expressed Eleven different kinds of Emotions at once. He looked as though he would like to Break Something, and that, if he had a Preference, was the Fifth Commandment. Growing speechless at length, with the Unaccustomed Effort of his own Eloquence, he stood silent and Glared at Opportunity, who thus proceeded to address him:

"Your Evil Temper," said he, "is surpassed only by your Colossal Ignorance. You are Immersed in your own Egotism, and though you may consider yourself a Living Encyclopedia of all Knowledge since Noah left the Ark, you will find that opinion shared only by Yourself. I am glad to have met you, however, for you present a New Field for my Exertions. Henceforth I shall devote myself to the Extinction of your Species." Saying which he turned on his heel and left the grocer to His Thoughts.

EGGSTRAORDINARY

Truth is stranger than fiction, but it is not upon that basis that we submit the following item. Let it stand, without fear or favor, strictly upon its own merits.

W. Marriott, an Old Country farmer, found in his farmyard an egg whose length was 7½ inches, whose circumference was 6½ inches and whose general appearance was like unto the product of a youthful ostrich. While not wishing to place any undue strain upon the credulity of our readers, it is our plain duty to add that within this oviparous monstrosity there lurked a second egg, perfectly formed and pure white. After this, the least we can do is to supply what Mr. Marriott's modesty or imagination forbade his giving utterance to, and assure our readers with all the veracity at our command that within the second egg, peacefully sleeping and perfectly self-contained, reposed a young turkey, which, as soon as it was liberated, rose, and with great dignity picked its way across the yard to the kitchen, whence it has not since reappeared.

Gilmour & Co., of Brockville, are losing their local representative, who is going to Victoria, B.C., having accepted a position in the far west.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS:—
Canned peaches—Advanced.
Canned lobsters—Scarce.
Japan tea—Firm.
Seeded raisins—Prices withdrawn.
Nuts—Firm and higher.
Beans—Higher.
Compound lard—Advanced.

Montreal, May 30, 1907.

Jobbers do not complain of lack of trade, but say demand is very fair for most lines. The backward summer is handicapping business more or less, but everything considered, satisfaction is expressed with the volume of orders being received. Strike troubles are over and it is easier to ship goods by boat, but it is still rather difficult to obtain prompt shipment of merchandise by rail. Collections are good in most quarters.

Prices are climbing in nearly all lines. Japan teas are firmer and the market is advancing. Quite a good business is being done in most teas. Sugar is about steady with only fair business. The weather is against this article. In molasses, first lots of new crop have arrived, and customers are being supplied daily. Canned peaches are higher, 15c. to 20c. a case. All canned fruits are very scarce. Canned lobsters are hard to obtain, few jobbers having any stock worth speaking about. Prices on seeded raisins have been withdrawn. Prunes are strong, with advancing tendency. All nuts are very firm and in many cases higher. Coffee appears to be firmer now that the Brazilian Government has ceased buying. Evaporated apples are rather quiet. Beans have been advanced and are firm. Compound lard is ¼c. to ½c. higher. Bulk olives have been advanced 15c. to 20c. a gallon. Imported castile soap is up ¾c. to 1c. a pound. Glucose has been advanced 10c., while pot barley is also selling for higher prices, $2.40, an advance of 30c., being asked per bag. No barrels are obtainable.

SUGAR — Sugar is about steady but business being transacted is not large owing, to some extent, to the unfavorable weather.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES — First shipments of molasses have been received by several houses and they are now supplying their customers. Demand for molasses to arrive is good. TEA — Japan teas continue interesting. There are many rumors going the rounds. Some are informed that prices at present ruling in Japan are 2c. to 3c. above those quoted this time last year. Cable advices received by those in a position to know would indicate that, while the market is firm with an upward tendency, there has not been the increase in prices stated by some. Actual business has been transacted at figures which are certainly not 3c. above last year's quotations. Teas which are sold by the importers at 20c. and more are scarcely any higher than they were in 1906, perhaps ½c. or so, while lower grades will be rather higher than last market. Some tea men find quite a demand for old Japans in preference to new crop, but as stocks of old cannot be at all large there is little likelihood of much business being done in this quarter. Indians and Ceylons are firm, with very good demand for the better grades. China greens are in fair demand.

COFFEES — Reports from Brazil state that the Government has stopped buying, having purchased about 6,000,000 bags, which means about half this year's crop. The fact of the Government's going out of the market seems to have lent same strength to the situation and it is likely there will be considerable buying now. Local coffee men are wondering what the Brazilian Government is going to do with the coffee now on its hands. Its movements will be watched with interest.

DRIED FRUITS — There has not been a great deal doing in this market lately, but demand is improving, and during the week there has been a little more activity than usual. Prunes are looking up, there being quite a demand for this line. The market is strong. Quotations on seeded raisins have been withdrawn by California houses. Some expect that seeded for August-September shipment will be very scarce and, consequently, high, but it is too early yet to say definitely. Currants are firmer abroad and quiet locally. Nuts are strong all around. Tarragona almonds are selling 14½c. to 15½c., an advance Prospects are for a larger crop this year. First shipments will be made end September or beginning October. There is a stronger feeling in walnuts, stocks abroad being gradually cleaned up. Peanuts are very firm and higher in primary markets. Strong demand is reported, especially for low grades. Filberts are quoted 12c. to 13c.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS — Lard, especially compound, is very firm. This latter has been advanced ½c. to ½c. a pound within two weeks. Oil is very firm, hence the higher prices. Smoked meats are higher, as will be noticed. Plate beef has been put up another $1 and supplies are very limited. There is not much of last summer's pack offering.

BUTTER — The market this week is slightly easier, lower prices ruling. Figures will have to decline still furthey, however, before any export business can be done. Local trade is very good. Dairy, tubs, is quoted this week. Large rolls are about finished.

CHEESE — Cheese is in good demand and business being transacted is fairly large. For old, some are asking as high as 15½c., but purchases have been made at 14c. Export buiness is increasing as the make becomes larger. The Old Country markets are pretty bare and all that we can ship will be easily placed in England. Importers object to the present prices as being too high, but they must pay them now, and probably for some weeks to come, or do without the cheese.

EGGS — Prices have not changed materially since last report. The market is firm under arrivals none too large. Dealers are asking 17½c. to 19c. for No. 1 and 21c. for selects. There is not much storing being done at present.

HONEY — Continued cold weather is affecting the honey industry and the outlook is none too bright for a good crop. One farmer writes that cold weather has killed off nearly half his bees and he does not expect to have nearly so many hives as in former years. Farmers in other sections of the country are meeting with like experience. Meantime trade locally is dull.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—All canned fruits continue very scarce, greatly handicapping trade. Many jobbers are asking figures above list prices, peaches, for instance, selling at $2.20 to $2.25 for 2's and $3.25 and $3.50 for 3's. Orders are being taken for new crop goods at open prices. Cold weather is affecting vegetables considerably. Canned lobsters are practically unobtainable. Few jobbers are supplied, and those having a stock are getting the prices. Business in this line will not be brisk now, owing to this scarcity, until the end of June, when new pack appears on the market. Imported sardines are going well, but other canned fish are slow. Canned meats are selling better than they have since the exposure. Canadian brands are in strong demand while American lines appear to be recovering somewhat from the severe blow dealt them a year ago.

TORONTO—Very firm markets all along the line characterize the canned goods trade. The season has now gone so far that at least two or three weeks additional consumption is assured. That means at least 5 per cent. increased consumption for the year, which is not a small consideration. Stocks of canned fruits are getting into small compass and the backward season brings a short pack of tomatoes within the range of possibility. Peaches, yellow, 2's, are advanced to $2.25. Pears are firmly held. Golden wax and Refugee beans are higher.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Business—Less active.
Sugar—Continues firm.
Active trade in canned goods.
White beans—Higher.
Butter—Lower.
Provision markets—Firm.

Toronto, May 30, 1907.

Trade is not as brisk this week as it has been, but a fair business is passing and there is no complaint about collections. The lull is generally attributed to the cold weather and more active buying is expected to result from the return of seasonable temperature. Little sugar is moving at present, but the market is firm. Canned goods are the feature of trade at present. There is an active demand for both vegetables and fruits and stocks of the latter are getting into small compass. Prunes are selling well and spot stocks are pretty low. This line is especially interesting because of the outlook for a short crop and high prices the coming season. There has been a marked advance in white beans primarily, though it has been only partly communicated to the jobbing trade. There are now indications of a normal sultana raisin crop.

TEA—Demand continues about normal but considerable difficulty is encountered in securing lower grade tea of a kind good enough for this market. Latest mail advices from London report a strong demand for tea up to 7d. per pound.

COFFEE—The visible supply of the world on May 1 was 16,009,449 bags; a month before it was 15,397,742 bags, and on May 1, 1906, it was 10,356,157 bags. The large increase is of course due to the abnormal production in Brazil which it is claimed by the opponents of cheap coffee, will be small this year and next. Locally, trade is normal at about unchanged prices.

SUGAR—While sugar is not selling as briskly as a little while ago, the market continues firm. The raw market has been somewhat inactive, but firm. The situation now turns more upon beet than Cubans. Reviewed last week. Willett & Grey say: "The influence rfrom Europe was on the whole not entirely satisfactory. Daily fluctuations up and down from 9s. 10½d. to 10s. to 9s. 11½d. at the close, indicated uncertainty for the immediate future of beet sugar. The quotations for the home markets, while not very stable in appearance, still maintain actual business to a moderate extent at full prices, the last spot sales being 3.92c. per lb., or 1-16c. above last week."

D. Rattray & Sons, Montreal, under date of May 27, say of raws: "Our market, referring particularly to British West India sugars, has been quiet and featureless, but very firm, holders asking 2⅝c C. & F. basis 96 degrees, equal to 3¼c. duty paid Montreal. Barbados grocery grades are also higher, holders asking an advance over previous prices.

"The New York market has also been quiet, but firm. Cuban sugars have sold at 2 9-16 C. & F. basis 96, equal to 3.92 duty paid New York, and sales are rumored at 1.32 higher, 50,000 to 100,000 bags having been sold at the advance."

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKETS.

Montreal, Thursday, May 30, 1907.

BUTTER—Prices declining. Demand good.

CHEESE—Market firm under fair demand.

EGGS—Prices advancing. Now asking 18c. to 19c. dozen.

PROVISIONS—Firm.

In regard to refined, D. Rattray & Sons say: "Owing to the unseasonable weather, both here and in the U.S., the demand has been very quiet. At the moment we see no reason to expect immediate further advances, but the tendency is for higher prices as the season progresses. All refiners are holding firm at list prices. Greenock refiners have advanced their prices, owing to the higher quotations ruling with them for raw sugars."

DRIED FRUITS—Prunes are selling pretty well and stocks on spot are getting into small compass. Some houses are short on some sizes and some on others. Estimate for the coming crop is being reduced and is now placed at 40 per cent. of a year ago. Prices of futures at the coast have advanced another cent and the average now is about 5 cents, compared with 2¾ cents a year ago. Reports from Smyrna now indicate, with favorable weather, a normal crop of Sultana raisins, about 40,000 tons. Greece reports almost a Canadian winter, with the season now 3 weeks behind. Conditions are not unfavorable, however, if the dreaded peronosporos can be kept down.

Referring to Sultana raisins in the special spring number of May 17, it was said "Stocks in all consuming markets are low and low opening prices are looked for." It should have read, "high opening prices are looked for."

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, May 30, 1907.)

With fine, seasonable weather business is once again very active and wholesale houses are experiencing one of the most active seasons on record. Trade was retarded by unfavorable weather and pessimistic crop reports, but it is coming now with a rush.

Price changes are few and comparatively unimportant this week. Canned mushrooms are practically off the market and orders placed for delivery this spring cannot be filled. There are no stocks on hand except a small supply left over from last year. This is commanding a price of 25c to 30c. per tin. Canned plums are also practically unobtainable and canned peaches (2's) are in very scant supply. Sugar is steady at the advance noted in last week's issue.

CANNED GOODS—Canned peaches (2's) are practically off the market and hence command a high price. Canned plums are practically unobtainable. We quote :

CANADIAN FLOUR IN THE ORIENT

Our Trade Hindered by Cheap American Grades—Transportation Inadequate—China and Japan Demand a Special Flour—What Newfoundland is Doing.

By Alexander MacLean, Commercial Agent, Japan

Since the Japanese tariff, effective just six months ago, gave a decided preference to wheat over flour, there has been some inquiry for wheat quotations and as to the probability of supply. Although there have been some transactions, the general report is that prices are too high. One of the latest answers is that "You Canadians are too well off, your prices show that you have a better market than we can offer you."

To a recent inquiry for business from a Canadian milling company, a leading firm here say that they will be very glad to hear from the Canadian company with their best proposals, but "at the same tihe we must admit that although we have tried for a long time to do business in Canadian flour, we have so far been unable to make any headway owing to the competition of the cheaper American qualities."

Another leading firm thank this office for the information but "regret to say that owing to the high price of Canadian flour it is impossible for us to do business, therefore feel that it is useless to trouble the inquiring company with our correspondence." These are representative houses, with widely extended connections, who know the market thoroughy, and whose business it is very desirable to have. There are others, who take up the inquiry, first-class houses, too; but they have the same market to cater to, and great expectations are therefore not in order. The general tenor of correspondence with the milling and grain operators in British Columbia and Alberta impresses one with the comparative unreadiness of the trade there to present a strong front in this market. Milling and elevator facilities are as yet seemingly in the early preparatory stages. And that is after all only a reasonable condition, because these things involve large expenditure of money which could not be ventured upon unless the crops to supply them could be anticipated.

Transportation Facilities.

Then there is the matter of transportation facilities. The Canadian Pacific has a great name, and has done and continues to do great things for Canada, in the Orient. But the opinion here is that the traffic is up to the facilities; and that flour and grain from Vancouver will not compete with those products from Seattle and Tacoma until the facilities are greatly increased.

As to the unreadiness for efficient exportation to this market, I find in the Vancouver Daily Province an interview very much to the point, under date of March 6.

The manager of a Vancouver milling company, interviewed, says that "within the last thirty days we have received inquiries for approximately a million bushels of hard wheat for shipment to the Orient, principally to China. We have shipped about a thousand tons of this hard wheat to the Orient within the two or three months, and the reports we have received from there are that the grain is very satisfactory for mixing purposes. The indications are that a large amount of our grain will be used by the mills in the Orient in the future; in fact they are very anxious to secure our grain. They mix it with the softer wheats from Australia and Puget Sound, and it adds strength to their product.

Good Prospects for Alberta.

"The trouble with us is that we are unable to get this wheat, as what surplus there was—probably about two million bushels of milling wheat in Alberta—was in the greater part moved east last fall because of lack of elevator capacity. There are large amounts still in Alberta, but they are being held for milling purposes. The surplus stock for export is now practically exhausted. Were that not the case this Oriental business could be handled.

"Could we not get the wheat from Saskatchewan? No, it costs too much to get the grain from there, because the long haul to the coast is too expensive.

"I have just returned from an extensive trip through Alberta, where in the grain trade I found prospects for the coming summer extremely bright. A very large increase of winter wheat is in the ground, and this grain is looking exceptionally well. From present indications Alberta will have at least five million bushels of wheat for export this year, where she had less than two million bushels available last year. We are confident that a large part of that surplus grain will move to Vancouver. While the demand from the Orient is now making itself manifest, I believe that in the future Mexico will take quantities of our highest grade grains.

"We are now installing machinery in our flour mill. We expect to commence operations in time to place our flour on the local market by May 1.

"As to surplus for export, we have sufficient inquiries from the Orient alone to enable us to operate our mill night and day from the start. We have our eyes on the Orient, and expect to develop that trade as rapidly as conditions warrant; but we intend for the time to make Vancouver and British Columbia our principal market, and will use nothing but No. 1 hard wheat from the Northwest in the manufacture of our flour. Our surplus stocks will be exported."

What the party giving this interview says, is consistent with what I have before me in his company's correspondence with this office. It is consistent, too, with what has always been advanced upon this subject in these reports; that is, that the flour and grain trades of Canada tributary to the Pacific are not yet ready, but are getting ready, to take an aggressive part in the Oriental market.

I would say here, that, in order to effect profitable competition in the Japanese market with Oregon, Washington, and California flour, it will be necessary to make a specialty of flour manufacture acceptable to this market.

PTOMAINES.

Poisoning by ptomaines probably is as little understood as any of the common ills that befall man. Only recently, says the California Fruit Grower, has ptomaine poisoning been reduced to anything like scientific knowledge. In our ignorance of the cause and action of this poison we have nursed many popular delusions. For instance, canned goods have long been believed to have been the most prolific source of ptomaine poisoning, while, as a matter of fact, they are about the freest from danger. Canned goods generally are prepared from the fresh material, used before there is chance of decomposition to reach the danger point.

Furthermore, they usually are carefully sterilized. And if the bacteria of ptomaine have been at work gases will have been produced, the ends of the can will be bulged out and the presence of poisoning, or chance of it, thereby easily detected.

Throughout the entire scientific world recently special attention has been paid to the subject of ptomaine poisoning for the purpose of preventing and treating it. Professor S. C. Prescott of the Department of Industrial Biography of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has given to the world lately much valuable information concerning his experiments.

The word ptomaine is derived from the Greek word for corpse, the first ptomaines having been discovered in bodies. The name was suggested in the early '80's by an Italian scientist. The ancient Hebrews knew the danger from this source, and one of the commandments in Deuteronomy is: "Ye shall not eat anything that dieth of itself; thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is within thy gates, that he may eat it." Which was a valuable safeguard for the "chosen people," but a little rough on the other fellow.

Food poisoning may be caused in various ways, the substance most commonly affected being meat, sausage, fish, milk and cheese in which bacterial action produces ptomaine poisoning readily. These bacterial changes usually take place in the flesh before it is cured or cooked.

A FISH STORY.

A well known meat firm on the upper west side of New York is hoping this story will not get out. The firm in question enjoys a fine trade in sea food on Fridays, and last week received a big consignment of a certain shellfish. The manager looked over the stock and decided that a sign on the window would help to dispose of them. Calling one of the clerks to him, he ordered him to print a sign on the window to help sell out the stock. The clerk did as ordered and returned to his work. In a few moments one of the partners entered. There was a frown on his face and he called the manager to him and entered into a noisy discussion. The clerk who printed the sign was called to the front and severely reprimanded as a result.

"Next time," cautioned the irate partner, "next time that you put up such an insulting ad. you'll lose your job, young man."

"But—but what is the matter with it, sir?" stammered the poor clerk.

The partner led him outside and pointed at the window. Beneath the names of the partnership appeared the advertisement in the following manner:

CROPS DELAYED BY WEATHER.

The very backward state of the weather has prevented full and accurate reports being obtained by the Ontario Department of Agriculture from the fruit centres of the province regarding the condition of the orchards, as the stage of growth is nearly two weeks later than usual, and in most parts of the province fruit trees have not got into leaf or blossom by the middle of May. Several reports speak of plum trees dying, but some attribute this to the severe winter of 1903-4 having told on the vitality of the trees. Other fruit trees have come through in good condition and give fair promise of fruiting should spring frost be escaped. Complaints are made of injury from the San Jose scale and the oyster shell bark louse, but more spraying than ever is being resorted to in order to overcome these and other orchard pests. There are reports of injury to small fruits by the winter.

THE BUSINESS MAN.

"If a young man does not find romance in his business, it is not the fault of the business, but the fault of the young man. Consider the wonders, the mysteries, connected with the recent developments in that most spiritual of all agents — electricity, with its unknown, and, perhaps, even unguessed powers. He must indeed be a dull and prosaic young man who, being connected with electricity in any of its forms, is not lifted from humdrum business to the region of the mysterious. Business is not all dollars. These are but the shell—the kernel lies within, and is to be enjoyed later, as the higher faculties of the business man, so constantly called into play, develop and mature. He must possess one of the rarest qualities—be an excellent judge of men—he often employs thousands. He must know how to bring the best out of various characters; he must have the gift of organization—another rare gift; must have executive ability; must be able to decide promptly and wisely."—Andrew Carnegie in System.

A GOOD PROPOSITION.

For the past half-century Branson's coffee extract has been widely known among the British public and has obtained many awards at the leading international exhibitions. In England the Branson's essences are handled by such reputable firms as Crosse & Blackwell and E. Lazenby & Sons, and their advertisement "Call a spade a spade and Branson's coffee essence perfection" is as well known as any advertising phrase on this side of the water. In addition to a large home trade Messrs. Branson have a wide export connection and have recently entered the Canadian market. Green & Co., 23 Scott street, Toronto, are the sole agents for the Dominion, and are making a specialty of the proportion of best chicory. This preparation is recommended by the "Lan- "Sherefi" coffee, which is prepared from specially blended and high grade coffees, with the necessary proportion of best chicory. This preparation is recommended by the "Lancet," The organ of the medical profession in England, and is a good seller. Attractively packed and at a price which shows a good profit to the retailer, it is an article which up-to-date grocers find profitable and satisfactory.

MAPLE SYRUP FOR TOBACCO.

Maple syrup is used for many purposes and is appreciated in many ways, but evidently we have not yet seen the limit to the purposes to which it can be put. Tobacco manufacturers are now, some of them, using maple syrup to flavor their chewing tobacco, instead of the sweet licorice formerly employed. The Grocer learns that one large manufacturer is searching all over the Eastern Townships to secure sufficient quantity to fill his wants for the coming year.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

Picture of the Montreal Soap Window—Illustration of a Good Window Display Spoiled by Goods on the Outside.

A very effective window display of Sunlight Soap was made recently at P. Campbell & Co.'s store, 42 Victoria St., Montreal, is shown in the accompanying illustration. Although the space inside the window was very narrow, yet with the aid of "staging" the dresser was able to show what could be done under such difficulties.

At the back three large posts were erected with cross bars at the top. These were covered with colored paper, and white tape was used to carry out the decorative idea. At the base large cartoons of Sunlight were placed, while 5-cent packets were so piled up that the housewife was at once attracted. The different posters, both large and small, were a great help in adding to the effect. Those of a more comic nature caused passers-by to stop, which is just what a smart poster should do. The window was arranged by one of the clerks, K. Harrison.

WESTERN FOOD SHOW A WINNER

The preparations for the coming Food Show in Winnipeg July 1-13 demonstrate that as in all matters the west will lead in push and progress. Out of a total of 70 booths, 56 have been sold and for the 14 remaining booths there are at this time more than 25 applications. The exhibits embrace every article in the food line and the exhibitors come from all sections of the Dominion and many from the United States.

When the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada decided to have a food show, the committee appointed to manage the exhibition determined that the show should be the largest and best ever held in the Dominion and Secretary W. A. Coulson, upon whom the main work devolved, mailed in his circulars boldly stating that "this will be the best and largest food show ever held in Canada."

In addition to the seventy booths in the main hall, the two rooms on the side of the entrance will be fitted up with exhibits. One of these, 40 x 50 ft., will be used by the Lipton Tea Importing Co., and will be fitted up as a tea garden. Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Calgary, Victoria and other cities in Canada, with Chicago, Minneapolis, Battle Creek, Pittsburg and New York in the States, will have exhibits from manufacturers seeking the trade of Western Canada. The Association will meet in convention at the show and this has been one of the features not overlooked by wise manufacturers.

The show will be conducted as a strictly high grade, dignified, food exhibition and no vaudeville stunts will mar its business methods.

Winnipeg and the west is young, but its growth is the wonder of the world. The Retail Merchants' Association is young, but in a trifle over two years has grown from 26 to 1,800 members and while this is the first food show they have held, it will demonstrate how things are done in the west.

BACON CURING IN ENGLAND.

The first of two lectures on bacon curing was delivered by Mr. Loudon M. Douglas, of 3 Lauder Road, Edinburgh, at the Borough Polytechnic, London, on May 15th, and there was a considerable attendance. The lecture was illustrated with original lantern slides, which lent a degree of interest to it not otherwise to be attained. The lecturer dealt at considerable length with the various breeds of pigs grown at home and abroad, and the methods of feeding them, and animadverted on the total absence of systematic teaching of pig-breeding and bacon-curing at any of our twenty-two agricultural colleges. The absence of opportunities for acquiring this knowledge hindered the development of the business, while other nations were busy preparing more and more bacon for British markets. The imports of bacon from Denmark and Canada have gone up enormously, and when we were practically at a standstill, the Governments of these countries were using every effort to encourage bacon-curing—all the produce being intended for us. There was one co-operative farmers' factory being built at Roscrea in County Tipperary, and it would be the first of its kind in the United Kingdom. In Denmark there were thirty-three such factories and all were successful.

The bacon-curing pig did not necessarily belong to any of the recognized breeds, but might be classified as a special type. A fine cross was had by using a large Yorkshire or a Tamworth boar with Berkshire sows, but we had no definite data as to whether the reverse process would not be equally successful.

Bacon-curing might be conducted in several ways: (1) On the farm; (2) In the provision shou; (3) In the factory. On the farm and in the shop it was necessarily a simple business and involved only a little care. The lecturer proceeded to give specific data for curing in the small way. In his second lecture, which was delivered at the Borough Polytechnic, London, on May 22nd, he dealt with curing in the factory and showed many views of the processes throughout.

MILK IN REFRIGERATOR CARS.

Bringing to Montreal milk from a distance, in refrigerator cars, is the problem being tackled by Dr. McCarrey, chief food inspector of the city. Dr. McCarrey says that he is arranging to see officials of the C.P.R. and G.T.R. in regard to the matter.

About a year ago officials of the road in question waited on the hygiene committee of the city council in regard to this question. The committee was anxious that the companies should run refrigreator cars, as is done in many American cities. The companies, however, could not see their way to do as asked. They explained that the great difficulty to be faced was to get sufficient milk to warrant the running of such cars. It is now contended by Dr. McCarrey that as the population is growing rapidly, and as the milk supply is increasing daily, the railways may be induced to look on the matter in a different light.

Dr. McCarrey explained that if milk was brought to the city in refrigerator cars it would be in far better condition than when hauled into the city in baggage cars. Arrangements could be made that the milk vendors be at the stations the moment the refrigerator cars arrived. The result would be that citizens would get milk quite cool and in good state. It might also be possible to get milk vendors to construct milk carts in a manner that they would hold a certain amount of ice. Such a system would also do much towards preserving the milk.

STOPPED CUTTING PRICES.

Grocers who complain of the rate cutting and associations which aim to have manufacturers of food products fix and maintain the retail price of their goods are citing the instance of the N. K. Fairbank Company of Chicago and the way it recently handled a rate cutter. It appears that recently a certain grocers advertised cottolene at cut rates, and as that was one of the products sold at a fixed rate, the local grocers' association made complaint to the company. Investigation showed that the advertiser was merely trying to work off some old stock and rather than have him do so at cut prices the company took it off his hands and replaced it with new.

NEWFOUNDLAND TAKES GOOD FLOUR.

It is interesting to note that in Newfoundland the flour most in demand of late years has been of a high grade—Manitoba patent, American Spring patent and second patent being chiefly in request. This is a marked change for the better, and has taken place during the last fifteen or twenty years. Formerly the United States had a practical monopoly of the fishery market, supplying it with low-grade flour such as what was then known as New York Supers and Twos.

"For fishery supplies" says E. D. Arnaud, "the lowest grade now required is winter wheat 90 per cent. The bulk of this flour is imported from the United States, say 2-3 American and 1-3 Ontario wheat. Winter wheat patents are not wanted in any quantity, the demand now being for either Manitoba patent of American Spring wheat patent, the consumers having arrived at the conclusion that with the latter flours they get better results, and more bread than from the soft winter wheats.

"Manitoba patents and second patents are becoming more popular each year, and it would appear that in time they will, to a large extent, shut out the American Spring wheat flours The demand during the fall of 1906 was altogether in favor of the former in the cash trade, but as the American flour was quoted lower than the Manitoba it suited the merchants better for supply purposes and the credit trade, there being a larger margin of profit on the same."

H. Gilbert Nobbs, Canadian manager of Holbrooks Ltd., was in Winnipeg last week, a guest at the Royal Alexandra Hotel.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Cheese continues firm at prices which are about the same as those which ruled last week. There seems to be no end in sight, the market looking strong for the future as far as can be seen. Lower prices than now rule are bound to come, but dealers are beginning to wonder when. At the country boards stiff prices have been paid all along, and as a result any business transacted has been at figures which are rather high for this season.

As before stated, short sales have been responsible in a measure for the advanced figures quoted, while another factor in the situation is the surprisingly cool weather. With June here to-morrow we should, in the natural order of things, begin to experience warm weather, when the make of cheese will be larger and prices will be lower.

To date the make of cheese has not been nearly as large as last year. Board of Trade figures give receipts for the week ending May 25 as 22,519 boxes against 42,673 boxes for the same week in 1906, which figures out a decrease of 20,154 boxes. Total receipts of cheese for 1907 are given 79,434 boxes, against 126,088 boxes for 1906, again a decrease, this time of 46,654 boxes. It will be seen that the make this year is nearly 50,000 boxes behind what it was for the same period in 1906.

Some trading is being done with the Old Country, but importers are forced to pay the price if they wish to obtain the goods. Outgoing boats have not, however, taken the cargoes they should have at the end of May.

An improvement in the situation will be welcomed by all engaged in the cheese trade, as with matters in their present shape, business cannot help but be unsatisfactory.

It is now practically the first of June but receipts of grass butter have been very small. Under ordinary circumstances supplies of new grass butter would be quite large at this time, but this year cold weather and other things have served to delay the arrival of the butter which is so much in request. Such as has arrived is almost entirely Eastern Townships.

If cold weather has interfered with the cheese trade it has certainly damaged the butter industry considerably. The season is away later than it should be. The cows are reported in very poor condition, and the flow of milk is unsatisfactory. The cows have been turned into the stable every night, and have been fed on feed just as though winter were at its height. There has been no grass to speak of and until there is, conditions will not be remedied. Before warm weather comes there can be no grass, therefore butter merchants cannot have summer temperatures too soon.

Receipts are increasing week by week, but are still away behind last year. Board of Trade figures indicate receipts for last week to be 4,871 packages, against 15,130 for same week in 1906 or a decrease of 10,259 packages. Total receipts for 1907, 15,522 packages, and for 1906 to this date, 44,253 packages; a decrease of 28,731 packages. It will be noticed that the receipts for one week last year almost equal the make for the entire season to the present this year. This will give one some idea as to the small make thus far in 1907.

All the butter which has arrived has been disposed of very easily. Most of it has come by express, although some freight arrivals are now being sold. It is expected that stocks will begin to accumulate in the near future, when lower prices will rule.

It has not been possible to do any business with the Old Country up to the present, our prices being quite too high to interest English buyers. They are gradually reaching an export basis, however, and when they are sufficiently low there is likely to be some trading.

In a way, it is just as well at present that we are not called upon to supply the English market. Receipts are too small to more than cover local trade.

Advices from England report a fairly steady market. English houses are disposing of the remains of Colonial butter held, and are using Irish, Danish, and some Russian as well.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The price of live hogs is higher again this week and if the farmers want proof that there is no combine among the packers they have it in the variableness of the prices being paid. They range from $6.75 to $6.90. The deliveries of hogs also are at about the highest point this year to date, 33,000 or over last week. Another noticeable feature of the trade is that the hogs are running heavy, showing that the farmers have been holding back for higher prices and "doing" the packers conscientiously.

The deliveries, however, are what might be expected in Canada, normally about the last of May, and the fair assumption is that farmers are into the hog-raising about as usual.

The Old Country market has not been improved upon last week, but remains firm, due partly to the fact that stocks of Canadian bacon on the other side are still in small compass and will continue so until the hogs bought since the improvement of the market appear in the form of bacon, and that will be three for four weeks yet. Canadian is still quoted at 60s. to 64s. The Danes are still keeping up their supplies at the rate of 35,000 to 40,000 hogs a week.

The domestic market for products is stiffening, due to increasing demand and the advancing price of hogs, coupled with the encouragement given packers to direct their product again for export. The firmness is specially marked in smoked meats and lard. The latter is about ½c. better. Demand in every direction is very satisfactory and packers are hopeful of higher prices. There is not much business coming east from the Canadian Northwest. The American markets having gone lower, makes it difficult for Canadian packers to hold their own.

Reviewing the American provision market for last week the Journal of Commerce says:

"The past week has not been characterized by any general activity or material change in prices, though early week the future markets sympathized with the grain markets, but the packers did not seem to encourage this, fearing that it will pull up the hog market also; and after a moderate advance futures turned weak and declined under fairly liberal receipts throughout the west, and became more active at the lower prices than they were early week on the higher ones as the trade balked at higher prices than the present ones for products and were more inclined to sell short when the market turned weak at the low ones. The present increased volume of receipts seems likely to hold for some time to come, and it is manifestly to the packers' interests to keep hogs as low as possible until receipts let up."

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS.—Demand for pork products is increasing and this, with the heavy advance in raw product is imparting a very firm tone to the market. This is especially true of smoked meats. Lard stocks seem to be in small compass and prices are tending higher. Dressed hogs are up 25c.

CHEESE.—Demand for new cheese is very limited here as yet, which doubtless is a good thing for the public digestion. Old cheese is held at higher figures.

EGGS.—Receipts are plentiful and the packers having got the bulk of their future supplies put away at high prices, are backing up a little and competition in buying is not so keen and prices in the country are sagging. Jobbers selling prices however remain firm with a slight tendency in spots to advance. The cool weather keeps the eggs in first-class condition and the shrink is scarcely greater than it was early in April. Consumption is heavy.

One reason why packers are seeking to get eggs cheaper is that the price in Chicago is so low that the Manitoba and western fall trade, which is a considerable factor in the Ontario packers' business, is being threatened by American competition. Eggs are now selling in Chicago at 14½c., with the cases thrown in.

HONEY.—It seems a little early to talk of honey crop prospects, but it is said the bees in many parts did not winter well. The crop season last year was wet and the production was very short. Honey men say such a condition makes some bee men careless. Present business is slow and prices are merely nominal.

NEW AGENCY.

The new firm of manufacturers' agencies, Martin & Wetmore, St. John, N.B., starts out with experienced men. R. H. Martin was for twenty years with Gowans, Kent & Co., Toronto, and represented his firm in the Maritime Provinces for nearly that time. He is a thoroughly posted crockery and glassware salesman and hasn't a bad friend in the trade. "Bob" Martin knows his goods and his trade knows him. Mr. W. J. Wetmore was for a long time with O. J. Warwick & Co., the St. John wholesale crockery house, having represented them in P.E.I. and Cape Breton. With the training, experience and connection they have, Martin & Wetmore ought to "make good" and The Canadian Grocer wishes them good luck.

Messrs. Crawford and Grasset are two new travelers on the road for Leon Fontanel, Montreal. The former will cover Ontario and the latter Quebec.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Wheat Prices in the Clouds—Flour in Big Demand—Oats Firm—Good confectionery a Profitable Line to Handle.

The wheat market is still watching anxiously the crop reports and the highest price for July wheat in Chicago was reached this week. Prices have advanced 25c. since April 4, about seven weeks. That means an advance of $1.25 on the raw product of a barrel of flour. No one can, however, forecast the future. Some say the western wheat acreage will not be greatly reduced; others aver it will be as large as last year. Then much depends on the weather during the next few weeks. In Ontario the reports are almost as conflicting. About the minimum estimate is half a crop of fall wheat.

The effect on products is naturally to make prices very firm. There has not been any further advance this week, but the millers see it coming if wheat prices keep up. While on the present level of prices there is no export business passing, except to Newfoundland, the millers report a very heavy demand from all parts of Eastern Canada. The retail trade has been buying heavily against the expected advance and the millers state that the higher prices have not hindered business. One miller gave an offhand quotation at the top of the market to Newfoundland, and it was snapped up on the instant..

Cereal products of wheat and oats continue at unchanged prices but the market is very firm. The outlook for oats is very bullish. Ontario stocks are exhausted. The west has some but may require most of them for seed and the increased number of stock. In the Stat?s the outlook is not promising.

They find it difficult in some instances to have their goods shipped, owing to congestion in railway traffic, but on the whole are meeting with satisfaction. FLOUR—Quotations remain as last week, but a further advance of 20c. is promised, if wheat prices hold. Millers doing principally a domestic trade, say business is very brisk and that while there has been heavy retail buying against the advance, higher prices have not seemed to check the movement.

THS LATE WILLIAM BAYLEY.

A Prominent Merchant—A Gifted Writer—An Honorable Man.

In the death of William Bayley, formerly of Manchester, England, but for the last 30 years a resident of Toronto, another link is removed between the old business world and the new. Born in Manchester in 1832, Mr. Bayley came to Canada in 1856 when he was 24 years old. He had married the year before the granddaughter of Major-General Braybrooke, at that time commandant of troops and pro tem Governor-General of India. After arriving in Montreal Mr. Bayley was not long in finding congenial employment and recognition in commercial circles, and finally entered into the export business in produce, in which he was successful from the start. The outbreak of the American War, however, affected all trade so disastrously that he was forced to discontinue, and having always had a strong affection for, and high conception of, the possibilities for trade in Ontario, he decided to leave Montreal and settle in Toronto. Accordingly, in 1868 he started again as a broker—an occupation then unknown in the Queen City—and while thus engaged took an active interest in all political questions touching the commercial interests of the country.

While declining any material recognition, he had so thorough a grasp of the necessities of the young country and was able to advance such practical suggestions and remedies for the prevailing handicap of the United States competition and their constantly threatening control of the home market, that he soon enjoyed the confidence of the leaders of the Government, and was constantly consulted on these points and on many occasions organized the trade into influential and representative deputations. He was also largely instrumental in establishing the custom now in vogue of the Government "inviting" their expression of changes necessary before framing new tariffs.

One of the largest interests held by Mr. Bayley was that of W. C., now Sir William, Macdonald, whose interests he represented in Toronto from his earliest connection with that city and for whose phenomenal trade throughout the Dominion he was in part responsible.

Mr. Bayley was a man whose talents were not confined to the conducting of a successful business, and whose mind was not centred upon commercial affairs to the exclusion of everything else. He was possessed of high literary ability, having published, before he came to Canada, a novel entitled "Mills, Mines and Masters," which depicted the abuses of the operators and attracted a good deal of attention at the time. He was a constant contributor to the daily press upon political and other subjects, his style being always forceful and to the point. Prior to his coming to this country he took an active and leading part in the popular debating clubs and various press discussions on matters political. His opinion upon all matters relating to trade was sought after and valued by men to whom its worth had many times been proved. He was one of the most honorable of men, scrupulously fair in his dealings with others, temperate in his opinions, with a wide knowledge of men and affairs outside his own immediate sphere of work, the relations existing between business and all those with whom he came in contact were particularly happy. In the hearts of his innumerable friends his death leaves a blank that cannot easily be filled.

MEN.

God give us men. The time demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who can stand before a demagogue
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking.

—Dr. Holland.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Trade Brisk in All Lines—Strawberries in Heavy Supply—Navels Retiring—"Fremona" Lemon Sales—Potatoes a Minus Quantity.

Improved weather conditions are responsible for the increased interest in all lines of fruit and produce throughout the country. Strawberry receipts are heavier than they have been for some time and the stock is noticeably improved. The fact that the New York market has been adequately supplied from the North Carolina crop and that few complaints on the score of quantity have been heard from either Montreal or Toronto, shows that the yield has been up to the average. New York has an option on shipments ahead of Toronto and Montreal, and any shortage in the crop must therefore be borne by these cities. This year complaints as to quality have been innumerable, but the supply appears to have been sufficient. Some Toronto firms have averaged 3 and 4 cars a week steadily. The first of the Maryland berries will soon be on the way.

Navel oranges are rapidly dropping out of the market, and the late Valencias are expected from California within three weeks. These being practically a seedless orange, are well fitted to take the place of the navel crop. $20,000 worth of California Valencias were sold by one firm last season.

Pineapple quotations are now at their lowest, and the demand is very heavy. Owing to the initial lateness of Cuban pines there will probably be no break this season between the last of the Cubans and the commencement of the Florida crop. The latter generally rule from 75 cents to $1 per case higher than Cubans.

The Fremona lemon sales were held in Montreal Monday and attracted buyers from all parts of the country. Two brokers from New York bought heavily, probably for shipment to the west. The prices averaged higher than for any sale within the last five years, $2 to $4.20 per case being offered, according to quality. The fruit as a whole was in good condition, but some seconds, Audalusian brand especially, were wasty and unsound. The cargo consisted of about 45,000 boxes, but of these, 27,000 or more were private importations, having only about 18,000 for public sale. There was a proportionately smaller number of November cuts than usual, probably owing to the exceptionally heavy local demand in Messina. Purity brand averaged $3.20 to $3.35. Canadians ran as high as $4.20.

Potatoes are scarcer than ever, and last week's retail quotations are now only to be obtained on car load lots. There are practically no offerings of any sort, and while it was expected that the high prices would bring out all stocks held by the farmers in anticipation of a better market, these hopes have not been realized, and the demand having been stimulated by the cooler weather has only served to rub in the agony the harder.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Considering the weather and the high prices that rule, business is good. Oranges are firm but there are no price changes to note. California navels are nearly finished, but the first of the late Valencias from that district are beginning to arrive. These are offered at $5 to $5.50 a box. There Havana pineapples are arriving freely and are selling at $3 to $4 according to condition. There is not much doing in apples, which are nearly finished. Lemons are firm. VEGETABLES—Business is picking up with the warm weather and good sales have been made during the past week. Florida celery is out of the market while tomatoes from the same district are nearly finished. Egyptian onions are selling fairly well. Sweet potatoes are slow. Rhubarb is easier, owing to increased receipts, the prices now asked ranging from 75 cents to $1. Green and wax beans are higher. Asparagus is lower. FRUIT—Trade is reported satisfactory in all lines. Navel oranges are becoming very scarce, and in a few weeks will be out of the market. Grape fruit is now quoted only by one or two firms. Lemons are in plentiful supply from the Montreal sales and remain firm under a steady demand. Pineapples are probably at rock bottom prices. Strawberries are firmer as no quality and a little easier as to price.

VEGETABLES—The cold weather has put a damper on trade generally, and most small dealers are taking a holiday from work—not of choice, but of necessity. Potatoes are a scarce article, and, from the looks of things, likely to continue so. Only one car of new potatoes has so far been received in the city, but full supply is not looked for before the 20th of June. They will probably open at about $4 per barrel or 50 cents a peck. Egyption onions are almost out of the market. New cabbage is very scarce and rising in price. The first of the Tenessee cabbage should be along shortly.

FISH—Trade is unusually brisk for the time of year, due to the recent cold snap in the weather. Trout and white fish are moving out fastest of the fresh-caught lines. Lake Erie white fish are very hard to get. Halibut seems to command the readiest sale of anything in the fish market. One wholesaler intends to handle a car a week if possible through the season.

GROCERY NEWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

Ice Impedes Navigation and Some Out-of-the-Way Places Are Short of Foodstuff—Markets Firm and Brisk Business is Passing—Notes.

Halifax, N.S., May 27.

The tone of the grocery markets is very firm. There is a fair business passing, but trade is restricted to some extent by ice conditions, particularly on the Cape Breton. There is a great scarcity of provisions at some of the more remote settlements and stocks are very low. It is impossible to get goods to these places and it is likely that some days will elapse before navigation to places is completely open. When the coast is clear of ice trade will receive a great impetus, though at the present time jobbers are not offering any complaint as to business. The butter market is a little easier, and the receipts of small tubs of dairy butter are increasing. Cheese is unchanged. New made is bringing from 12½ to 13½ cents per pound, and the market is firm at these prices. The receipts of eggs during the week were small. The demand is good. There is no scarcity, however. They are now quoted at 17 cents. It is thought that many will put in cold storage at these figures.

SUGAR.—The sugar market is very strong and the outlook is for higher prices. Sugar to-day is fully 35 cents per hundred pounds higher than it was at the same time a year ago. The prices quoted here are as follows :

Cut Loaf, (barrels)	$5.15
Extra Granulated	4.60
Austrian Granulated	4.50
Bright Yellow	4.40
No. 1 Yellow	4.10

MOLASSES.—Molasses is jobbing steadily and prices are very firm. The quotations in Halifax are :

Fancy Trinidad	39c.
Fancy Porto Rico	37 to 38c.
Extra Choice Porto Rico	39c.
Choice Trinidad	35 to 36c.
Fancy Barbados	32 to 33c.
Barbados	29c.

The grocers are now much interested in the condition of the flour market, the recent advances having upset the calculations of many of them. Some of the jobbers here have been unable to get quotations from the Ontario millers for the delivery of flour during the summer months. The jobbers' quotations here follow :

Hard wheat patents	$5.25 to $5.30
Seventy per cent	4.70 to 4.75
Eighty per cent	4.55 to 4.65
Ninety per cent	4.35 to 4.40
Straights	4.15 to 4.20

FISH.—The first fresh of the season on the Nova Scotia coast struck in at Englishtown, C.B., in large quantities last week and some phenomenal catches were made. The fish are of fine quality for the spring run. All grades of fish are very firm, and prices rule high. The fishing on the Banks so far is fair, but the shore fishing is dull and the catches are very small. Large shore cod (ex store) are quoted at $8 and small at $6.50. Shore cod (ex vessel) $5.75, and Bank $5.50, haddock $4, herring from $3.50 to $3.75, and mackerel No. 2 $13 to $13.50. Lobsters are very scarce and command high prices. One of the D. A. R. steamers took 657 crates of live lobsters from Yarmouth to Boston last week, which sold for $14 for large and $11 for small. There is a fairly good supply of fresh fish on the market. Fresh salmon is quoted at 25 cents per pound, retail.

G. A. Holt, a farmer, of Hillaton, King's County, N.S., is planting forty acres of a new variety of potatoes known as the "Scotch Magnet." It is said to be a fine producer, a good marketable tuber, and will likely supersede the other varieties hitherto grown.

GROCER AS GAMBLER.

An Old Jobber's Views on the Future Business—Retailers' Troubles.

"There was a time when a grocer was a grocer, pure and simple," said a prominent old time jobber the other day, "but that time has passed, I am sorry to say. If a grocer to-day means to have any part in the game of business success he must become a speculator and in no small measure a gambler.

"There was a time when the manufacturer made his goods on the basis of what he guessed he could make and finance and then sell. He took the product into the open market and sold it for what it was worth. The jobber who wanted the goods took them off his hands at whatever price they could dicker out and, when those were sold to the trade, the jobber went in again and bought as much more as his trade demanded.

All Things Are Becoming New.

"But this has all changed. To-day the successful jobber has to study the trade and crop conditions far ahead of time ; he must make as shrewd a guess as he can six months hence and then contract with a manufacturer, who has also gambled according to his own best light, for whatever goods he thinks he will need to carry him through a whole season. He knows that in ordering futures he can no longer do as he formerly did, go and get more whenever he wants them. He lies awake at night forming his opinion, then he ties up capital enough to jeopardize his financial stability, perhaps, and follows it by lying awake a few more nights wondering whether or not he has guessed right. It isn't business ; it's downright gambling ; gambling, this trade in futures. But the whole business appears to hang on it to-day."

The Retailer's Troubles.

The retailer is troubled by the future problem, probably less than the manufacturer and jobber, but he has other problems of the time, quite as baffling. One of them is the rapid multiplication of branded goods. Not a day passes with the retailer without a visit from the drummer of some new-fangled food product, for which all sorts of future glories are painted, as a preliminary to making the grocer lay in a line. Naturally, the retailer has grown wary. He has already probably 20 or 30 lines of breakfast foods, for instance, all more or less perishable goods and all involving the locking up of good money on doubtful sales. His problem is one of constant watchfulness, else he finds his store littered with a variety of foods he cannot sell and in many cases, probably, never will.

Manufacturer Pushes the Fight.

And right there the manufacturer starts on the warpath to make the road of the retailer even more difficult. If he cannot make the retailer lay in the goods voluntarily, he will force him to. So he starts a campaign of advertising all over the country, pushing his goods and keeping the name before the consumer so prominently that it inevitably creates a curiosity to try them. Naturally, the retailer hears from it. He knows that it is a fad which will last perhaps a few months or until the next pusher starts a similar campaign to substitute a new product ; yet, with a sigh, he writes the manufacturer to send him down a line. A lot of his good money goes into investment, but he knows that his competitor will do it if he don't. Most likely they both will.

All of which may be good business on the part of the manufacturer ; but in view of the tremendous increase in the number of competing brands on the market and the statistics of failures among retail grocers, it offers food for reflection as to whether, in the long run, the retailer is altogether blessed by his friend the manufacturer who "makes a market for his own goods."

The Commercial Travelers' Association of Toronto are taking up subscriptions for three cots in the Muskoka Sanatorium at Gravenhurst. The travelers, as a rule, are very benevolent fellows and are responding nobly to such a worthy cause to try and stamp out the ravages of consumption.

Are You Sure That You Are Handling The Right Cigars?

There's a reasonable doubt, Mr. Grocer, unless you are handling the cigars that made Granby famous from sea to sea. Ordinarily good cigars there are in abundance; but cigars nearly as good as are not on the Canadian market anywhere near the price.

PHARAOH is widely known as the king of all ten cent cigars. It compares favorably with the best sold at fifteen.

PEBBLE is better than most ten cent cigars and retails at five.

There's a Profit story connected with my way of doing business which every man in the trade should know. Are you posted?

COST OF DOING BUSINESS

Canadian Grocer will be pleased to receive communication on this subject: An American Example.

The cost of doing business has been discussed a good deal in The Grocer, but there are many men who don't know what it is in their own case. The Grocer will be pleased to receive communications on this subject, for it is of very great moment to every grocer, especially to those—and their name is legion—who do not try to know what it is costing them to do business. Following is an illustration taken from the Modern Grocer, with comment by "a successful grocer" :—

How Its Works Out.

Let us see, now, what we can make of this showing ; maybe we can learn something. The business for the 16 months of its existence shows up an average volume of $5,533.60 per month. This seems to me to indicate a steady growth, for it probably was not nearly so good at the beginning as it is now. The difference between what was there at the beginning and what is there now, is $2,411. That is, 2.72 per cent. on sales and 25.38 per cent. on the investment, or about 16 2-3 per cent. per annum.

My friend puts in most of his proper expenses, except his own salary, as he states ; but he omits the 6 per cent to be paid on his capital. This runs up to $760 for the 16 months. He must also takes $208,86 from his furniture and fixture as the 10 per cent. allowance on them. This should be one-third more, only I am allowing for the gradual accumulation of the stuff. There is a further figure of $200 to come off for the 20 per cent. allowance on horses and wagons. By the time these things come off, he will have left a legitimate profit, or actual net gain of 1.36 per cent. on sales, or about 8 per cent. on his capital, or actual investment. It should be noted in passing that his interest charge from this inventory onward will amount to $709.80 annually, being 6 per cent. per annum on his investment as it stands now—$11,830.

Too Small Front.

The total expense account will now be seen to have amounted to not only the $10,924.94 for which he accounts, including his own salary ; but $12,092.80, including the items of expense I have added. This expense account apportioned over the $88,500 of sales, figures up an expense of 12 2-3 per cent. Add now, the 1.36 per cent. we have left as net gain, and we find our total margin has only been a trifle over 15 per cent. gross. This is too little—same as 8 per cent. is too small a remuneration for money invested in such a business as groceries at retail. So long as money can be invested in safe enterprises at from 6 per cent. to 7 per cent., no man is justified in taking a mercantile risk for any such percentage as 8 per cent. My friend must "jack up" his percentage; for it can readily be seen that his own personal expenditures have been light. He could not find many men who could conduct such a business successfully for $109 per month, as he has done.

Can't Realize on Market Advances.

But this is still a good showing because it is so clear and we know so well where our friend stands. I think his trouble is the same as that with which other of the smaller merchants have to contend. I refer to the impossibility of realizing on the advances of the market which are now taking place all around us. A grocer buys on a low market expecting to benefit by the advance. He calls it "protecting himself." That term might be all right if !uch protection were all he was really after. The right might be all right if such protection but the reaping of the benefit of his own foresight in investing his money in advance of need. Trouble is, that your neighbor also bought about the same time and he will not advance with the market until he is compelled to buy again. You have to follow suit and you are feeding yourselves ths short end of the deal all the time, for your investment grows without any corresponding growth of capital. When the decline comes you will find it necessary to drop your prices quickly enough; and thus you will lose out at both ends of the string. Under such conditions the wonder is not that the grocery business is such a poor business, but that any of us are able to weather the storm at all. Let us learn to sell goods for what they are worth on the market to-day to replace them. Let us imagine we are buying every article just before we sell it; then we shall make a little more of a fair profit as we go.

GROCERS' RIGHT TO ORGANIZE.

View Expressed by Dakota Judge in Decision Against Mail Order House.

Montgomery, Ward & Co., a Chicago mail order house, brought suit for an injunction against the South Dakota Retail Merchants' Association, because that body decided not to deal with wholesalers and jobbers who sold to mail order houses. Judge Garland, in handing down his decision in favor of the retailers, said in regard to the retailers' rights to take organized action:

"It also fairly appears from the evidence that the retail dealers have agreed among themselves that they will not purchase any merchandise from wholesalers and jobbers who sell to catalogue or mail order houses. It does not appear, however, that said retail dealers intend to do anything in connection with the matters in controversy different than they have done already. It must be remembered that the retail dealers and complainant are competitors in business and that the retail dealers have committed the acts, shown by the evidence, for the purpose of protecting their own interests, so that the retail dealers do not stand in the position of a combination of persons would who had no interest of their own to protect. It is impossible to reconcile all the decisions bearing upon the authority of a court of equity to restrain, by injunction, combinations of persons having for their object an interference with the business of another. So far as the acts done by the combination are concerned, each case must be judged by its own facts.

"An examination and consideration, however, of the numerous cases bearing upon the question at issue has convinced the court that before a court will enjoin the commission of acts by a combination of persons which interfere with the business of another, the court must find that the acts are unlawful. For damage arising from the commission of lawful acts, the law affords no remedy. The facts in evidence of this hearing show that the retail dealers have agreed among themselves, that they will not purchase merchandise from wholesalers and jobbers who sell to catalogue or mail order houses; that they have corresponded with jobbers and wholesalers, stating that the retail dealers were opposed to said wholesalers and jobbers selling to catalogue and mail order houses, and have requested the former not to sell to the latter. Are these acts of the retail dealers unlawful? Do they show unfair trade competition? Is persuasion unlawful when considered with reference to the facts of this case, or, in other words, is persuasion unfair competition? Upon the answer to these questions depends complainant's right to a temporary injunction.

"That the retail dealers have a right to agree among themselves that they will not purchase merchandise from wholesalers and jobbers who sell to catalogue and mail order houses, cannot be denied, and it necessarily follows that they have the right to inform each other as to what wholesalers and jobbers do sell to catalogue or mail order houses. The question in this case is, what may they do in addition, to influence the wholesalers and jobbers not to sell to the catalogue houses?

"It must be conceded that complainant has the right to transact and carry on its business free from intimidation or coercion; that this is a property right and that a combination to interfere with this right otherwise than in fair competition must show justification. The American cases, however, when carefully considered, show that the great weight of authority in the United States is in favor of the proposition that it is not unfair competition, intimidation or coercion for a combination to interfere with this right by persuasion or any peaceable means.

"It thus appears that the retail dealers have done nothing nor threatened to do anything which is actionable."

WHERE MEAT IS ALL GOOD.

In some expert literature now being issued by a German meat packer, the following, headed "Special Postscript," is given on a pink sticker:

"In view of the Chicago meat scandals it is desirable to point out that such things could not happen in Germany, where every animal has to be slaughtered at the municipal abattoir after having been medically examined.

"If any unsoundness is detected the animal is immediately confiscated by the Government and destroyed.

"All meat is subject to the same strict examination before being admitted into the factory.

"My buyers can therefore be assured of the perfect wholesomeness of the edibles I prepare."

Isn't there in this a suggestion for Canadian packers?

During the nine months ending with March, 1905, the United States shipped to Great Britain canned beef to the value of $3,814,000. During the nine months ending March last, Great Britain took only $591,000 worth. That much for the beef scandal.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S TRADE PASSING TO THE AMERICANS

Is Canada Living up to Her Reputation as a Hustling Community?

Newfoundland, an island, three times as large as Holland, twice as large as Denmark, one-sixth larger than Ireland, twice the size of Nova Scotia, one-third larger than New Brunswick, and almost equal to the State of New York, is being neglected by Canada. And what is worse, and a bitterer pill to swallow, the proportion of trade which Canada is losing is passing into the hands of Americans.

This is a recent development. In 1903, the United States sold Newfoundland goods to the value of $2,920,914, which was an odd $51,000 ahead of the Dominion. In 1904, the American houses increased their trade by $70,000, but Canada increased hers by over half a million, and led the Americans by nearly the same amount. A year later the showing made was even more satisfactory, Canada beating her own figures by $682,335, and administering a severe and, what looked like a conclusive, thrashing to the States, in the shape of doing in eight months as much business as the latter had done in twelve. Then the change took place, Canada a Bad Second.

As 1906 progressed, it was no difficult matter to see that Canada was being passed by the States, as if she was standing still. The official returns for the year showed that Canada had not only lost her lead, but was more than half a million dollars behind, and this notwithstanding the fact that her imports, with the exception of 1905, were greater than they had been for five years. The table of Newfoundland's imports given below will show the details of this fight for trade more convincingly than words can tell them, and in looking them over it is worth noticing the remarkable consistency of the imports from the United Kingdom, which have not varied to any considerable extent in five years :—

Year Imports	United States	United Kingdom	Dominion of Canada	Other countries	Total Trade
1902	$2,501,806	$2,244,178	$2,612,042	$478,659	$7,836,685
1903	2,920,914	2,143,464	2,869,879	545,687	8,479,944
1904	2,991,022	2,497,138	3,423,255	537,249	9,448,664
1905	2,750,144	2,657,208	4,105,589	766,352	10,279,293
1906	3,609,192	2,651,196	3,521,839	631,947	10,414,274

The island recognizes no tariff discriminations or preferences, placing all imports on an equal footing, and being prepared to buy in the best market. Is there any reason, then, why Canada should be content to take second place in securing her share of this trade, which the Newfoundlanders are ready to distribute so impartially?

The Present Situation.

The year 1906 was, without exception, the most prosperous and successful in the annals of the island. Alike in its fiscal operations, in its commerce, in its fisheries, and its general industrial movement, its affairs showed a marked expansion. Its people have reached a degree of comfort previously unattained, and there seems no reason to doubt a continuation of these very gratifying conditions.

Principal Exports.

The principal commodities exported by Newfoundland during the fiscal year 1905-6 were as follows :—

	Quantity.	Value.
Dried cod (quintals)	1,481,025	$7,864,719
Seal skins (No.)	283,400	314,048
Seal oil (tuns)	3,741	297,430
Herring, pickled (brls)	66,716	208,264
Herring, frozen and bulk (brls.)	79,314	135,601
Lobsters (cases of)	31,328	376,490
Salmon, pickled (tierces)	4,924	88,005
Salmon, fresh (lbs.)	251,156	17,931
Whale oil (tuns)	3,780	222,761
Whalebone		27,140
Lumber (ft.)	13,404,000	176,157
Iron (tons)	768,430	768,430
Copper	71,054	375,520
Pyrites	53,974	334,075
Slate	3,262	38,163

The estimated value of the output of the local factories is placed at over $2,000,000. The revenue of the Island Government for the year ended June 30, 1906, is put down at $2,660,805.29, and the expenditure as $2,591,235.50, leaving a surplus of $69,569.79.

The cod fishery for 1906, beginning in May and lasting until November, was rather below the average, aggregating, for the bank, shore, and Labrador fleets, about 1,200,000 quintals. The figures of the bank and shore catches are not yet available, but the export from Labrador direct to European markets was 250,887 quintals, valued at $1,030,432, or an average of $4.09 per quintal. This represents about half the quantity taken on that coast, the remainder being brought back to Newfoundland to be cured. The increase in the Labrador exportation has been gradual and substantial ever since 1900, when but 178,578 quintals were shipped direct to market; despite this the price has also increased, the average being in 1900, $3.10 a quintal, but rising gradually each year to $4.09, the total value of the export than and now being $505,476 and $1,030,432. The increase in price has more than offset the shortage in the general catch of cod, the figures for the best grade reaching $6.50 to $7.25 per quintal—higher rates than had been known for thirty years. The result has been that, stimulated by the successes of the past four or five years in the cod fishery, more of the Newfoundland people are engaging in it than ever before, and about 150 vessels have been added to the fishing fleet the past twelve months, half of them built in the colony and half purchased abroad.

There are some eighteen whale factories along the coast, taking from one to two hundred whales each annually.

Mice and matches are a bad combination. Keep them separate by all means.

It is hard to do great things in window dressing without constant practice.

THE LAW SAYS YOU MUST

Do you know that a man is obliged by law to keep a proper set of books?

The law says:

"Any man who fails and has not for five years before his failure kept proper books shall be liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year's imprisonment."

Since you must keep books of some sort, and as the law insists that you keep proper books, why not keep them properly?

It is just as easy to do a thing right as it is to do it wrong.

A QUICK TURNOVER

of his stock is what every grocer is looking for. The quicker his shelves are emptied the more profit he makes. It is, therefore, imperative that he should stock only goods which are ready sellers and goods which do not require to be pushed in order to sell them. There are no food products on the market to-day which are quicker and easier sellers than the C. & B. lines. They have quality, reputation and their price is right. The firm has been in business over two hundred years, and their goods are known all over the world. C. & B. do all in their power to help the rapid sale of their goods by giving the most uniform high quality and by advertising to the general public largely and systematically.

The Turned-Down Corners

Here and there in the Ledger of Life you have turned down the corner of a page for remembrance sake—you'd forget something if the turned-down corner wasn't there.

To-day, turn down a corner deep and wide to remember this one sure fact: "Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten." Every time you come to that particular page—remember. Every time you try to sell inferior quality, think of the turned-down corner—what it stands for, and what it really means to your success.

Dealers find Common Sense a very good seller, for the reason that it gives general satisfaction and each customer tells others about same.

Do not accept a substitute for any article advertised in these columns. Insist on getting what you ask for.

"An old colored fellow over in Brooklyn, went into a Fulton Street grocery store and asked for a can of pears. The clerk said: 'We have them at 10, 12 and 16 cents.' The buyer replied: Give me the best. I'd rather have a can of the best once in a while than to have a poorer sort often. There is the philosophy and the power resident in goods of quality. Do you think that a can of hard peas, of irregular color, muddy liquor, nasty flavor, creates an appetite for more? Or that a can of corn, tough as field corn, mushy, mawkishly sweet, ever makes a repeater? Sell goods that satisfy and beget a craving for more and you have the secret of success in the retail grocery business, for a man that sells good grub and believes in it will be qualified to meet all other demands of a good trader."

On the chance of making a few extra cents you cannot afford to sell inferior Canned Goods. Aylmer, Little Chief, Log Cabin, Horseshoe, Auto, Kent, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Lion, Thistle, Grand River and White Rose Brands are all guaranteed as to quality by the Canadian Canners, Limited.

The Wants of Women——Study Them

MR. GROCER! You may invest more money in your business; you may advertise the best lines of staple groceries on earth; you may know your trade from beginning to end; but—unless you know and study the wants of women—your business acumen will avail you nothing in the struggle for commercial supremacy. Women, consciously or no, dictate the policy of the business world, and no merchant is great or powerful enough to ignore their decision. Now, sir! since these facts are indisputable, and since the women of Canada have almost unanimously declared that of Canned Goods is peerless—beyond compare—surely you owe it to yourself to stock and talk the brand which clinches both reputation and profit. No brand of Canned Goods on the market can do more for you than Old Homestead. That much we are positive about. But the particular and economical housewifes of Canada are just as positive that is so much superior to the next best brand of Canned Goods that there is no comparison. And there are strong reasons for their belief. All the goodness of succulent fruit and fresh vegetables is retained in Old Homestead Brand. The name stands for surety of purity and that palate pleasing, appetizing flavor which has made the brand famous.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

IT PAYS TO STOCK THE BEST.

The Man Behind the Counter is the one we recognize. We want the co-operation of the retail clerks throughout the country in extending and increasing the sale of the great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

We are willing and anxious to acknowledge the service they can render us by rewarding them in direct proportion to the interest they display in pushing these goods. Our method of rewarding is "The Fairbank Plan," which is a system of couponing our specialties in such a manner that the coupons can be easily removed when the goods are sold, and giving for these coupons useful articles, the best that money can buy. Our whole aim is to give the clerks the best value we can secure.

The products embraced in "The Fairbank Plan" are easily sold because they are the best value and give the greatest satisfaction to the consumer. They increase the trade of the store and "The Fairbank Plan" rewards the dealer or his clerks for selling them.

Send for a copy of "The Fairbank Plan" illustrated premium list. It will pay you.

The success of every grocer's Tea sales alone depends on giving the public the maximum of quality at the minimum of cost.

You can do this with "SALADA" and with no other Tea.

If you think otherwise, ask yourself the question: What has given "SALADA" the enormous and ever increasing sale it now enjoys?

There isn't a grocer in existence that can buy bulk or other packet brands within 25 per cent. of the value that "SALADA" contains.

These are truthful "TALKING POINTS."

"FOR TEA, YOU CAN'T BEAT LIPTON'S"

When ever anyone says "Lipton," what do you think of? Teas, don't you?

Coffees, Jams, Pickles, Jellies and general provisions, and then you have a vague picture of a vast business concern located in London, England, with branch tentacles reaching all over the world.

Just drive this indistinct picture out of your mind.

Put this new one in its place.

In Toronto at 75 Front Street, East, is now located the Canadian office of Thomas J. Lipton, for the purpose of bringing all Canada into closer touch with the concern through this branch, which in scope and completeness, fully equals the London main office.

Everything with the Lipton signature, from Jellies to Teas, needs no promises from us.

It's good. It always was good. It always will be good.

But Lipton's Teas stand out above all the rest.

They're the same to the Tea world as Koh-I-Noors are to the world of diamonds.

Every ounce of Lipton's Tea is packed in a sealed airtight tin and remains fresh and strong until its flavor is brewed out.

Keep the new establishment in mind, and

SOME THINGS TO DO IN JUNE

Suggestions Which Every Grocer May Add to by a Little Thought—Now, as Ever, the Watchword Should be "Clean Up."

What should I do this month? That is a question every grocer should ask himself twelve times a year, and take a little time to himself to answer. If the practice were general in the trade there would be many more grocers making money. The way to do is to get pencil and paper and sit down quietly and make a list of the things to be done, aside from ordinary routine.

At the head of the list every time should be "clean up." There are retail grocers who keep a man at that alone. In other firms where several men are employed each one is made responsible for the cleanliness and appearance of a particular setion of the store. This cleaning up might not apply to such. With them it comes within the range of routine. But the average grocery in this country is not clean enough and the grocer is not particular enough about the appearance of his store, himself and his clerks.

Why Clean Up?

There are especial reasons why a grocer should clean up in June. It is the beginning of hot weather—at least we hope so—and dirt becomes offensive, not alone to the eye but to the nostrils. So have everything moved, and if there are any dark corners, jab a broom into them and see what you get. In a clean, well kept grocery there is an aromatic odor that is very enticing to trade. Aim at that result.

I talked this subject over with some practical men, and one said: "Trade gets dull about this time; so many people, more every year, going away for a vacation, and a grocer gets a chance to clean up." Not many grocers want that kind of a chance. But there are very few districts that do not get some summer visitors. Why not go after their trade? This is the time to think about it. They'll buy confectionery anyway. Get ready for them. If some customers take a cottage in some resort, or, perhaps, in some quiet place away from the beaten path, why can't the man who has their trade ten months in the year keep it for the other two. The writer went into a store the other day and found the proprietor and a large staff very busy putting up orders, most of them for summer homes, and some of them a page and a half or two pages of a long order book. Every gracer should try to follow his customer to the summer home if at all possible.

Now, about getting the stock ready for summer. All raw cereals and meals should be reduced as far as possible, and what stock of these is carried should be kept in a dry cool place. It is almost impossible to keep it free from moths, and nothing is more annoying to a customer than to get home some wormy meal.

Avoid Poisoning.

Look to the canned fruits and vegetables to see that they are not in a place where they will rust. The other day in Toronto a family was poisoned supposedly by canned tomatoes. A can secured by The Grocer from the same box looked rusty. It is altogether likely lead poisoning was responsible for the family's illness. The cause was probably a hole in the can due to rust from the outside.

The fresh fruit season is at hand. See if by taking thought your method of handling cannot be improved. Resolve anyway not to expose tender fruits, such as berries, to filth, dust and promiscuous handling on the street. Make arrangements to keep the fruit inside, but don't hide your light under a bushel; put cards in the window and advertise to the effect that your fruits are inside, away from dust and other filth. This is no new plan. It has been tried and found to work exceedingly well.

Last week were shown a couple of English suggestions for the inside arrangement and display of fruits, flowers and vegetables. They are merely suggestive, but are none the less interesting.

Sell Flowers.

Speaking of flowers, why shouldn't more grocers handle them? Supplies can be easily obtained fresh every day. In Toronto there is at least one wholesale commission house handling only cut flowers, and a large trade is done with customers outside the city. The packing and handling of the flowers has been reduced to a science. Many progressive grocers do handle cut flowers and find it well worth while, and the practice might be greatly extended.

Already many grocers have placed their orders for next season's canned goods, fruit, vegetables and fish. Many grocers object to futures, but there is a legitimate ordering ahead, and if one intends to place an order before prices are announced now is the time, when there is ample opportunity for giving the subject careful consideration. If a man is aiming to handle the best goods he knows about what he can sell, and if his order is booked early with a good wholesaler his chances are A1 for getting what he wants whether the pack be large or small, and at the opening price, which, for the best goods, is much more likely to advance than recede.

To Keep Goods Well.

At the beginning of summer some special provision should be made for the proper keeping of such dried fruits as are affected by heat. Currants, for instance, and raisins should be kept in a cool place.

What about flies? A grocery store can be kept as free of them as a house if proper attention be given to the matter. Screens on doors and windows that open are a necessity. Cleanliness inside the store is equally essential. Put under cover everything the flies will eat. Don't leave a few grains of sugar on counter or floor. A few invisible fly pads will help perhaps; but prevention is far better than cure.

This is the season of weddings and new homes. Why not get a line on this new trade? Have a "nifty" card prepared or write a nice letter to the new housekeeper, or, if you're right up against it for an idea, get into Sunday clothes and make a bold personal bid for the opening order.

A clean white linen coat and apron looks well on a grocer in summer, and his handkerchief—when he has one, and he always should—should be clean. Think upon these things.

RETAILERS' CONVENTION.

Three Days at Hamilton—Grocers' Section First Day.

The third annual convention of the grocers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada for the Province of Ontario will be held at Hamilton on Tuesday, July 2nd, 1907, commencing at 10 o'clock. Every retail grocer who has any subject pertaining to the improvement of the trade who is present, will be heard. Methods of trade organization will be considered and a meeting of unusual interest is promised. J. C. Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers for the United States, and Elisha Winter, state organizer of the Retail Merchants' Association of the States of Vermont and Massachusetts, will be present and deliver addresses.

PRIZE BREAD AS A FLOUR AD.

A SCHEME THAT WORKED WELL

A prize bread-making contest as an "ad" for flour is one of the best ideas that has come into this office in a while. It originated in Midland, one of the lower lake ports, which draws off a large share of the western wheat crop. The "ad" here reproduced was 6½ x 15 inches. Fred W. Horn, advertising scribe for J. B. Horrell & Son, Midland, tells the story in his own way, thus :

An interesting competition that brought out a hearty response was the following as planned by A. C. Carruthers, manager of the grocery department of J. B. Horrell & Son's departmental store of Midland, Ont.

In the May 22nd issue of the local papers appeared an advertisement announcing a great bread-making competition and giving a schedule of rules governing same with list of prizes which was increased to five instead of three, as originally appeared in the announcement.

Some twelve or fourteen hundred copies were distributed through the medium of the local papers, and an additional 800 dodgers in fac-simile of newspaper write-up, were distributed from house to house throughout the town.

This created immediate increased sales for the flour in question, caused much comment among the ladies and finally brought out "a big batch of bread" by eager competitors for the prizes, which were as will be seen from the circular enclosed herewith as follows; 1st, 1 barrel of Five Roses Flour; 2nd, 1-2 barrel of Five Roses Flour; 3rd, 1-4 barrel of Five Roses Flour; 4th and 5th; 1-8 barrel each of Five Roses Flour.

So great was the demand for the flour to make the trial with, that although sufficient was thought to be in stock to stand the strain, a shortage ensued which made it necessary to divide the orders to some extent.

A splendid collection of exhibits were sent in and the three lady judges had a busy afternoon's task in determining the winners. However, about 5 p.m. their report was handed to the management, who had prepared a large window card with the prize winners' names printed thereon. This, together with a neat arrangement for a window trim, including the pride bread, was placed in the window and at 8 p.m. a full half-hour previous to the time announced, a large crowd awaited the raising of the curtain and from then till 10 p.m. a continual stream of people viewed the display.

Comments were freely passed and a lively bit of verbal advertising for the store in general was the consequence.

The ladies who did the judging were, of course, kindly remembered for their assistance by way of a five o'clock lunch, gotten up in impromptu fashion, and a pretty bit of Japanese china as a present to each.

Altogether the scheme was a decided success and our friend, Mr. Carruthers, highly recommends a trial, believing it will prove a good drawing card, a lively incentive, and a good advertisement.

Arthur W. Pafford, of Davidson & Hay, Toronto, left on Wednesday for a few weeks' vacation. The Grocer and Mr. Verey's many friends in Toronto and western Ontario wish the young couple a pleasant voyage through life. On their return they will make their home at 58 Bellevue avenue.

It has certainly valuable constituents that is not generally found in any other grade and the manufacturers claim that these certain constituents are responsible for their backing up claims for their flour that defies all competition.

They endorse our action in arranging this Great Bread Competition and any claims we may make for "Five Roses" Flour will be heartily in accord with its manufacturers.

Five Roses Flour is past the experimenting point. It has been tested by thousands but we want a lot more housewives to become acquainted with its valuable points and we employ this as one scheme to more thoroughly and decisively bring it into public notice.

The House where "Quality" Predominates

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

GALT.

A well-attended meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association was held in the Galt council chamber on Wednesday evening last, President T. A. Rutherford occupied the chair.

A communication was read from Messrs. Geo. A. Clare and Lennox, members of Parliament, regarding the bill recently before the House re the formation of industrial and co-operative societies. The association was advised that this measure had been held over until next session, and this was mainly due to the efforts of the various associations throughout the country, who are, of course, strenuously opposed to the new bill. There are certain features about the measure that are not in the interests of the community at large.

Another item of interest to the general public which was discussed was regarding the watering of the streets in the business section on Sunday. On a windy Sunday the dust is a great nuisance to those going to church. It was decided, however, that an appeal should be made to the council, with a view to having this street watered at a late hour on Saturday evening. If this does not prove satisfactory, the Sunday watering will be tried. The Merchants' Association is quite willing to bear any extra expense in connection with this innovation. The plan appears to be an extraordinarily good one and might be tried with benefit in many of the surrounding towns and cities.

The question of a weekly half-holiday was also discussed at the meeting, and will be definitely decided at the next meeting.

It is expected that the association will hold a banquet in the near future. A banquet would do much towards establishing greater unity and co-operation. The matter was referred to the executive and will be taken up at an early date.

Regarding the funds for the old boys' reunion, the association decided that the members each pay into the treasury of the association such sums as they feel they can afford. The total amount collected will be handed over to the executive committee of the old boys' at the proper time.

Probably in no town in Ontario is there such a shortage of premises suitable for merchants, as that which exists in Galt at the present time. More than one prospective merchant has been compelled to locate elsewhere, owing to the unprecedented shortage.

The landlords have evidently become aware that it is time to make hay while the sun shines, and the rents on the principal business street in Galt are soaring upward. One merchant was recently informed that his rent would be raised from $360 per year to $1,000 per year. What he said is not for publication.

Tenders are being called for the erection of a three-storey brick building on South Water street, between the grocery store of Sloan Bros., and the Imperial hotel. The lower portion of the building will provide accommodation for two stores, while the upper portion will be used for offices, etc. The erection of this building will fill a long-felt want and will relieve to a certain extent the present shortage of suitable business premises.

Opineion in Galt regarding the proposed weekly half-holiday is somewhat divided. A large number of the merchants have expressed themselves as being in favor of the holiday; on the other hand, a number claim that the inauguration of the holiday would seriously conflict with business. A prominent grocer was interviewed, and during the conversation he made the following statement: "We have every day farmers come a distance of 12 or 15 miles. We do not know what days these people will arrive with produce, and should they arrive and find our store closed they would certainly think it a hardship to have to take their produce back home again."

MONTREAL.

John B. Richer is the new manager of the grocery department of Scroggie's departmental store. Mr. Richer has been with Scroggies for the past six years.

Some Montreal retailers are having trouble with their delivery men. They say they find it difficult to retain the services of a good driver for any length of time. One uptown grocer who keeps at least three or four drivers all the year round, was telling The Grocer of his troubles—he had but three men at the time—when he was called to the telephone. He came back with the information that "another one had gone." The teamsters in the city have been demanding more wages recently, and this has unsettled things a bit.

Munro & Lloyd, the newly organized firm, seem to be doing the business. The letters are now on the window and look neat.

Retail Grocers' Meeting.

The Retail Grocers' Association met Thursday evening of last week in their rooms on St. Catherine street. The attendance was better than for some time past. President Laniel occupied the chair. Other officers were all present. Mr. Laniel reported on his trip to Ottawa to confer with members of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association, and the deputation from Alexandria regarding the coming picnic. He said that everything was being arranged satisfactorily. The programme of sports was already planned and was quite an interesting one. J. A. Dore, vice-president, spoke of the advantage of holding the picnic this year in coniunction with the Ottawa grocers and the people of Alexandria. The town, he said, was putting up the majority of the prizes. Secretary Beaudry read some correspondence in connection with the liquor licenses, a very hot subject with the Montreal retailers at present. As already explained in these columns, the licenses for liquor dealers were put up by the Provincial Government in the most unceremonious fashion, and the retailers are working hard to make some new arrangement with the Revenue Department. Mr. Beaudry thought it would be better to await the return of Premier Gouin, with whom the members of the association might have an interview before taking any definite action. In this all agreed. In connection with the picnic it was decided that the association should be provided with a band on that day. Also, the assembly carried a motion to the effect that all members should be sent a letter requesting that they should close their stores the day of the picnic.

STRATFORD.

The grocers in this, the Classic City, report trade to be about the same as a week ago, but, as one grocer remarked, "The people don't seem to know just what they want." The sale of canned goods has fallen off a little during the past two weeks. People are anxiously waiting for the appearance of more green goods, garden products. Green vegetables sell at the usual price of five cents per bunch. Strawberries are, however, scarce and somewhat high in price. The season seems to be backward in the fruit line and a few grocers fear that the supply will not meet the demand.

The prices of some meats in city butcher shops have advanced. The list: Roast pork, 17c; pork chop, 17c; round steak, 15c; sirloin and porterhouse steak, 17c; roast beef, 10c to 15c; boiling beef, 7c to 8c.

The grocery firm of McCully & Haugh believe in advertising their goods in the window and they have had a number of fine displays of late. Last week they had a good display of green goods, which was much admired and this week they have dressed a neat window in baking sodas, Cow Brand and others.

There was a fair attendance at Saturday's market, but the late season still affects the offering of garden stuff. These lines, such as rhubarb, lettuce, onions, etc., sold at the usual prices of 5 cents per bunch. Potatoes are unchanged in price at 90 cents to $1 per bag. Eggs sold at 16c to 17c per dozen and butter at from 20 to 22 cents per pound. For tomato plants the price was 20 cents per box, and for cabbage plants 10 cents to 15 cents per bunch.

Thousands of dozens of eggs have been handled by the grocery firm of McCully & Haugh this season. They buy eggs from the farmers in the country for miles around, have them brought to the city, and either sell them locally or ship them to Toronto and other markets. This week they shipped 2,000 dozen eggs to Toronto firms, and during the latter part of April and the early part of May about 7,000 dozen eggs were shipped to the William Davies Co., of Toronto. The firm also sold 2,000 dozen to the Nasmith Co., Stratford, to be used for pickling, and 4,000 to Gordon Rankin, another city confectioner.

BROCKVILLE.

The market Saturday was the best attended for some time. Eggs brought 18 and 20 cents per dozen; butter, 27c.; chickens, $1 per pair.

Burglars put in an appearance here during the past week, and while visiting, started to work at Lorimer's grocery. Mr. Lorimer happened along in time to see, but not to catch them. They evidently did not like his company, as they immediately decamped on his appearance. Manahan's bakery was also visited by them. Nothing was missed from either place.

Thos. Ryan, representing Bell, King & McLaren, Montreal, brought a carload of Jumbo bananas to town last week, which were quickly disposed of.

One of the local merchants has been summoned to appear in police court for forestalling the market on Saturday last.

E. J. Peters, who for the past eight years represented Gilmour & Co., wholesale grocers, of Brockville, has resigned his position and left last week for the west to accept another one in the same line. Success to him.

A. McCrimmon, who has been in the employ of Gilmour & Co., in the office, has accepted the position as traveler made vacant by the resignation of E. J. Peters.

Miss May Robinson, who has for the past two years been clerking in McHenry's grocery, has resigned and has taken a position for life with "Mickey" George, the star hockey player. Miss Robinson and Mr. George were quietly married on May 22nd, and immediately took the train for Ottawa, where they will make their home, Mr. George holding a good position there. The bride was the recipient of a number of valuable and useful presents.

KENTVILLE, N.S.

Paradoxical as it may sound, Kentville has had a dry spring this year. And as for the temperature—why, a polar bear would have felt homesick for his native isebergs. Everyone is agreed that there never was such weather. Even the daily papers haven't exaggerated it, and Lord knows, they've done their best. Still, Kentville is a bully town and we're all proud of her. No kickers here. The trees and grass are beginning to take on a healthier color, but there has been no potato planting yet. This week, however, wind and weather permitting (a necessary proviso, these days), should see a lot done. Some rain fell recently, and this, although too cold to obtain the best results, will help things on a little. A couple of weeks ago we had a snowfall of six inches, but notwithstanding this, our trees (which seem to be of a sturdier breed than most) are already in half-leaf. A few continuously warm days would bring out the apple blossoms, but consistency seems to be the last thing we can look for in the weather, one day being hot enough to roast chestnuts in the sun, and the next so cold that we have to take the milk out of the cupboard and put it on the oven to thaw it out.

Business has been duller than ditchwater, owing to the backward season, but prospects are good. Scarcity of help seems to be the greatest drawback.

Bay of Fundy salmon are brought over fresh each morning, and are popular at 20 cents a pound. Potatoes are as scarce as June bugs in December, but when anything turns up that looks like a spud it is eagerly snapped up at 75c. per bushel.

Brother Creed is on the warpath, as usual, and gets after all the local boards as regularly as clockwork. About the middle of June, M. G. DeWolfe shakes off the dust of Kentville from his feet and departs to his den on the Sissiboo, Weymouth, where he tells us there is neither care nor trouble. Would that we could all go and do likewise.

KINGSTON.

The city of Kingston is on the advance. Two by-laws favoring a zinc and lead smelter works were carried by almost a unanimous vote of the ratepayers.

A site and exemption for ten years are granted to the Stanley Lead Co. and the Gray & Hadley Zinc Co. The Board of Trade and our civic representatives are deserving of nearly all praise due. The vote stood thus: For zinc smelter, 1,622 for, 25 against; for lead smelter, 1,623 for, 22 against.

The Government will be asked to do some dredging along the wharves near the smelter sites. Building will be commenced at once. The Zinc Co. will erect buildings to cost $125,000, and the Lead Co. about $50,000. Both will give employment to about 150 men.

The regular Saturday market was a large one, owing to the very high prices. Print butter brought 25c. to 28c., and quality not too good. "Can't understand it," said Malcom. Creamery is only worth 23c. Potatoes are $1.25 a bag; pretty hard on the grocers who contracted to supply camps and institutions at 90c. Eggs keep around 18c. and 20c., and are plentiful. Green stuff is cheap. My, what a difference there is in the size of the bunches. Take, for instance, rhubarb. Some gardeners put eight stalks, others 12 and some 20. The market clerk seized a lot of potatoes on account of being short in weight. Butter is often 14 and 15 ounces, instead of 16.

Hobart Dyde, Jas. Redden's partner, was up at Petawawa looking after details in connection with the big military camp. It is a big contract to feed those hungry soldiers, but Redden & Co. know how to do it, and will satisfy their wants.

Robinson Bros. have dissolved partnership. They are both Kingston boys and popular. One of them intends going to Cobalt to size up prospects, and may locate there.

Will Charles, now a prosperous grocer in Victoria, B.C., was a bright boy and bound to succeed. When a junior in one of Kingston's stores, he was waiting on a lady who wanted roll bacon. Will looked up pleasantly at her and said, "Do you want it in a chunk or cut in pieces?" He often laughed about it when he had more experience behind the counter.

A clerk makes a mistake when waiting on a customer by saying, "Is that all?" He should look pleasant and say, "Something else now?" or "Here is a new line just in," or "What about pineapples?" etc. Introduce goods; don't be afraid to speak up; look alive and sell goods. Remember, young man, travelers and others are sizing you up and if you have any ambition don't be scared of work. And say, be on time in the morning.

EDMONTON.

It cost Edmonton about $220,000 to keep warm last winter. This has been revealed as the result of an investigation into the size of her coal bill. The sum is about double that of the winter of 1905-1906. The increase comes from a rise of $1 on the ton of coal, and the more severe weather. Of course, the growth of the city is also a factor.

August Noel, senior member of the legal firm of Noel, Noel & Cormack, died Monday, May 20th, in the general hospital, after a few days illness from appendicitis. Deceased was 36 years of age and was married to a daughter of Mr. Justice Lavergne, of Montreal.

Lacombe, on the Calgary and Edmonton line of the C.P.R., has a building boom on its hands. Over $200,000 worth will be undertaken this year. A number of business blocks are going up. Among those who will build are the following: the Adelphi Hotel, cement, $50,000; H. Urquhart, store, $15,000; H. A. Days, stores, $15,000; Morris & Taylor, warehouse, $2,500; A. D. Watson, blacksmith shop, 700; W. F. Brett, addition to store, $2,000; C. R. Dunke, store, $2,000.

A. Archibald, the druggist, is moving into better premises on June 1st.

Manager Johnson, of the Criterion Restaurant, has been obliged to close his cafe, on account of the building being sold by the owner.

STRATHCONA.

Work is commencing on the new C.P.R. station. It is to cost $30,000. McDermot & Son, of Winnipeg, are the contractors. The C.P.R. expect to spend about $150,000 this summer in terminal improvements.

Strathcona has a daily paper now. The Chronicle edited by James Weir, formerly of Hamilton, Ont., has been enlarged from a weekly to a daily.

F. C. Jamieson, secretary of the Strathcona Radial Tramway Co., has applied to the city council for a franchise for the company. They ask for an exclusive franchise for thirty years.

Building is very active here. Over a million dollars worth will be undertaken this season. Some of the new buildings are: a hospital, $60,000; collegiate, $65,000; St. Louis Hotel, $25,000; Bank of Commerce, $20,000; brewery, $70,000; three churches, $80,000; Sheppard business block, $15,000; A. G. Baalim, ditto, $18,000.

LONDON.

The last meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association was unusually well attended.

It was decided, on the vote of a large majority of the members, that the annual picnic be held this year in Toronto. A vote was taken to decide which railroad would be patronized, and the show of hands was almost unanimous in favor of the C.P.R., the return fare, good for two days, being $2.35.

A railroad committee, composed of Messrs. Shaw, McCormick, Drake and Ryan, was appointed to complete arrangements with the railroad, and in conjunction with the executive committee to arrange the date on which the picnic will be held. It will in all probability be on Wednesday, July 24th. The railroad committee was also authorized to attend to the advertising.

Push-cart Men Must Go.

The committee appointed to wait on the city council for the purpose of exterminating the push-cart man, reported that the evil would probably die out after the expiring of the present licenses in October next, owing to the curtailing of their territory. A committee will decide on the districts from which they desire the push-carts eliminated, and the recommendations will be submitted to the council at its next meeting.

The four grocers who are opposition picnic promoters had been approached by a committee with the object of bringing about amalgamation and the holding of one general picnic. They had met with poor success, the other party preferring to retain their individuality and run their own picnic as heretofore to Niagara Falls.

Messrs. Leah, Ryan and Donehy were authorized to select and purchase a suitable gift for presentation to President Ranahan, as a token of the well wishes of the association on the occasion of his recent marriage.

The association is stronger than ever in its history, there being now 120 paid members. In fact, so far as can be learned, only four of the city grocers remain out of it.

The executive committee of the Retail Grocers' Association held a meeting last night to take action regarding a dispute with the promoter of the pure food show held here in May last year. It seems that for their efforts and influence in connection with the affair the association were to be paid five per cent. of the gross proceeds. But it is said the promoter did not find the show the success he expected, and, as a result, the association have not yet received their share of the receipts, $165. Recently a representative of the promoter came to the city and told such a woeful tale that the association agreed to accept five per cent. of the door receipts only, which would be about $55. The representative expressed his gratitude and promised prompt settlement. The promise, however, has not been made good and at last night's meeting of the executive the following resolution was adopted:

"Moved by J. Haskett, seconded by G. B. Drake, that this association regrets that Mr. E. M. Trowern has not seen fit to make satisfactory settlement in regard to amount due this association from the pure food show held here one year ago."

PETERBOROUGH.

In about ten days Wm. Stock's new bakery on Sherbrooke Street will be completed. It is to cost $2,500 and will have a capacity of 30,000 loaves every twenty-four hours, or 350 loaves per batch. R. J. Marsh, of Deer Park, Toronto, who is prominently connected with the Marsh Oven Co., is the architect and contractor and he is making an excellent job of it. The building is of solid brick, 63 feet by 34 feet and two stories high. There will be two large Marsh ovens, which are constructed with No. 1 Milton pressed brick. Besides these modern ovens, the whole bakery will be equipped with the most up-to-date machinery on the market. Everything will be furnished to insure speed, accuracy and purity. Mr. Stock has one of the largest bakery establishments in the city and it has been growing so rapidly lately that he was forced to enlarge. The new shop should last for several years.

Owing to the lateness of the season, the inability to make satisfactory arrangements and the nearness of the holiday season, the Retail Merchants' Association decided to postpone the proposed banquet. The date was fixed for June 3rd, and many of the grocers, who were really at the bottom of the thing, are greatly disappointed. The banquet, however, will be taken up again in the fall, when it can be followed up with regular meetings of the association.

A couple of farmers were before the police magistrate last Saturday morning, charged with giving short weight in a bag of potatoes. That morning the police went on the market and weighed several bags of potatoes which were offered for sale. Two men were found with bags that were three or four pounds short. The farmers claimed that at this time of the year potatoes have dried out so that a bag will not weigh the regulation number of pounds. Both the farmers said that they had measured the potatoes and thought that was sufficient. The magistrate found them guilty and as an example to other farmers he fined them $2 and costs.

The Toronto Savings and Loan Co. have decided to erect a new block of stores on Simcoe Street, just west of George. Plans have been prepared and work was started this week. The building will be three stories high with a basement. It will be 50 feet deep and will have provision for four single stores and one double store. All have been rented and the tenants are anxious to move in. This new block will relieve to some extent the great demand for stores and it will be good news to all the business men as the rents for business places have gone up so high during the past couple of years that it makes a big hole in the profits. Another block of stores could also be rented at good prices, as the city is growing very rapidly.

Thos. Hooper, the largest caterer and confectionery merchant in the city, is endeavoring to secure the second and third floors of the new block being erected by the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. If he is successful he will fit it up as an assembly hall. The city is in need of such a place and undoubtedly Mr. Hooper would make a success of it. His intention is to put in a large kitchen, with all the utensils required for preparing a large banquet and on the same floor he would have the dining room, which would be a great improvement over present halls used for balls and "at-homes."

Representatives of Hawes-Vongal & Co., of New York, hat manufacturers, were in the city this week looking for a site on which to locate a branch of their factory, to make goods for their Canadian trade. The representatives were looked after by the mayor and manufacturers' committee. They were greatly pleased with Peterborough as a manufacturers' centre, but made no definite answer as to where they would locate.

The tourist season is opening up with very fair prospects. If the weather gets warm this summer will be the busiest in the history of Stoney Lake. Several families have arrived in the city, purchased large supplies of groceries, and taken them back to the cottages. So far the weather has been so cold that only two or three local families have moved to their summer homes, although a large number are making preparations to go.

For several months past a bread war has been waging in the village of Keene. The grocers there buy all their bread from the Peterborough bakers at 7c per three-pound loaf and after paying the express and cartage charges, sell it at 8c per loaf. The price previous to the cut was 11c per loaf, and everyone made a profit. At present none of the merchants make anything and most of them are losing money. The price in the city is 9c.

WOODSTOCK.

The selling price of tobacco among the retailers of the country is on the advance now, but up-to-date Woodstock dealers have not followed the example of many of their brethren in other places. The wholesale price has already advanced materially, and an increase to consumers is considered to be only a matter of time. The difficulty appears to be with the tariff, which places an increased imposition per pound on the weed, and upon the condition of the crops and the market. The consumption of tobacco is increasing, while the general tendency is towards a rise in the cost of the raw product. It is feared that the increase in the wholesale price is but preliminary to still higher figures, in which case smoking will become a somewhat expensive pastime.

On the local market and in the stores, potatoes have risen to $1.25 per bag, and at that the quality is said to be inferior.

New Industries.

A big American corporation is considering the advisability of establishing in Woodstock a milk condensery. It is the company which controls the St. Charles condensery at Ingersoll, and over a hundred factories in the United States. Tillsonburg authorities also have their hooks out after the new industry, but locally strong hopes are entertained that if the promoters finally decide to locate another factory in this district, Woodstock will be the place decided upon. It would undoubtedly be a success here from the standpoint of the proprietors, for Woodstock is situated in the midst of one of the finest dairy districts in Canada, and there would never be any lack of material to keep the factory running. It would also be a splendid thing for the farmers and dairymen, in giving them a sure and certain method of disposing of all their milk supply. No loan would be asked for, and the inducements required are very moderate. All they would ask would be a free site from the city, a fixed assessment, sewer connection and access to the railways. About 125 hands would be employed.

Negotiations have been recommenced with the London capitalists, who submitted a proposition to the council for the establishment here of a canning factory, though nothing will be done before the autumn in any event. C. B. Kenleyside has written to say that the fact that the city will not grant a loan would not deter them from starting here, and that they would be willing to take the matter up with the council on the basis of other minor concessions and inducements. Everyone in the city and district will be glad if the negotiations result in the industry locating here, for it would mean a great deal to the whole district, and the regret when it was feared that everything was off, was very general.

Despite the frosts and the backward weather of the past months, it is not thought that the prospects for a good fruit crop have been very seriously injured. As the result of the last severe frost, a prominent gardener fears that red currants may have been rather seriously damaged. He did not think strawberries were affected, and fruit trees did not give any signs of damage. All fruit trees are or have been heavily in blossom, and with favorable weather prospects look good for a large crop.

Cheese Industry.

The quantity of cheese offered for sale at the meeting of the cheese board last week was the largest of this season, and comprised 2,888 boxes, of which 1,730 were colored, and 1,153 white, the output of 23 factories. Sales during the day were made at about 11½c. It is said that the flow of milk this spring has been not more than sixty per cent. as large as in the corresponding months of last year, owing to the backward weather and the fact that as yet there are comparatively few cows out at pasture. There has been no opportunity for the grass to grow to any extent, and farmers are running short on their supply of feed. Consequently the cows, and the milk supply suffer. Complaints are being made that cheese in too green a state is being marketed this season. This may be explained somewhat by the desire of salesmen and managers of factories to dispose of all the available supply while the prices are at their present high pitch, but the practice is seriously detrimental to the best interests of the cheese industry. Notwithstanding the prices, the returns for the sale of cheese this season have been much less than last year owing to the smaller quantity of milk on hand.

Pedlars' By-law.

The city council at no distant date will be earnestly solicited by the retail merchants of the city to pass the hawkers', pedlars' and transient traders' by-law, which is now on the books of various other municipalities such as Galt and Preston and Berlin. They feel that it is up to the council to protect the merchants, who pay taxes in the city, and bear a large share of the cost of civic administration, from the ravages on their trade which are made by those who drop into town for a day or two, do their business on the back streets, and take out of the city a sum of money large or small, according to the degree of persuasive influence exercised by the agent, and the nature of his goods; and leaves absolutely nothing in it except what he pays for board, and in the case of the foreigners by whom the most of this business is carried on, the money required for board is not a large amount.

A Prosperous Grocer.

There is a grocery store in Woodstock which is the exception that proves the rule that advertising is the life of trade. It has been conducted for years by Fury & Thompson, and their boast is, that never was a dollar spent in advertising. The store is fair-sized, and in a most desirable location, near the market square. The proprietors have made, and are making money, some say more than any other grocery firm in town, but that, of course, is only "what others say." The firm has no delivery wagons, no order solicitors, no advertising bills. Accordingly they can afford to sell cheaper than their neighbors, and in many cases they do, enough beneath the prevailing prices to attract custom. Then again, they have a reputation for strict honesty in all dealings. People believe that if Fury says an article is a certain quality, they may swear on its being that quality. The result of all this is, that a large number of city people regularly patronize the store, especially for smaller goods that they can carry home, for nothing is delivered. But the principal business is done with the farmers, whose rigs may be seen lined up in front at any hour of Saturday, waiting for their purchases to be put up, and loaded into their rigs. The appearance of the store externally and internally is unprepossessing. The windows are seldom cleaned, and seldomer dressed, often being piled full of old, unsightly boxes and other debris. Inside a miscellaneous assortment of goods common and peculiar to grocery stores is piled in picturesque confusion. But they get the business, and that is what all the grocers are after. It is the exception that proves the rule.

GUELPH.

June 4, 1907.

The Guelph Retail Merchants' Association are offering a large reward for the conviction of the party or parties who spoiled those plate glass windows on Wyndham street, also a reward of $5 for a conviction of anyone spitting tobacco juice or otherwise defacing the store fronts of this city.

R. J. E. McCrea, of the firm of J. A. McCrea & Son, leaves on Friday for an extended trip to Europe. The Grocer wishes him a pleasant and enjoyable trip.

The street watering system of Guelph does not seem a success from the outlook of a corner grocer. The idea of the waggons is all right; but we see a waggon pass our door at about eight o'clock in the morning and wait in vain for its return till about three or four in the afternoon, which means our outside displays of fruit, etc., are subject to dust and abuse. But, for all that, we are firm believers in outside displays.

Does it pay to carry a weak account or let your neighbor have it? is a live question among grocers at the present time. I think it pays to carry the weak account, and if a grocer knows his business he will make it pay. Make an agreement that you will carry it for a certain time, say two weeks or a month, as the case may be. Then when the time is up, look for your money. Don't wait until the party has spent his wages and then go to see him, but give him to understand if he is not Johnny-on-the-spot you want to know the reason why, and if he wants to leave a balance call his attention to your agreement and give him to understand you don't stand for any balances, that you want it paid regularly and you expect every cent of it—that you depend on his account to meet your own accounts. Make him feel he is part of your business. Don't bluff him about suing him, or collection agencies; just talk good common sense. In a good few years' business I have never seen an account lost that was properly handled. There are lots of so-called weak accounts that are weak accounts only as the grocer is weak. Don't be afraid to ask for your own.

W. H. Fielding is sporting another bran new delivery waggon on the road this week. West believes in good horses and rigs.

The Retail Merchants' Association at their last meeting agreed to give their employes the usual Thursday half-holiday during July and August.

Butter is getting more plentiful and has dropped in price. First class is from 16c. to 18c. a lb. on Guelph market at present. Eggs are firm at 16c. to 18c. Potatoes took a jump and as high as $1.50 per bag was paid last Saturday.

To make money nowadays in the grocery business you must make it through the efforts of others and the man who is successful is the man who is clever enough to surround himself with good help.

In running a grocery store it is astonishing how many little leaks there are, and it is the leaks that let the coin run out. Clerks don't seem to know they are paid to think for the boss. It's not their business to turn off the gas in the cellar. They don't seem to know they have their hand in the boss's pocket when they stand and talk to customers about social matters or when they waste string or paper.

The big glowing countenance of a Toronto grocery traveler, whose smile always seems to say: "I am happy, are you?" came into the store the other day and tackled the boss about vinegar. He said: "I have a vinegar here that is chemically impure. We sell it at 15c. a gal. Here is something extra we sell at 22c. a gal. Now, I am goin' to show you what a terrible bad thing inferior vinegar is."

He poured a little into each glass; then he took two earth worms and dropped one in each glass and he said: "Whichever vinegar kills the worm quickest is the rankest." All was breathless interest for a moment. The 15c. vinegar caught hold of the worm and twisted it into a knot, and in an instant it had gone to the happy hunting ground. The 22c. vinegar's effects were as sure but much slower. They timed the worm, and for nearly a minute and a half it writhed and squirmed in pain and then died.

The boss looked thoughtful for a moment; puffed at his cigar, and then says, "John, do you think you could put me in 25 barrels of that stuff at 10c. a gallon?" John thought he could, but wanted to know why he wanted that quantity of such poison. The boss replied: "That is all right, my boy. Your business is to sell vinegar, not ask questions." "Well, Mr., I am very curious," said John, "and will buy the cigars if you tell me what you are going to do with it." "Well, I will tell you if you keep it quiet." "All right; honor bright." "Well, I am going to quit the grocery business, and I am going into the patent medicine business and manufacture a painless worm exterminator at $1 per bottle, and I calculate at $1 per bottle, 30 gallons to the berrel, I will make $30,000." It is needless to add John wants a partnership.

Doesn't it make you tired sometimes when you have a cereal or other traveler trying to tell a grocer how much money he can make selling his line that only costs 95c. to $1 a dozen and sells for 10c. each? The grocer ought to cut out that kind of business. It is getting a little old fashioned, these big profit schemes of that kind.

There is some talk of an up-to-date union fish store in Guelph, run by a company of grocers and bakers. There is room for it.

W. J. Fletcher, who has been for some time clerk at W. H. Fielding's grocery store, is leaving this week to start business for himself at Oustic. We wish him success in his new venture.

The junior member of the firm of J. A. McCrea & Son leaves next week for old Ireland, via Montreal.

Mr. Robinson, the young and clever head clerk of Lillie & Hadden, has an original maple syrup window. It was an almost perfect representation of a maple sugar camp.

Men that the employers, as well as employes, like to see enter the door are men like J. W. Charles, Adams, of Heinz fame, the Comfort Soap man, and that silver-haired and tongued orator of the Grocers' Wholesale Co. They study human nature and know how to treat clerks as well as employers. All good will to the travelers. It would be gloomy without them.

CHATHAM.

A. J. Ridley, formerly of Ridgetown, has purchased the grocery and confectionery business of the late Thos. W. Evans, of Thamesville. Mr. Ridley has had considerable experience in the confectionery business and his venture should prove a success.

Piett Bros. have closed their butcher shop at Rodney and moved the stock to Ridgetown. Archie Piett has again joined the staff of the Ridgetown store, and will move his family back to that town.

The Tilbury Canning Company recently shipped their first consignment of the season, a car of tomatoes, to the Pacific coast.

R. P. Adams, of Tilbury, has opened a grocery in connection with his butcher shop.

W. M. Murdock, the Raleigh street grocer, left on Wednesday, in company with L. Harrett, on a two months' prospecting trip to Cobalt.

Retailers' Assessment.

The matter of the business assessment of local retailers, which came up at the last meeting of the local R. M. A., is now in the hands of the civic finance committee. President Geo. W. Cowan, of the R. M. A., appeared before the city council on Monday night and stated the circumstances, full particulars of which were given in last week's correspondence. He urged that the matter be dealt with at once, particularly as, if the civic rate were struck on the present 35 per cent. basis, a test case would be made with a view to establishing the 30 per cent. basis, and as a result the city would likely face a deficit at the end of the year. Mayor Stone referred the matter to the finance committee, to consult with the city solicitor. It is not thought likely that there will be any opposition to the change, particularly in view of the letter from Provincial Secretary Hanna upholding the retailers' contention that they are entitled to be assessed at 30 per cent.

Electric Road Goes South.

A matter of more than passing interest to the grocery trade, as well as to retailers in general, is the extension of the Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie electric railway to the lake, which it is now stated will be commenced at once.

The line between Chatham and Wallaceburg was completed in 1905, and has proven om immense benefit to Chatham merchants, placing them in close touch with the farming community of Dover. The extension of the line southward has been hanging fire since the completion of the other portion of the road, the American capitalists behind the enterprise wishing local men to take a portion of the bonds of the road, while there have been differences between the city and the company respecting the handing over to the latter of the $35,000 loan due the company on the completion of the road between Chatham and Wallaceburg. Recently a committee of the board of trade set to work to secure subscriptions for the bonds, raising $25,000 or thereabouts; and Manson Campbell and W. A. Hadley were last week sent to Towanda, Pa., to interview Messrs. Kipp and Kizer, the chief capitalists behind the road. As a result, the latter agreed to extend the road as soon as subscriptions for $29,700 bonds had been secured, together with certain minor concessions from the city council. The necessary amount has been subscribed, and on motion of Chairman Jas. N. Massey, of the railway committee, a resolution granting the concessions asked for was, on Monday evening, put through by the city council.

If operations are commenced at once, as Manager Kizer states, the road will very likely be completed by this fall. The extension will bring the city merchants into closer touch with the townships of Harwich and Raleigh, and, if the Wallaceburg end of the road is any criterion, will bring a largely increased number of marketers every week to the Maple City.

Transient Traders Again.

A test case will probably be made in the near future to see just how far the local transient traders' by-law will go; that is, provided the magistrate here will take an information.

Last week Chief of Police Holmes wished to lay an information against Geo. S. Hull, a tea and coffee merchant of Owen Sound, charging him with violating the by-law. Hull solicited orders in Chatham, and shipped the goods here from Owen Sound. That he did so, he freely admitted, and expressed his willingness to plead guilty to selling and shipping the goods, merely questioning the validity of the by-law. The magistrate, however, declined to take the information at the time, but stated that he would look into the matter.

HAMILTON.

The grocers are figuring out for the largest picnic yet. Jas. Main, the chairman of the committee, is hustling the boys along in great shape, and if you want to see the biggest picnic ever just come along to Niagara Falls on the 17th of July. With 90 first-class coaches chartered and two railways to carry them, the people of Hamilton certainly will enjoy themselves on that day. The Brantford grocers are joining in with their Hamilton brethren to make it more pleasant. The amusement committee promise to keep the crowd laughing all day, and as one of them remarks, "the fun will be fast and furious."

Not a word has been heard as yet from the local branch of the Retail Merchants' Association in regard to the provincial convention to be held in this city in July. Wouldn't it be possible for the grocers of the province to arrange to meet here at the same time. They could form the nucleus of an organization, that, I venture to say, would soon grow into an association the trade would be proud of. If your able correspondents at Peterboro and Kingston would come along with their friends and take an executive part in the business I think the deed could be done—as H. C. Beckett, the president of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, has so kindly offered to give the retail men all the assistance at his command, it looks easy to me. And then we have right here that doughty champion of retailers' rights, Geo. E. Bristol. Now, if London, Toronto, Hamilton and the others mentioned say yes, the association may be off to a good start.

Perhaps the officers of the Retail Merchants' Association will be able to get them all into a branch of their body.

Price cutting is trade suicide.

ORGANIZATION.

Some grocers think it would be fine if the retailers in each town and village could get together and fix prices at a nice fat margin of profit. Everybody in; everybody growing rich easily and quickly. That's their idea of grocery organization.

It isn't ours. If we may say it, who shouldn't, it isn't the idea of any sane man who has any sort of knowledge and appreciation of the possibilities and value of retail organization.

The object of organization as we understand it is the improvement of trade conditions. That covers everything. Nothing could be more harmful than such an illegal combination in restraint of trade as that suggested. Just as soon as fair competition is eliminated degeneration begins. That is fundamental.

This is not an argument in favor of the price-cutter, as some friends might rise to remark. The habitual, unreasoning price-cutter is a parasite, a trade degenerate. He makes losses which someone else must put up for. Price-cutting is the lowest kind of competition. Any fool can cut prices. It is competition in service, in quality of goods, in attractiveness that is playing the game in groceries. It takes brains to win out.

TAKING ALMS.

At this season of the year many grocers' associations are arranging for their annual outings and, more or less directly, the wholesalers will be called upon to contribute to most of these undertakings. We don't object to the wholesalers paying; that's their own business; but we do protest against the retailers placing themselves and their associations in the position of suppliants and beneficiaries. Every now and again we receive from retailers complaints and protests against the practice common in too many places of practically holding up merchants for subscriptions to undertakings in which they have no interest. One merchant's liberality is pitted against another's, and so the game is played. In places, merchants have gone so far as to get together and undertake to refuse all such requests.

Why should the retailers practice upon another branch of the trade an imposition they so strongly condemn when they themselves are the victims?

But there is another and stronger reason why they should not do this. It is lowering to the dignity and self-respect of the retail grocery trade. The Canadian Grocer has consistently advocated harmonious and mutually helpful relations between the wholesale and retail branches of the trade. Such relations cannot be maintained if one branch of the trade persistently places itself under obligation to the other. The National Organization of Retail Grocers in the United States, a large and influential body, has proved the unwisdom of accepting the aid of the wholesalers, and are now with some difficulty endeavoring to cut loose from the practice. The retailers of Canada should profit by the example and finance their own undertakings, whether they be for business or pleasure.

WESTERN CONVENTION.

The annual convention of the associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada is to be held in Prince Albert on the 18th, 19th and 20th of this month. This association was formed in Calgary in the summer of 1904 and it has rapidly grown in influence and membership. At the present time it includes practically all the leading boards of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Its meetings are also attended by delegates from the Winnipeg and other Manitoba boards. It is in short the annual parliament of the business men of western Canada, and its deliberations are entitled to and receive the respectful attention of the public men of Canada.

Successful conventions have been held at Calgary, Regina and Edmonton in previous years, and it is expected that this year's convention at Prince Albert will see the largest attendance on record. Important resolutions will come up for discussion, chief among which will no doubt be the transportation problem and the inefficient postal service. In previous years the delegates have been chosen from the keenest and ablest business men of the west, and the debates have been of a high order. As in previous years, this paper will publish a full report of the proceedings.

WHICH WINS?

A man went into a wholesale warehouse in Toronto and asked for a position. He looked good to the boss, who said: "All right. I'll give you $500 a year and an increase of $100 a year for five years."

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said the seeker after work. "I'll take $500 a year and an increase of $25 at the end of each six months. Give me that and I'm yours."

"I'll give you that if you would rather have it that way, but it's a losing game for you," cautioned the wholesaler.

"Never mind; I'm satisfied," returned the new employe.

Who had the best of the bargain?

Crop reports forecasting the out-turn of dried fruits will be coming along from now on pretty freely from the various producing countries. The grocer who wants to be up with the game will watch them closely. Last season was abnormal enough to suggest the wisdom of this.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS:—
Canned goods—New lobsters.
Japan teas—Firm.
Syrups—Advanced.
Dried fruits—New prices.

Montreal, June 6, 1907.

Trade is much better than it usually is at this time of year and jobbers have little reason to complain, except for the congestion in the railways. They find it very difficult in many cases to obtain anything like prompt shipment of their goods, and it is often hard to secure delivery.

Canned goods are in strong demand but all lines of canned fruits are very scarce. New pack lobsters are now offering. Sugar is quiet at unchanged prices. Japan teas are very firm. Cable offers which have been accepted locally have been turned down in Japan. Ceylons appear to be downward in tendency. Corn syrups are higher. Molasses is in good demand, new crop stock being a fast seller. Prune prices have been given out but, being very high, do not interest Canadians yet. Seeded raisins are likely to be high this year from present indications. Currant prices, for the new crop, were given out in New York, but have since been withdrawn. Coffees and spices are practically unchanged. Beans are firm but prices have not been changed. Evaporated apples are slow. Butter and cheese are both higher. Provisions are firm. Parafine candles are advanced. 6's are now quoted 10c., while 12's are selling 9¾c. to 10½c. This means an advance of 1c. a pound. Some lines of French olive oils have been advanced, while there is another advance of from 15c. to 20c. a gallon to note in bulk olives. Red castile soap is higher by 2c. a pound. Grey brown paper, rolls, has been advanced ¼c., and is now quoted 3¼c.

SUGAR — Sugar is moving out quietly at unchanged prices. Demand is only fair, but jobbers expect good trade once the warm weather sets in in earnest.

TEA — The Japan tea market is puzzling a good many in the tea business at present. Its action is rather out of the ordinary in some respects. According to cable advices a firm feeling still prevails and prices are upward in tendency, though there has not been the radical advance spoken of by some parties. First lots of the new crop teas are expected within a week or ten days. There is practically nothing left in the way of old Japans. Ceylons appear to be on their way back to their normal condition. Indians are slightly easier, while China gunpowders are lower.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUIT — Prices are out on new crop prunes but they are very high, and it is the general opinion that little business will be done in the Canadian market at these figures. For the Santa Clara prunes figures given are 2c. above those quoted last year. There is talk of considerable more shortage in this district than in any other. Other prunes are from 1½c. to 1½c. higher than last season. Jobbers report an improving demand for prunes, but say other lines are rather neglected. California seeded raisins are quoted higher than the opening figures, but little interest is taken in the line, so high are the prices. According to reports received here the packing houses in California are sold up for October shipment and are not in a position to book anything for delivery before November. In this case California raisins would arrive here rather late for the Canadian Christmas trade and, as a consequence, if the packers be sold up as stated, those in this part of the country who are desirous of buying for Christmas business will have to make their purchases from those who have already bought. New crop prices have been given out on currants, but have been withdrawn already. They were ½c. below present figures. Houses on the other side withdrew their quotations owing to heavy rains in Greece. No quotations on new crop currants have been given out locally yet.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—Demand is good for the various lines of canned goods, but trade continues to be hampered in fruits by the lack of stocks. Canned peaches, 2's, are practically unobtainable at present. More than one firm have not a case in their warehouses. Everyone is depending upon the new pack, and as there have been unfavorable reports from western Ontario, higher prices are expected to rule when the first lot of new goods are put on the market. As a matter of fact higher prices are expected before that time. The first lots of new pack canned lobsters are now on the market. For 1-lb. flats dealers are asking $4.25 and $4.35 and for ½-lb. flats $2.40 and $2.50.

TORONTO—The outgo of canned goods is steady and most fruits are getting into small compass. There are still fair stocks of pears and cherries, but nearly all other lines are in limited supply. Jobbers are getting from other jobbers and brokers the question, "What fruits have you to sell?" Prices are unchanged. Vegetables are in good demand, but no shortage has yet developed in any of the three staples. The market has been somewhat unsettled by a wholesaler who has put out in considerable quantities lines of corn and peas at 60c. It is said his supply is about exhausted.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS :—

Sugar—Easier.
Canned fruits—Getting scarce.
White beans—Firmer.
Butter—Easier.

Toronto, June 6, 1907.—Wholesalers report better business and there is quite an active trade passing in seasonable lines. Raw sugar is easier but jobbers here do not anticipate any decline in refined here at the beginning of the fruit season. New Japan tea samples are being shown and despite anticipated increases, prices it is said are about as last year. Canned goods are going into consumption very satisfactorily and fruits are getting into very small compass. White beans are higher in first hands, due partly, it is said, to the demand to help make up for the shortage in potatoes, for which they are said to make a very fair substitute. Prices throughout the grocery trade are firm, and practically no changes are reported this week. Collections are reported satisfactory.

TEA.—Buying is not as active as it was and the market remains practically unchanged. Samples of new crop Japan teas are being shown the wholesale trade. Prices are reported to be about on last year's level, though brokers' advices point to their being higher.

COFFEE.—No new feature is reported regarding this staple in this market. Willett & Gray, New York, who have long opposed the decline in coffee, say :

"The enormous crop this season has left a visible supply in excessof 16,000,000 bags, but the low price has induced Brazil to come out strongly in the protection of her leading industry. Were the price of cotton in the United States to go down to 5 cents in consequence of heavy over-production in any one year, it would hardly be condemned by the business world if the Governments of the leading cotton states should in some way declare themselves ready to protect their principal product in order to save their farmers from ruin. Yet this is exactly what is the case with coffee in Brazil at the same price.

"The visible supply of coffee in the world of 16,000,000 bags is held largely by the Governments of the coffee states of Brazil and their friends in consuming countries. Out of the stock of Brazilian coffee held in New York, say 3,550,000 bags, about 3,100,000 bags are owned and controlled by the Governments and their correspondents here, so that only about half a million bags of coffee are at the disposal of the trade or of the bear operators. Out of the total stocks of coffee in Europe of 7,000,000 bags, the Governments probably control 4,000,000 bags, so that not more than 3,000,000 bags of all kinds of coffee are at the disposal of the trade in the European countries. The balance of the world's stocks are held in Rio and Santos, and can only be at the disposal of the bear element or the trade proper after they have bought it, so that instead of 16,000,000 bags being in the hands of the trade or bear element, there are not more than 4,000,000 bags available, and as the price is so low, this is certainly a small quantity for the purpose."

SUGAR.—What is announced as a decline in raws at New York is a concession of .04c by a seller to avoid the expense of warehousing. European beet was still quoted Monday at 10s but the Tuesday quotation came in a farthing lower, 9s 11¼d.

Reviewing last week's market for raws, Willett & Gray, New York, at the close of the week, said :

"Business of the week has been extremely limited by the indisposition of both buyers and sellers to bring about any change, either by pushing sales or making lower bids.

"The change in quotations is only slight, say from 3.92c per lb. 96 degree test to 3.90c for spot and nearby sugars, at which there have been only small transactions. The change in the European beet sugar markets is even less, the daily quotations of 10s being quite steadily maintained. By our cable from Hamburg 4,000 tons of beet sugars are coming this way, but not for American use, being in transit for Canada. Probably some domestic beet sugar factories in Canada are about to try the experiment of refining foreign raw sugar, have been granted the privilege of importing same at the British preferential rate of duty.

"The Cuba crop draws to a close, only ten centrals remaining at work, although not interfered with by rainy weather. Rain is much needed for the benefit of the next crop. The visible production this season is now 1,335,000 tons.

"Holders are now asking 2 9-16c c.&f. for 95 degrees test Cuba centrifugals for June shipment, equal to 3.95c landed for 96 degrees test, which is above buyers' views. At the moment no interest is shown in Javas, of which there are still sellers at 10s 9d c. & f. for June-July shipment.

"The quantity of Javas required by America is naturally reduced as the Cuba production is increased over the original estimate; on the basis of an outturn of 1,375,000 tons in Cuba, we estimate that 325,000 tons Javas and beets will be imported this year.

"The inactivity of raws is due largely to the continued strikes of dock laborers and the dullness of the market for refined. The tone and tendency is to a quiet and steady market with slight changes until eventual improvement sets in again."

On Monday there was a sale at New York of 15,000 bags of Porto Rico raws on a basis of 3.86c, duty paid, basis 96 degrees for Cubas, buyer to pay lighterage and wharfage charges. The concession on the part of the seller was to avoid warehousing the stock. The decline of a farthing in European beet adds color to the easier tone.

Locally, refined remains unchanged and buying is light. A decline in prices is not looked for.

DRIED FRUITS.—The only interesting feature in the market at present is the news of the coming season's crops. Following are summaries of the most reliable reports to date :

The new crop of valencia raisins presents bright prospects, although rather backward owing to weather conditions.

The growing crop of currants is up till now doing well, as usual at this season but it is during the next three months that mishaps occur.

Each mail has brought varying reports from Smyrna regarding the sultana raisin crop. The earlier advices were dismal reading, but letters towards the middle of May report better weather and prospects. Heavy snow last winter, and cold rains in the spring threatened permanent injury, but last advices report fine weather and if it continues prospects are that the vines should yield 40,000 tons this summer, about an average crop, as against the low record yield of 25,000 tons last summer.

Eleme figs. Trees are doing well and a good crop is assured if weather continues dry.

The new crop of Tarragona almonds is progressing favorably and if nothing unforeseen happens, a full yield is expected.

Crops of valencia shelled almonds are looking well, but rain is needed.

The new crop of malaga raisins and almonds promises well so far, but as anticipate what the results will be. all depends on the weather no one can

A fortnight ago backward weather and unseasonable soow and hailstorms were affecting the walnut crop. The walnuts were only just formed, but the prospects were that prices would not rule much above last season's figures.

French plums and prunes. Trees blossomed well and growers hope for a fair crop, (not large).

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, June 6, 1907.)

With warm weather, seasonable rains and greatly improved transportation conditions business is now in a more healthy and active condition than for some months past. Buying is active and wholesale houses are busy filling rush orders. The eastward movement of last season's wheat is putting money in circulation and as a result payments are being made more promptly and long-standing obligations are being discharged.

A number of price changes of some importance will be noted this week. Sugar has declined 10c. Corn syrups have advanced, and new quotations will be noted below. There has been a pretty general advance in laundry and corn starches. Rolled oats command a higher price, and chocolates and cocoas have been advanced.

CANNED GOODS—Stocks are low in several lines of canned fruits, notably peaches and plums, and prices are high in consequence. Quotations are as follows :

PROVINCIAL GUILD.

Wholesale Grocers in Annual Session in London—Good Attendance.

For the first time since its organization the Provincial Wholesale Grocers' Guild met in annual session in this city on June 4th in the Board of Trade rooms. The president, T. B. Escott, of this city, was in the chair, and among those in attendance were delegates from Toronto, Hamilton, London, Ottawa, Kingston, Brockville, Lindsay, Brantford, Port Arthur, Stratford, Berlin, Guelph, Sarnia, Windsor, Owen Sound, and Collingwood. The objects of the guild are chiefly the discussion of matters of direct interest to the trade and the cultivation of social relationships amongst those engaged in the business throughout the province. The retiring officers are: President, T. B. Escott, London; 1st Vice-President, Mr. Craig, of Kingston; 2nd Vice-President, Mr. Gilmour, of Walkerville; Secretary, James Somerville, of Hamilton. The guild is in a most prosperous condition, the membership being well maintained.

Among the questions that came up for discussion was the importance of assisting the retail trade by refusing to encourage manufacturers in placing upon the market proprietary lines at prices that make it impossible for the retailers to make a living. Another important matter that was given consideration was the new regulation adopted by the customs department regarding the importation of teas, whereby it is made more difficult to import teas to be sold at 25 cents to the trade. The refusal of the railway companies to assume any liability for claims made for damages to goods in transit or for delays during transhipment was also taken up. The necessity for, and the advantages of, a uniform date from year to year for travelers' holidays was likewise urged upon the guild.

First Session.

The first session opened at 1.30 Tuesday afternoon, when Samuel Screaton, president of the local guild, in a neat address welcomed the delegates to the Forest City. President Escott then delivered his annual address, which contained matter of much interest to the trade. Subsequently the delegates were entertained by the local guild to a drive about the city.

In the evening a business session was held, and the meeting concluded with morning and afternoon sessions on Wednesday.

PRESS COMMITTEE TO GIVE PRICES.

Owing to the great difference between prices of butter, cheese and eggs, as given in the various Montreal dailies, the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association has appointed a special press committee, which will each day figure out the average prices asked by dealers for the different commodities, and post these on 'Change for the newspaper men. Butter will be classified under five heads. In finest creamery will be quoted Townships, Quebec and Ontario, and in dairy, prices will be given for Ontario and Manitoba. Cheese will be known as finest Ontario, Townships or Quebec. Eggs will be quoted, fresh gathered, in wholesale lots and in small lots of five cases or less.

PASTEURIZED BUTTER.

J. D. LeClair, superintendent of the St. Hyacinthe Dairy School, writing to The Canadian Grocer on the pasteurization of butter, speaks of the progress which has been made along this line in the dairy school of which he is the principal. He says that the process is being generalized with wonderful rapidity in the country, and within a few years he believes that no dairy will put on sale butter that is not pasteurized.

COFFEE ON A SHOVEL.

I was passing a grocery store a few days ago in company with a well-known wholesaler. It was one of the first warm days of the season and the store door was wide open and coming through it was a rich odor.

"My," said I to the wholesaler, "isn't that a delightful odor. It is a true grocery store odor and almost tempts one to enter to buy something. It is not every grocery store that smells like that, is it ?"

"No, it is not; but every grocery store should have that odor," replied the wholesaler, "and it is a very easy thing to get it. All that is necessary is to make a shovel good and hot and sprinkle half an ounce or an ounce of coffee on it every morning, and that odor will stay with the store nearly all day. It is an old trick that we often did when I was a young man in a retail grocery store."

GETTING READY FOR A FROLIC

Drummers' Snack Club Executive Hold its Hamilton Meeting to Make Final Arrangements for the July Picnic at Alton.

The executive of the Drummers' Snack Club held its Hamilton meeting in the Royal Hotel of that city on Saturday last. This was the last meeting before the annual frolic on the green at Alton in July, and the indications were that the picnic would be the best ever.

President John W. Charles was in the chair and Mike Malone filled with grace and occasional outbursts the dual office of secretary and court constable. The others present were Lieut.-Col. Stoneman, Lieut.-Col. Moore, Chas. Smith, Bay Hill (unkorked); Robt. Asher (the tinman), Donald McGregor (bass), R. Algie (home secretary), Geo. F. Campbell, W. Colville, Jas. M. Smith, Count Thompson (Dr. Munyon), Fred Hunt (Toronto secretary), R. E. Smith, E. Clark, Jas. Hooper, Peter Smith, Dave Griffith and Guy Long.

Fred Hunt produced the minutes of the Toronto meeting with his musical natural megaphone and they were approved.

Robt. Algie promised the services of the Alton band whether the boys had the usual surplus or not. This of the band's high regard for the Snack.

The Button.

A Good Man Gone.

Mention was made of the death of S. A. Ryan, a former treasurer. President Charles and Home Secretary Algie spoke in terms of high appreciation of the deceased's personal worth and good fellowship. It was decided to draft a memorial expressing the club's appreciation of Mr. Ryan and their sympathy with the widow and family and forward it, bound in morocco, to Mrs. Ryan.

W. Colville produced the buttons he and Robt. Asher had been authorized to secure for this year's snack and they received general approval. The illustration shows them without colors. The circles and lettering are in gold, the outer ring in dark red enamel, the inner ring purple and the bar bearing "Alton" white. Ownership of a button denotes membership in the club and each member of the executive was given ten buttons to be sold at his discretion.

W. Colville has offered a prize to the man selling the most buttons.

The president and home secretary were delegated to distribute complimentaries.

At about this point in the proceedings Lieut.-Col. Moore announced that he had to leave to attend another meeting. W. Colville, however, held him with his glittering eye and announced that the colonel had left the road. "We regret he has retired," pursued the Indefatigbale, "but are glad he is better placed. We want you to feel you are as much as you ever were to us."

President Charles took up the strain. "As a wild competitor of the colonel's for business, I wish to add my appreciation of his good qualities. He hasn't any bad ones. The same sentiment has been expressed all over the road and we will miss the colonel's kindly face."

Robt. Algie, with a voice like a home secretary, started "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and the president, with the emphasis of a foghorn, carried it into "See Him Smiling." When the cheering subsided Col. Moore expressed his thanks.

"I may say," he went on, "that many of the pleasantest days were spent in preparing for the Drummer's Snack picnic. It has always been a work of pleasure and a labor of love. While I don't regret leaving the road, with its bad weather and the hard competition of men like Charles and Malone, I do regret giving over its pleasant companionships and good times. I am still a member of the Snack Club and will do all I can to further its interests."

Concert Programme.

The programme for the Snack concert was then taken up. Donald McGregor reported having secured a sufficient array of the best professional talent in Toronto, and Mike Malone said the Hamilton end was still in embryo, but it was whispered confidentially that Bay Hill and the rest were well under way with a side-splitting minstrel show.

The games were the next order of business, and W. Colville was appointed chairman of the games committee.

After some consideration as to ways and means, it was decided to provide a uniform for all the members, to consist of white trousers and kilts. The usual procession before the games was agreed upon.

The work of securing prizes was delegated to Messrs. Charles, Campbell, Hunt, Asher and Mean, in Toronto, and Mike Malone, Count Thompson and the Smith trio in Hamilton.

It was decided to perpetuate the serenade lest the town should forget them a moment, and to follow the concert with a display of fireworks.

The adjournment was rapid to enable the Toronto men to catch their C.P.R. train home.

"You haven't anything like that in Toronto," cried Bay Hill, as he and President Charles galloped past the Gore, brilliant in fine dress of tulips.

"No; it's one of the penalties we pay for living in a city," puffed the president.

WITH JAPAN TEA ASSOCIATION.

W. H. Halford, well known to the tea and grocery trade of Canada, has been secured by Shaw T. Nishimura, of the Japan Central Tea Association, to represent this great organization of tea growers and shippers. Mr. Halford's appointment took effect June 1st. As a representative tea man his record is one that stands out with credit to himself and the interests he represented in Canada for over twenty-one years. An Englishman by birth, and a tea man by training in the London market, he came to Canada twenty-one years ago, representing Harrisons & Crosfield. Later he handled Francis, Peek, Winch & Co.'s (London) samples as their Ontario agent, with headquarters in Toronto, where he also was a member of the tea and brokerage firm of Dane & Halford for four years. After being with Francis, Peek, Winch & Co. for eight years he joined the Montreal tea and spice firm of S. H. Ewing & Sons as superintendent of their tea department, and in this latter position built up a large trade during the seven years he occupied the position.

W. H. HALFORD, MONTREAL.

His present position as representative of the great Japanese tea association gives him a large scope in the field campaign of Shaw T. Nishimura, and as Mr. Halford is a thoroughly experienced tea judge, a good all round salesman and known to all the principal buyers in the various Canadian trade centres, his appointment is one that has received the approval of the trade, and congratulations, both to himself and his new company, are hearty and numerous. The Grocer joins in the felicitations, and is assured that his record will be an honorable and profitable one for both the contracting interests.

Thos. Bates, of the London Canning & Evaporating Co., London, Ont., paid The Canadian Grocer a call during his visit to Toronto this week.

This should be feasible now that the local Grocers' Association absolutely refuse to entertain any overtures of affiliation with the Retail Merchants' Association.

We all hope to see a very large number of Ontario retailers at the convention, and trust that it may prove a very profitable meeting, and that they may have a good time while here. Hamilton is certainly a beautiful city, and the delegates are bound to carry away pleasant recollections of their visit.

The Grocers' Association is now busy preparing for the annual picnic on July 17. To accommodate its many patrons, the committee has chartered forty-five cars from the Grand Trunk and forty-five cars from the T., H. & B., for their annual picnic to Niagara Falls. Brantford will again join with Hamilton. The 91st Highlanders' band has been engaged, also other attractions are under consideration, which will make the picnic of 1907 eclipse all previous ones. Mr. Bain reports for the refreshment committee the purchasing of two more furnaces and boilers, and a novel feature in connection with the free ice cold milk, tea and coffee, will be the distribution of 3,000 lithographed pails, which may be taken home as souvenirs for the children. These pails will not be given away empty, but will be filled with fancy biscuits. Another feature will be the distribution of 2,000 grab bags among the children, each bag containing a prize; also for the children there will be distributed 1,000 large balloons. The committee have also under consideration the distribution of 200 beautiful dolls.

The games are going to be something to remember. J. Forth, chairman of games committee, reports over $100 in cash prizes, and numerous other prizes. A small pig will be procured this year for the young people, and several lively chickens will be let loose for the ladies to chase. A baseball game will be arranged between two prominent teams, also an indoor game between the Hamilton and Brantford grocers. Don't forget the date, July 17.

TORONTO.

The big wholesale firms seem to be turning their attention more and more to special window dressing. Red Rose Tea employ a man to put in window displays for them in grocers' stores all over the city, and these displays usually take the form of some uncommon and striking design worked out with the aid of a few feet of wood and unlimited packages of tea. Wm. J. McFarland has such a window in this week. There are over 400 packages of tea employed in the display, and it has already been possible to trace direct results in the increased sales of this particular brand. The design is in two parts. A large T constructed externally of wood, internally of tea packages, and covered with red cloth, stands in one half of the window. In the other, built entirely of packets of tea, is a small booth, of which the interior, led up to by four steps, contains a small table, (in reality a three-legged stool) supporting a tiny tea service of white china, painted with red roses. At the back of this is hung the picture of a most attractive looking young lady, who sustains the general idea of the design by the roses in her cheeks and the red ribbon in her hair. Over the floor of the window are scattered more packages and advertising cards, the whole effect giving an impression of brightness and unity and making, in addition, a strong appeal to the appetite.

Henry D. Kelly, of Kelly Bros., grocers, of this city, died at his residence at the corner of Simpson Avenue and Howland Road on May 30th. Mr. Kelly was one of the best known and most universally popular retail grocers in Toronto, and conducted two stores in the east end of the city. He was a prominent member and active worker in the Retail Grocers' Association, and two years ago held the presidency of that body. Born in Fergus 45 years ago, Mr. Kelly came to Toronto at ao early age, and rapidly laid the foundations of his future success. He joined the Masons and was a hard worker. The deceased leaves a widow and two small children. Mrs. Kelly, his mother, resides in Winnipeg. The funeral, which was conducted by the Masons, took place to Mount Pleasant Cemetery on Friday.

The Retail Grocers' Association will hold a Moonlight by the fine steamer "Cayuga" on their next regular meeting night, June 17. They will have along the 48th Highlanders' Band and D'Alesandro's orchestra. President Snow will lead the light fantastic and a great evening's enjoyment is anticipated. The committee are D. McLean, D. Bell, F. W. Johnston, B. Panter, T. Clark, J. C. Beaumont, R. B. Snow, R. Vanloon, J. S. Bond, C. F. Thorne, chairman. By the way Davie Bell is now secretary of the association.

FRENCH FLOATING EXHIBITION.

French authorities are making arrangements for the visit to Montreal of the boat which is being fitted out to make a tour of the world in the industrial interests of France.

The vessel will be fitted up in a very attractive manner, showing samples of the various products and manufactures of France. There will be representatives of the various firms exhibiting on board to explain and to spread a knowledge of the goods shown.

A. Skuse, representing the Stecher Lithographic Co., Rochester, N.Y., was in Toronto this week. During his stay he paid his compliments to The Canadian Grocer.

Potatoes Very Scarce Along the Coast—Record Prices—A Good Advertiser—Summer Half Holidays—Steel Co.'s Stores.

(Special correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N. S., June 3.—The potato situation is again attracting the attention of the commission men and grocers in general. They are becoming exceedingly scarce in the city aad the stocks held here are very small. One of the most prominent commission men in Halifax has gone to Prince Edward Island, and it is reported that he is buying up everything in sight. Potatoes in Halifax to-day are quoted at $2.70 per three-bushel bag, and from the present outlook the price will go even higher. The small dealers have no potatoes in stock. There is also a good demand from abroad, and there is no trouble to find a ready market for all the stock available. There is said to be a fair supply still on the island, but ice conditions prevent shipments. In the Cape Breton towns there is a great scarcity of all kinds of produce, and the markets are almost bare of potatoes. At North Sydney they are retailing at $1.25 per bushel. This is the highest price ever reached and even at these figures they are not easily obtained. Some of the farmers in the vicinity of North Sydney are short of seed, and it is quite probable that an even higher price will be asked within the next ten days.

BUTTER.—The butter market continues to improve very slowly. The weather is very backward throughout the whole province, more particularly in the eastern sections, and in consequence there is very little grass. Some small tubs of dairy butter were marketed this week and found ready sale. The dealers are selling butter at very small profit in an endeavor to hold their customers who have had to pay such high prices. Some of the retailers have cut Quebec dairy to 26 cents per pound. The choicest creamery, however, is still retailing at 30 cents and small dairy tubs from 25 to 27 cents.

EGGS.—Though the receipts of eggs continue to fall off, there is not much change in the price. The local demand is very light just at present. The price is rather high for the cold storage men to put in large stocks, and it is expected that many of them are holding back. Island eggs are quoted at 16 cents and the best Nova Scotia at 17 cents.

FLOUR.—Flour is firm at the recent advances, and will likely remain so for some time. Nearly all of the millers have resumed giving quotations. Flour is in good demand, and trade is quite brisk. The jobbers do not look for any early decrease in the price. Corn is very strong, and there is a scarcity of middlings. Notwithstanding the recent big increases in the price of flour the bakers have not made any change in the price of bread.

One of the most up-to-date advertisers in Halifax is C. E. Choat, the Gottingen street grocer. Mr. Choat always endeavors to keep abreast of the times, and his advertisements in the daily press are watched with interest by householders. He does not crowd his "ads." with matter, but makes a specialty of certain lines, and the results have been most pleasing. By making a feature of his "ads." he has succeeded in getting business from sections which he would not otherwise have reached.

The merchants of the town of Amherst have decided to give their employes a half-holiday on Wednesdays, instead of Saturdays. In the grocery and many other lines of business it has been found most inconvenient for the merchants to close their stores on Saturday afternoons. The week-end day is always a busy one, and the change has been made so that all might share in the half-holiday.

The following wholesale merchants of Sydney have agreed to close their places of business on Saturday afternoons during the summer months, commencing with June 1, and continuing until September 28: Park-Blackwell Co., Smith & Proctor, Ltd., Harris Abattoir Co., Bauld Bros. & Co., Larder & DeYoung, A. & W. Smith & Co., McCoubrey & Bulman, N. Rattenbury, Ltd., H. C. Ballem, McRae & Peters, G. L. Murphy & Co., Cape Breton Wholesale Grocery Co., Maritime Hay & Produce Co., Maritime Dairy Co. A strong effort is being made to bring others into line and make the half-holiday general.

The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company directors have under consideration the offer of a syndicate for the purchase of the company's miners' dwellings and general stores at Sydney Mines. These stores do a business annually of from $300,000 to $400,000, chiefly in supplying provisions, etc., to the miners. The syndicate is composed principally of Nova Scotia capitalists, and from the present outlook the deal is likely to go through.

There is a fairly good supply of fruit on the market, though bananas are a little scarce and the most of the fruit is of poor quality. The longshoremen's strike having interfered with the discharging of the cargoes in consequence the fruit when removed was in poor shape. There is a slight advance in the price of oranges, but otherwise the quotations are pretty steady.

There is considerable green truck coming on the market now, principally American. The strawberries are of good quality and retail at 30 cents per box. The new cabbage is of poor quality.

The steamer Arlington, which called at North Sydney this week for coal, has 6,000 tons of sugar for Montreal.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Cheese this week is weaker and business being transacted is anything but satisfactory. There appepars to be practically no demand from the other side. There is, of course, the usual bulk of orders from those houses which draw supplies from Canada week after week, regardless of the state of the market or a slight difference one way or the other, but outside of this there appears to be no buying whatever. Purchasers in England seem satisfied to draw upon the aforementioned regular customers of Canada for the small amounts they require for immediate use and are holding off as far as Canadian business is concerned.

From their attitude it is not difficult to surmise that they expect lower prices in the near future, and they are evidently justified in such anticipations. Present prices, which run from about 12¼c. to 12⅝c., according to grade, cannot last forever, and it would not be surprising to see lower figures quoted next week. The above prices are themselves lower than those which ruled a week ago. Once let prices reach a reasonably low level and business will boom. Old Country buyers are apparently just waiting for a certain figure before going in for heavy buying. It is just as well there is not a great deal of large purchasing at present, as receipts are none too large, and while all export orders have been filled so far it is doubtful if heavy sales could be covered at once. The make is increasing with every week. During the past week 48,770 boxes of cheese were received, against 58,968 boxes in 1906. Total receipts since May 1 are 128,204 boxes, against 185,056 boxes for the same period in 1906.

Exports during the week amounted to 34,005 boxes, against 50,708 boxes for the same week in 1906. Total shipments for the present year run up to 148,183 boxes, against last year's 193,327 boxes.

Butter is steady at about 21c. Locally, dealers are doing a very good trade, demand being excellent for creamery and also for such dairy as is arriving. Of the latter, few lots of any size have been received lately, makers going in almost entirely for fine creamery butter. Jobbers are asking of retailers slightly higher prices this week, but they seem to have no difficulty in obtaining their figures.

With the advent of warmer weather receipts are increasing, although, in must be admitted, slowly. There has been no new grass butter of any consequence received yet, but it is expected that first arrivals will be on the market some time next week.

Prices being so high it is but natural that demand from the other side should be very small. Still, figures asked last year were high, above those now ruling, and considerable trade was done. At this time last season 21c. to 22c. was obtainable, and there was good business at the figures, too. To illustrate the present situation, exports last year were 9,262 packages, against 22 packages for the same week this year. Shipments for the season to date amounted to 21,194 packages, against 22 packages this year.

It must be remembered, however, that conditions on the other side are different. The market in the Old Country is not now in a receptive condition by any means. Buyers will not look at Canadian butter at present quotations. Also some in England have had sad experience with Canadian butter and are not anxious to deal in it this year.

Receipts of butter for last week are reported 10,537 packages, against 18,613 packages in 1906. Total receipts for 1907 have been 43,607 packages, against 62,866 packages in 1906. The total receipts of butter will be seen to have jumped up considerably since last week. The large increase is made up by figures sent in to the board of trade giving total receipts of butter by express since May 1. The amount thus received is 17,548 packages.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The advance in the price of live hogs has, the packers assert, more than disposed of the profit anticipated from the recent forward movement of the Old Country market for products. Hogs now being bought will show a loss of about 1s 6d at the present level of Old Country prices. But these are not expected to hold. Cable reports on Tuesday showed the price of Danish 2s lower. That means a reaction, with a probable reduction in Canadian of 1s. There is still, however, a scarcity of Canadian, and American, on the Old Country market and that will add strength to the market. Prior to the recent advance conditions were so unfavorable that Canadian houses had reduced their shipments to what was just sufficient to hold their trade and were cutting for the domestic market. The improvement in Great Britain was very welcome for the home market stood a fine chance of being shortly overstocked. The export houses, which means most of the big ones, immediately began cutting for export. This product will soon be marketed and there will be no scarcity of Canadian.

The domestic market is rather firmer, owing to the advance in hogs and as the demand continues to increase the home situation is satisfactory, while real warm weather is looked for to considerably further increase the demand. Eastern houses are still holding their trade in the Northwest against the Americans.

In view of the lower tone the Old Country market packers view with disfavor the continued high price of hogs. The price this week is still $6.90 f.o.b. at shipping points, and in spots has touched $7. There are indications, however, of a decline next week. The indications have not, in the recent past, always come true, and a smaller dealer predicted yesterday that prices would remain about as they are all summer. Receipts of hogs continue fairly large, last week about 32,000 or $33,000. It is expected these figures will be maintained.

J. A. Ruddick, Dominion dairy commissioner, says the exceptional weather is bound to have a serious effect upon the output of cheese throughout Ontario especially. The conditions are such that cows are still being stall fed, and, as a consequence, are not giving anything like the usual quantity of milk.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS.—Packers have been changing prices considerably of late and the general run of quotations is higher. Hams are higher than they have been for some time, but business is good, nevertheless. PROVISIONS.—There is a good active demand for cured meats and the advance in the price of live hogs to near 7c has imparted a very firm tone to the market for products. CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Flour Prices Easier but Unchanged—Oat Products Higher — European Crops the Factor Now in the Wheat Market.

The flour markets, still following closely the kaleidoscope changes in the wheat market, are a little easier. The bulls in the wheat pit have transferred their interest to a considerable extent from the crops in Western America to those in Europe. There is more room for rumor if that be possible. Heavy deliveries of last season's crop, however, are taking the edge off the upward tendency. North America is now the largest shipper of grain to the world's market. Last week the total shipments were 12,304,000 bushels, compared with 11,184,000 bushels the week before and 9,968,000 bushels the corresponding week last year. Of this total America shipped 4,568,000 and the next largest amount came from Russia, 2,072,000. Last year Russia's shipments were 3,260,000 bushels. The demand for flour throughout Canada continues good and millers report liberal buying.

Oatmeal prices were advanced this week by Ontario millers to a basis of $4.95 per barrel for car lots, and $5.25 per barrel in less quantities.

Confectionery.

Every grocer sells candies, a children's trade, why shouldn't he also cater to the sweet tooth of the grown-ups? The children provide the market for about 80 per cent. of the confectionery manufactured, but there is a good profit on the goods. But that's all there is to it. High class confectionery properly displayed adds style to a store. Who has not seen the little counter showcase filled with gross goods, sometimes piled in promiscuously without even an attempt at order? Compare that with a modern plate glass silent salesman with a nicely arranged display of high class confectionery and the fancy boxes that go with it. Think upon these things and figure out the line of profit.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR.—The market is about steady at the last advance. Local millers do not anticipate any further change in prices for some little time at least, but it is hard to say what the next week will bring forth. Millers report brisk demand both locally and in an export way.

FEED.—The feed situation is very strained. One milling company stated that they had not received a car of bran and shorts for fully a week. In their opinion the situation is just as bad today as it was at Christmas. The congestion on the railways is responsible for the lack of supplies in Montreal. Under the circumstances prices remain very firm.

NO MORE CHEAP BROOMS.

A woodenware traveler, referring to some remarks made by our Kingston correspondent last week on the difficulty of obtaining cheap brooms, writes:

"Some of the Kingston grocers in last issue of The Grocer complained that they were unable to procure brooms to retail at 25c. Some of the jobbers and retailers are probably not aware of the advance in price of broom corn and other materials, of the scarcity of broom makers, and of the higher wages demanded. The days of cheap brooms are gone, and corn will probably never again be low enough to sell them at past prices, owing to the uncertainty of obtaining a crop of broom corn.

"The farmers are very largely dependent upon weather conditions, and owing to high prices of all farm produce, quite a number of them are raising other and more profitable material, which does not require such skilled labor to harvest. The retailers generally will find it more profitable to themselves and their customers to keep in stock a better quality of brooms. The writer has been informed that there was a large quantity of Oklahoma corn put on the market whose quality under ordinary conditions would not have warranted paying the cost of freight, but a number of manufacturers, who are trying to build up a reputation on cheap brooms, have been using this in preference to good, sound brush. This class of broom looks very showy to the buyer, but when the green dye fades out what a difference there is in appearance. Nothing looks worse round a grocery store than shop worn or faded brooms.

"The writer has had personal experience with a large variety of grocers, and some are actually afraid to place in stock brooms to sell at 30 and 40 cents. One good broom will wear out three cheaper ones, and they give a better percentage to the dealer. Then some of the smaller stores wonder why the departmental stores sell so many brooms, not knowing it is for the simple reason that they keep an assortment of prices. These are a few of the chief difficulties that the broom manufacturer has to contend with."

E. St. Germain, flour and feed merchant, Ottawa, has suffered partial loss of his stock by fire. Some insurance was carried.

DRIED FRUIT FROM AUSTRALIA.

Currants and Sultana Raisins produced in marketable quantities—Orders from Canada.

One of the newest foodstuff trade developments is the appearance on the world's markets of Australian dried fruits, sultana raisins and currants. Samples have reached western Canada and some orders have been placed.

Writing of the new industry, D. H. Ross, the Canadian commercial agent at Melbourne, says :

There are two irrigation settlements in Australia from which raisins, sultanas and currants are now being marketed, namely, Mildura (Victoria), and Renmark (South Australia), both of which obtain water from the Murray river. The growers are formed into associations which grade and pack the fruit for local and export trade. The export prices are much lower than the rates quoted within the Commonwealth. Owing to the combination of growers the Australian requirements are first filled, after which the surplus for export is made available.

Keeping Qualities.

The good keeping qualities of Australian dried fruit is evidenced by the perfect condition of last year's pack now being distributed to local buyers. The total quantity produced in Mildura and Renmark is about 2,500 tons of sultanas and 2,300 tons of lexias. Although not officially declared, it is now practically certain that 700 tons of sultanas and 500 tons of lexias will be available for export this season, which, with good seasons, will be considerably augmented from year to year.

10,000 Acres Under Crop.

The raisin, sultana and currant growers of Victoria and South Australia have been in conference recently in Melbourne with a view of improving their commercial prospects, and a basis of co-operation was arrived at for the ensuing three years, At the Mildura irrigation settlement in this state there is now about 10,000 acres of land under cultivation, and the most remarkable development in the last year or two is the increase of acreage devoted to the production of sultanas and in a lesser degree to currants. There is a marked falling off in wine grapes, and the cultivation of citrous fruits is decreasing rapidly. The present season promises to yield an abundant harvest, and orders are looked for from Vancouver and other points in western Canada as a result of samples and special quotations sent from Melbourne recently.

Orders have been received, by cable, for some fair parcels—chiefly lexias—which will be shipped to Vancouver at an early date.

Export Prices and Freights.

The present wholesale export prices for Australian dried fruit—upon the basis of samples forwarded—are as follows :

	Per Lb.
Brown Lexias	2¼d.—4½c.
Brown Lexias—extra	2½d.—2 c.
Sultanas—2 crown	4 d.—8 c.
Sultanas...3 crown	4½d.—9 c.

Packed in iron-hooped cases each 56 lbs. Terms, sight-draft against documents, less 2½ per cent. f.o.b. Melbourne. The rate of freight from Melbourne to Vancouver is £2 12s, 6d. ($12.77) per ton of 2,240 lbs.

FREE TELEPHONES.

A retail grocery house in the States has given the local telephone company orders to install fifty telephones in the houses of their customers, the firm to stand the expense. This is something new, the idea being to do away with some of the clerks and wagons at present engaged in taking house-to-house orders, and to educate housekeepers to 'phone their orders. If the experiment proves successful, further telephones will be installed.

St. George's Baking Powder

Mrs. Rorer, the famous Food Expert, said recently: "The stingiest people I know have stopped buying 'cheap' foods . . . they are buying the best to be had."

Your customers don't take long to decide that a pound of sugar, half sand, at 5c., is more expensive than a pound of pure sugar at 8c.

And they won't hesitate in deciding that St. George's Baking Powder, with its 99.90% pure Cream of Tartar, is less expensive than Baking Powders containing "Commercial" Cream of Tartar which has 10% to 15% lime and other adulterants in it. Yet "Commercial" is the next best—many worse.

Most of your customers have likely figured it out by this time—for they've probably read our advertising—could hardly miss it—and they'll be glad to get St. George's, which is guaranteed to you and to them.

St. George's is the best Baking Powder that chemistry can evolve.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Spring Vegetables in Light Supply—Baltimore Strawberries Arriving—Navel Oranges Almost Exhausted—Fish Dealers Busy in Montreal.

Trade maintains the general quiet level of last week. Receipts of all garden vegetables have been light, and will continue to be so until the weather takes a permanent turn for the better. The demand for these lines, however, seems to be increasing, notwithstanding the inclemency of the elements.

The first of the Maryland strawberries have arrived and show up exceptionally well. The stock is firm and sweet and the berries large and clean, with practically no waste. Lemons are slightly firmer. The first shipment of Verdellis is due at New York on the "Cretic" about June 25. They left Naples on June 1st. The crop of summer lemons is reported to be short, and this may have the effect of sending up prices.

The orange market is exhibiting unusual strength. Navels are not yet cleaned up, but another week or two will see the last of them. Dealers are now quoting Sorento oranges from the Montreal boats. Late valencias are arriving regularly from California, and though a little high at present, are in good demand.

Considering the time of the year, the fish trade is in a healthy condition. In Montreal large quantities of Gaspe salmon are disposed of weekly without difficulty, but the Toronto men fight shy of this line at present prices. Receipts of all fresh fish are fairly heavy, with the demand active.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Warmer weather having arrived, fruit dealers are doing a much larger business than they have transacted for some time past. Oranges and lemons are subject to a much improved demand, while various other lines are in greater request also. Bananas are more plentiful this week and are selling freely at lower prices. Demand is reported exceedingly strong. Apples are becoming quite scarce and prices are climbing.

VEGETABLES.—Weather has not been sufficiently warm yet to encourage the vegetable business as it should be encouraged at this time of the year. Nevertheless trade is quite brisk, considering the high prices ruling in most lines, and good orders are being shipped to various points daily. New vegetables are arriving every day, and with increased receipts the high figures which have ruled so long are declining. New cabbage is one of the lines which is this week quoted at lower prices. $3.25 to $3.50 is asked. Green and wax beans have also declined. Quite a lot of cucumbers are coming in daily and these are disposed of at $3.50 a basket by most dealers. Asparagus is higher as are also Jersey sweet potatoes. Potatoes are scarce, receipts not having improved since last week. Reds are quoted as high as whites, though they are usually five cents lower. Egyptian onions are lower. Red onions are off the market. Rhubarb is lower.

FISH.—For the beginning of the summer the fish business is in a healthy condition. Orders are not very numerous but when they do come they are for fairly large quantities. Supplies of fresh fish are increasing with the warm weather, and in some lines lower figures are quoted. Haddock and steak cod are more plentiful this week and dealers have lowered prices somewhat. Lake trout, brook trout and whitefish are coming in more freely. Halibut is in FRUITS.—Trade is very brisk, and many price changes are noticeable. Navel oranges are higher, but the stock is practically exhausted and difficult to abtain in large quantities at any price. Quotations on valencia oranges are a little closer. Late valencias are in continuous arrival from California, and are good sellers. Bananas remain firm, and there is said to be a shortage of supply in some quarters.

FISH.—The fish business is the only one that has profited by the Indian winter which seems now to be at its height. The fish men have been doing a roaring trade, comparatively speaking. The volume of business transacted is considerably greater than is usually experienced or expected at this time of year. No Gaspe salmon has got to Toronto yet, and the dealers will not handle it until prices become easier.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC LETTER.

The Canadian Grocer is in receipt of a letter from Edmonton from Alex MacWillie, who is one of the Heinz Pickle Co.'s representatives. Mr. MacWillie has twice within the last five years made a trip around the world, occupying some two years in each trip. He is at present in Edmonton, no doubt on business bent, and in his note, brief as it is, he has some interesting things to say about the Northwest. "Respecting this great Northwest," he says, "that is a long story. I came here very skeptical about the stories concerning the conditions. I am now willing to be put on record that the half has not been told. It is truly great when you contemplate its possibilities."

Speaking of the Export Number of The Canadian Grocer, he says: "It is so far ahead of any publication of a similar character that one cannot make a comparison. Fortunate, indeed, is the Canadian grocer in having such a valuable aid to his interests at an infinitesimal cost." Coming from one who has seen probably every grocery paper in the world, the praise he gives The Canadian Grocer is something that gives the publishers of the journal a great deal of satisfaction.

CANNED GOODS TRADE IN ENGLAND

Canned beef exports from the United States continue to show a marked decline. The latest figures of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor showed exportations of canned beef for the month of April, 1907, amounting to 893,017 pounds, against 4,121,000 lbs. in April,1906, and for ten months ending with April, 1907, showed but 13,032,703 pounds, against 56,730,873 pounds in the corresponding months of the preceding year, 1906. This seems to indicate that the total value of canned beef reported in the full fiscal year 1907 will scarcely reach 15,000,000 pounds, while in 1906, the total was 64,500,000 pounds; in 1905, 66,500,000 pounds, and in 1903, 76 1-3 million pounds. The value of the canned beef exports in the fiscal year about to end will probably not exceed $1,500,000, against $6,500,000 in 1906 and 1905, respectively, and practically $8,000,000 in 1903. The highest figure ever recorded in the exportations of canned beef was that of the fiscal year 1891, when the total was 109,585,727 pounds, valued at $9,068,906.

This reduction in the exportation of canned beef, which seemed in the beginning to be due to the large falling off in demand in Japan resultant upon the termination of its war with Russia, is now equally apparent in the trade with other countries.

Views of One Who Went Over.

In view of these facts the statement of Joseph Durney, of the Griffith, Durney Co., San Francisco, recently returned from a five weeks' tour of investigation of the principal English markets, is interesting. He says:

"The British consumer of canned goods is gradually overcoming his suspicion against canned or tinned goods, and there has been a remarkable picking up of trade in consequence. There was a time when the English consumer even refused to buy biscuits because they were packed in tins, and hundreds refused to purchase baking powders for the same reason. This costly prejudice grew out of the Chicago beef scandal.

"My principal object in going to the other side was to ascertain personally the past effects of the Chicago meat disclosures on the canned goods trade, the present effect, and the prospects. I visited every prominent dealer in London and Liverpool and one and all told the same story: That at the time of the publication of the stories in reference to Chicago meat packers, and for several months thereafter, the English dealers' trade in canned goods of all kinds decreased to 10 per cent. of what it should have been and what it normally had been prior to that time.

"The dinner or supper of a working man in England consisted heretofore of bread and tinned meat, or tinned goods of some other kind, either fish or flesh. He instantly refused to buy tinned goods and subsisted for months on bread and cheese, and bacon when he could afford to pay for it. The result was that cheese in a very few months doubled in price, and about the same time that he found he could no longer afford to buy cheese, he began to reason with himself and ask himself if he knew anyone who had been poisoned or made ill by eating canned stuff of any kind.

Back to Canned Meat Diet.

"He begao to grow tired of cheese and craved for the diet he was formerly used to. During November the business that the dealers were doing in canned goods, as compared to what they had been doing for several months before, showed that the worst was over, and that the people were again commencing to eat canned stuff. The consumption each month grew better, so that during April the leading dealers admitted that they had been doing 80 per cent. of the business in canned goods that they formerly did and expected that in a short time the Chicago 'horror,' as they termed it, would be entirely forgotten."

JAVA'S COFFEE CROP REDUCED.

According to a recent telegram to The Hague Government from the governor-general of Netherlands-India, the Government's Java coffee crop for this year is estimated at 39,000 piculs (picul equals 1 1-3 pounds). In the colonial budget this crop was estimated by the minister at 125,100 piculs, but at the end of January last the minister was advised that the estimate had to be revised and to be reduced by 86,000 piculs. The reports from private estates are also very disappointing, and the exports of Java coffee generally promise to be very small this year.

Dr. Wiley, the American Pure Food Law administrator, recently wrote to a coffee firm that was trying to observe the law:

"I quite agree with you in regard to your ideas on the branding of coffee, that under the food law the term "Java coffee" can only be used on coffees that are produced in Java. The product of neighboring islands not belonging to Java could not be included. I believe that under the food law the very prevalent practice of naming coffees "Java" and "Mocha" will be eradicated, at least we shall do everything in our power to secure correct branding."

COTTON SEED OIL ON ITS MERITS

Dr. W. H. Wiley Opposes Making it a Substitute for Olive Oil — Cotton Seed is as Nutritive—A Talk to the Oil Men.

Dr. W. H. Wiley, chief chemist of the American Department of Agriculture, and the man pricipally charged with the administration of the American Pure food law, recently addressed the cotton seed oil crushers in convention at the Jamestown exhibition on "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." It sounds sermonistic, but the doctor was only advocating the claims of cotton seed oil to be sold as itself, rather than as a substitute for something else. He said in part:

"The text which I have just quoted furnishes a fruitful theme for thought. It appears to be quite in contrast with some other well-known expressions on the same subject. Shakespeare, for instance, says, 'A rose by any other name would smell as sweet.' It is quite true that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, but nobody wants to call a rose an onion or garlic. The name, therefore, becomes valuable because of its association and because of its distinctive character. While it is true that a name has no intrinsic value, it nevertheless has a commercial value. Perhaps it is not extravagant to say that 90 per cent. of all the business that is done in this country is based upon the commercial value of names, so that literally as well as figuratively, it is true that a good name is to be chosen rather than great riches. Among inanimate things we have the same principle obtaining, as certain names of objects which we associate with certain qualities. For this reason it is that unscrupulous persons may take advantage of a name for improper purposes. The fact that forgery is practised shows the commercial value of a name, and this brings me to the practical part of this address—namely, the use of wrong names upon food products."

All Oils Nutritive.

Dr. Wiley then went on to describe the imitations of sherry wine, olive oil, champagne, cognac, maple sugar, New York cheese, California fruits from eastern States, New Orleans molasses from Chicago, and blue point oysters from all along the coast. He held that the result is a cheapening of the real article and a loss to the manufacturer of it. He dwelt at length upon olive oil imitations, claiming that in nutritive qualities all vegetable oils are nearly equal, but as olive oil was generally preferred, the others had been used to imitate it instead of being sold for what they are upon their merits. Referring to glucose, he said: "The disadvantage under which glucose labors to-day is due, in my opinion, to the persistent and determined efforts to distribute it among the citizens of this country under some false name."

Into Favor Under its Own Name.

Referring to cotton seed oil Dr. Wiley said: "This, as we know, is not only one of the cheapest but one of the best of the vegetable oils made to-day by the modern processes. It is sweet, wholesome, palatable and nutritious, and yet we find it laboring under certain disadvantages, and these, in my opinion, are not due to lack of merit in the product, but to the treatment to which it has been subject, presumably by its friends. Just now for the first time they are beginning to be willing to own their own child under its own name and are telling the people of the country that they are eating, not olive oil, not something else under a French name, not salad oil, not table oil, but that they are eating cotton seed oil. There is certainly nothing to be ashamed of in the name. It ought to be a synonym of purity, palatability and excellence, and now it is time to push the propaganda which is already begun in favor of calling it by its own name. There is no longer any excuse to try to cover up matters of this kind—we should recognize the dictum that the days of delusion and deception are gone. The people of this country are in earnest about this matter. If cotton seed oil is not a fit substance to be consumed by man, then let us stop trying to make him consume it.

"I know it is perfectly certain that not one of you here sells from your factory cotton seed oil for anything else or more than what it is, but you have a great moral power which should be wielded in this matter, that is, you should say to the consumer who buys from you: "You must not sell this for anything else than cotton seed oil. We believe it to be a good product, suitable for human consumption when properly refined, and we do not care to have a continuance of the handicap under which it is sold and used.'"

J. H. Crawford, also of Kingston, has been awarded the contract to supply Kingston district with supplies for military camp.

WALL PAPER SITUATION.

Urged to greater efforts by the success of last year's designs, the wall paper manufacturers have developed patterns for the 1908 trade which promise exceptionally well. The beginning of June will see many travelers on the road with the new lines. It is almost impossible to enter into a discussion on the new offerings at this date, but another month will unfold the whole range. In anticipation of a greater business even than the present season's Canadian manufacturers are putting themselves in readiness to meet the utmost demands.

The staple cheap lines do not show any great changes for the coming season. There are the usual number of new patterns, and some good designs rather out of the usual will be shown.

A few years ago mostly all wall papers were imported into Canada. Now, Canadian manufacturers are able to supply goods which in many cases far outdistance imported lines at the same price.

SOME OF THE NEW LINES.

The following information has been furnished us in regard to the new lines of one wall paper manufactory:

"One of the newest things is the metal background, which has so suddenly broken into favor in the leading art centres of the world. Chamber decorations in all grades, from charming Dresden stripes to elaborate crown effects in unique and handsome colorings are shown. Paneling in two-third decoration styles has been so cordially accepted during the past season that the new samples will have some elegant lines. Scenery friezes properly colored loom large. Silks and duplex papers have their right places, and in addition to the large line of well colored every-day goods, new ceilings in ivory and white will be shown in large variety. We were never so busy before, and we were never so enthusiastic as we are over this season's samples."

AUSTRALIA IN THE ORIENT.

Rapid Growth of Flour and Wheat Business Following American Boycott.

Canada is not the only British colony looking for a share of the grain and flour trade of the Orient. D. H. Ross, the Canadian commercial agent at Melbourne, writes:

The development in Australian wheat and flour trade with the east, now in progress, is a matter of considerable importance. The origin of the movement was the Chinese boycott of American goods, which diverted part of the flour trade from America to Australia. Last year's exports of flour to the east consequently showed a substantial increase, while, in addition, an export trade in wheat for Japan has been established. This year the trade thus started shows a tendency to increase still further. Many Australian brands of flour have become known to the Chinese in a way that is bringing a regular flow of orders, the great advantage of China trade being the tenacity with which the Chinese stick to a brand of which they have ascertained the merits.

The volume of business has outstripped the regular accommodation of the three steamship lines in the trade, and a number of additional steamers have been taken up. The extra steamer announced for this month's loading is expected to take fully 6,000 tons, mainly flour. A steamer from Adelaide will take about 3,500 tons, including a considerable proportion of wheat. A steamer cargo of 4,000 tons wheat has been engaged to be loaded for Japan. Another cargo of about 3,500 tons is to be loaded for the east from Melbourne. Altogether about 17,000 tons are expected to be shipped from Australia by the end of May or early in June under special arrangements, in addition to usual shipments by the regular lines. With continued good seasons in Australia, exporters of wheat and flour are looking forward to a market of magnitude and permanence in the far east.

AN APPRECIATION.

The "Export Number" of the Canadian Grocer has come to be an institution with western wholesale men, and always contains a mass of reliable and useful information. This year's number just to hand, is fully up to previous numbers in quantity and quality, and certainly deserves special mention for the unique beauty of the cover. The upper half suggests the docks at Fort William, the railway train disgorging freight at one side and the great lake freighter receiving it at the other. The lower half shows a broad expanse of ocean with the great gulls sweeping over it, and just against the skyline one of the freight leviathans of the ocean bearing Canadian products to the world's end.—Manitoba Free Press.

LEA & PERRINS'

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE is found wherever meat is eaten, and it behooves all grocers to lay in a stock, especially in view of the heavy demand which always occurs during the summer months, when chops, steaks, and all sorts of cold meats are so extensively eaten. No sauce made possesses the same piquant taste as Lea & Perrins', and epicures the world over realize that fact and ask for "Lea & Perrins' Worcestershire Sauce" at the restaurant, the club, and in their homes.

Crosse & Blackwell are special agents for Lea & Perrins' Sauce, and if you order it with C. & B. goods you will get a cheaper freight rate than if you send in a separate order for it, and this saving, coupled with the fact that we quote the manufacturers' very lowest prices.

"If some big oak comes in contact with a steam shovel, that robs it of soil, undermining its roots, it will suffer, just as the grocer will decline when public confidence is lost through neglect or bad service, which includes poor goods, and carelessness in extending credits, the latter the counterpart of the big steam shovel. The moral of this is that to hunt for big game one must have a first-class rifle. Who would think of going after a grizzly bear with a poor shotgun?

The public is the retail grocers' quarry. Do you work it consistently, methodically, intelligently, perseveringly, fairly? Its possibilities are tremendous because its expansive powers are great. The public grows in great numbers and in resources. Do you?"

The application.—If you are after big game—the great consuming public—you must have first-class goods to attain success, and that is why you should sell exclusively goods guaranteed as to quality by the Canadian Canners, Limited.

Brands:—Aylmer, Little Chief, Log Cabin, Horseshoe, Auto, Kent, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Lion, Thistle, Grand River and White Rose.

There are more than a few reasons for the preference, so unanimously expressed, by the women of Canada in favor of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The climate, where our products come from, is ideal for the gradual and thorough nourishment of the vegetable kingdom. Too sunny lands and sultry winds mean premature growth and quick decay and nowhere else on the globe are climatic conditions just right for the best fruits and vegetables. Then we better nature's work by eliminating all fruits and vegetables showing the least symptoms of coming taint, and, mind you, the scrutiny of our experts is microscopic in its severity.

Canada's Ideal Canning Factory

Home of Old Homestead Brand

And there you see Canada's best canning factory—in fact, the ideal one. The ultra cleanliness of the place goes without saying. Numerous devices, making for perfection, obtain therein. Extravagant! No sir! We had simply determined to give you the concentrated goodness of fruits and vegetables in cans—a goodness so unapproachable by even the next best brand that the particular women of Canada called OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND—"Incomparable." People who want fruit and vegetable goodness condensed, order OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND. Can you supply the demand?

The "Quality" Salt

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we think that Windsor Salt has proved up by facts, by sales, by test. It passed the "comparison" stage long ago—now other salts are proved by "Windsor".

If "other salts" prove up, 50 per cent. that means they are 50 per cent. as pure, white, crystalline as Windsor Salt.

Windsor Salt is the so-called weather gauge —the testing glass —the "prover"— the one hundred per cent salt.

"SALADA'S" Increase

For the first Five (5) Months of this year over the same period of 1906, amounted to 242,808 lbs.

This was in all Branches combined.

In Canada alone our increase for the same period amounted to 158,457 lbs.

Thus, our total increase averages 11,036 lbs each week over the same week of last year.

We believe that this, our, increase alone is more tea than was sold by any other firm in the Dominion in either packet or bulk in the same five months.

Does this not show you conclusively that "SALADA" is in ever increasing demand, that it pleases the public taste and that it will pay you to keep it to the front?

"FOR TEA, YOU CAN'T BEAT LIPTON'S"

When ever anyone says "Lipton," what do you think of? Teas, don't you?

Coffees, Jams, Pickles, Jellies and general provisions, and then you have a vague picture of a vast business concern located in London, England, with branch tentacles reaching all over the world.

Just drive this indistinct picture out of your mind.

Put this new one in its place.

In Toronto at 75 Front Street, East, is now located the Canadian office of Thomas J. Lipton, for the purpose of bringing all Canada into closer touch with the concern through this branch, which in scope and completeness, fully equals the London main office.

Everything with the Lipton signature, from Jellies to Teas, needs no promises from us.

It's good. It always was good. It always will be good.

But Lipton's Teas stand out above all the rest.

They're the same to the Tea world as Koh-I-Noors are to the world of diamonds.

Every ounce of Lipton's Tea is packed in a sealed airtight tin and remains fresh and strong until its flavor is brewed out.

Keep the new establishment in mind, and

St. George's Baking Powder

Mrs. Rorer, the famous Food Expert, said recently: "The stingiest people I know have stopped buying 'cheap' foods . . . they are buying the best to be had."

Your customers don't take long to decide that a pound of sugar, half sand, at 5c., is more expensive than a pound of pure sugar at 8c.

And they won't hesitate in deciding that St. George's Baking Powder, with its 99.90% pure Cream of Tartar, is less expensive than Baking Powders containing "Commercial" Cream of Tartar which has 10% to 15% lime and other adulterants in it. Yet "Commercial" is the next best—many worse.

Most of your customers have likely figured it out by this time—for they've probably read our advertising—could hardly miss it—and they'll be glad to get St. George's, which is guaranteed to you and to them.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

HOW TO PRODUCE IT

Brief Talks Given Occasionally by T. Johnson Stewart.

"Rent, stock, salaries, heat, light and advertising. Properly speaking, these are all expenses—operating expenses. All are expected to net a profit and are charged off accordingly. Well, think of your advertising in the same way. It's the one item you can charge off entirely. Think about it."—Presbey's Little Book.

Worth thinking about, Mr. Grocer, every word of it. And yet, I wonder how many merchants think about their advertising in just that way. Some men hand over an ad to their local press with that air of martyrdom a woman assumes when visiting the dentist. A visit to the dentist may be a necessary evil; but it should be a wise precaution. I've known a grocer to keep an ad bottled up in his system until it became fit for nothing under the sun unless one could call it a romantic method of getting rid of money. It was too old and out of joint, as far as the needs of his business were concerned, before he summoned up sufficient courage to pay the price. That grocer knew that he should advertise. But he looked on all advertising as a necessary evil—a means espoused by the devil and his children for robbing the cash drawer of poor grocers.

"Selling goods without advertising, like shaving without soap, is a slow and ragged business."

Advertising is a necessary investment. The merchant who would dream of developing a big business without employing help, would be considered a fit subject for the exercise of a peculiar governmental paternalism. The dealer who refused to light up his store and make it as attractive as possible would not be playing the great game of business with a winning hand. And in the light of business experience, during the last decade, the merchant who does not advertise is inviting commercial disaster every day of his life.

"The advertiser who quits advertising because of one failure meets the same fate as the fellow who quit eating when attacked by dyspepsia."

Years ago, when grandad played truant so that the fair village teacher might keep him in and talk to him like a sister when the other boys had gone, it was just possible for a merchant in a small city to make money without advertising. Conditions are changed. The economic housewife does not deal with McTavish because her people dealt with the McTavishes for the last three hundred years. The economic housewife is just about as curious as Eve ever was. The new grocer opens up and sends his announcement to the press. There are no flourishes about it. It's just a plain, straightforward, common sense statement regarding his values—the quality and the wholesomeness of his goods and—if there are more selling facts in that pronouncement than yours you can depend upon it that her economic ladyship will note them and act accordingly.

"It's a poor business man who will not advertise and the longer he will not the poorer he gets."

Look upon your advertising appropriation, however small it may be, as an investment pure and simple. It is really immaterial whether you believe in advertising or no; the fact remains that it is a business lever which no shrewd man can afford to ignore. You must rent a store before you can carry on a reputable grocery business. The more attractive the store, in location and appearance, the better your business will be. The same is true of advertising. Make your ads just as attractive as you know how and place them in the best newspaper or newspapers in your town. That is the only fit location for a trade-bringing ad.

"Getting business, like getting an heiress, is pretty much alike in that there is generally lively competition."

Few ads have reached us lately which lend themselves to reproduction. Mr. Hyndman, of Smith's Falls, sent in a very effective ad about six inches wide and three deep. The ad is very nicely set up and in some respects it is stronger than the one we reproduce. Price talks all through it and the copy is good and strong.

"A merchant advertising without method, like the runner in a blindfold race, generally gets his bumps."

We reproduce McCrea & Son's ad this week for the purpose of emphasizing this fact. You will note that this is one of a series of ads, two of which we have already reproduced. There is an individuality about these ads which is worth while. Even without the name and address, the people of Guelph would know this ad to be McCrea & Son's. Method in advertising is almost essential. And conformity of advertising always pays—especially when the copy is strong and straightforward, as the copy of these merchants nearly always is.

You grocers are certainly a bashful lot. Send along your ads or I'll have to make a raid on our press clipping bureau and—well, there'll be something doing.

COST OF DOING BUSINESS

Scottish Trader.

One of the most dangerous competitors to go up against is the ignorant competitor; the man who doesn't know what it costs to do business, and who sells goods on a basis which is certain to be productive, in the end, of financial ruin.

To illustrate the point, the story is told of a certain mill failure up in the northwest wheat country. The mill was well located, and good wheat, combined with honest and careful milling, had given the product not only a big local sale, but a reputation of great value on the eastern market. And it was selling its flour at 60 cents a barrel under what any other mill in its vicinity could sell without losing money. Jobbers who handled the flour of the first mentioned mill took its prices as standard and assumed that other mills must be making a gigantic profit, on the theory that the first mill would certainly not sell at a loss But the miller was selling his flour below cost of production, and didn't know it. He was demoralising the market by his ignorance of the cost of flour production. In course of time he failed. It couldn't have been otherwise.

The retail merchant has to go up against this class of ignorant competition even more often than does the manufacturer. When a man gets into manufacturing, he generally knows enough about the business to keep close track of the cost account, but scores of people jump into merchandising who never knew that there are other things entering into the cost of the article besides what is shown on the invoice.

There are various ways of demoralizing markets. One is by slashing prices on staples. Another is by selling adulterated goods as the real article. But of all methods, the most dangerous, because the most uncombattable, is the ignorant competitor, who doesn't know the cost of doing business, and sells goods at prices which in the very nature of things cannot yield any net proceeds at the end of the year.

How two Canadian grocery clerks made good in the Old Land.

By R. J. E. McCrea, Guelph.

James Elliott was tired of selling groceries; in plain words, he had begun to think that clerking wasn't big enough for him, so he decided to hunt another job. But situations that year seemed scarce; that is, the kind of work he wanted was scarce, so he had to manufacture a place himself.

Using his firm's paper he wrote the "57 variety" people, asking them if they were going to show at the Winnipeg pure food show. Told them he was an experienced display man and a regular "driver" at selling. Offered to engage girls and guaranteed to deliver the goods for a profitable exhibit at Winnipeg. However, he received a letter from the polite, quiet man who manages H. P. Eckardt's, to the effect that Heinz did not intend to show at Winnipeg, regretting, etc.

Shock No. 1.

Letter No. 2 went to Armour, Limited, Toronto, asking for a letter of introduction to Armour, Chicago. It came all right, and was sent along, with a similar letter to No. 1 to Armour, Chicago, asking for the position of manager at the Irish show.

Chicago referred him to their London offices, advising him to call there in person. "Call at London, England, in person! When? Well, cattle ships are plentiful, I guess I'll go."

Securing a letter from O. Horsby, a noted horseman, of Guelph, he started for Montreal. He met many grocery clerks there, among them a Mr. Bob Millan, a swell window dresser. Striking a friendship, Jim asked Bob to come across and try for a "team" job at the Dublin show.

Together they secured work on a cattle ship, and after a nightmare of sick, evil-smelling cattle, sicker men and rolling billows, they reached Liverpool.

Going at once to London, they looked up Armour, Limited.

"Well, so you chaps think you could run an exhibit at Dublin," remarked the manager. "Why, pshaw, I'd sooner put one of our own men in. He knows the goods and country better."

"Why, sir! that's wrong," returned Jim. "Bob here is a splendid display man—can put up an original booth that will astonish everyone. I've sold beef extract for ten years, (it's true, behind a counter), and as for knowing the country,- why, the country will soon know us, once we start. I'll guarantee, on our own expense, to put up the exhibit, and if we can't sell 25 cases in Dublin the first week, we'll hand the whole thing over to you."

"Well, that sounds fair enough—fire ahead."

They did.

"Well, Bob, it's now up to you," cried Jim, "to fix up the 'eye-opener,' and I'll sell the goods and engage some demonstrators, for it will be necessary to stock the town to meet the demand."

Bob Millan went right to Dublin, engaged a carpenter, and after securing a large space at the exhibition, set to work.

His idea was to show in miniature the making of Armour's extract of beef, from the time of killing to the labeling.

At great pains and considerable expense he erected from photographs a model slaughter house—perfect cleanliness—an extract factory, a packing room, a labeling and shipping department, and fenced in a little wintry palm garden to serve beef extract in. When finished, it was one of the most interesting and showy exhibits on the grounds.

Jim set out and worked Dublin like an Irishman—persuasive as J. W. Charles a regular Mr. Adams for blarney—and seller like unto Mr. Eckardt himself. Fifty cases were sold—five pretty girls engaged, and all was ready.

The show opened with a rush—the Armour factories worked, roared and belched forth perfumed smoke—the managers hustled—smiled—and told how good and pure the goods were, and the girls smiled and did as much as most demonstrators do.

A success, did I hear you say? Well, I guess it was. And Jim and Bob are not back yet. They're arranging for and managing pure food shows all over the country.

Moral.—If you can't find a job, make one.

"COMMERCIALS'" BARROWS.

Scottish Trader.

A decision has been arrived at in connection with the action of the police at Moffat in enforcing, on the instructions of the chief constable, the law regarding the infringement by commercial travelers of the Burgh Police Act in obstructing streets by leaving wheelbarrows containing their sample cases at shop doors longer than necessary for loading or unloading goods.

The magistrates on Tuesday night held a conference on the subject the result of which was that a majority of the three magistrates, Provost Knight dissenting, resolved to recommend that the police do not prosecute provided commercials are bona fide, and that they remove their barrows when necessary. It was agreed to intimate the decision to the chief constable.

Thos. A. Breen, of Breen & Kennedy, Chicago, is in Montreal at present. Mr. Breen reports trade in that part of the world as being first class. Out there, there does not seem to be such trouble with the railroads as there is in the Canadian west, although west of Chicago it seems it is not very easy to secure prompt transportation of merchandise.

FLOUR TRADE OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Better grades wanted and Canadian product in demand.

By E. D. Arnaud, St. John's.

During the past fifteen or twenty years the flour trade of Newfoundland has undergone a very great change. Formerly the fisheries were supplied with low-grade flours from the United States, the bulk of the flour then imported being what was known as New York Supers and Twos.

High-grade flour was at that time regarded as a luxury, and was only used by the wealthier classes of the population, consequently the imports of the latter would only represent about ten per cent. of the total imports. Of late years, mainly owing to good fisheries and the general prosperity of the colony, the flour most in demand is now high-grade, Manitoba Patent and American Spring Wheat Patent and second patent.

For fishery supplies the lowest grade now required is winter wheat 90 per cent.; the bulk of this flour is imported from the United States, say two-thirds American and one-third Ontario wheat. Winter wheat patents are not wanted in any quantity, the demand now being for either Manitoba patent or American spring wheat patent, the consumers having arrived at the conclusion that with the latter flours they get better results, and more bread than from the soft winter wheats.

Manitoba patents and second patents are becoming more popular each year, and it would appear that in time they will, to a large extent, shut out the American spring wheat flours. The demand during the fall of 1906 was altogether in favor of the former in the cash trade, but as the American flour was quoted lower than the Manitoba it suited the merchants better for supply purposes and the credit trade, there being a larger margin of profit on the same.

NEW CANNING COMPANY.

A company has been incorporated at Montreal under the name of "Sugars and Canners," their intention being, as the name indicates, to carry on a general business of canning and preserving all kinds of fruits, vegetables and cereals,—to buy, sell and manufacture syrup, sugars and confectionery, and to make cans, packages, boxes and such other material as may be necessary for carrying on their business. The incorporators are Thomas A. Hubley, Edgar L. Jackson, John Watson, Thomas A. Keyes, John W. Sykes and John W. Blair. The capital stock is $250,000 and the company will make their headquarters in Quebec.

NEW PACKING HOUSE.

The Van Bever Packing and Provision Co., whose new plant at Toronto Junction has for some time been under construction, have now moved into their permanent quarters at the corner of Keele street and St. Clair avenue. The most up-to-date equipment has been installed and the plant is in full running operation. The president and managing director is L. C. Van Bever, and for the position of sales manager the company have secured A. Chidley, who, until recently, was in charge of the wholesale business of a Canadian firm with a branch factory in Buffalo, N.Y. Mr. Chidley is well known in Toronto, and his many friends here will be glad to hear this news of him.

The company is handling all lines of packing house products, and intend gradually to branch out, until eventually their salesmen will cover the whole of Canada.

NEW DELIVERY FOR TORONTO.

A company with the title of the Toronto Cartage, Limited, has been formed in Toronto. Its object is to carry on a general warehouse storage and delivery business, catering especially to the fruit jobbers and commission men. W. B. Stringer is president, J. J. McCabe general manager, A. S. Lown secretary, and A. H. Wright and Alex. Waddell provisional directors; capital, $40,000, in 800 shares of $50 each. The aim of the company is, by providing the wholesalers with a reliable delivery service on which they can depend, gradually to absorb the city delivery work of all these firms and eventually to acquire all their business of this sort. That there is ample room in Toronto for an independent service of this sort is evidenced by the frequent complaints of unsatisfactory delivery made by customers living on the outskirts of the city. People whose houses are nearest to their wholesaler are usually given the preference over their more distant neighbors and, naturally enough, take exception to such a distinction.

Bain & Co., general store, Hazelcliffe, have been succeeded by Robb, Nichols & Co.

Thomas A. Stinson, grocer, etc., of Bayfield, is advertising his business for sale.

J. S. Wood, general store, of Ranfurley, has sold his stock to A. C. Whitman.

The assets of Arthur Gandette, general store, St. Marie Salomee, have been sold.

McInnes Bros., of Islay, Alberta, general store, have been succeeded by Mooney & Co.

The stock of L. H. Carriere, grocer, of Coteau Station, Quebec, has been damaged by fire.

Carpenter Bros., general store, of Lachute, have dissolved, and Mrs. Silas H. Carpenter, has registered.

J. F. Cairs, of Saskatoon, had part of his store burnt up a few days ago, but carries partial insurance.

Jno. W. Pembleton, general store, Belle River, is removing to South Woodslee, about July 1st, 1907.

It is said that the fall wheat and clover around Kingston is generally killed, and that the hay crop promises poorly.

McMurray, Saunders & Co., general store, Lennoxville, have dissolved, and Robert McMurray and Chas, L. Hall have registered.

The Spanish crop of olives last year was about two-thirds of a good ordinary one, and the prices 25 per cent. higher than those of the year before.

J. Lariviere has purchased the business of the Collins Scale Company, Montreal, and will in future conduct it from the new stand, corner St. Paul and Berri streets.

Wilkin & Hicks have discontinued their general store business at High Bluff. We are in a position definitely to state that their reason for quitting was not that they endeavored to run the business on the same basis.

The Truro Real Estate Mart are advertising under "Business Chances" in this issue what they claim is an exceptionally good chance for an enterprising merchant to start a departmental store, in the bustling town of Truro, Nova Scotia.

Chausse, Guertin & Co., manufacturers of grocers' specialties, have removed from 17 St. Therese street, to 322 Notre Dame street, Montreal. The growing business of the firm requires larger premises and the move was made necessary for this reason.

The Royal Biscuit Company's manufacturing establishment at Ste. Anne de la Perade, Quebec, and the residence of the proprietors, Messrs. Boulanger, was totally destroyed by fire at six o'clock on June 4th last. The loss was $20,000, and insurance $6,000.

J. A. Herreboudt has opened a Canadian office at 22 Lemoine street, Montreal, for Chocolats Meurisse. These chocolates are made in Antwerp. Medals and diplomas have been awarded these goods on many occasions. The Grand Prix was captured at the Liege exhibition. Mr. Herreboudt is taking orders for direct importation.

TO KEEP OUT POOR TEA.

The Department of Customs has decided to make itself felt in the pure food propaganda, and to that end new regulations have been adopted which will require the official testing at Ottawa of the great bulk of the teas coming into the country.

Heretofore, teas under 10 cents in value, had to be submitted by sample to the expert tea testing staff at Ottawa.

It is pretty well known that teas which have been refused entry to the United States have been shipped into Canada, not because our standards are lower than theirs, but the dealers in these dregs of the tea industry, unable to circumvent the American customs, have not been above invoicing their wares at a fictitious value in order that it might escape inspection by the Canadian officials. Considerable quantities of it have escaped inspection and gone into consumption in this country.

The new regulations require that samples of all tea up to 20 cents in value shall be sent to Ottawa for expert examination. This import valuation will cover by far the greater portion of the tea consumed in Canada, and the teas entered at higher values will be closely scrutinized, and if there is any doubt about these they will have to be sampled, so that any attempt to enter by fictitious valuation tea so poor as to be unfit for use would appear to be doomed to failure.

There is an impression in the trade that the sampling plan will delay business about a week. That is not the case. The Minister is very particular that there shall be as little delay as possible. Samples from such centres as Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal can be mailed to Ottawa and the reply of the department be in the hands of the importer within three days. To centres at greater distances the reply will be telegraphed. To further avoid delays, importers will be permitted to warehouse their teas pending the departmental report, and should it be unsatisfactory the customs officials will have power to recover the tea. The text of the new regulations has not yet been issued.

THE CLERK WINS.

Miss Ada Fairbairn, Embro, writes in reply to the "Which wins?" editorial in last week's issue:

"My father being a subscriber for The Canadian Grocer, I take great pleasure in reading it. In looking through last week's edition I noticed the item "Which wins?" I figure out that the hired man has the best of the bargain by $375. Am I right?

"Yours truly,
"ADA FAIRBAIRN."

Her figuring, however, appears to us defective, rather, perhaps, her reading of the problem. The employer offered $500 for the first year, with an increase of $100 a year, which would mean $900 for the fifth year, or a total for the five years of $3,500. The young man offered to start at $500, with an increase of $25 every six months. That would be (and this is the point on which the question turns), $250 for the first six months, $275 for the second six months, $300 for the third six months, and so on, giving $475 for the tenth or last six months, and making a total of $3,625. The young man, therefore, makes $125 by his apparently unpromising offer.

It is very gratifying, however, to know that Miss Fairbairn is a reader of The Grocer. Herein we humbly submit she sets a luminous example to many daughters in the grocery trade.

WARM WEATHER IN THE WEST.

A fortnight of warm weather with seasonable rains throughout the western provinces has already had the effect of restoring confidence. Reliable crop reports secured by the railway officials in Winnipeg from their agents throughout the three wheat growing provinces indicate that in spite of unfavorable weather this spring the wheat acreage is practically the same as last year, while the acreage of coarse grains shows a very substantial increase. It seems likely that high prices will be paid for wheat next fall and experienced farmers are confident that with favorable weather during June, July and August, a good crop is assured. The ground was never in more favorable condition than this year to receive the seed, and if weather conditions continue favorable there is no reason for special anxiety.

In the meantime there is a heavy movement eastward of last season's delayed crop, and as exceptionally high prices are being realized, the effect is already being felt throughout the west. Country collections are improving and obligations are being discharged.

Unfortunately there is a disposition among some farmers to hold their wheat for still higher prices. This tendency should be discouraged as much as possible by the dealers to whom these farmers are indebted for heavy store bills. Dealers should insist on getting their money now, for they have surely done enough when they have carried their customers' accounts all winter. The merchant is a man of influence in the community and he can do a great deal to help in this matter. It is important that the wheat should be moved as quickly as possible in order to enable the railways to handle the 1907 crop next fall.

FISH.

The Department of Railways and Canals is taking up the matter of a more amicable co-operation between the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces and the fish-consumers of Ontario. In view of the fact that New York state, by means of cold storage on the railways, has built up, within the last few years, a very satisfactory trade in fish, there seems to be no reason why the Canadian Maritime Provinces, whose product is acknowledged to be superior, should not be able to secure a valuable market in Ontario, extending, eventually, as far as Manitoba.

If the Department of Marine and Fisheries could be induced to send an expert to the fish consuming centres of western Ontario and by this method ascertain the capacity of the market in that section and the general possibilities for the development of trade, a remunerative and reciprocally beneficial trade could be established, the limitations of which it would be difficult to phophesy.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

KINGSTON.

With the retail grocer there is very little time between acts. He thinks he will take a few days off, but finds it hard to do. The fruits from Florida and California need looking after. He is up to his neck in pineapples just now and every apple has had to have attention. The oranges and lemons need to be attended to. Hard proposition to get away in June, July or August; but get away he must, and so must his employes, and not forgetting the best friend of the grocer, the delivery horse. Give him a few weeks or months pasture. It will pay you. You get a new horse when he comes back.

The latest food fad is Wheat Berries, put up in neat 10c. packages by the Cereal Co., of Peterboro. It is similar to puffed rice, but more palatable, I think. This makes 179 foods on the list. What next? Banana chips, I suppose. It is a wonder Eddy doesn't put up basswood pies or spruce mince meat or fibre cookies.

Salada tea men are actually housebreaking, running up and opening people's doors and throwing 2-ounce packages of tea at the inmates. It is a good way to emphasize the fact that Salada tea is good tea. The tea is certainly a very good draw, but, methinks, there is a lot in a name. Would P. C. tell us how and where he got "Salada" which brought to him such fame. It is now up to him to build a yacht and call it the "Salada" and get after that cup that Sir Thomas couldn't get. Salada has won many china cups, why not try for the silver trophy? I am no sailor, should I be asked to join the crew, although I have made many a sale. But if we came in ahead I could cheer and cheer and cheer, and perhaps write a story without a tale. Well, well, here I am in the position of the man on the train with the whisk looking for the golden tip.

Jim the grocer went to Montreal last week, and on the way down a man got up and was struggling to get his overcoat. Our Jim helped him with it, and regretted he hadn't a whisk. The man replied, "It is all right, I haven't a quarter." Jim colored up and got black in the face, just like a porter. The man was the notorious Joe Haycock, of binder twine fame. Joe is bound to make manufacturers give good weight and measure.

McDonald, of the St. Thomas Broom Co., was on the train and talked brooms. He knows how to handle the subject and made sweeping statements about advances, etc.

While grocers were quietly paying 77½c. for peas, 85c. for corn, $1.07½ for tomatoes, a great noise was heard. What explosion was that? Was it an earthquake? No, not quite. A leading firm of canners sent a few carloads of corn and peas to Geo. Robertson & Co., who sold them off like hot cakes in a few days, at, peas 60c., corn 70c. Gee whiz, what a stir it created. Some of the retailers were glad, and some loaded up were mad, and the wholesale trade were not pleased. B. W. R. left town shortly after, I think he is in Toronto.

Amall loaf of bread in Montreal for 5c., weighs 12 to 14 ounces; in Kingston 5c. loaf weighs 24 ounces. How is that? And the quality of the Kingston bread is better if I'm a judge.

A man who does a large business with coupons told a friend that when he took stock he had over $4,000 worth of china, glass and silverware.

"Add this," said he, "to unsalable stock and bad debts, and where do I come in? I tell you," he said, "we are working for the masses. There is no money in trade when you have to give presents with your goods. Sorry I ever started."

This seems to be the verdict of everyone, yet the retailer allows the chinaman to talk him into the gift system and you can't advise him. He goes into the trap and after a while there is a click and he looks through the wire cage, but don't see any way of escape. No, he is a prisoner. Retailer, take warning; give good value and you will be ahead in the long run.

Jas. Kinney has opened up a grocery on the corner of Pine street, and expects to make things hum.

John Murphy, brother of the famous Larry, cheese exporter, has opened up a grocery on the corner of Bay and Bagot streets, and expects his share of the trade.

Now the excitement of Cobalt and Larder Lake is beginning to subside. The promoters are offering new claims at 2c. and a promise of selling the same in a few months for 20c. What rot! What methods to extract hard-earned cash from the masses who believe all they read! Is it not a case of getting money under false pretense? Has the Minister of Justice no jurisdiction in the matter? Why don't he probe and make a few examples if fraud can be proved and save the people whom he is sworn to protect? He has a duty to perform and he should do it or get out and let some one else act. Some strong-minded people are led into taking up shares in mining stock by the well-worded advertisements and cunning ways adopted by promoters, who are becoming millionaires by their deep-laid plans. A merchant here said he bought shares in coal, silver, iron and gold mines for the last thirty years and never realized one cent on his investments. Well, let us watch and pray.

LONDON.

The prices of all grades of butcher's meat have been advanced an average of three cents per pound, which is the biggest advance in several years. The fact that there have been few cattle shipped from the west to Toronto this year is given as the principal reason for the sudden and marked advance, and the big raise in Chicago is also thought to be reflected in local conditions, although there can have been no direct effect.

In the immediate vicinity of London the butchers have had to pay much advanced prices for all grades and classes of meat because of the scarcity of fodder and the consequent greater appreciation of all live stock held. For the usual 15c. cuts of steak 18c. is now charged, and round steak, which until recently was sold at 12½c., now brings 14c.

Retail grocers in the southern part of the city—at least some of them—are offering five per cent. discount for cash purchases, which has set their competitors by the ears, the result being that officers of the association have been called on to adjust matters.

A special committee of the Retail Grocers' Association has prepared a plan of an area within which to confine the push cart men, the idea being to keep these vendors from the vicinity of retail stores. The matter will be taken up by the license committee of the city council to-morrow night, when the grocers' committee will be present.

The Retail Grocers' Association picnic committee is considering the advisability of inviting the grocers of Woodstock and Galt to join in their excursion to Toronto next month.

Harry Ranahan, president of the Retail Grocers' Association, was waited on recently by a deputation from the association who, on behalf of that body, presented him with a wedding gift in the shape of a handsome easy chair.

TORONTO.

The Wednesday half-holiday is being pretty generally observed, but there is still room in the ranks of the rest club.

The Retail Grocers' Association is expecting a big turn-out at their moonlight next Monday evening. The steamer Cayuga is the latest addition to the fleet of the Niagara Navigation Co., and an excellent evening's entertainment is promised.

David Bell, Yonge St., secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, and pleasantly known as "Davey" when the association meets, is enlarging his business premises. For years he has conducted the largest business in Toronto in proportion to the size of his store. He has secured the adjoining store, his own being on the corner, and as soon as the front has been reconstructed and painted the partition will be removed. Mr. Bell has a strictly high-class trade; carries the best grades of goods, and his profits are on a like basis. Price-cutting, or any kind of competition other than good goods and good service, is entirely foreign to his method of conducting business. Mr. Bell's present store is about 18x40 feet and the new addition is a little smaller.

Hardy Bros. have taken over the Imperial grocery at Parliament and Gerrard Sts., and are conducting there a strictly cash business. Both young men, Horace and Charles, are experienced in business and they have the vim to make things go. Each Friday they issue several thousand hand bills giving special prices for Saturday. They make a specialty of butter and eggs and by good buying are able to attract a lot of business under that head and always sell at a fair margin of profit, too. Last Saturday they started with 500 pounds of butter and by 7 p.m. it was all gone.

John Pettigrew, who has conducted a grocery business on Queen St. at Brock Ave. for 16 years, has for some years carried on a profitable venture in potted plants. Being on a corner and having a wide boulevard, he uses it to set out a large display of potted plants of the ordinary garden variety. He secures the services of an expert gardener to do the selling and the venture continues several weeks each spring.

The grocers' section of the Toronto Retail Merchants' Association made a visit in strength to the factory of the well known Battle Creek health foods.

C.O.F. Convention.

Chatham this week has been en fete, particularly King Street, where the entire business portion of the thoroughfare from one end to another was aglow with flags. The occasion was the provincial convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and the enterprising merchants of the Maple City surpassed themselves in their decorations in honor of the visitors, of whom there were several hundred from various parts of the province.

A New Industry.

Chatham is to have a new industry, the ratepayers last week having, by the very decided vote of 1,271 to 91 pronounced in favor of granting the Wolverine Brass Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., certain concessions, including a $20,000 loan to induce them to locate here. The by-law was strongly backed by both the Board of Trade and the local Retail Merchants' Association, and the combination proved a winner. Between rain and mud, the day was decidedly unfavorable, but the workers were out in force, and, as usual when quantity of their beets this year measured up to a certain standard, he would build a factory here next year.

Mr. Anderson's Accident.

Mr. Anderson, the energetic secretary of the grocers' section of the local R. M. A., narrowly escaped a serious accident Tuesday evening. He was driving down King Street to attend the R. M. A. meeting when his horse took fright and bolted. The horse and rig collided with a telegraph pole with such force as to move the latter an inch or more and badly damaged the rig. Mr. Anderson was badly shaken up, but was able to walk home.

Much regret was expressed by his fellow members of the R. M. A. at Mr. Anderson's accident. He has been one of the most faithful and zealous members of that organization, and a meeting without him seems to lack something of completeness.

Retailers Meet.

Owing to Mr. Anderson's accident, no report was presented at the retailers' meeting Tuesday evening, upon the Wednesday market day project. The committee, of which Mr. Anderson is head, have the matter well in hand, Grocers' Section, Toronto Retail Merchants Association, at Cowan Chocolate Factory.

Cowan Chocolate Co. recently. They were very hospitably received and after "seeing the works" from mainspring to minute hand were entertained at a pleasant luncheon. Before leaving a record of the event was taken by camera and the accompanying illustration shows the engraver's copy of the record.

CHATHAM.

Joseph Barassin, head clerk in Harry A. Andrews' grocery, who has been quite ill for some time past, is now improving.

Ingram Taylor, formerly connected with the grocery business here, left last week for Edmonton, Alta.

Geo. S. Heyward, local representative of the Queen City Oil Co., and wholesale tea merchant, has opened an office on Fifth Street.

V. J. Bosworth, the William Street grocer, is making a leading specialty of work was to be done, the grocers were in the forefront.

No Sugar Factory Yet.

For some time past Chairman Westman of the civic industrial committee has been in communication with Capt. Davidson, beet sugar magnate, with reference to the location of a sugar factory in Chatham. Capt. Davidson will be remembered as the capitalist who, on account of an assessment dispute a few years ago, removed his factory from Dresden, Ont., to Janesville, Wis. He has several times expressed himself favorably regarding Chatham as a location, and it was at one time expected that the factory would be located here this season.

Ald. Westman says, however, that in his last letter Capt. Davidson stated that he had the farmers of Kent on a sort of probation. If the quality and however, and developments may be looked for in the near future. The board of trade are acting conjointly with the R. M. A. in endeavoring to secure excursion rates to Chatham from outside points on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The various railways have been communicated with. To counteract the effect of the cheap Thursday excursions to Detroit, the lines have been asked to run similar excursions on Wednesdays and Saturdays from Detroit to Chatham.

There was an informal discussion regarding the Thursday half holiday during the summer. The feeling of the meeting was, however, rather opposed to the project. One member declared that during the summer months the afternoon was the best part of the day for business; adding that the half day off spoiled the morning as well. Objection was also made that farmers, coming to town and finding the stores all closed, didn't take kindly to the innovation. The consensus of opinion was that, by closing earlier in the evening, better results would be obtained.

Chairman Austin, of the civic finance committee, reported that the subject of the business assessment of local reeailers—30 vs. 35 per cent.—would be taken up by that committee with the city solicitor on Thursday. A report will probably be brought in at Monday evening's council meeting.

It was also reported that the property committee, to whom had been referred the remitting of Wednesday market fees as a means of encouraging marketing on that day, had as yet made no report.

Secretary Winterstein reported that with the formation of a drug section recently, the organization of all the sections of the local R. M. A. was practically complete.

Several members stated that the credit reporting system of the association had worked well in bringing delinquent debtors to time, and the association decided to order a further supply of collection books.

Wallaceburg Board of Trade.

At a meeting of the Wallaceburg Board of Trade last week, T. C. Burgess was elected treasurer of that body, and the following were appointed to the executive: Dr. Mitchell, Wm. McNairnie, S. D. Crothers, A. J. Hawken, A. E. O'Flynn, Capt. Scott.

The board intend to make a grant in aid of the Firemen's Demonstration on Aug. 6, 7, and 8. The matter of canvassing for new industries was also discussed, and it is understood that earnest efforts are to be made to boom the town along this line.

Won't Celebrate the First.

Despite the efforts of Wm. Anderson, who has always strongly advocated it, there will be no Dominion Day celebration this year. The matter was brought up at the Retail Merchants' Association awhile ago, but the general opinion was that it was too late to do anything. There is a strong probability, however, that a celebration of some kind may take place later in the season, on Civic Holiday or Labor Day.

HAMILTON.

Brantford sent down four of her best looking grocers to complete arrangements for their annual picnic. For some years now Brantford has been joining Hamilton grocers in their annual outing and this year the grocers of both cities will have the opportunity of fraternizing at Niagara Falls. The deputation consisted of the president, Mr. Barnes, and Messrs. Harp Bros. and Foulds. They were right cordially welcomed and entertained by the Hamilton grocers and arrangements satisfactory to both parties were made. The picnic will be the best ever, as the details being rounded up go to show that in our chairman, Mr. Main, we have a hustler who is leaving nothing undone to make it a jolly outing. Grocers are advising their customers to get the buttons sewed on tight as the fun will be furious. Among other attractions will be Messrs. Burjau and Doleman, the celebrated German comedians, who have been secured for the day at considerable expense and who will give their side-splitting selections in the park for the benefit of all.

There is considerable friction between the wholesale and retail trade here in regard to the retailing of goods to consumers. When city travelers are asked by their firms to call on others than the legitimate trade it must be humiliating to them. Any small restaurant or lunch counter with a pie in the window seems to be considered on the same footing as a grocery store. I can't see count, weigh, measure and gauge under and let the best groceries support them.

A little word here about receiving goods. I don't believe one grocer out of ten looks after this end of his business as closely as he should. Let us count, weigh, measure and gauge everyeverything we buy. It is time well spent and gives the dealer who does it more prestige with the jobber because they prefer to sell goods to a man who is looking closely after every detail of his business.

INGERSOLL.

Farmers and others who are engaged in the growing of tomatoes on a large scale are beginning to take a serious view of the situation caused by the unseasonable weather, and it is probably none too early for consumers of this popular canned vegetable to give some thought to the crop outlook. On making enquiries your correspondent was informed that it was the intention of the Ingersoll Canning Co. to transplant about three hundred thousand tomato plants this season. The constant cold and wet weather has materially interfered with the work of transplanting the plants and up to the present time but very little of it has been done. The Ingersoll Company has a very large acreage in Elgin county for the growing of tomatoes. The soil is particularly adapted for this vegetable and in former years splendid crops have been realized. Your correspondent was also informed that the present season was several weeks late and the prospects at the present time are not all encouraging, although every effort will be put forth to rush the work as soon as the weather conditions are more propitious. It is the intention of the company to increase the number of their employes this fall. With favorable weather from now on it is felt that a good crop of tomatoes should be had and in this event the Ingersoll factory will give employment to at least fifty hands during the busy season.

The death of a former highly respected resident, in the person of Mrs. Slawson, relict of the late C. H. Slawson, occurred at Spokane, Wash., last week. The remains were accompanied to Ingersoll by C. S. Slawson, son of the deceased, and the funeral took place from St. James' church on Tuesday afternoon to the Ingersoll rural cemetery.

Many farmers, who were interviewed by your correspondent, stated that the fall wheat was being damaged to a serious extent by a grub that has attacked the roots. Otherwise the wheat has wintered very well in the sections surrounding Ingersoll, but it is feared that the grub pest will have a very serious effect. The farmers also state that the hay crop will be far below that of previous years. This is due to the backward weather. It is the opinion of many farmers that the month of May governs the hay crop. They argue that if the weather is warm, with only occasional rains, that the hay obtains a growth then which it does not during any other month.

Generosity is a characteristic of the Ingersoll merchants, and they are invariably loyal to all movements under local auspices. This fact has been emphasized by their attitude during the past couple of weeks. As already mentioned, a monster Orange celebration will be held here on the 12th of July, and on Dominion Day the Ingersoll Gun Club will hold a big trap shooting tournament. Committees from the Gun Club and the Orange Lodge have made their rounds of the merchants soliciting prizes for these two events, and they met with splendid success.

On Tuesday George A. Mountain, of Ottawa, chief engineer of the Board of Railway Commissioners, and A. George Blair, law clerk, were in town taking evidence in connection with the proposed spur line to the factory of the Ingersoll Packing Co. At a recent session of the Railway Commission in Toronto the Commission ordered that an engineer's report be prepared and submitted. Several witnesses were heard and both sides of the matter fully gone into.

Eggs continue to be one of the most valuable products on the local market. The supply is far below that of previous years, for which, as in many other cases, the unseasonable weather is being held responsible. It has been a long time since the people of this town were compelled to pay sixteen cents per dozen for eggs at this season of the year, but this is the ruling figure and the purchaser has the alternative of taking them at this price or leaving them, for the sellers have the advantage of a limited supply on their side and a refusal one minute will mean a ready sale in another. The price has kept up so well that many people are inclined to the belief that it will show very little, if any, decline. It is at this particular season that eggs are usually the cheapest, but the hens do not appear to be thriving as previously, and if the weather continues cool, it is believed that there will be very little falling off in the price. Another feature that will no doubt enhance the value of eggs is the fact that but little success has been had thus far in raising chickens. The weather has been anything but favorable for young chicks, which will mean that many egg producers will have to rely almost entirely on their old hens for their winter's supply, as pullets raised after this date are not at all likely to commence laying before the middle of the winter or early spring. Viewed from a most optimistic standpoint the situation is indeed one of complications. In addition to a shortage of eggs during the fall and winter there is also the prospect of a shortage of poultry and the attendant higher prices.

While this is essentially a dairying section, and one of the most famous of this fair Dominion, the great proportion of the milk supply is directed to the cheese factories and the factory of the St. Charles Condensing Company, in this town. Comparatively few of the farmers do their own butter-making, as they find it more profitable to take their milk to the cheese factories. Much of the butter that is consumed here is imported from districts where cheese factories are not so plentiful as in this territory. During recent years the demand has steadily increased for creamery butter, and the average consumer willingly pays a higher price for it than the dairy product.

The St. Charles Condensing Company, which has here one of the finest equipped factories to be found in Canada, is considering the advisability of locating another plant somewhere in western Ontario and a number of towns are already making a bid for the proposed industry.

The business has grown to such an extent that the local plant is unable to handle it. Woodstock and Tillsonburg have been giving much serious thought to securing the proposed industry, while St. Marys and Listowel are also on the alert. The last mentioned towns sent deputations here, both of which were headed by the mayor of the town, and the plant was thoroughly inspected. Both deputations were delighted with the fine factory, its splendid equipment and the convincing evidence of the large volume of business.

GALT.

The grocery and retail trade in general in Galt continues very quiet. The Horse Show which was held on the last three days of last week brightened things up considerably. The show, which is one of the best in Canada, was bigger and better than ever before. It is estimated that there was in the neighborhood of 1,500 visitors in town during the days of the show. The windows of a number of the retail merchants were appropriately decorated for the occasion. A half holiday was observed during one of the days of the show.

Geo. Mutch, who is opening a grocery store on Bruce Street, is about ready to begin business. The new store, which is about completed, is very modern and with his many friends Mr. Mutch should meet with success.

The grocery store of Patrick Radigan which has been undergoing extensive improvements, presents a very creditable appearance, and adds greatly to the appearance of Main Street.

The grocers in Galt were greatly elated at the fine weather of Friday and Saturday last, and had pictured in their minds a view of their windows piled with strawberries and other early fruits. But with Monday came April weather again, and the vision of strawberry windows vanished.

The weekly half holiday agitation has vanished, and the clerks have buried their hopes of a weekly outing during one day of the summer months. The premature demise of the scheme was owing to the contrary stand taken by two or three of the leading merchants. That this beneficial idea should be dropped is surely a mistake. It is quite possible that the druggists and jewelers may declare a weekly half holiday, irrespective of the action of the other merchants.

Hollands & McAuley, who recently opened a grocery store on South Water Street, are rapidly forging to the front and already this store has an enviable reputation.

"It looks as if we were not going to have Canadian-grown strawberries before the end of June this year," said Hugh Walker, of the firm of Deans & Walker, to your correspondent to-day. "In many previous years we have had Canadian strawberries on sale as early as June 6th, and they were of excellent quality, too. However, it appears that we will not grow wealthy over our transactions in fruit this year." Mr. Walker has strawberries on sale, imported from the south, and which retail at 25 cents per box.

The market on Saturday was largely attended. The farmers have about completed their seeding operations. Butter, 25c per lb.; eggs, 17c dozen; onions, radishes, etc., 5c bunch; chickens, 60c each; potatoes, $1.20 per bag. A number of farmers were questioned regarding the effect the backward weather would have on the crops in general. Those interviewed one and all stated that while the weather was undoubtedly very backward, there was no cause for alarm, and that from present indications the crops would be fully equal to those of previous years. It would appear from the above statement that the rumors regarding light crops are to be believed with caution.

PETERBOROUGH.

The farmers' excursion left the city Wednesday morning for Guelph Experimental Farm and there was a big crowd on board the special train. Many city men, including merchants and their clerks, accompanied them.

The Retail Merchants' Association is up in arms again. This time it is because the police have been instructed to enforce what is known as the Bonfire By-law. It provides that no merchant can leave packing boxes, or waste material of any kind, in the lanes or in their back yards. This morning the president of the association was before the magistrate, charged with leaving some boxes in the yard at the rear of his store. The case was enlarged for eight days. What the merchants are indignant about is that they cannot leave an ordinary packing box in their back yard. They claim that the mayor and police are altogether too officious and are going too far. It was only a few weeks ago that several merchants were fined for blocking the walks; then the sign by-law came up, and now the bonfire by-law. The mayor claims the Canadian Fire Insurance Underwriters' Association forces him to put the by-law into force. The merchants answer this with the statement that the Canadian Fire Insurance Underwriters have nothing to do with it. The insurance men do not pay more than a couple of thousand dollars a year for losses by fires in this city and they take out about $100,000 a year in premiums. It is time, the merchants think, that the council took a hand in the matter and dictated to the insurance companies. If the city carried the fire risks instead of the Underwriters' Association, the president claims the insurance men would soon come down off their high horse. It is likely the retail merchants will hold a meeting before the case against the president comes up again.

On Saturday morning the chief of police and three of his men made a raid on the market and seized all the butter that thirteen women were offering for sale. For some time past there have been complaints of short weight in butter and the police undertook to find out what grounds the citizens had. The result was that of the thirteen women who appeared in police court, only two had fulll weight in their prints. Two or three were only half an ounce short, while eight were from one to two ounces short per pound. These were fined $2 and costs and their butter given back to them, although most of the farmers' wives took their butter back home. Needless to say, the women were very much excited and the incident caused general comment throughout the entire city. The police and the magistrate did not accuse the ladies of fraud, but the fine was made to encourage them to be more careful, as they stated that they had not weighed their butter. There is far too much carelessness on behalf of the farmers of this district and the householders in the city have been paying the top prices for a whole lot of things they do not get.

A Hard By-law.

C. B. Routley, President of the Retail Merchants' Association, who was charged in the police court Monday with having a number of packing boxes in his yard, contrary to the by-law, in conversation with a Grocer correspondent, said :

"Mayor McWilliams, since coming into office, has shown his hand in a way which seems very unfriendly to the merchants of Peterborough. The claim is that the insurance companies demand that the merchants shall not keep packing boxes in their yards, and our city fathers agree to protect these corporations in their contention so that our city is thus the agent agreeing to protect the companies who make thousands of dollars every year out of Peterborough. They say : 'We like your money but on any risk we want $90 out of every $100 paid to us.'

"I venture to say there is collected in Peterborough one hundred thousand dollars a year for insurance, and that the companies combined do not have losses aggregating fifteen thousand.

"I, for one, think it would not be a bad idea for our city to do its own insuring; then we would not be dictated to by a company of capitalists. The companies have a right to give the city of Peterborough a lower rate, considering the small losses during the past 25 years. I believe that it would be a good thing to keep the money in the city. I also think that the reductions we receive in our water rates would not hold a patch to the enormous dividends or rebate that we would get, providing the city undertook to protect its citizens in this matter. It is high time that our city fathers took a stand and demanded a lower rate, and not put up with the dictation of rich corporations. As long as the companies can make objections to this, that, and the other thing, and have our officials carry out their ideas it is all right, but for goodness' sake don't ask them to give back any of the money they collect in this city."

A. Boeckh, Montreal manager of United Factories, Limited, was in Toronto for a few days on business with the company.

BLACK SEA AND RETURN.

H. P. Eckardt Back From Holiday in Southern Europe.

H. P. Eckardt, Toronto, returned last week from his annual trip abroad with his family. This year he sojourned again in the Mediterranean, most of the time in southern Europe. He went first to Palermo and spent a month among the lemon groves of Sicily. The first move was into Africa, and a fortnight was passed very interestingly and pleasantly at Tunis, which Mr. Eckardt, in conversation with a Canadian Grocer representative, described as the most interesting city he had ever visited. The flowing white robes of the native Arabs are a picturesque feature, and in the booths which line the narrow paths, which serve as streets, trade is carried on as it was thousands of years ago. In the country adjacent to Tunis vegetables are extensively grown for the French market. They are brought to Tunis on camels, and on February 1st, in the market there, Mr. Eckardt saw vegetables of every variety. The weather was like what is normally known as June weather in Canada. In the European section of the city, which is French, there are modern stores and up-to-date hotels.

Returning to Palermo, Mr. Eckardt and his family took ship for Smyrna, thence with little delay going on the Athens, calling on the way at Crete. The capital of Greece Mr. Eckardt described as one of the most modern cities of Europe. The principal buildings are handsome and of stone, the streets are wide, well paved and well kept, and the stores are quite equal to those of America.

"There doesn't seem to be any wholesale section in those cities," remarked Mr. Eckardt. "I don't know how trade is carried on unless the retailers are nearly all direct buyers."

The next point of contact was Constantinople. "The most beautiful city in the world to approach and the dirtiest and most unpleasant to be in," was Mr. Eckardt's opinion of it. In addition to the filth there were the numberless pariah dogs, sacred to the unsanitary habits of the Turks, whose howlings and barkings made sleep out of the question even in the best European hotels.

From the unspeakable capital of the Turk the route was laid by steamer to Odessa, the principal seaport of Russia. The first hour and a half lay through the straits of the Bosphorus, said to be one of the finest bits of scenery in the world. Both Asian and European shores rise gently to a considerable height, and set amid the green foliage are the summer palaces of princes and the villas of wealthy Turks and foreign ambassadors. The scars of the naval mutiny of two years ago were still visible at Odessa. The captain of the vessel on which were Mr. Eckardt and his family had commanded the German vessel held in Odessa at the time to take off German refugees, and he told an interesting story of the remarkable mutiny. Mr. Eckardt was impressed by Odessa principally because he was surprised by its modernness. The people seemed prosperous and were well dressed. A trip was made to Nicolaiaf, farther up the river, and now the grain port of southern Russia, a business which Odessa lost on account of labor troubles. There women work in the holds of the grain vessels, trimming the cargoes, work which men cannot be got to do.

Mr. Eckardt returned almost directly to Naples and went thence to the Italian lake country for a fortnight. He returned home via Paris and London.

JOHN WALDIE DEAD.

John Waldie, a leader in the lumbering industry, died suddenly at his home in Toronto Wednesday. For many years Mr. Waldie was a large general merchant at Burlington, and it was there he laid the foundation of his fortune.

CANNOT PROSECUTE SALMON SHIPPERS.

Montreal civic authorities have decided that no action can be taken against the parties who shipped several thousand tins of putrid salmon to that city. A city attorney visited Toronto to see if sufficient evidence was obtainable to issue a warrant, but on returning reported there was no evidence that fish had been shipped in bad faith. A certain amount had been good, and bad faith could not be proved.

Chief Dectective Carpenter reports detectives were unable to get evidence justifying issuing a warrant. City Attorney Ethier says that consequently it is impossible the law department can proceed. He says that July 1 the new federal law comes into effect, which will give inspectors the right to prevent shipping such dangerous food in future.

READY TO FIGHT.

There are some malicious persons who, in their anxiety to sell other shoe polish, have falsely stated that "2 in 1" shoe polish injures leather.

The proprietors of "2 in 1" will be pleased to have any person who has positive proof that the above statement has been made, communicate with the F. F. Dalley Co., of Hamilton, Canada, or their solicitors, Scott & Robertson, Federal Life Bldg., Hamilton.

The proprietors intend to enter suit against all persons who resort to unbusinesslike tactics in trying to belittle the virtues of "2 in 1" shoe polish.

LIVE-FOR-EVER BRUSHES.

A traveler sends this story and vouches for it:

In a large eastern city a gentleman recently had the pleasure of having his attention called in a very striking way to the superiority of goods of Canadian manufacture. Happening to be in a boot-shining parlor, the customer was informed by the young man who was wielding the brushes that the pair of brushes with which he had just shined the boots so nicely had been used constantly by him for ever seven years. "I shine about nine thousand pairs of boots a year," said the bootblack, "and this pair of brushes have, therefore, done over sixty-three thousand pairs for me. Moreover," he said, "the fellow who was here before me had the brushes three or four years before I took the job." The customer's curiosity was aroused and, looking at the brushes, he was delighted to find on each handle the name of a Canadian manufacturer. It is putting it mildly to say that the gentleman in question walked down street with a stronger faith than ever in Canadian goods.

DOUBLE EXPRESS CHARGES.

To the editor of The Canadian Grocer —Did you ever get an express parcel and see it plainly marked across tag, or on parcel, prepaid, and driver deliver it to you and want to collect charges over again? The writer desires to call the attention of merchants to this practice, which has been going on for some time unnoticed. It may be the fault of billing clerks at either end, but is a grievance of long standing, and the sooner it is looked into by some officials of Dominion and Canadian Express Companies the better, or some of the Government people will give them more trouble. Once they get your money it is hard and tedious to get a refund. I have had two parcels sent me lately which were plainly marked "prepaid," and the agent at destination wanted to collect again. Of course, drivers can do nothing, only carry out their orders.

TRAVELER.

J. H. CHRISTIE DEAD.

Friends of J. H. Christie, one of the oldest travelers in the grocery business, will be sorry to learn of his death. He passed away in Montreal Wednesday of this week. At the time of his death Mr. Christie was traveling for William Galbraith & Son, Montreal.

GROCER SALESMEN MARRIED.

Norman Wesley Lumbers, sixth and youngest son of James Lumbers, Toronto and a city traveler for his father, was married on Thursday of last week to Miss Gladys Montgomery at the home of the bride's grandparents, 22 Isabella St. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Gandier, of St. James' Square Presbyterian Church. The young couple have gone on a month's trip to American cities.

W. E. McMurtry, Toronto, of The Eby, Blain Co. salesroom staff, was married June 1st to Miss H. L. Hostrawser, of Toronto. The ceremony was held in the Church of the Redeemer, and was followed by a wedding luncheon at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. McMurtry visited the Eastern States on their honeymoon.

J. M. Brayley, agent for the Kentucky Refining Company, makers of refined oils, Louisville, Ky., has removed to 322 Notre Dame street east. Mr. Brayley is pushing various oils of this company in Montreal and seems to be doing considerable business.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS:—
Beans—Advanced.
Canned goods—Very scarce.
Lard—Firm.

Montreal, June 13, 1907.

Markets this week are firm, speaking generally, and, everything considered, business is good. Orders being taken are more of a sorting nature than anything else. Collections are satisfactory.

Canned goods continue extremely scarce, while demand seems all the stronger for this. Few firms expect to carry anything through to the new pack. Sugar is about steady, but there may be a change in the near future, and it is not likely to be an advance. Buying meanwhile is being done in a small way. Syrups are in fair demand at the recent advance, while molasses is called for in every quarter. Japan teas are quite interesting. Reports from Japan state that the firm tone of the market is maintained. Prospects are for a good second crop. Black teas are selling. Activity in dried fruits is confined mostly to prunes, although some raisins and a few currants are selling. The latter appear stronger. Orders are being taken for valencia raisins, new crop, at open prices. It is early yet, however, to say anything definite as to what figures will rule when the market opens in earnest. Beans are very firm at figures quoted. Evaporated apples are steady at 10c.

SUGAR — The market is stationary at present, the inclination in prices being hard to define. It does not appear likely that any advance will occur, while, on the other hand, refiners are not telling everybody that prices are about to drop. Buying is not great, mostly small lots being sold where business is transacted.

The outlook for second crop teas, which interests Canadians most, is favorable. Ceylons and Indians have not changed since last report. Black teas continue in strong demand.

Some valencias are being sold at prices which are good for those who bought them early. Orders for new crop valencias are being taken by one Spanish house at open prices. Prospects appear good, but no idea can be given at to what the price will be. Orders taken are subject to confirmation. Many jobbers are still undecided whether they will handle valencias or Californias, owing to the price question. Prunes continue to sell. Peels, orange and lemon, are up one cent.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—Each week the scarcity of certain lines of canned goods, notably corn, peas, beans, tomatoes, strawberries, peaches, is more marked. Some lines absolutely cannot be obtained for love or money, while other varieties, when obtainable, are of second quality. Any firm handling the right goods in these lines can make money to-day. In one section of the country it is reported that a considerable quantity of four-year-old stuff was offered and taken up, and this is selling at low prices.

TORONTO — There is a good movement of all lines, but practically all fruits are getting into very small compass and many jobbers are entirely out of a number of lines. There are still a few peaches, pears, blue plums, cherries and some, very few, strawberries. The demand for vegetables is also very satisfactory, but as yet it does not appear that there will be a shortage of anything. If any of the three staples run out it will be tomatoes. The Canadian Canners have issued notice that they will not pack any asparagus this season because of the failure of the crop. This is the first intimation in regard to this season's pack and it is not promising.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:—
Prunes—Higher.
Sugar—Slow.
Large pines—Scarce.
Butter—Lower.

Toronto, June 13, 1907.

The grocery business is very active and if sugar were moving as usual at this season trade would be bulking large indeed. Wholesalers generally report things brisker than a week ago. Sugar is the only article in which a better movement might be expected. The outgo of canned goods is very satisfactory. All fruits are getting into very small compass and not a few jobbers are out of many lines. Vegetables are in good demand. The new crop must now be late. There is plenty of corn and peas but it is not expected that many tomatoes will be carried over. The first line on the new pack arrived this week with an intimation from the Canadian Canners that they would not be able to pack any asparagus this year because the crop was practically a failure.

The raw sugar market continues weak, but a decline in refined is not anticipated.

The very strong position of new crop prunes at the coast has encouraged jobbers here to advance spot prices. At present quotations are somewhat irregular, but stocks are small and a general advance in all sizes is anticipated. Largest sizes are practically cleaned up now.

In all lines of groceries prices are strong. Collections are reported satisfactory.

TEA — Prices continue firm, but trade is dull, both jobbers and retailers buying only from hand to mouth.

COFFEE — Willett & Gray, New York, in their latest weekly report say:

"The large increase in the world's visible for the month of May, although daily foreshadowed by the receipts, naturally made an impression on the mind of the coffee world. It is claimed that the current crop is not only fully as large as our previous estimates but that it is also coming to market in proportion, as holders are not keeping back supplies more than they can possibly avoid. But the large yield and free movement of the present Santos crop have had the effect with the Government to increase its purchases, and while the impression formerly was that the total quantity the Government would take of this crop would not exceed seven million bags, we ascertain that the purchases will be continued up to even 8,000,000 bags or more."

SUGAR — The New York market for raws has been weak but European beet remains about steady. Supplies have accumulated with the New York refiners because of the longshoremen's strike and the unseasonable weather has checked consumption. Willett & Gray, reviewing the market last week, say:

"Sellers made the first movement for a change of quotations from the former quiet and steady market.

"The continuation of circumstances against them led to the legitimate result of a pressure to sell and decline in quotations irrespective of future values when the abnormal condition of strikes, bad weather, and reduced demand for refined product has passed by. In the meantime, spot and nearby sugar must be sold, and refiners, being greatly hampered in their receipt and caring for sugars bought long ago, could only take on new purchases at prices forced upon them.

"The business of the week in the sugars pressed for sale was mainly at basis of 3.86c. for 96 deg. test with final sales at 3.84c., showing decline of .06c. per lb. from the spot quotation of 3.90c. last week.

"At the close the position is still unchanged, the pressure to sell continues, and the ability to buy and take delivery is still less than before.

"Longshoremen's strikes, bad weather and limited demand for refined still govern the position, without indications of any let up in either direction.

"Hence further depression is likely to result for awhile, notwithstanding that Europe does not sympathize or participate in the tone and tendency of the markets here to any extent.

"Europe has fluctuated within 3d. for the week, opening at 10s. and closing at 9s. 11¼d. for beet sugar (parity of 4.09c. for 96 test centrifugals) and even gaining ¾d. for the next month deliveries.

"The European weather is cabled to us by Mr. Licht as unfavorable for the growing crop.

"Cuba centrals working are now reduced to seven, as against 68 last year. Week's receipts 7,000 tons, against 16,000 tons for corresponding week last year. Visible crop to date 1,350,000 tons, against 1,075,000 tons at same date last year."

Prices for refined locally continue unchanged and despite the weak condition of the market for raws a decline is not looked for. The movement of sugars is very light.

DRIED FRUITS — Prunes are the feature of the dried fruit market at present. They are in good demand. Stocks held here are small, and in view of the high and increasing prices for futures at the coast wholesalers are advancing spot prices. For the time being quotations are a little uneven, but the advance is almost sure to continue. There are no 30-40s to be had here. Tap figs are rather lower under pressure to reduce stocks.

W E. MURRAY BEREAVED.

A sad bereavement came last week to W. E. Murray, Toronto, representative of the Canada Sugar Refining Co., in the death of his son, a recent graduate in medicine. The young doctor has been walking the hospitals in Toronto and was about to begin practice, and had a very bright future in his profession. He was ill but a few days. Mr. Murray has the deep sympathy of a wide circle of friends in the grocery trade.

NEW BRUNSWICK GROCERY NEWS

Eastern View of Sugar Situation—Fish Industry—Woodenware Factory Burned —Potato Situation in the Province—Fire in a Candy Factory.

(By Canadian Grocer Special Correspondents.)

St. John, N.B., June 10, 1907.

Business continues very good in all lines. Prices hold firm and there has been an advance in several lines during the past week.

Sugars—An advance is looked for shortly. The prices of sugars on this side of the Atlantic have for some time been much lower than in the European markets, which has been due to the low prices at which Cuban sugars have been selling. The production of this season's crop in Cuba is about to a close as there are now only seven centrals making sugar out of a total number of one hundred and eighty. It is estimated that New York or Paris will have to buy between 300,000 and 400,000 tons of beet or Java sugars, for which, of course, they will have to pay the ruling prices in those markets, consequently it is simply a question of time when prices on this side of the Atlantic must rule considerably higher than at present. For their immediate wants the New York refiners are well supplied, and are holding off from buying, and squeezing prices down on any lots that are forced on their markets for sale. It is expected that in a short time the situation on this side of the Atlantic will be very much improved in the interests of sellers.

Flour and Meals—Prices in Ontarios advanced fifteen cents during the week. Some of the dealers are looking for an advance in Manitobas, while others are inclined to think the present prices will rule for a time at least. Cornmeal is now at the highest figure it has been in some time, and bags are sold at $1.40. Oatmeal is higher in the primary market, but dealers here are well supplied and it is being sold at a figure lower than is being asked at the mills.

Fish—The merchants are getting their first lots of new cod. The market is holding firm and old fish are pretty well cleaned up. Smoked herring are much firmer. In harbor fishing, the run of gaspereaux is nearly over. The total catch is considerably below the average but the prices received have been higher than for several seasons, so that things will just about balance all round. Shad and salmon are being taken in limited quantities.

Other lines—New cheese is holding steady at about 13½ cents. In evaporated apples, stock is moving freely and the market is firmer. Prunes and raisins are somewhat higher and there has also been a slight advance in beans. The supply of onions is limited to Egyptian in bags, and the market is very firm.

Hall & Fairweather are making quite extensive alterations in their premises on Ward street. The offices are being remodeled, an additional private office being built. A hot water heating system is being put in and an electric elevator installed.

J. Hunter White, who has been in England on a combined business and pleasure trip, sails for home on the 11th.

Alderman John W. Vanwart and Donaldson Hunt, who have been spending a few days fishing at Bonney River, have returned home. They secured one hundred and twenty-nine trout.

W. R. Potter, manager of the Supply Co., at Canning, N.S., and Arthur Burgess, manager of the Trading Co. at the same place, were in the city last week on a business trip.

A disastrous fire occurred at Hampton, Friday, when all the buildings, except a small one occupied as an office, belonging to the Canada Woodenware Company, together with their extensive manufacturing plant, finished stock and lumber in the dry house, etc., were destroyed. The company's loss will be about $30,000, and some 35 hands are thrown out of employment.

The new manufacturing industry was just entering upon its second year's enterprise and orders were coming in which bid fair to keep a large staff busy in working up a successful business. Pails, tubs and other forms of woodenware were turned out. The company carried $18,000 insurance.

A fire which broke out in the premises of the White Candy Company, on Union street, Friday night, did about $2,500 damage. The blaze started on the fourth floor in the manufacturing department and kept the firemen busy for about an hour.

Thomas White, president of the company, and Mrs. White, are in Montreal on their way to Scotland, and Thomas F. White, manager of the business, is on his way home from England.

The fire came at a very bad time, as the factory has been working night and day to fill orders. The rush has been almost as bad as the Christmas season. Repairs are being made.

W. Alexander Porter has secured the agency here for Noxie Kola, a bottled beverage put up by F. B. Perkins, of Waterloo, Quebec, and he received a carload last week for which he is meeting with a ready sale. A team for demonstration purposes will be sent here in a few days.

From all over the province come reports of the scarcity of potatoes and the consequent high prices. A correspondent at Hopwell Hill, Albert county, says: "It is something unusual for the residents of this farming section to be paying $1 a bushel, which is the price now being given for coppers, other varieties bringing as high as 90 cents. The merchants here have been importing Island potatoes from Moncton, and have been told by the dealers there that they will not be able to guarantee any after next week, there being considerable danger of a potato famine."

A Hartland correspondent writes:—"Throughout Carleton and Victoria counties the potato industry has sprung into amazing proportions. Last year the two counties raised five times as many potatoes as any previous year. This season the acreage is ten times that of last year. Forty thousand dollars worth of superphosphate has been sold in this village this spring. The sales reached to about $4,000 last year. Many farmers have planted from 25 to 40 acres. Last season showed an average profit of about $50 an acre."

Quite a curiosity, in the shape of an egg, was seen a few days ago in Hawker's drug store, Prince William street. A case of eggs had been received for use at the soda fountain and on the top was one which was thought too small to give to a customer and the boy was told to break it and give it to the cat. Upon breaking the shell he found a perfect yolk and inside it another egg, about as large as a canary's egg, perfectly formed, with a shell on it.

T. Rankine & Sons, biscuit manufacturers, have granted the Saturday half-holiday to their employes during the months of June, July and August.

W. Hawksley Merritt, who for many years has been in the retail grocery business here, as a member of the firm of Puddington & Merritt, left recently with his family for British Columbia, where he will locate.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, June 13, 1907.)

Ideal growing weather has prevailed for three or four weeks now, and in spite of the late opening of the summer season the prospects for a "bumper" crop are now considered excellent. Farmers have been so busy seeding that the eastward shipments of last season's wheat have not been so heavy as was looked for but the movement will be very large from this time on.

Advance in prunes and white beans and continued firmness of the rolled oats market are the features this week. Owing to the advance in wheat "meat of wheat," a breakfast food manufactured in the west, has been advanced in price.

ONTARIO GUILD MEETING.

Wholesalers Conclude a Very Pleasant and Profitable Session.

The Wholesale Grocers' Guild closed its two days' session in the Board of Trade rooms, London, on Wednesday evening.

Much of the time was taken up with hearing deputations, perhaps the most important of which was Mr. Moyer, of Toronto, of the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association, who addressed the convention on matters of prime concern to the wholesaler and retailer, pointing out where the former, in his dealings with the producer, can improve the position of those who are his direct customers. Mr. Moyer's views were well received by the convention, the feeling being that everything possible along the lines suggested should be done. It was also decided to endeavor to induce Mr. Moyer to visit London in the near future to address the local Retail Grocers' Association, which is not in affiliation with the Dominion organization. A resolution was adopted asking manufacturers, in making limited selling prices, not to forget to give the retailer living profits.

David Marshall, M.P. for East Elgin, and Mr. Innis, addressed the guild in behalf of the Canadian Canners, explaining the change in the new law in reference to labeling goods, and their determination to maintain the highest quality of their product.

A strong recommendation was adopted, urging upon the Federal Government the establishment of a "bureau of inland trade and commerce," where matters relating to inland trade and commerce may be considered and dealt with.

The present department of trade and commerce is devoted mostly to matters relating to trade with foreign countries and not sufficient attention is given to the necessities of inland trade in Canada. Matters brought to the attention of this department fifteen months ago by manufacturers, wholesale and retail merchants have not as yet been dealt with.

A very strong committee was appointed to co-operate with committees of manufacturers and retail merchants to take whatever action they may deem necessary to urge the consideration of this matter upon the Government.

The new bill of lading proposed by the railways of Canada, and recently considered by the Railway Commission, came in for much criticism. Chairman Justice Killam has been asked to insist upon changes in harmony with the requirements of shippers.

The evils of the rebate system were given consideration. This is a method adopted by some salesmen of giving to some larger buyers a rebate on the fixed prices adopted by the manufacturers. This places the small buyers at a serious disadvantage, so they are not able to compete. The evils of the method have been fully demonstrated in railway and insurance business across the line, consequently the laws have been enacted making it a criminal offence for any officer to give rebates in any form, or for any merchants to receive rebates from the company or their agents. As the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers have larger interests and are more in number than the railroads and insurance interests, it is hoped legislation will be adopted by the Government to put a stop to the practice.

A recommendation was adopted that holidays for all wholesale grocers' travelers shall cover two weeks, beginning July 20 and ending August 3.

The president of the Hamilton guild extended a hearty invitation to the provincial guild to hold the next annual meeting in that city. The invitation was accepted.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President—T. B. Escott, London, Ont. (re-elected).

First Vice-president—W. G. Craig, Kingston, Ont.

Second Vice-president—W. Gilmour, Brockville, Ont.

Secretary-Treasurer—Jas. Somerville, Hamilton, Ont. (re-elected).

Before the session closed, the visiting delegates passed a resolution of thanks to the London Guild for the pleasant entertainment given them. J. M. Dillon, in the absence of President Screaton, replied, expressing pleasure at having a visit from so many representative business men of the province.

The drive about the city on Tuesday was much enjoyed despite the disagreeable weather prevailing. The carriages stopped at the residence of Col. A. M. Smith, of A. M. Smith & Co., where refreshments were served. The delegates were loud in their praises of the beauties of the Forest City.

FLOUR MILL FOR McLEOD.

The construction of a 250-barrel flour mill will be commenced at McLeod almost immediately. The cost will be $50,000. The members of the Society of Equity and shareholders of the new mill have obtained from the town exceptionally favorable concessions, viz.: A building site of nine lots, free water, exemption from all taxation for a period of years and cheap electric power. D. J. Grier will be general manager.

W. M. Langton, of Nanaimo, B.C., was a visitor to Toronto wholesalers during the past week. Mr. Langton sees a wonderful change in Toronto since his last visit of ten years ago.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Prices quoted this week are ⅝c. to ¾c. below those which were the standard a short six days ago. That they will decline still further is quite probable, and it is merely a question of how much lower they will fall. At the time of writing dealers are asking for Ontarios 12c., while ruling figures for Townships are around 11¾c. Straight Quebecs are lower still, 11½c. to 11⅝c. being asked.

Export business is improving, although trade with the Old Country is still limited. Prices have been too high all along to warrant the placing of many orders, and beyond buying what was required for immediate use English firms did little in the purchasing line. But lately, causing the improvement mentioned, figures dropped, little by little, and there has been some nibbling by large buyers, over and above the regular trade. Allow present prices to decline a little further and good business will result.

Receipts were better last week than week of June 2, 63,604 boxes being received against 48,770 boxes June 2 week, and against 73,834 boxes week of June 8, 1906. It will be noticed that the shortage, comparing last week's receipts with those of the same week 1906, is about 10,000 boxes, as it was shown in figures given a week ago. To June 7, receipts are reported as being 191,808 boxes, against 258,890 boxes for like period 1906.

Exports last week were some 20,000 boxes behind what they were for the corresponding week last year, being but 48,406 boxes against 66,413 boxes in 1906. They showed an increase of over 14,000 boxes over the previous week, when shipments amounted to 34,005 boxes. Total shipments since May 1 figure out 188,930 boxes, against 258,110 boxes for the same time 1906. Notice that shipments are 69,180 boxes behind last season.

Butter, like cheese, is declining in price, and next week will likely bring with it a further drop. It is a good thing for export trade that figures are going down, for up to the present time business transacted has been very small. Not a hundred packages have been shipped, which will give some idea as to the volume of the export trade. The whole trouble lies in the fact that prices are much too high to interest English buyers. The Old Country market is not by any means bare of butter, and importers have not necessarily to turn to the Canadian market, and they certainly will not be interested before prices here go down another cent, or a cent and a half.

Tending to keep up prices, however, receipts are not large, though they are improving. Cheese brings such good money that many creameries are making no butter at all, devoting their entire time to cheese. And they will continue doing so until cheese prices decline quite a bit. Just look at the receipts. For the past while, they have been each week just about half of what they were for the corresponding week in 1906. Take last week for example. Receipts were 12,908 packages, against 24,016 in 1906. Or look up figures for the week previous. It will be found that receipts were 10,537 packages, against 18,613 packages in 1906. For the season so far receipts are over 30,000 packages behind last year, there having been received, between May 1 and June 7, 1907, 56,515 packages, against 86,882 packages for the same period in 1906.

The discrepancy in exports is much more noticeable. This year there has been practically nothing done in an export way, only 52 packages having been shipped since the beginning of the season, against 31,857 last year. Shipments last week were 30 packages, against 10,663 packages same week 1906.

Local trade is very good and dealers are willing to do business at these prices: Townships creamery, 20½c. to 20¾c.; Quebec creamery, 20¼c. to 20½c.; Ontario creamery, 20c.; Ontario dairy, 18c. to 18½c.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The deliveries of hogs are always the determining factor in the provision situation but they are especially so now. For some weeks deliveries have been heavy, culminating last week with a total of 40,000, which is the largest number since December. The deliveries directly influence the market in Great Britain, and they form the basis for fixing the price of hogs in Canada. Prices of hogs are again on the ebb and the market in Great Britain is lower and tending further in that direction. If heavy deliveries of hogs continue, both these backward tendencies would be accelerated. The recent very sick condition of the market in England occasioned a reduction of Canadian shipments to almost a minimum. When the market suddenly improved the large packers began immediately to cut again for export. This increased product is now reaching the English market. Danish deliveries are maintained at about 40,000 hogs per week, and American shipments were heavier last week than for some time. The price of hogs at Chicago and Buffalo has declined and the English market now shows the American packer a good profit. The resulting increased supplies of bacon on the English market make for lower prices. Last week there was a decline of 6d., and cable advices this week indicate a further recession of 1s. 6d.

The advance in the price of hogs had already about dissipated the profits promised the Canadian packer by the advance in Great Britain, so that a reduction in the price of hogs here became necessary. Last week's heavy deliveries made the way easy and this week the price is down 25c. The large packers are paying $6.65 f.o.b. shipping points, and the local men as high as $6.80. This week deliveries are very light. One large packer told The Canadian Grocer that his receipts the first two days of last week were 2,500, and this week only 100. Packers' opinions regarding future deliveries differ. Some hold that farmers have been holding back for higher prices, evidenced by the fact that 50 per cent. of last week's deliveries were over weight, and that the run of hogs will continue at least normal during the summer. Others say that the recent heavy runs have about cleared the country of hogs and that deliveries will be light from this on. The former view predominates. If deliveries are light, packers will compete for hogs and keep prices up; if deliveries are free, prices must come down to afford a profit on exported product.

The domestic market for products is running along about evenly; if there is any change it is, perhaps, on the firm side. While stocks are going out pretty freely, warmer weather would considerably stimulate consumption.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Wheat Easier on Better Crop Prospects but Flour Prices Firm — Heavier Demand for Old-fashioned Breakfast Cereals—Confectionery in the Front.

Immediate prospects for the wheat crop have improved and prices are two or three cents lower than a week ago. But June is the growing month, and if crops are ever going to look well now's the time. As things stand now, there will be a large shortage in the coming European crop to add to that in America, but what the shortage on either side may prove to be experts now admit it cannot be estimated until the final harvest, as the season is now so short that only favorable weather during the summer and a late fall can secure the present prospect of the spring wheat crop. Millers in the northwestern states are buying to secure enough of the old crop at present prices to carry them to the new crop. This is significant, as the millers are usually bears in the market. A leading American miller expressed the opinion that if the European crop prospects were as reported last week, $1.50 wheat would be reached before the coming of the new crop.

The flour market in Canada is holding firm. Buying has subsided, after what some millers regard as the heaviest purchasing era on record. The mills, however, are busy on contracts.

Trade in cereals is active. Prices for both oat and wheat products are very firm. The millers all report a considerably heavier demand for the old-fashioned staples than in recent years, and attribute it to a discarding of prepared breakfast foods and a return to the rolled oats, rolled wheat and oat meal that mother used to eat.

Millers who are long on oats have considerable export trade coming to them. For a time the competition in Great Britain of Old Country mills was very keen, but they have now exhausted their stocks and the Canadian product is in demand. Some Canadian millers have plenty of oats, bought when the market was 10c. under present levels.

Confectionery.

Every grocer who makes a specialty of confectionery and succeeds with it keeps the confectionery department near the front of his store, where it cannot escape notice. This is true, whether it be a separate department with its own counter and attendant or a handsome plate glass silent salesman with a tempting display of toothsome sweet meats. The reason why more grocers do not make confectionery pay is because they are not clean-cut enough in their ideas. They can't bring themselves to specialize in fact as well as in theory and make the confectionery department stand out as an attractive feature of their business.

Some mills are higher than others and it is almost impossible to obtain quotations which will suit everyone. Below are given figures which average pretty well. The European wheat crop of 1906 was 100,000,000 bushels below that of 1905. Official indications and private reports place the probable crop of 1907 at 10 per cent. below the yield of 1906; in other words a deficit from last year of 30,000,000 quarters.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 20.

Mayor Lamothe, Mattawa.

Twenty years ago when George L Lamothe first struck Mattawa, that little town in New Ontario was located in a district not then known as it is to-day. There was no Cobalt; the beautiful Lake Temiskaming region was practically unknown; the chain of lakes in the north were used more by the Indians, or half-breeds, than by the whites; the tourists had not yet appeared in numbers, and the lumber trade was in its infancy.

Under these circumstances a man throwing in his lot with the few settling in this district incurred a peculiar risk not understood by those seeking careers in the east. To succeed in New Ontario in those days one had necessarily to have faith in its future and the ability to stay right by the job until the future materialized. Some men came and went, others came and stayed. Mr. Lamothe was one of those who stayed, and to-day he is realizing the dreams of twenty years ago.

It is just that long since Mayor Lamothe left the eastern townships in Quebec Province to accept the position of assistant superintendent of the old L.T.C. Railway Company, which in those days ran to the north. Here he remained until the C.P.R. bought over this line, when he purchased one of the leading Mattawa hotels, the Rosemount house, which he conducted for a few years, eventually selling out to his brother. He then purchased the Mattawa bakery, a business which was not making good. Mr. Lamothe went to work to build it up, and as a first step he added a grocery department. In fact he made the grocery store the drawing card for the bakery. He built warehouses and added flour, grain and feed to the business. Thus prepared, he looked for trade—and secured it. The Mattawa bakery is now one of the most modern grocery stores in the town and has a large patronage. Mr. Lamothe personally looks after every detail of the business and is assisted by his son, George, and a competent staff.

MAYOR LAMOTHE, MATTAWA.

His municipal life began some years ago, when he was elected town councillor. So well did his services please the ratepayers that they nominated him for mayor three successive years before he accepted office. Mr. Lamothe holds official position also in several societies, and was a school trustee for years, resigning to occupy the mayor's chair. Assisting him in the council are several merchants, including Robert Small, retail grocer, and Alex. Ross, miller.

Mr. Lamothe is but another example of what any young man can accomplish by hard, stick-ever-at-it work. He has built up a very successful grocery business, and he has the honor and esteem of his fellowmen, as shown by their faith in him in conferring upon him mayoralty honors of one of the finest little towns of the north.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Potato Stocks Materially Increased—Navel Oranges Still on the Market — Lemons May Advance—Home Strawberries Late—Fish Active.

With the advent of fair weather, trade throughout Ontario and Quebec is reported generally satisfactory. The potato situation in the former province continues to attract attention from buyers, and although there is little prospect of any easier feeling at present, stocks are much heavier than they were last week. This is probably due to the fact that the farmers, who up to now have been busily occupied with seeding, have been tempted by the high prices to clean up all stock on hand and send them into town, perhaps even sacrificing a portion of those set apart for their own use. The stock received in Toronto last week was probably a third greater than the week before, but dealers expect that the next fortnight will practically see the end of the old crop.

Navel oranges are keeping in the market considerably longer this year than usual. Two reasons are probably responsible. First, the cool weather has facilitated handling, and second, the delivery of the crop has been spasmodic and unnaturally extended owing to frequent breaks in the transportation and the general shortage of cars throughout the season.

The lemon market continues firm, and some inquiries are reported for Verdillis for future shipment. The market is expected to be higher this week in New York. Ontario strawberries are not looked for this year before July 1st. This is somewhat discouraging to those who remember the year when the first Ontario berries were received on May 24th. But in those times the "Canadian summer" was not so much of a misnomer as it is now.

Fresh caught fish continue in steady demand but there is a wide difference between Quebec and Ontario in what constitute those lines for which there is the readiest sale. Montreal will easily sell five tons of haddock where Toronto would have difficulty in disposing of 100 pounds. Vice-versa, Toronto can get rid of the same proportion of trout in inverse ratio to the capacity of Montreal.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS — Unfavorable weather is keeping back the usual summer boom in the fruit trade. Everywhere dealers are complaining. Bananas are easier this week, prices ranging from $1.75 to $2.25, according to quality. Mexican oranges, and Jamaicas in boxes, are no longer quoted. Other oranges are steady. Lemons are slow, cool weather keeping trade down. There is a fair demand for pineapples at quotations given below.

Receipts of Gaspe salmon are larger and prices have declined. Dealers are now making good sales at 20c. B. C. salmon is not at all plentiful and prices are firm at 12c. FRUIT — Navel oranges are not yet exhausted, and the stock that is left or still coming in is of a quality to indicate that a fair supply may yet be expected. MEASURE YOUR BERRY BOXES.

Maxwell Smith, the Dominion Fruit Inspector, has made a discovery that will be unpopular among the fruit jobbers. In making his rounds in Vancouver he has found that strawberry boxes, which are supposed to contain 4-5 of an imperial quart, were one-quarter of an inch too shallow, thus defrauding the poor consumer of several berries which were his by right. The order has gone forth that unless all such boxes are stamped with the word "short" in letters half an inch high, the vendor renders himself liable to prosecution for a breach of the Fruit Marks Act. The correct dimensions of a strawberry box are 4¼ x 4¼ inches and 3 inches deep; the ones to which Mr. Smith takes exception being only 2¾ inches deep.

JAPAN TEA REPRESENTATIVE.

Shaw T. Nishimura announces that he has been appointed sole representative of the Japan Consolidated Tea Co., Shidzuoka, Japan. "This largely capitalized new company," he says, "has been recently formed in consequence of keen competition in Japan tea business of the present day. The company has natural advantages in having factories in different districts in the central tea producing province; and with concerted action and every economy in expenses they are in very strong position to meet any demand of the trade at every advantage."

Commenting on the tea crop, Mr. Nishimura quotes a cable of June 5:

"The present prospects for second-crop teas are favorable, but activity still continues for first crop at advanced prices."

WINDOW TRIM OF BISCUITS

Result of Canadian Grocer's May Competition—No First Prize—Good Second and Third—Choat & Co., Halifax, and J. J. McEwen, Goderich.

Window dressing is not keen in May. At any rate only two competitors put in an appearance for The Canadian Grocer's May competition. They were J. J. McEwen, of Goderich, and C. E. Choat & Co., Halifax. Both windows, as depicted by the photographs, were very good, but neither of them were in the class that heretofore has carried off the first prize. The judges, therefore, awarded 2nd prize to Choat & Co., and 3rd prize to Mr. McEwen. They thought this the wisest course if the standard of the competition was to be maintained.

It is not to be thought that the windows submitted were anything to be sneezed at. The 3rd prize one, that of J. J. McEwen, Goderich, is shown in the accompanying illustration and it speaks for itself as a very artistic and attractive window. It is particularly recommended to the attention of grocers who have a tendency to neglect their biscuit department.

The window was dressed by Cecil Ecklin, who is eighteen years of age and has been clerking only a year.

There are some features to this window which commend it very highly. It is simple, easily put in and easily removed, and a display of biscuits would necessarily have to be left in only a short time. Price tickets are on everything. We venture the statement that this window appreciably increased Mr. McEwen's sales of biscuits. The flowers and plants are a good idea. Without them the window would look very bare. The curtain at the back to match the floor is also a good line and inexpensive. The more the window is examined the better it appears. Choat & Co.'s window will be produced next week.

Biscuit Trim Wins Third Prize.

STOCKING THE STREET.

The accompanying picture shows very handsome store windows, and someone evidently knows how to dress them. The windows are finished in quarter-cut oak and the firm name is shown in attractive brass letters.

This photo was submitted in The Canadian Grocer monthly competition and would have drawn a prize had it not been for the display of goods on the sidewalk. We reproduce the photograph to draw attention to the way in which a great many good grocery windows are spoiled. What is the sense of piling a good portion of the stock out on the street? It couldn't be put anywhere where it would deteriorate more rapidly. It makes a store look cheap and in these days, when the public are giving so much attention to pure food and microbes, it must drive away trade. It will pay every grocer to devise some other means of showing goods than putting them on the street.

A Nice Front with a Defacing Fringe.

WINDOW PARTITIONS.

A very advantageous device little used by grocers in their windows is moveable partitions. Most grocers, in dressing windows, mix things up too much. Large windows would be greatly improved if divisions were made by mirrors or low ornamental lattice work of wood or iron and a distinct line of goods shown in each compartment. Drygoodsmen and furnishers adopt this plan very largely to prevent mixing various lines and giving the impression of confusion.

PRIZES FOR NAMES.

GROCERY CLERKS' FOOD FAIR.

Treasurer Poirier, of the Montreal Grocery Clerk's Association, reports good progress in the food show which will be held by the association beginning of July in the Montreal Stadium. The members will run in connection with the show a window dressing competition. A model window will be erected in the rink and grocers and clerks will compete for three handsome prizes.

"The moment a man takes to the pipe he becomes a philosopher."

That's true. The man who smokes is even-tempered, a lover of the square deal, and a good man to have as one's debtor. He pays his bills cheerily and it's a pleasure to do business with him.

An observant grocer writes about in this strain : "Of all tobaccos I have ever handled T. & B. seems to please and delight most of all. That tobacco has made new customers for me by the score. You express the goodness of T. & B. very pertinently from the grocer's standpoint, when you say

'Tobacco sells more than Tobacco.'"

NOVA SCOTIA TRADE NEWS

Vegetables High and Scarce—Potatoes at a Premium—Late Mackerel Season —All Fruits in Good Supply—The Flour Situation.

(Special correspondencee of The Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax N.S., June 10.

Produce of all kinds is very scarce and record prices are being obtained. Not only are potatoes bounding upwards, but all vegetables are following suit. Parsnips are practically cleaned up, no beets are available, turnips are very scarce and only a few carrots are offering. The farmers who held their stock and marketed it late this year made handsome profits.

The potato situation has not been relieved since last report, and the stocks held continue very light. The wholesale price has not changed, but the retailers are asking all kinds of money, some as high as $1.20 per bushel. In Prince Edward Island, the home of the potato, the price is 60 cents per bushel, and they are hard to buy even at this figure. With the big demand and the high prices the farmers will want larger areas this season. In Cape Breton there is also a very great scarcity of produce.

A report comes from Louisburg, C.B., that a man planted a bushel of seed potatoes in his field the other week. He did not, as is a general custom, cut the potatoes before planting, but put them in the ground whole, as he was told they gave a better yield by being thus planted. A few days ago he visited the field, noticed that his potato patch had been disturbed, and on further examination found that they had been taken out of the ground. He attributes the loss to the potato famine.

In Carleton and Victoria counties in New Brunswick the potato industry has sprung into amazing proportions. Last year the two counties raised five times as many potatoes as any previous season. This year the acreage is ten times that of last year. Forty thousand dollars worth of superphosphate, it is said, has been sold in the village of Hartland this spring. The sales reached to about $4,000 last year. Many farmers have planted from twenty-five to forty acres. Last season showed an average profit of about $50 an acre.

Fish—The mackerel season is very late this year, probably three weeks behind. Up to the present very few fish have been taken. Outside of 35 barrels caught in traps off Yarmouth the fishermen have caught practically nothing. This is a serious set-back to the industry, especially as this is the time of the year when the fishermen rely upon securing good catches and making sufficient money to lay in their winter provisions. At some places there is a splendid run of salmon, the fish being of unusually fine quality, ranging in weight from 20 to 40 pounds each.

The Dominion Atlantic steamer from Yarmouth, on Wednesday night last, sailed for Boston with 850 crates of live lobsters, one of the largest shipments of the season. The close season expired several days ago, but the Federal Government granted three days grace to the fishermen to permit them to ship the fish that had been collected. Salmon are quoted at thirteen cents this week.

Freight Manager Tiffin, of the Intercolonial, Mr. Storey, general freight agent for the P.C.R. here, and P. Mooney, general passenger agent of the Halifax and Southwestern Railway, visited several of the towns on the western shore last week, and held conferences with the large fish exporting firms concerning the shipment of fresh fish in cold storage over the I.C.R. to points in Quebec and Ontario. The Federal Government is interested in the matter, having granted $25,000 to assist the movement, the object being to divert the traffic in fish to Upper Canada, via Boston, to all rail by the Intercolonial.

Flour—The market is very firm in tone and is likely to continue so. There is a fair demand. The Halifax bakers have not made any change in the price of bread since the advance in flour. Some dealers say that considering the present condition of the wheat market they would not be surprised to see flour go even higher. Corn meal continues very firm.

Feeds—Feeds of all kinds are touching record prices. Hay tops the list in advances, being quoted from $20 to $22 per ton, which is from $6 to $8 per ton over the quotations prevailing at this time last year. In some of the western sections of Nova Scotia $22 is asked, while in Prince Edward Island it is selling at $20, a price unprecedented in that locality.

All other feeds have increased proportionately, though the receipts of bran and middlings have been increased here the past few weeks. In some parts of Cape Breton a hay famine is reported. In consequence of these advances the Halifax livery stable keepers have increased the price of board for horses one dollar per week.

The milk vendors will not reduce the price of milk one cent per quart as has been the custom during the summer season.

Fruits and vegetables.—The market is well supplied with fruit and all seasonable green truck — lettuce, radishes, strawberries, spinach, rhubarb, new cabbage and also some small (new) carrots and parsnips. The bananas offered for sale are only fair, having been chilled by the cold weather. They sell from $2 to $2.50. Jamaica oranges are off the market, but there are plenty of navels and valencias, ranging in price from $3.50 to $4.

TOBACCO CROP IN ESSEX.

Ernest Bailey, Kingsville, writes under date of June 1st: "Having just returned from going through Essex county, inspecting seed beds of the growers, the prospect looks very bad for a crop this year; the plants are fully four weeks late. I did not see one bed that will be ready to plant before July. If planted then we will have to have a late fall to secure a crop and lots of seed plants will not be ready till about the 15th July.

"I saw numerous growers that have taken off their canvas from their beds and let the plants go, as they are so backward, and have planted corn in their acreage that was for their tobacco. Even if we have a late fall the tobacco crop will be very small.

"The weather at writing is very trying to the young plants and if it does not change very soon there will be no crop at all.

"All of last year's crops have been bought from the growers and there is only leaf to be bought to-day that is in the hands of the dealers, and at that there will not be more than about 200,000 pounds in western Ontario. I predict that if we have a crop at all the prices will range high, as the acreage expected to be put in will easily be less than half of last year."

TAKES NO MORE ALMS

June 10th, 1907.

To the editor, The Canadian Grocer,—As an old subscriber to your journal and a close reader of every feature of it, I was more than pleased to notice in your issue of June 7th an editorial on "Taking Alms." You know "confession is good for the soul," and this editorial brings me to the penitent bench. I may say that you do not spare us retailers in your criticism on the question of soliciting donations and so forth from our jobbers. It hurts, particularly when one feels that he is a criminal in this respect.

I may say that in the past I have, I admit, been guilty of writing my different wholesale houses for contributions to our local township fair. I have decided, however, not to do so again. There may have been some excuse for my doing this as having been on the committee of the organization of the fair, and my fellow-workers knowing that I was a large purchaser from the city jobbers, it was thought that I could materially increase the revenue for prizes

I admire The Grocer for its outspoken criticisms and the manly stand you have taken. Possibly you may offend one or two of your readers, but if they will reflect as I have done they will stop pestering the wholesaler.

Hereafter you may count me out from any begging expedition for our local fair, bazaars, charities or other things.

PROPER BOOKKEEPING OR JAIL

Because he failed through keeping no books, The Canadian Merchants Protective Association have entered proceedings against a man.

The law says:

"Any man who fails and who has not for five years before his failure kept proper books shall be liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year's imprisonment."

It is cheaper to keep proper books than to pay a fine of $800.00 and go to jail for a year, isn't it?

Iron or Steel?

By the Bessemer process crude iron is converted into fine strong steel. And, though its nature is not changed, the scientific manner in which the raw material for is handled makes them as superior to the haphazard article as steel is to old junk.

You know what you get, and get what you pay for, and that the best.

Shrewd grocers also know that our

Crescent BM&Co. Brand TRADE MARK.

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

Rate of Freight

is just the same on a dozen bottles of C. & B. Pickles as on a dozen bottles of some inferior make, and it will cost you no more for freight on a hundred cases of C. & B. goods than for a hundred cases of lower quality goods — providing the weights are the same. It is therefore well for you to consider that the proportion of freight on the total laid-down cost of C. & B. goods is less than the proportion of freight on the laid-down cost of cheaper or lower grade goods. Look up your prices on C. & B. goods and figure out for yourself how much you will save by buying THE BEST.

COMMON SENSE

KILLS { Roaches and Bed-Bugs / Rats and Mice

All Dealers and 381 Queen St. W.

TORONTO, ONT.

Dealers find Common Sense a very good seller, for the reason that it gives general satisfaction and each customer tells others about same.

Write for prices.

Do not accept a substitute for any article advertised in these columns. Insist on getting what you ask for.

"If some big oak comes in contact with a steam shovel, that robs it of soil, undermining its roots, it will suffer, just as the grocer will decline when public confidence is lost through neglect or bad service, which includes poor goods, and carelessness in extending credits, the latter the counterpart of the big steam shovel. The moral of this is that to hunt for big game one must have a first-class rifle. Who would think of going after a grizzly bear with a poor shotgun?

The public is the retail grocers' quarry. Do you work it consistently, methodically, intelligently, perseveringly, fairly? Its possibilities are tremendous because its expansive powers are great. The public grows in great numbers and in resources. Do you?"

The application.—If you are after big game—the great consuming public—you must have first-class goods to attain success, and that is why you should sell exclusively goods guaranteed as to quality by the Canadian Canners, Limited.

Brands:—Aylmer, Little Chief, Log Cabin, Horseshoe, Auto, Kent, Lynnvalley, Maple Leaf, Lion, Thistle, Grand River and White Rose.

Reputation

That word means more to the grocer than to any other merchant on earth. People may buy inferior boots and shoes, they will buy shoddy clothes; but when it comes to groceries they demand

Purity Wholesomeness Quality

These words have controlled our business, because we were just as anxious about our reputation as any grocer could be. While this goes far towards explaining the popular demand for there are other reasons for the superiority of the popular brand which some merchants may overlook. Details, which other canners consider of no consequence, receive careful attention, and fruit and vegetables canned in our factory are never clear of the scrutiny of an expert until they are sealed up in the air-tight cans. Perhaps we do take extraordinary precautions, but the fame of and its popularity demand that much—no more, no less. Mr. Grocer! You know the women of Canada would not be so united in their insistence for Old Homestead Brand of canned goods if it were only a good brand. The demand for Old Homestead goods goes on increasing because the brand is incomparable.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Have you mailed your test order?

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

PICTON, ONTARIO

A Matter of Common Sense

Stocking Groceries and Provisions calls for the exercise of common sense—nothing more. Calling goods wholesome and pure does not make them so. It is more than likely that that explains the immense demand for

"Are you not aware that the ordinary chest of tea deteriorates by being left open in the back part or any part of the store? Soap Manufacturers keep on shouting about the purity of their particular brands, because they've nothing else to shout about. All fairly good soap is pure.

Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

We are willing and anxious to acknowledge the service they can render us by rewarding them in direct proportion to the interest they display in pushing these goods. Our method of rewarding is "The Fairbank Plan," which is a system of couponing our specialties in such a manner that the coupons can be easily removed when the goods are sold, and giving for these coupons useful articles, the best that money can buy. Our whole aim is to give the clerks the best value we can secure.

The products embraced in "The Fairbank Plan" are easily sold because they are the best value and give the greatest satisfaction to the consumer. They increase the trade of the store and "The Fairbank Plan" rewards the dealer or his clerks for selling them.

NEW BRUNSWICK GROCERY TRADE NEWS

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., June 17.

There has been very little change in local markets during the past week. High prices continue to rule. Dealers say that nearly all lines of goods are much higher than they have been for years past. Business continues good and the outlook is exceedingly bright.

Fish—The demand for all kinds of fish is very light. Stocks of last year's fish are well cleaned up. Business is limited until the warm weather is over.

Molasses—The situation is unchanged. Dealers are well supplied with Barbadoes "fancy," which is the selling line, and stocks are ample for all requirements. The importations of choice Barbadoes are very light.

Provisions—Domestic pork is firm and stocks are light. American clear pork is slightly easier. American plate beef is held much firmer owing to the limited offerings of U.S. packers. Lard is lower, in sympathy with U.S. packing houses. Fresh beef, and in fact all kinds of fresh meats, are very high, the ruling prices being higher than for several years past.

Cereals, etc.—Flours are steady; oatmeal and cornmeal have advanced slightly. Beans are higher, with short stocks, and the tendency is upwards.

Sugars—All grades are steady. Prices are as follows: Granulated, (standard), $4.70—$4.80; (Austrian), ,$4.60—$4.70; bright yellow, $4.50—$5.60; No. 1 yellow, $4.20—$4.30; Paris lumps, $5.50—$5.75; pulverized, 5¾c.—6c.

Dried Fruits—Evaporated apples are steady. There is sufficient stock on this market for all requirements. California raisins and prunes are held firmer. Buyers are without much interest in new stock offered by firms on the coast, owing to the extremely high prices.

Onions are very scarce and much higher. Egyptians are the only line available and are selling at 3½c. to 4c. a lb. Eggs and butter remain about the same as last reported.

New Cold Storage Plant.

R. J. Graham, of Belleville, Ont., manager of the Lands Produce & Cold Storage Co., arrived in St. John on Thursday last. He announced that the company had decided to build their cold storage plant, (which has been referred to in previous issues), on the eastern side of the harbor. Arrangements were made with Deputy Minister of Railways Butler for the property fronting on Main street, to which there is access by I.C.R. sidings. The new location gives the company more room than on the west side and in addition to a site 100 feet square, there will be an annex 100 by 62½ feet, fronting on Main street, and a boiler house 100x50 feet in the rear. The cost will be proportionately increased and it is expected that $125,000 or $135,000 will be expended in construction. Work will be commenced at once, several contracts having already been awarded, and it is expected to have the plant ready for business by the first of October. The frontage on Main St., Mr. Graham said, would permit of the company building three stores for the sale of butter and eggs, meats and vegetables. It was not yet decided whether these would be let or operated by the company. It depended upon whether or not any St. John men would be enterprising enough to take up the business.

Cold Storage Rates.

Speaking of the rates to be charged for cold storage, Mr. Graham said a schedule had been filed with the Government, and by it the public could at all times avail themselves of the advantages offered. He quoted the following figures, which in each case were for one month's storage:

Apples—10c. a barrel; 4c. a box.
Meats—¼c. a pound.
Game—½c. a pound.
Eggs—1-3c. a dozen.
Butter—6c. to 8c. a package.
Cheese—5c. a box.
Vegetables—10c. a hundredweight.

These prices, said Mr. Graham, are the same as charged in Montreal. It was also intended to have a fish freezer and fish bait freezer as part of the plans, the meat and fish storage being in a separate series of rooms with no air circulation to the rest of the building.

Ten New Factories.

Mr. Graham leaves in a few days for Halifax, where a similar plant will be erected next year. The company, he said, were about to build ten factories for evaporating apples in Nova Scotia. They had been offered by the D.A.R. any sites they might select along the line, and so far had decided on factories at Canning, Kentville, Kingston and Middleport. At Kentville a canning factory for fruits and vegetables of all kinds would also be built, and a cider and vinegar factory at the same place was included in the plans. The central packing station and offices would also be located at Kentville. The ten factories and the other buildings mentioned, would all be finished, if possible, by Sept. 1st. The estimated cost is $60,000, and employment will be given to about 1,500 people. Sir Frederick Borden, who is interested in the company, is expected here in a few days.

The insurance loss by the recent fire in the White candy factory has been adjusted for $1,240.93, of which $301 is the loss on the building; $87.25 on the machinery, and $852.68 on stock.

Percy Bethune, formerly of the head office staff of the Edwardsburg Starch Co., Montreal, and for some time latterly with Tees & Persse, Edmonton, has taken a position with Bedlington & Co., Edmonton. Mr. Bethune, though a young man, has that energy in him which will win out.

EDITOR'S COLUMN

We want The Canadian Grocer to be the clearing house for grocery ideas. If you want to grumble some about the railways, or the Government, or the weather or about the trade in general, don't "chew the rag" at home, write to The Grocer. It may help some, and anyway, you will feel better.

But, not all kicks, please. Say something nice about somebody, a brother grocer, if he deserves it; or your wholesaler, your organization, or even The Canadian Grocer. We're not above accepting bouquets when they are handed to us nicely.

Ask questions. There may be a lot of fellows want to know just what you do and they'll be just as pleased as you to get the information.

There's the cost of doing business. Goodness knows, it's important enough to every grocer. Write us your views on that. If you do know to a T the cost of doing business, tell us how you do it; if you don't know, tell us why. It will all go to make the paper better worth while.

Have you any ideas on window dressing? If you have we want them; not because we're so short ourselves, but variety is the spice of window dressing as well as of other forms of activity. This window dressing business is important, It's one of the spots in a grocery store where ideas make money. There are a good many grocers who haven't dreamt it yet; but they're getting there slowly.

We have a great regard for commercial travelers. With one or two far away exceptions they are all mighty good fellows. We like to hear from them. They get about and see a lot of retailers and doubtless once in a while get away with an idea as well as an order. We would like to hear from them, one or two at a time, on any subject they choose.

We want news, grocery news. Send us an item about yourself, if your neighbor doesn't, and one about him, too. We want to know what the grocers are doing everywhere. When you start a movement for early closing or a half-holiday, or an organization, or a benefit fund for the poor wholesalers, don't leave us in the dark about it; we want to know.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

LONDON.

The passing of the oldest fruit store in London is an event of no little interest to the citizens. For forty-four years the store at No. 392 Richmond street has been occupied by Richard Mountjoy, London's oldest fruiterer. When he started in business the premises had just been vacated by the Wesleyans who had for some time used them as a place of worship. A few years later the building was torn down and the present structure erected in its place. Mr. Mountjoy, who for some years was associated in business with his brother, the late A. Mountjoy, stuck to the stand and has continued there ever since, the store serving as a sort of guide post for people revisiting the city after a long absence. Directly opposite is the city hall, alongside of which, to the north, years ago stood a cottage which was the Mountjoy home, but was long since torn down to make room for the business premises which now stand there. But at last Mr. Mountjoy has, through the property changing hands, been forced out of No. 392 Richmond, and in a few days the place will know him no more. In place of his business will hereafter be found a gents' furnishing store. Mr. Mountjoy, however, is by no means forced out of business, for he has secured the store at 226 Dundas street, where, in future, he will be found. But for a long time he will be missed at the old stand.

Will Give Up Groceries.

C. H. Lee has cleared out the whole of his grocery stock in the New York store, Dundas street, and in a few days the place will be in possession of the Canadian Packing Company, who will use it for a retail meat store. Much of Mr. Lee's stock has been purchased by consumers at bargain prices, and the remainder has found its way into other stores. Mr. Lee seems glad to get out of the business, and the prospects are if he again embarks in any enterprise it will not be in the grocery line. He has found that rents and the cost of help have almost doubled in the past five years or so, while profits have hardly held their own. Therefore, he has reached the conclusion that there is little money in groceries.

A deputation from the Retail Grocers' Association will visit Toronto in a few days to make arrangements for their approaching excursion to the Queen City.

The city council has adopted the area in which push cast men may pursue their calling as laid out by a committee of the Retail Grocers' Association, and the itinerants will now be placed where they can do least harm to storekeepers. It is thought that the result will be to drive the majority of them out of business.

Short Weights.

The city license inspector and the market clerk have reported to the city council what has for a long time been well known to the citizens generally—that is, that citizens are systematically victimized on the market by farmers giving short weight and short measure. Berry-boxes, supposed to contain a quart, do not hold a pint in some cases. Rolls of butter weigh from 10 to 14 ounces, instead of a pound. Bags of potatoes average about 70 pounds. An article called maple syrup is sold, whereas it never knew what it was to linger in the bosom of a tree. It was made in a pot from cheap brown sugar. It is popularly supposed that bags of potatoes shall weigh 90 pounds, but there is nothing in the law to this effect. Consequently, if a farmer or huckster is hauled up for selling short-weight he will probably swear that he sold the potatoes by the bag—and a bag may weigh 50 pounds or it may weigh 100. It is the same with berries and butter. The berries are sold by the box, and the housewife imagines she is securing a quart. Butter is not sold by the pound, but by the roll. And a roll does not have to weigh a pound. Some of them weigh only about 10 ounces.

The retail grocer is, of course, compelled to buy in the same way, and naturally must sell as he buys. At the recent meeting in this city of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild of Ontario, a suggestion was made that the sugar refiners be asked to put sugar up in 125-lb. bags, instead of 100-lb. bags, as at present, for the reason that sugar sacks, which hold about 70 lbs. of potatoes, are bought up by farmers and others and used in the sale of the tubers. The 125-lb. sacks hold about 90 pounds, to which buyers contend they are entitled. The city council will request the Ontario Union of Municipalities to petition the Legislature for a law which will state the weight of a bag of potatoes, a roll of butter, and the measure of a box of berries. In this way it is hoped to overcome the sharp practices of unprincipled people on the market. In the meantime the people of London are warned to buy butter only by the pound, potatoes by the bushel, and berries by the quart. The inspector also reports that he has had several so-called pound boxes of biscuits sold in stores weighed and found that none of them went over 14 ounces. This matter will be looked into.

Retailers report trade very good, but owing to the backwardness of the berry crops, the demand for sugar is nothing like it usually is at this time of year. A few days of the present weather will bring the berries forward, however.

Local wholesale grocers have for some time complained of the small discounts allowed by manufacturers of cereal foods and have repeatedly made representations to them without any tangible result. The matter was taken up at a meeting of the local guild this morning when it was decided to press upon the manufacturers the disability under which they labor in this matter.

"Grocer Correspondents! Give your views on matters of importance to the trade. Let us get up a Bureau of Information."
—Kingston Correspondent.

KINGSTON.

Kingston, dear old Kingston, the grandfather of all Canada, was honored by a visit from a prince of royal blood from far off Japan, to wit: His Imperial Highness Prince Fushimi, G.C.B. He came up through the beautiful Thousand Islands on a special steamer supplied by the R. & O. Navigation Co., and commissioned by the Dominion Government. Immense crowds greeted him, and the mayor and a select party drove him over to our military college, where, no doubt, he would gain valuable information in the military line. The prince was of the basket-fired May picking type and was quite a draw.

How to Choose a Horse.

The grocer's best friend is the delivery horse, but there is not one grocer out of ten who has good judgment in choosing one. High steppers and trotters are, as a rule, poor horses to buy unless you have a driver possessed of brains. The big-bodied, short-legged French horse with the chicken breast is the kind to buy, and they can get around quick and generally feel good after work. A well-groomed horse, a bright, clean waggon and shining harness speaks to the public of the carefulness and cleanliness of the driver. The driver should look tidy as well, and wear a clean apron and a smiling face. It all helps trade.

Give me the man who looks for work; who does little talking and never shirks the duties of everyday life, and who whistles instead of whines. Work shortens the day. Loafing and killing time and watching the clock lengthens it. These are the things that tend to mould a boy's future and make him a success or a failure. It all lies with the boy. I like the boy who studies his work and does not require to be goaded on like an animal. Young man, "plan your work—then work your plan," and you will quickly climb into position.

Poetry and Problems.

Look here, Mr. Grocer, now honest and true; in a case like this, say, what would you do?

A certain grocer had two carpenters dealing with him. The one paid cash for everything he bought and gave the dealer no trouble but to take down his order and deliver his goods. The other fellow ran up an account; got behind; disputed statements; had the bookkeeper itemize and go over accounts just to be nasty; went sometimes to another store with his cash. The grocer had a barn and stable to build. To whom should he give the contract? Yes, to whom ? Hard proposition!

Toll Gates and Tobacco.

Councillor Stonners, one of the most honorable men of the county, is fighting hard to rid us of the abominable toll gates, and his persistence will win. Toll gates will soon be a thing of the past.

The tobacco men are getting back to right principles and doing away with the coupons, stamps and tags. These tips come out of some one, as the price will show. When tags were given a certain make sold for 45c. a lb.; since they were discontinued the price is 39c. Who paid for the tags? What a way to do business!

The Barriefield Camp.

The big camp at Barriefield, near here, is on, and to see the infantry and cavalry rushing here and there makes one feel that war is declared. Some of the country boys feel big in soldier's clothes and it is an education to see the movements and attitudes of those in the saddle. Some look as though glued to the saddle, others bob up and down like a Jack-in-the-box. Capt. Sharp, clerk in Crawford's grocery, was up to Toronto taking a course and expects a colonelcy. The captain is very popular, and has a kind word and joke for everyone.

At the services in St. George's Cathedral for the 14th Regiment, Capt. Arthur Craig sang a solo in fine voice.

Arthur is one of W. G. Craig & Co.'s representatives. He is leader of St. Andrew's choir.

How do you hang your paper bags? Some use wire-spring device, string, iron with knife to penetrate the bags. I would suggest that the manufacturers do it and charge a little extra. Bags are used for everything, and it keeps one stringing half of the time.

WOODSTOCK.

A. E. Sage, who has for a number of years conducted a grocery business on Dundas street east, has decided to locate in Los Angeles, California, where he will become the proprietor of a similar business. Mr. Sage left for California a few weeks ago on a trip in which he intended to combine pleasure and business. The business end of it results in his removal from this city. Mr. Sage has been a popular citizen, and has made a success of his business by combining up-to-date methods with strict honesty in all his dealings. A couple of years ago he erected a new building, combining a fine store with living quarters. His departure makes a good opening for another grocer. Mr. Sage's property is being advertised for sale.

The weekly half-holiday movement is at last taking definite shape. Petitions have been prepared, and are this week being circulated among the grocers, druggists, butchers and other lines of trade, so that the prevailing opinion on the subject of a weekly half-holiday may be determined. The petition will provide for a change in the day from Thursday to Wednesday. This is done at the request of the grocers. It is not expected that it will meet with any opposition from any of the trades with the exception of the barbers. The latter have a five-year agreement to close on Thursday afternoons, and declare they will not change. This, however, will not affect the other business men. If the holiday movement is a success, it will go into effect the first week in July and continue to the end of August.

Angus Rose, a local egg buyer on a large scale, told your correspondent the other day he was finding eggs very plentiful this summer, the available quantity being slightly larger than in the coresponding months of last year. He said the price was also slightly in advance, as he was paying fifteen and sixteen cents per dozen, which was over a cent more than he paid last year in the early months of the summer. He believed the tendency would be for prices to go lower as the season advanced. Wholesale dealers said their storehouses were full. If they were, there was sure to be a drop in prices.

The New Condensery.

The municipal authorities of Woodstock are making strenuous efforts to land the milk condensery, which the company controlling the St. Charles Condensery at Ingersoll propose to construct in this district. The promoters of the concern are really the men behind the New York Milk Company, New York City, a company with a capital of about fifty millions of dollars, and over a hundred branch condenseries. Tillsonburg is also fighting to be the site of the new industry, but it is confidently believed here, that if location is finally decided upon for Oxford county, Woodstock will be the place favored by reason of its better railway facilities and the other advantages coming from the fact of its being a larger place. Listowel and St. Mary's are among other places which are bidding for the industry.

The finance and industrial committees of the city council and the council of the board of trade have had a committee visiting the farmers within a radius of six miles of the city, ascertaining the number of cows in the district, and the feeling of the farmers towards the project. The reports have been most encouraging, and the district promises to be a profitable one for the company. The promoters have been asked to submit their proposition in writing, and it is expected that a location will be selected in a few days. The company's proposal is to build a factory, 315 by 75 feet, two storeys in height, and install a suitable and thorough plant. The capacity of output would be larger than in the Ingersoll factory, and 125 hands would be employed, of whom 40 would be girls and the remainder men. In wages $3,000 per month would be paid out. They ask the city for a free site of about five acres, with water and sewer connections, exemption from taxation, with the exception of school purposes, for ten years. They desire, if possible, a daily milk supply of fifteen thousand pounds.

Farmers generally are of the opinion that the crops of this season will be pretty good on the whole, after all the pessimistic reports which have been circulated as the result of the backward weather which has prevailed for the past few months. There is no doubt that in some districts the growth of crops is very deficient, and indicates a serious shortage, but in other places there are no grounds for complaint. On the whole, it is believed that they will turn out pretty nearly up to the average.

VICTORIA, B.C.

June 5th, 1907.

The 24th of May celebration is over once more and everything was a grand success, the city having almost more visitors than the hotels could accommodate.

The following is a list of the grocers who won prizes in the grand parade of horses and delivery wagons :

Best single horse and wagon, as used in actual delivery—1st, Dixi H. Ross & Co.; 2nd, Fred. Carne ; 3rd, Dixi H. Ross & Co.

Best float in parade—1st, A. E. Todd ; 2nd, F. P. Watson.

Best double team and wagon—1st, F. R. Stewart & Co.

There were many entries in all of these events, so it seems that the grocers more than held their own.

The weekly half-holiday has as last been settled as far as the grocers are concerned. The following "Public Notice," which was given four inches display space in the papers, and signed, "The Victoria Retail Grocers," explains : "After June 1st the retail grocers of Victoria will close their places of business on Thursday of each week at 12.30, remaining closed the rest of the day. This step is taken to enable the employer and employes to have a little relaxation during the summer months. We, as grocers of the city of Victoria, ask one and all of our patrons to help us by ordering early on Thursday morning, as an afternoon each week will compensate for our long hours."

The farmers are all praying for rain, as the fruit crop will be seriously damaged if rain does not fall within the next two weeks. For strawberries it is already too late, as the bulk of the crop in the early districts have already been gathered. The later districts have not suffered so much, and if rain comes soon there is every chance of a good crop. What berries have been marketed have brought good prices, the lowest figure yet reached being $5 for a crate of 24 lbs. Of course, it is a little early for low prices yet.

There are few market changes of importance, almost everything seems to have a tendency to advance, and almost every line in groceries has advanced during the last few months. Flour has jumped 60c. per barrel within the last month. Sugar also is climbing. The Brackman-Ker Milling Co. have raised the price of rolled oats, and almost all their products.

ST. CATHARINES.

With the advent of summer the canned goods man comes to the front. He has been securing his tin cans and other requirements for the coming season. The five canneries that St. Catharines is supplied with are busy, with their large staffs of workmen, preparing and canning asparagus and other early varieties of vegetables. Months ago they let contracts for supplies of tomatoes, beans, peas, etc. Peaches, plums, pears, strawberries and other fruits come in their season. One firm, that of the J. Hurshell Wethey Company, in addition to being canners of fruits and vegetables are manufacturers of the J. H. Wethey mincemeat, which has gained such wide popularity, and the goods are shipped in large quantities along the line from St. Catharines to the Pacific ocean in the west and to the Atlantic in the east.

The retail grocers are not, unfortunately a unit in anything. They could not carry out the conditions of their grocers' association. One was jealous of the other, and feared that some one or other would secure the bulk of trade. They agreed to close their stores each Wednesday afternoon, and immediately that came into operation the compact was broken and there is no Wednesday afternoon holiday for the clerk.

John W. Timmons, the grocer, and Salanti, an Italian, are the only importers of bananas, pineapples and other tropical fruits and vegetables, and they supply the other retail grocers.

The cold and wet spring delayed farm operations. Potatoes, tomatoes, peas, corn and grain were late in being planted or sown, and the late frosts threatened destruction of the buds on fruit trees. In some sections the frost did some damage but not enough to injure the prospects for a full crop. Fruit growers say there will be an abundance of peaches, plums, cherries, apricots, pears, raspberries, but strawberries will be a light crop. Apples will be a fair crop, but of an inferior quality. The cause of this is the apple is such an uncertain crop that the farmers, as a rule, pay no attention to cultivating the roots of the trees, removing the grass and using fertilizers. The fertilizer is being extensively used in fruit and vegetables grounds and is giving general satisfaction. The farmer usually orders his bone, etc., fertilizer in the winter, so that it is ready for use when required. They know it to be a good article and it is being brought into more prominence each year.

STRATFORD.

Raspberries will be backward this year. The early growths are only just getting into shape. Many thought that the raspberry crop would be spoiled completely, but although the recent backward weather has retarded the growth still the crop has not been killed. Strawberries, as yet, have been very scarce.

Last week your correspondent interviewed a number of the dealers on the important question of "weighing in," and found that there are a few who do not weigh all imported goods, while other merchants weighed goods received from certain firms. One merchant thought that all imported goods should be weighed. He sometimes found a shortage in weight and consequently was at a loss. Especially was this the case during the Christmas season, but this he attributed to the fault of transportation, as the goods found to be short in weight were generally confined to the fruit line.

CHATHAM.

N. A. McGeachy & Sons' city dairy has been given an outside coat of paint, making it the only entirely white building, both outside and inside, in the city.

Miss Nettie Collins, of McCorvie's grocery staff, who was ill for some days last week, was able to resume her duties Tuesday morning.

W. E. Parrott has just put up a new black and white sign over his King street store. The firm name appears in big, bold white letters, such as can hardly escape attention.

Despite the action of the local Retail Merchants' Association in "passing up" the suggested weekly half-holiday during the summer months, there is considerable likelihood that the dry goods and men's furnishing stores will have Friday afternoons off during the hot weather. A requisition was circulated among the merchants in these lines last week, and was numerously signed.

McGeachy & Sons have installed a Rice & Adams patent bottler, by which twelve milk bottles can be filled at once. This machine ensures a capacity of 1,000 bottles per hour.

The Crop Outlook.

The grain crops in this section give promise of being very fair this year, although it is possible they will not compare favorably with the exceptionally heavy ones of last year.

"Yes, I think the outlook for the crops this year is a bright one," was the verdict of N. H. Stevens, when interrogated on the subject. "Barley and oats, in particular, appear to be coming along very satisfactorily, and the acreage promises to eclipse even that of last year. I am sorry to know that the wheat crop has proven a partial failure, owing to the severe winter. Hundreds of acres of fall wheat have been ploughed under, and the wheat ground sowed with oats and barley. As regards corn and beans, it is difficult to venture an opinion, as large areas are still being sowed. Quite a quantity had to be re-sowed owing to the first crop having been planted too early and lost through the cold. The ground has most of the time been too cold for the seed to germinate. As nearly as can be ascertained, I consider the chances for a good average acreage of corn and beans very bright.

"I think things look pretty fair for the crops so far, and it is to be hoped that we have no more cold weather to delay the growth."

Triangle Grocery Changes Hands.

The Triangle Grocery, at the junction of Thames street and Grand avenue, recently changed hands, W. H. Marshall selling out to Clifford Morrison, of Tupperville.

During the seven years, more or less, since Mr. Marshall left the employ of McCorvie & McKerrall to set up in business for himself, he has managed to build up an excellent trade at this point. He handled both ends of the grocery business with more than average skill, being at once a shrewd buyer and a good seller. During the past few years Mr. Marshall's name has been more than once mentioned in connection with municipal honors, but he invariably declined. For the present he is retiring from active business.

The new proprietor, Clifford Morrison, was for some years connected with the Tupperville Milling Company. He is polite and obliging, and should make good here. The Triangle Block, situated at the junction of two leading streets, is logically a first-class stand. Though the window space is small, Mr. Morrison is making good use of it, and his tasty and attractive displays during the last week or so have attracted considerable attention.

A Grateful Marketer.

Owing to the honesty of Grocer V. J. Bosworth, there was a very happy woman on the market Saturday morning. Mr. Bosworth was just leaving the market when he picked up a purse near one of the doors of the building. The purse contained about $7, and Mr. Bosworth thought the best way to locate the owner would be to hand the property over to the chief of police. He was in the act of doing so when a lady came running up to the officer to tell him that she had lost her purse. She was naturally highly elated at its providential recovery, and Mr. Bosworth was the recipient of many hearty thanks.

Incidentally, Mr. Bosworth's place of business on William street has always that clean, attractive appearance which draws business. The proprietor is one of the most regular attendants at the R.M.A. meetings, and takes an active interest in trade organization.

Railway Extension Begun.

The C. W. & L. E. electric railway is to be extended to the lake this fall. The announcement last week of the company's decision to extend was the source of considerable gratification to local merchants. The extension will put them in touch with the farmers at Raleigh and Harwich townships, and should prove a big business booster, not only for Chatham but likewise for Blenheim, which thriving town is also on the route.

The contracts for the work have been let, and a commencement was made on the grading operations on Saturday morning last. The city council's action in granting the railway the privilege of laying its tracks on the west side of Queen street to the corporation limits aroused some opposition, however, and has resulted in the Robertsons, of Inshes estate, owners of part of the adjoining property, obtaining an interim injunction at Toronto restraining the company from proceeding with their tracks. It is confidently anticipated, however, that the consequent halt will be no more than temporary. As a result of these complications, Ald. Jas. N. Massey, chairman of the railway committee, has had a busy time of it lately.

Canada Flour Mills Office.

The Canada Flour Mills Company are making arrangements to change the site of their office from its present location on Kent and Dover streets to the building adjoining the mills, which was used by the company some years ago. Gangs of men are now at work remodelling and renovating the future office, and the staff expect to occupy their new quarters in a couple of weeks.

The object of the change is to get the business office nearer the mills, as farmers have found it inconvenient to go out of their way in visiting the present office. The new quarters will be steam heated, comfortably and thoroughly modernized in every respect.

Assessment Passed Up.

The civic finance committee has "passed up" the request of the Retail Merchants' Association for the changing of their business assessment from a 35 per cent. to a 30 per cent. basis. The committee brought in their report at the city council meeting on Monday night, to the effect that, after consulting with the city solicitor, they had come to the conclusion that the council could not legally take any action, and that, accordingly, merchants who desired relief must go to the court of revision.

There is no doubt but that the merchants will do so, and that a test case will promptly be made. The association are, in view of the Provincial Secretary's letter upholding their contention, confident that they will carry the matter through successfully.

A Conflict in Dates.

The grocers' section of the R. M. A. hold their regular meetings on the second Tuesday of each month. There was no meeting, however, on the last meeting night, for the simple reason that it was the R. M. A. meeting night as well.

The R. M. A. have been in rather an awkward position in regard to a meeting night. Originally they met on the second Monday of the month. That date was found to conflict pretty frequently with city council meetings, either regular or special, and as a result a change was deemed imperative. A number of dates were suggested, but relinquished in deference to the board of trade, the lodges and other organizations. Finally, the second Tuesday of the month was chosen. Secretary Wm. Anderson, of the grocers' section, intended to bring the matter up at the last R. M. A. meeting with a view to making another change, but owing to his accident was prevented from doing so.

GUELPH.

Victor Davey, son of A. Davey, an old Guelph grocer, and a man who has followed the trade all his life, paid a flying visit to his old town last week. He came on the farmers' excursion from Peterboro. He is now managing a branch at Peterboro for T. Kinnear & Co., of Toronto, and is doing well.

There is some talk of Sunday street cars in Guelph this week, after about two or three thousand people having to walk out to the cemetery to the decoration ceremony of the Oddfellows on Sunday. It does seem too bad to keep a machine standing in the barn idle and so many people having to walk, but Guelph is not ready to give up her quiet, restful Sundays yet, for there are other days when these services could be held just as well as Sunday.

The deputation of the Clerks' and Salesmen's Association who went to Hamilton last week to make arrangements for the excursion to be held by the association, report having chartered the Macassa for a moonlight excursion, which will probably be run on the third Thursday of July. The boat will leave the dock at 8.30 p.m., and will return about 11 o'clock p.m. They conferred with Mr. Bird, of the Grafton Co., and president of the Hamilton association, who promised that the Hamilton clerks would join the Guelphites on the occasion. He stated that there would be about four hundred from that city. The fare for the round trip from Guelph will be $1.50.

Mr. Bibby, late of George Williams', has accepted the management of the Guelph Co-operative Association grocery department. It is now only a very few years since this association was formed and a baking business on a small scale was launched on St. George's square. Since that time the venture has been accorded a hearty support by the citizens, and a short time ago a large block was purchased on Quebec street, and half of it occupied, the business being enlarged to include groceries. Then came a set-back in the fire, which practically ruined the block, but this has not dampened the enterprise of the concern and now the block is being refitted and repaired and both stores will be occupied by the association.

The part used as a bakery and grocery store will be continued and the other store, formerly occupied by the Guelph Paper Co., will be used as a butcher shop as soon as the present meat by-law is repealed. It is also proposed to open a shoe store upstairs in the near future.

The Guelph Paper Co. have moved to the store opposite, formerly occupied by George Harper, who has in turn moved across the street.

The "Made in Canada" fair was formally opened by Lieutenant-Governor Mortimer Clark, on Monday afternoon and is in full blast.

Eggs continue to be scarce and are retailing in the stores this week at 20c. a dozen.

Mr. A. M. McLaren, Elora Road, has added a fine new delivery wagon to his outfit. It was built by Reid & Ross and is just up-to-date. In fact, Guelph grocers all deserve credit for their nice tidy rigs and good horses and gentlemanly drivers. It would bother a stranger to judge a store here by its outside deportment.

Tom Hewer, for about twenty years driver of Guelph's hose wagon and a general good fellow, has bought out his brother Jim's grocery store on Nottingham Street and took possession on June 1st. We thought Tom had more sense than to leave the city cashier, which is sure once a month, for a chance among the poor grocers. But we are always glad to welcome someone else to our pleasures. Tom is careful and is a good buyer, and that is half the battle.

Does it pay a grocer to handle coal oil or let the hardwareman handle it is a live question I would like to see discussed. I used to fight hard and yet feel that way inclined that it pays, but from recent figuring and watching I am forced to the conclusion that it doesn't pay an ordinary grocer to handle it. I took two 40-gallon tanks and filled one with American oil and the other with Canadian oil. We filled both on Monday and both were empty in one week at a profit of 5c a gallon, making a profit on 80 gallons at 5 cents a gallon of $4.

I have a good driver and he undertook to look after that department and every day till Saturday did fine. But, Saturday his horse turned too quick and although his oil was kept separate in front of his wagon from the groceries, when the horse swerved round five orders were simply spoilt. Leaks, repairs to tanks, change of drivers, and risk from fire, smell, and lots of other things must and does—whether we know it or not—make handling oil unprofitable for the grocer. Some grocers talk of self-measuring tanks, like the syrup or molasses pump, but I am prepared to say for myself that 5 cents a gallon doesn't pay unless you can produce something different than I ever saw in Guelph.

Handling of Oil by Grocers.

It has long been an open question with the groceryman whether or not it pays him to handle coal oil in connection with his business. The reason for this question is because of the ordinary method which has been in vogue ever since oil was sold. What grocer or general storekeeper or his clerks, using the old methods, does not dread to see an oil can come into his store? The question submitted by the Guelph correspondent was submitted to the Bowser oil tank people and they referred it to a grocer who is a user of what is known as the Bowser Self-measuring Oil Tanks, and has been for the past eight years. He explained that it is possible, by means of the Bowser tank, to draw five gallons in less than a minute, without any funnels or measures, direct into the customer's can, eliminating thereby overflow, dripping, spilling, seeping, oily hands, oil-soaked floors etc. Furthermore, as the tanks and pumps are air, gas and oil tight, there can be no evaporation. Therefore, as the grocer in question said, he is able to sell as many gallons as he buys, and thus secures all his oil profits, and at the same time obviates all the dirty, sloppy, contaminating characteristics incident to the old way, and it is a positive pleasure waiting upon oil customers, instead of a dread. Not only is he able to draw oil so quickly, but there is the consolation in the thought that the measurement is absolutely correct, inasmuch as the equipments are inspected by the Government Inspector of Weights and Measures. He continued :

"You might ask how I combat the danger of spilling oil in a delivery wagon. This, too, is simple. I arrange a box, which is permanent and tin-lined and sufficiently high in the front part of the wagon, and all oil cans to be delivered are set in this box. Thus, should one be overturned, there is no chance whatever of the oil coming in contact with the groceries, etc., which are done up in packages, and stored in other parts of the wagon.

"I am satisfied that my Bowsers have paid for themselves several times over during the eight years they have been in use. I can heartily recommend them to all handlers of all kinds of oil. The kind I use are incomparably superior to anything I have ever seen, and I consider them one of the best appliances in my store, and I use a cash register and computing scale. As previously stated, I have been using my Bowsers for the last eight years, and they have not cost me one cent for repairs."

The Guelph Made-in-Canada exhibition in aid of the General Hospital starts next Monday, June 17th, and again we have it emphasized that who ever wrote that article "Taking Alms" in The Grocer a week or two ago knew what he was talking about. There is not one merchant in Guelph that can get out of going down deeper in his pocket than he really can afford and in fact every man, woman and child will be literally robbed. Admitted the cause is good, but I know of at least two stores where the first lady came in for her booth and got 50 lbs. of tea. The next would sell on commission the same article. Another wanted fruit, and so on, and the wholesalers are bled also for the same object and in as many different ways. Then Mr. Grocer goes to the fair and puts up as much more in the way of buying other things that he really doesn't want just to oblige the ladies. The poster show will be a success no doubt, but how many will feel the effects long after the poster show is forgotten? Why can't the Government, county and city grants to these public institutions, which we all have to make up, be made large enough to do away with the necessity of such ways of raising money for these institutions?

A lady asked me the other day why the year 1907 was like a broken-down wagon. I said I didn't know. She said, "There is no spring in it."

I have been selling pineapples for years and it remained for a young lady to inform me this week that the easiest way to use them is not to peel but to simply tear them apart. This was a new wrinkle to me and I tried it. Just take the nearest section to the core at the bottom and press your thumb in and force it out and so on each section in rotation and one of the hardest things about the preparing of those prickly pines is overcome.

INGERSOLL.

Fire, which broke out in the roof of the Manchester mill, owned by the Manchester Cereal Company, shortly after ten o'clock on Monday night, threatened to destroy the entire structure. The flames had gained considerable headway when the firemen arrived on the scene, but through their heroic efforts they were prevented from spreading to other parts of the building, and after over an hour's strenuous work they were entirely subdued. The fact that the fire started on the roof and the absence of a wind were factors that greatly favored the firemen. The roof was almost completely destroyed, as was the machinery on the upper floor, while the machinery in other parts of the mill was seriously damaged by water and it will be several weeks before it is all in running order again. The damage, which is heavy, is fully covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is believed to have been a spark from a passing T. L. E. & P locomotive, as a large hole was eaten through the roof on the west side, which would indicate that a spark had dropped there.

"Whew, but it's hot!" This is the exclamation of the people who only a few days ago were shuddering in their winter wearing apparel and at the same time complaining bitterly at the weather conditions. It has been said that all things come to those who wait, and this also seems to be true of the warm weather. It has arrived at last, and with a vengeance. The ice cream parlors are being besieged day and night, hammocks are being brought out once more, and the indications generally point to a real, genuine summer and, of course, the grocers are delighted. How they have been longing for "The Good Old Summer Time," when the housewife will take life easy and call or "ring up" for the greater portion of her table supplies. The demand for canned goods, fruits and vegetables, cakes and pastry goes up with the mercury, and every day is filled with the activity which gladdens the heart of the retailer. But, while the consumer may see additional expense in the matter of provisions during the warm spell, he is financially ahead as compared with the days when he must carry up the coal or split the wood.

For the second time in the course of a few weeks the town of Tillsonburg has sent a deputation here for the purpose of interviewing the manager of the St. Charles condensing factory in regard to securing the new factory which the company intend establishing in western Ontario. Tillsonburg is hot on the trail of new industries that can in any way recommend themselves, and when the second deputation came here last week they made a definite proposition in regard to securing the proposed factory. Other towns are equally anxious of getting the new industry, and, as yet, no definite announcement has been made as to the location. The condensing factory here is regarded as one of the best institutions in the town, as it is of great benefit to both the farmers and the townspeople.

What about a half-holiday? This is the cry from the clerks of the town now that the warm weather has arrived Only echo answers, and it seems as though the much-desired recreation will have to be taken after "business" hours.

Benjamin Pardoe, for many years a resident of Ingersoll, died on Sunday, aged 79 years and 6 months.

This is the preserving season for pineapples and the receipts have been large with local grocers and the demand keen. All seasonable products are arriving in plentiful quantities and the people of this district are evidently keeping right up with the market. Butter still ranges in price from 25 to 30 cents per pound while 16 cents is the ruling figure for eggs. These prices are considerably in excess of those of former years.

Samples of Fels-Naptha soap were recently distributed amongst the housewives of the town and the advertisement has been given a more permanent form by a large diplay in the window of the "2 Macs," MacLeod & McBain.

The employes of the St. Charles Condensing Company have arranged to run their seventh annual excursion to Detroit on the 17th of July, and it is expected they will be accompanied by a large contingent of citizens.

GOOD THING IN STRATFORD.

Albert Myers, clerk at Barker's grocery store on Huron street, Stratford, possesses the knack of dressing unique, as well as attractive, windows. He has something different from others, something original. He recognizes the fact that an attractive window draws custom. Recently Mr. Myers dressed a good window advertising maple syrup and sugar. In the window to-day he has a new idea. It is a railroad scene and shows a train, comprising an engine, coal car and two box cars on a well laid track. The train is supposed to be travelling through the country, bringing a new shipment of goods to Barker's store. Grass is growing on all sides and the track is laid over a river. A telegraph line also runs alongside of the railway track. In the corner of the window, and presumably located in the corner of a field, is a good sized barn, and on the barn is painted a sign, which reads as follows: "Just arrived, a direct importation of Lipton's Old Country pickles, sauces, etc."

PETERBOROUGH.

Why do retail grocers not advertise their goods in the local press? Hundreds and thousands of families are reached every day by the papers and there never was a time when the successful housewife looked the daily paper over for advertisements as she does to-day. The display ads. in the paper are as essential to the wife or housekeeper as the stock markets and sporting columns are to the man. She takes up the paper as soon as it arrives at the door, and her keen sense of duty, her desire to make money go as far as possible, her wish to make her table look well and to provide appetizing and nutritious food for her husband and family prompts her to look for advertisements in the papers.

The dry goods merchants and clothiers advertise extensively, and they could not successfully conduct a business if they did not. Women, the same as men, often want something, and they do not know exactly what. Sometimes they see it in a window, but more often they see it advertised. Thousands of dollars' worth of dry goods are sold in Peterborough through the daily advertisements in the papers that would not have been sold otherwise. A woman who has a house to look after has not time to continually study fashion plates and magazines, and thus keep herself posted in the latest fabrics and novelties. The drygoodsmen realize this and they undertake daily to place before her a list of articles that are new and stylish, and she has got into the habit of looking in the press for those announcements.

Grocers claim that they have nothing to advertise. Everything they sell is a necessity of life. When persons want them they will come for them. Such an argument is only the argument of a lazy, behind-the-times person. No one gets anything in this age by waiting. Everything that is worth having must be gone after. The sooner the grocer realizes this, the sooner his business will commence to prosper, and the sooner his profits and bank account will begin to increase.

Retailer's Duty to the Housewife.

If a housewife has no time to study fashion plates, much less has she time to study trade journals, in which wholesalers and manufacturers advertise, to find out what to get for to-morrow's dinner. It is not the duty of a trade journal to educate the housekeeper. It is the duty of the retail grocer, and him alone. If he gets in a new line of canned goods, or if he is enterprising enough to add an entirely new line of food stuffs to his stock he should be enterprising enough to go to every house in the city and countryside and tell about it. How will the people find out about it otherwise? The way to do this is to advertise, and it is the only way.

Not ten per cent. of the people know what any one store carries in stock, and the grocers, evidently, are unconcerned whether they do or not. In Peterborough there are nearly 100 stores carrying a stock of groceries. These are scattered all over the city, mostly in the residential parts where a woman can run out in the morning and get a few little things she finds she needs and get back to the house without losing any time. She never thinks of the hundreds of tasty delicacies she might get, and she is in such a hurry the grocer cannot tell her about them. Thus thousands of dollars worth of business is lost every year.

The large stores in the centre of the city are being driven out. There is not enough business to enable them to pay the heavy expenses. The small stores are cropping up all over. These carry a general stock, the so-called "necessities of life." The big stores carry the varied stock and are losing the general trade.

Advertising a Necessity.

There is only one cause—they do not advertise. They cannot hold the trade. The corner grocery is nearer to the people and they get a big share of the business. The only remedy for the grocer is to advertise. Tell the people about the fresh goods that are received every day. Suggest to them a new brand of pickles, a new kind of canned fruit, the cooked meats, fresh biscuits and the hundreds of other palatable things so much desired in the hot weather. The people want those things and would buy them if they only knew where to get them. The corner grocer does not carry them, and in warm weather a woman will not run around the city looking for something to eat that is cool and refreshing. She has no time and less inclination. If she saw advertised that a certain store had what she wanted she would soon telephone an order or send for it.

When the grocer is getting the order for the special article he can very easily get another order for the general groceries. What he wants to do is to reverse his system of doing business. Get the people coming for luxuries and then sell them groceries as well. A hundred stores in the city sell groceries and then the clerk or proprietor might think to suggest to the customer some dainty, thus making the "necessities of life" the main feature. The profit of a grocery store is not on sugars, flour, vinegar, molasses, etc.; it is on spices, teas, coffees, pickles, fancy canned goods, fancy biscuits, etc. These are the things to advertise. They are what the people want and are willing to pay for. They will buy ordinary groceries any way and from the nearest store. But they will go a mile for a luxury.

Free Mail Delivery.

This city it to have a free mail delivery in a very short time. The postmaster here has received the different sorting boxes and all the paraphernalia necessary for six mail carriers. The postoffice here is far too small to accommodate the amount of mail matter handled and the result is a great many mistakes are made. The six men who will deliver the mail will be divided as follows: Two in the business section and one in each of the four outlying wards. This service will be greatly appreciated by local citizens.

The tourist season is now opened, and every day summer residents arrive in the city on their way to Stoney Lake points, or Chemong or down to Rice Lake, and the local grocers are getting a share of the business. A large number of big orders have been filled and shipped out. This business, however, is not nearly so good as it used to be, as there are several grocery stores at Stoney Lake and fresh supplies are brought in daily.

Short-weight Buter.

The swooping down of the police on the market a couple of weeks ago and the discovery that considerable short weight butter was offered for sale has caused considerable discussion in the city. A prominent citizen informed The Grocer this week, and was most emphatic in his statements, that several grocers in the city were selling light weight butter, but were not getting into trouble over it. He stated that when farmers brought print butter to the grocers the man behind the counter weighs it and pays for it according to weight. He then turns around and sells it by the package, each print being disposed of as a pound. Frequently when weighed they did not contain sixteen ounces, and the consumer was suffering as a result of this practice.

Your correspondent interviewed a leading local grocer regarding this matter, and was informed that he had heard that some grocers in the city were in the habit of handling butter in this way, but he did not know to what extent the practice prevailed. He considered that it was a very unfair thing to do, as it was deliberately deceiving the purchaser. He would like to see all butter sold by weight, as it was the only fair way of buying and selling this commodity. Unless butter is looked after very carefully in a store, there is always more or less loss of weight from evaporation of moisture, so that the consumer who buys butter by the print is likely to often find that he is not getting as much as he supposed, or what he paid for.

GALT.

The present warm spell has had a very beneficial effect on the grocery trade in Galt, and the merchants state that the trade at present is better than it has been at any time this year.

It is understood on good authority that the proposed appeal against the ruling of Police Magistrate Blake, in which a transient trader was fined for a breach of the transient traders' by-law, will not materialize. The retail merchants are somewhat disappointed in that the case has been dropped, as it was their desire that a test case be made, and the merits of the by-law proved. It is quite possible that the supposed transient trader has not the necessary funds with which to carry the case to a higher court. In the meantime it is hardly possible that he will again reappear with his little grip of "samples."

The question of devising ways and means whereby a dustless Sunday can be obtained is agitating the merchants of Galt. On a windy Sunday Main St. resembles a desert sand storm, and when the stores are opened on Monday morning it requires several hours' work to remove the dust. It has been suggested that the street be given a liberal application of water late on Saturday evening or early on Sunday morning.

Preparations are going on apace for the big old boys' reunion in August. It is estimated that there will be between four and five thousand visitors in Galt for four days. What this will mean to the merchants can easily be imagined, as the old boys and girls must certainly eat.

A local grocer stated to-day that Canadian-grown strawberries would probably be placed on sale next week. "Although the crop is rather late," he said, "advices from the fruit growers are to the effect that the crop will be exceedingly large. It is surprising the difference the strawberry season makes in the grocery trade in general. The amount of sugar sold, for instance, is simply astounding. And in addition to the sugar sold, there are numerous other articles that are never called for at other times."

With the warm weather the demand for breakfast foods is beginning to increase. During the winter the Galt Scotchman will hear of nothing but rolled oats, but with the warm summer weather the ready-cooked foods are largely in demand.

The Saturday market in Galt was larger than for some time. There was a profusion of greenstuffs and vegetables. Butter dropped one cent to 22 cents per pound, and eggs increased two cents to 22 cents per dozen.

Arthur White, employed by Deans & Walker, had a narrow escape while driving on Sunday. He was accompanied by two young ladies and was driving through Victoria park, when the horse became frightened. One of the young ladies, in jumping from the rig, sustained a broken ankle. The two other occupants remained in the rig and escaped with a severe fright.

Eric Connawarf, who was for some years with Jno. Laird's grocery establishment, now on the road for the Christie-Brown Co., is spending his holidays in Galt. When he leaves his native town he will be accompanied by a lifelong helpmeet in the person of Miss Murray, daughter of James Murray, the well-known Dumfries street grocer. Eric's many friends in Galt are extending preliminary congratulations. The happy event will take place on Wednesday, June 26.

The present hot spell has created an almost unprecedented demand for lemons and many citizens do not resent being handed specimens of this fruit.

Deans & Walker, who always lead in fancy foreign fruits, are this week handling peaches, pears, apricots, berries, etc.

A well-known grocer to-day asked your correspondent why the Galt grocers did not recognize the benefits of organization and form a Retail Grocers' Association in Galt. Why?

An effort is being made by the Galt Beautifying Club to have the bill boards removed from the public thoroughfares.

HAMILTON.

Our wholesalers report business the best ever, most of them working overtime to relieve the congestion in their shipping departments. A strike of the Hendrie teamsters also helped to tie things up, but the strike was of short duration, the men going back at the old rate of pay. The boats running out from here are doing a great freight business. The fast sailing Turbinia is now running a triangular trip, from here to Toronto and thence across the lake to Queenston, making a delightful day's outing for Hamilton grocers and any others who care to avail themselves of it.

Half-holiday Popular.

Our Wednesday half-holidays are very much enjoyed, and there are few grocery stores not closed. Of course, here, as elsewhere, there are some men too mean, or some too disgruntled with petty grudges, to do as the majority would like. Other dealers are following the grocers in closing, and, from the present outlook, before the summer is over all the stores in the city will close Wednesday afternoons excepting the department stores, and, of course, they never agree with anyone. However, these half days are a bright spot in the week's business and are enjoyed by the clerks and others to the fullest extent.

R. M. A. Convention.

At the last meeting of the Grocers' Association the question of attending the Retail Merchants' convention was taken up. Some time ago the grocers asked them for information concerning the convention, but never received any satisfactory explanations, only a proposition from their organizer to affiliate with the Retail Merchants, which was promptly turned down. The grocers are willing and anxious to help out the convention, but say "no" to any scheme for amalgamation. As yet it does not appear as if the local branch of the R. M. A. intended to take an active part in the convention.

The Approaching Picnic.

The whole city is talking of the grocers' picnic. As the time comes nearer it looms up larger than ever, and it looks a fortunate thing that Mr. Main, the chairman, with his usual forethought conceived the plan of going by two railroads. All danger of crowding is avoided, and hundreds of people will now join in who have been afraid of the crowd in other years. Two railroads, with one hundred first-class coaches, two bands, a baby show, two hundred dollars in cash prizes for games, champion boy dancer and other attractions too great to enumerate. Come along on 17th July and see how we look.

TO BOOST LEAMINGTON.

Over 20 of the business men of Leamington held a meeting last week, for the purpose of organizing in the interests of the town. Those present were enthusiastic in favor of the project, and a business men's association was formed. The following executive were named: president, S. G. Morse; vice-president, Mr. Purvis; secretary, Mr. McSween; treasurer, Mr. Burrows; executive committee, Station Agent Sands, W. J. Hazelton, W. D. Cox, A. T. Boles, J. E. Johnson and S. French. Harmony, good feeling and public spirit were in evidence throughout. The meeting passed a resolution favoring the park by-law, and hopes were expressed that that measure would carry by a good majority.

PERSONALS.

J. G. Wallace, London, was in Montreal during the week.

T. H. Estabrooks, St. John, N.B., was in Montreal the early part of the week.

Mr. Lochner, representative of Wm. Hills, Jr., New York, was in Toronto this week.

Robert Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, is in the west on business at present.

Gordon Hagmeier, Hespeler, recently injured his knee in a ball game, but is again able to be about. Mr. Hagmeier won first prize in The Grocer's April window dressing.

Mr. Gilliam, representing Missir & Co., Smyrna and New York, was a caller upon the jobbing trade in Toronto this week, being introduced by Wallace Anderson, of Anderson, Powis & Co.

C. S. Bare, representing Campbell's soups, Camden, N.J., was in Montreal during the week calling upon the jobbing trade. Rose & Laflamme are agents for Ontario east of Kingston and for the Province of Quebec.

Wm. Ashworth, representing the N. K. Fairbank Co., Montreal, when seen by The Grocer this week on his return from a trip through Western Ontario, spoke of business being satisfactory despite the very backward spring.

D. McL. Brophy, Montreal, was a visitor to Toronto last week, calling upon his principals, McGregor, Harris & Co., and the Atlantic Soap Co. Mr. Brophy represents these two firms in Montreal and the Province of Quebec. A good all round salesman and square and popular traveler, "Dan" Brophy is doing well.

R. J. Helstrop, who represented E. W. Gillett & Co., Ltd., in Northern Ontario, has taken up the work for the company in Nova Scotia. T. T. Cartwright, the special representative of E. W. Gillett & Co., is at present in Newfoundland. The genial T. T.'s face is known wherever Magic Baking Powder and Royal Yeast are used.

Henry Wright, president of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., and C. L. Marshall, manager of the company's brokerage department, have gone on a week's fishing expedition into the valley of the Trent. Mr. Marshall has just returned from a trip to Halifax and way-by cities in the interests of Maconochie Bros.

W. Murray, Montreal representative E. W. Gillett Company, Toronto, has returned from Saranac Lake where he accompanied Mrs. Murray whose health is very poor. Mr. Murray hopes that some time spent at the lake will improve her health, as do his many friends, especially since Mr. Murray has four children to look after while alone.

EXPORT OF SIBERIAN BUTTER.

The Russian Department of Railways publishes the following data respecting the quantities of butter, in tons, shipped via the Siberian Railway into European Russia for the last five years: 1902, 31,131: 1903, 36,123; 1904, 34,803; 1905, 31,258; 1906, 46,738.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

A Winner in The Canadian Grocer's May Competition—Increase in the Use of Adjustable Window Partitions—An Attractive Display in Woodstock.

This window, the one shown in the accompanying illustration, was awarded second prize in the May competition of The Canadian Grocer. It is a Halifax display of Lipton goods. There's a lot of work in the making of this window and it looks good, but it didn't impress the judges as being up the the standard of what a first prize window should be. This is the English style of solid trimming that is not favored by the best trimmers in this country. It is held that more artistic arrangement and more attractive, therefore better selling effect, can be obtained by a lighter, airier trimming. Certainly time is a large consideration in window dressing, especially as success depends so largely upon frequent changes. One thing about Choat & Co.: they are thorough and they don't do things by halves. This is not the first time they have won a prize in the window-dressing competitions.

C. E. CHOAT & CO., HALIFAX—Second Prize Window in May; and there was no First.

WINDOW PARTITIONS.

Window dressing as an art is progressing very fast in Canada. The grocer is sharing in it, but not to the extent he ought to. A device that is coming into general use by the better window trimmers in other lines is the window partition. Even in very small windows, light lattice work of wood or metal is being used very effectively to separate displays of different goods. It is the recognition and practical working out of the axiom that window dressers should not mix things up. These adjustable window partitions have not yet been taken up by the grocers, but they will be and we shall shortly show some illustrations of them on this page.

A "TARTAN" PRIZE.

Here is a letter received by Balfour, Smye & Co., Hamilton, from a British Columbia town. It shows how prize lists are made up by the wholesalers and also how popular "Tartan" goods are:

"We are going to have a celebration here Dominion Day and thought possibly you would like to join us in the way of a prize and do a little advertising for "Tartan" goods, at the same time, although they hardly need advertising here as they have been used daily in every home, hotel, camp and mine in the district for quite a number of years.

"There will be ladies' races and ladies' nail-driving contest, where a piece of Tartan silk for a waist might make a grand hit.

"Let me hear from you as early as possible as I want to get it on the prize list."

HOW TO TEST OLIVE OIL.

Here are four ways by which the purity of olive oil may be tested. If the article purchased fails to stand any one of them, the buyer may be certain that a peanut or cottonseed adulteration has been substituted for the genuine product.

1. The price—If you want a first-class oil you must be prepared to pay for it from 80 cents to $1 per quart. If the price is much below this for a small bottle, the quality is inferior.

2. The color—Oil that is dark yellow in color will be found to be almost entirely composed of cottonseed. A deep green or yellow oil contains some foreign adulterant or artificial coloring. Pure olive oil should be of the palest green with an opalescent shimmer. This color is only found in the finest virgin oil—in oil made from the first pressing of olives hand picked and carefully selected.

3. The taste—Oil adulterated with cottonseed leaves a disagreeable taste in the mouth. Pure olive oil tastes of the olive. Frequently there is no taste in it whatever, in which case it has been heavily adulterated.

4. Test by cold—One of the simplest and most efficient tests to determine the purity of olive oil is to place a small bottle of it in a pan of cracked ice for two or three hours. Fine olive oil is easily affected by the cold, quickly turning cloudy and dull when subjected to a low temperature. If under the conditions above described the oil remains clear and fluid, it has been adulterated. The pure oil will become separated into small white grains, holding them apparently in solution. On again placing the bottle in a warm place, the cloudiness will disappear and the oil resume its brightness.

The Australian Government has authorized an expenditure of $40,000 for the construction of a steam trawler, which is to be used for the development of the coastal fisheries of New South Wales.

CONVENTION AT HAMILTON.

The convention of the grocers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association in Hamilton, on July 2nd, will be of prime interest to the entire trade. The Canadian Grocer has earnestly advocated the organization of a national association of their own. It is promised that the merits of this proposition, as opposed to an organization of the grocers, in conjunction with other retailers, will be thoroughly discussed. The Grocer would venture to urge upon its readers the importance of attending this convention. Organization there should be, and if the grocers cannot see their way to an association of their own they should make the most of the facilities for association offered by the Retailers' Association.

ONE DEATH.

A few weeks ago The Canadian Grocer told how the family of Wm. Stewart had been poisoned by tomato soup. Mrs. Stewart, who has been an invalid for some years, has since died, never having recovered from the effects of the poison. The remains of the soup have been sent for analysis. It is most unlikely that the poison was ptomaine. What is much more probable is that the tomatoes were kept in a damp place, causing rust to attack the tin from the outside. A very small opening is sufficient to admit the air, which enables the contents of the can to abstract poison from the metal. The lesson seems to be that retailers cannot be too careful where they store their stocks of canned goods.

EGGS.

There is an interesting egg season ahead. Packers have stocked up at unprecedentedly high prices. Last year they thought they were going some when they filled cold storage and pickle vats at prices never before heard of. But they got out all right. The end of the season saw the market bare of storage eggs and to a small extent the American hen was called on temporarily for assistance. Now that the packers have laid away considerable quantities of eggs they are stopping to take thought for a moment. Deliveries of eggs in the United States have been of record size and prices are away below those ruling in Ontario. As things now stand a Chicago packer can lay down eggs in Winnipeg next fall at a cost of a cent less than Ontario packers can. Representatives of Chicago houses are now in the west making contracts. The west is a considerable factor in the Ontario eggmen's market. What the next six or eight months will hatch out for the Ontario egg packers will be watched for with interest.

LOCAL ADVERTISING.

Our Peterborough correspondent in his letter this week has some remarks to make on the value to the retailer of local advertising that are sound and to the point. We would like to see more attention given to this phase of the grocery business, and to that end invite our friends to give us their experience and suggestions. Given two grocers in a small town—one of them a regular advertiser in the local paper, and the other advertising spasmodically or not at all—and it is not a difficult matter to pick the winner with precision. To the retailer who is just starting in business, this method of announcing himself a candidate for trade is the surest, safest, and in fact the only way which can be relied upon to attract to himself the attention of the people he most desires to reach. The initial expense to which he will be put is merely nominal compared with the amount of money he would waste by sitting down and waiting for business to come to him. Let him at the outset engage a small space in his paper and fill it with new copy every day or week, as he can afford. Nothing so surely illustrates the progressiveness of a man as the amount of advertising he is able to do.

JAPAN TEAS.

Japan teas are of great interest to the grocery trade at present, being the most live lines mentioned in the tea market. Japans are high this year—they were not low last season, but prices asked this year are above those quoted in the past in most instances. Teas of the better grades, above 30c. say, have been advanced a greater percentage than the cheaper teas. In some quarters there has been talk of a radical advance, but inquiry reveals the fact that while the market in Japan is very firm there has been nothing in the nature of a quick jump in prices. Prospects are that Japan teas will be firm for some time to come. It cannot be expected that dealers will watch the prices of Ceylon and Indian teas climb gradually upwards without raising their own quotations, and it is evident that they are resolved to secure the best prices possible for their goods. This is only natural. Tending also to keep the prices up is the recent consolidation in Japan of the great majority of the Japanese houses. Whereas last year there was more or less price-cutting, owing to keen competition, there will not likely be anything in that line in 1907.

Scant information is obtainable regarding second crop teas, which are of more interest to Canadians than any others. Prospects are favorable, but it is impossible to tell what kind of a crop will be harvested. Likely prices will be firm.

FIXING PRICES.

While a ring-around-a-rosy of retail grocers to fix prices would be illegal and vicious, the manufacturer of a proprietary article has a perfect right to fix its retail price and take all fair means to prevent the price being broken. Furthermore an organization of retail grocers, with a view to lessening price-cutting, are wholly justified in asking and urging manufacturers of proprietary articles to name the retail price. And the organized retailers are justified in helping the manufacturer to keep the price.

The interest of the consumer is in no way threatened thereby. There are three classes of price-cutters. There's the man who wants to give away groceries to help him sell his dry goods; there's the dishonest man, and there's the fathead who doesn't know he's losing money. The legitimate grocer has a perfect right, the right of self-preservation, to protect himself from all three.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Sugar—Decline 10c.
Beans—Advanced.
Dried Fruits—Market Excited.
Evaporated Apples—Easier.
Seeded Raisins—Advanced 1c.

Montreal, June 20, 1907.—Activity in grocery circles is not great, but a fair trade is being done in general lines. Sugar declined ten cents on Tuesday. Considerable is being sold now that the warm weather has set in and it is expected with the small fruits season coming on that demand will pick up even more. In canned goods, beans, strawberries and peaches continue exceedingly scarce. Canned salmon is in great demand. Molasses continues to sell, but corn syrups are beginning to get dull. Japan teas are higher and all kinds of teas are firm. Stocks held in Montreal are not large. There is reported considerable inquiry for old teas. Seeded raisins are up a cent. Currants are firm but no price changes are reported. Prices on new peaches are out and quite a bit above those quoted last year. Prunes are firm and advancing. Prospects are for a good crop of valencia raisins, according to advices from Spain. Some houses are selling evaporated apples at a lower figure than ruled last week, not desiring to carry their stock through the summer. Beans are higher. Nutmegs are very low. Provisions are getting interesting. Lard is cheaper. Butter and cheese are two lines that are firm. Cotton twine has been advanced. Four ply is quoted 27c to 28c; three ply 23c to 24c. There has been an advance of one cent on paraffine wax. Prices now are 11c to 12½c.

SUGAR.—There has been a decline of ten cents in sugar since last week. While there is considerable buying since the hot weather has set in, trade is not anything to get excited about. The market is steady at the decline.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.—Quite a few lots of molasses, new crop, have been received since last writing and this has been delivered to the trade. Orders are still plentiful and wholesalers report excellent prospects for a good season as compared with former years. Corn syrups are slacking off.

TEA.—Japans continue interesting, but news direct from the primary markets is difficult to obtain. Few cables have been received latély, but what have been sent show that the market continues firm. It is to-day impossible to secure Japans at prices anywhere near the figures which ruled a year ago. One tea dealer reported sales made to-day at 24½c against 21½c for the same grade asked in 1906. Japan is busy with the American market at present. United States dealers have had to advance their limits to obtain new crop teas. Most all teas are scarce in Montreal just now and the average run of prices are firm. Some demand is reported for China and Ceylon and China greens. There is some talk around the trade about the probable revival of China teas. It is said that the powers that be are about to open up on the trade with the idea of once more bringing China teas prominently before the tea-drinking public.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—This market is considerably excited this week, speaking generally. Prices on several lines are fluctuating in such a manner that dealers hardly know whether they are making or losing money. The California market has been steadily advancing. Prices on new peaches are now out and run 3c to 4c above those of last year. They are quoted 12c up, according to quality. This would mean cost to the retailer, laid down in Canada 18c to 20c. These figures may advance any day. Prune prices are on a 5c basis, Santa Claras, there being a premium on sizes ranging from ½c on 40's to ¼c on 90's. Locally prunes are pretty well cleaned up and the amount going into cold storage this summer will not be as large as in previous years. Seeded raisins are one cent higher than last week, and stocks are rapidly being cleaned up. Currants are firm but no price changes are reported. Tarragona almonds are slightly cheaper, being quoted 14c to 15c. Advices from Spain indicate a good crop of valencia raisins.

EVAPORATED APPLES. — Some houses are offering evaporated apples at 9c rather than put them into cold storage for the summer. Others are still quoting 10c. Demand is but fair.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—Beans are exceedingly scarce and wholesalers find it difficult to fill such orders as they are taking for this line. Some Maritime beans, from around Sussex, are offering on the Montreal market at present, but do not seem to be in great request. It is not often that these beans get so far west. As a rule all the beans used in this district come from the west. There is a fair stock of corn held from all that can be learned and prices are firm under but fair demand. Peas are in good demand and stocks are ample to take care of all business. Canned salmon is very brisk. Packers expect higher prices for new pack. They say the run will probably not be larger nor smaller than other years but the cost of production has increased to such an extent that they will have to ask higher figures of the trade in order to make some profit. As a last word, tomatoes are in fair supply and will likely last over unless there should be a sudden increase in demand for this line.

TORONTO. — Slowly but surely the market is getting into better position. This is in regard to vegetables. Fruits are as strong as they can be and there are very few left. It is quite evident however that holders of tomatoes are much less anxious to sell. Stocks are going fast into consumption; there are two extra weeks at least to provide for and the new crop is still problematical.

New canned lobsters are now on this market.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—10c. lower.
Lard—Lower.
Fair outlook for dried fruits.
Cloves—Very high.
Cuban pines—Lower.
Texas fresh tomatoes—Much lower.

Toronto, June 20, 1907.

Business continues satisfactory, but without much feature. The demand for canned fruits is not abated and vegetables are gradually getting a stronger position. Prunes are in a very strong position and the demand is very active. There are still many bitter complaints against the railways for delays in delivering goods. Collections are fairly satisfactory so far as the wholesale grocery trade is concerned. The decline in sugar seems to have come opportunely for both wholesaler and retailer. For some time buying has been very light and the large purchases of a few weeks ago when the market was advancing must be pretty well cleaned up. The market is still weak, but further declines are not confidently expected. The tea trade is a little quiet, with an easier tone to the market, accompanied by a greater falling off of quality than is usual, greater, it is said in London, than for five years.. Cloves, which fluctuate violently in price, are again very high. Prices in nearly all lines are very firm.

TEA—Prices in London are tending downward except for high grades, and quality, especially of low grades, is off to a degree not known in five years. The average auction price for May was 8d., against 7¼d. for the same month last year. Movements of tea in London for the year, 1st June, 1906, to end of May, 1907, show the strong statistical position of the article, the deliveries marking an expansion of 5½ millions, while imports were 5½ millions less than during the preceding season. Stocks are moderate, being 13½ millions less than at the corresponding period last year.

Locally trade is from hand to mouth and quiet.

COFFEE—The valorization plan of the Brazil Government has been termed a "corner," and lately newspaper reports of a collapse have gone out. Willett & Gray, New York, reply as follows :— "During the week reports have been published that the Government had stopped buying, and this was immediately interpreted by those parties who have been using the European and American newspapers to disparage the Government operations, as an evidence of great weakness on the part of the Government. The fact of the matter is that the Government is now holding about 8,000,000 bags of coffee, in all markets, and knowing the present crop to be close to an end, and they have decided to withdraw from the market for the time being to watch and see whether any further assistance may be required, believing that consuming countries are in need of all the coffee remaining of this crop as well as all that may come from the next crop."

SUGAR—Prices of refined declined 10 points on Tuesday. It was scarcely expected, however, and came about as opportunely as possible. Retailers have been buying very little lately and the stocks secured in the active buying of a few weeks ago must be pretty well exhausted. The question everyone is asking, of course, is, "What next ?" The feeling of the trade here is that the decline will not continue, but no one is making promises. The late season is probably responsible for present conditions. The lateness of the fruit crop has, no doubt, greatly hindered consumption, with the result that stocks have piled up in refiners' hands. Cuba, too, has a larger crop than was anticipated.

At the close of last week Willett & Gray say :

"The news of the week is on the unfavorable side of prices. First and foremost is the increase added to the visible crop of Cuba. The total production to May 31st was 1,363,664 tons, with receipts since bringing it up already above our recent maximum estimate and to 1,378,000 tons, necessitating an increased final estimate of 1,425,000 tons. The long continued favorable weather enabled those estates still having cane to grind to remain at work and produce a surplus of crop beyond recent expectations.

"The record of the Cuba crop as it progressed through this season is a confirmation of the frequently expressed opinion that it is extremely difficult to make close crop calculations regarding Cuba until after the first of May. The weather conditions appear to influence crops in Cuba more than elsewhere, probably for the reason that more cane is left in the fields unground at the usual normal closing of a crop than could have been ground by the centrals, and when, as this year, the weather conditions were abnormal and scarcely a day of work lost during the entire campaign, and with a sufficient supply of laborers working under improved political conditions, the final outturn reaches a high point that could not possibly be anticipated early in the crop season.

"The weather is now reported favorable for the growing crop of Cuba and for the beet crops of Europe ; and while these conditions remain it is hardly to be anticipated that values could continue to rise indefinitely, so this week we must report a retrograde movement in all countries.

"In Europe the decline is from 9s. 11½d. to 9s. 9d. per cwt. f.o.b. Hamburg for beet sugar, but which decline leaves Europe 31c. per 100 lbs. above the parity of centrifugals here. October-December beet is quoted at 9s. 6d.

"The decline noted in our local markets is from 3.84c. per lb. for spot and nearby, 96 degrees centrifugal, to 3.73c. per lb., while Cubas for July shipment have been placed at 2.47c. c. & f., 96 degrees test, equal to 3.83c. landed."

Early this week beet lost three farthings more, but the raw market in New York was about steady, with no trade passing.

DRIED FRUITS—Prunes continue to be the feature of the market. The demand is active and prices are very firm. The trade here are now being offered reprocessed last year's prunes at a little under new crop quotations. These can be delivered in August if necessary. It is said they can scarcely be discerned from new prunes, either in appearance or quality.

Crop news is generally more assuring. Prospects for Valencia raisins continue very favorable. The crop is expected to be large and quality will depend largely upon intervening weather conditions.

The Sultana crop is doing well and is now estimated at close upon 45,000 tons, which is quite up to normal. Weather conditions have improved very much.

The current crop looks well, though it is a fortnight late, and the next two months is the critical time.

There are good prospects for a good crop of Malaga raisins.

Prices for spot dates are easier, with a view to cleaning up last year's stock.

GROCERY NEWS OF THE PACIFIC COAST

(Special Correspondence of Canadian Grocer.)

Vancouver, B.C., June 13, 1907.

Salmon canners have been puzzled by the action of selling firms in England, who recently conducted forced auction sales of canned salmon, so disturbing the market that prices dropped three to four shillings a case. The condition of the industry here and the prospect of a small run again this season on the Fraser would warrant firm prices with upward tendency, but the situation just now is very much the reverse. Following this action the announcement is made that the American packers have put up the price of the Columbia River pack 60c per case. The possibility is that before very long the B. C. brands will be back to their former prices.

For some years there has been a growing trade in cured salmon and halibut exported to Europe, Germany in particular demanding a considerable quantity. A company is now being formed to go into the industry exclusively. The fish will be put up by what is locally known as the "mild cure" process by which, though partially cured, they do not absorb the usual quantity of salt put into salted fish. On reaching their destination the fish are almost as good as fresh. At the point of distribution the fish are taken out of the brine and slightly smoked for marketing. A great deal of frozen fish is also being shipped to the Old Country and this too will be very much developed.

Eastern fruit growers are not standing idly by while the B. C. fruit men are capturing the big demand market of the Northwest. At present there is a move on foot in the Province of Ontario to send men into Manitoba and the Northwest to organize the districts and to secure co-operation in the various business centres for the handling of eastern fruit.

Fruit prospects throughout the province are generally very promising. Late spring frosts have not damaged the young fruit to any material degree. If the rainfall in the coast district were more equably divided and some of it available in the present dry weather the crop of strawberries in the coast districts would be very large. As it is there is promise of a good crop and the berries are now ripening very quickly. The market is still being supplied with some from Oregon and Washington, the prices of which have hitherto been from $4 to $4.25 per crate. The local fruit now marketed is bringing $3 and will be lower in a week.

Navel oranges are off the market, none coming forward now. The price of other varieties is advancing. St. Michaels bring $4.25 and valencias $4.75. Lemons are still moving up in the list and are quoted at $5.50 to $6.50 per case. Fancy apples, imported, are being sold in limited quantities, bringing up to $3.50 per box. The California cherries are freely marketed now, prices being 20c per lb. to the trade. The range of fruits is somewhat limited at the present moment.

In produce circles, eastern creamery is now on the market, the price being 26c and 27c to the trade. Local creamery is becoming more plentiful and is still quoted at 30c. Local dairy is being very freely marketed and price ranges from 25c to 30c. Local fresh eggs are 28c per dozen, with fresh eastern stock 2c per dozen less. The market is well supllied now. Cured meats show an advance of nearly two cents per pound. This is in sympathy with present high prices for all butcher stock. In the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan live hogs are selling at 7½c per pound, and beef is 4c to 5c live weight. The prospect is that these prices will continue in the prairie provinces for the candid men in the stock country freely admit, what everyone who has ever been over the west knows, that the percentage of losses in range cattle was extremely heavy last winter. Indeed, many big ranches are practically wiped out.

In vegetables, the potato market is still going up. If there were any Ashcrofts obtainable they would readily sell at $50 per ton. The best stock to be secured is sold at $45 per ton, and little sells below $40. New potatoes from local sources will not be in for some weeks yet and the California new potatoes have been very dear this spring. Hothouse lettuce is being superseded by the open-grown stock, the price, however, still being $1.50 per crate. Radishes and other bunch vegetables are all of local supply now and prices are jobbing at 40c and 50c per dozen. Hothouse cucumbers are $1.50 per dozen. Tomatoes $4.50 per crate.

In grocery prices slight increases are noted in rolled oats and oatmeal. Rolled oats in 10—7's have gone up 20c to $3. Oatmeal is now $3.50 to $3.75, according to the size of sack. Cornmeal in 100-lbs. is selling at $2.40, a ten cent increase, while in 10-lb. cartons it is $2.60 per 100 lbs. Sugars have not been again increased, the base price being $5.50 for granulated and $4.65 for yellow.

WITH THE MOONLIGHTERS.

Toronto Grocers Take an Evening Off in the Big Steamer Cayuga.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Toronto gave a moonlight excursion on Monday evening—no, they didn't "give" it, because some of the passengers when they saw T. Clark, Davie Bell, Ben Panter, J. S. Bond and F. W. Johnstone sitting about a mission oak table on the lower deck, gazing eagerly at a pile of bills and a heap or silver, accused them of playing poker, and it had to be explained that they were the finance committee and the swag was a collection of fifty and twenty-five cents from each entity of the male and female sections of the cargo respectively.

There was a crowd sufficient to insure the financial safety of the undertaking, but there were not enough grocers present. As a matter of fact, there are not enough grocers in the association. Toronto should have the strongest and most active Grocers' Association in Canada, and it could have. Now, if David Bell, secretary, would set his mind to it he could quickly realize that result.

Large as the crowd of moonlighters was, it was lost on the great steamer, the Cayuga, and if it hadn't been for the blockade about the dancers in the stern and about the 48th Highlanders' band in the prow, one would have wondered where the people had hidden themselves away. From the smoking room, on the hurricane deck, where some congenial worthies euchred the hours, to the ladies' cabin, where only the stewardess and an infant made merry, there was no hint of crowding.

There wasn't even a crowd of travelers, but there was merit in that, for it meant, in part at any rate, that the association had not put any ticket buying proposition up to the wholesalers. Fred Rose, J. H. Blair and Steve Searle were the Red Rose tea magnets for the occasion, and they drew many admiring glances. After just a little while they didn't look quite as lonely as some others—R. Crowley, of White & Co., for instance. He kept away from the signs of sorcery, and if he didn't look happy he, at least, appeared to be all there.

For an out and out game euchre player Charlie Kimpton is hard to beat. That last winning hand put smiles all over his genial face. The trouble was, he says that Ab. Johnston trumped his ace.

James Mortimer, of Christie, Brown fame, was on hand as usual. To his other accomplishments he has added another one lately, at least Jack Wright, of MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., says so. The latest one he tells is something about the experiences of two brawny Scotch laddies and a poached egg.

BIG FLOUR SHIPMENTS TO CHINA.

American flour merchants in Hongkong state that unusually large contracts have been placed for Australian flour to be delivered in Hongkong. These contracts are understood to total more flour than has ever before been contracted for in Australia for the Hongkong market, and estimates place the total amount at from 300,000 to 500,000 bags, while it is stated that 80,000 bags is the largest that has ever been under contract at any one time in the past. The reason given for the ability of the Australian millers to secure this business is that the American mills are now and have been for some time unable to make deliveries.

Mr. Rowley, Underdown & Crichton, London, Denia and Valencia, was in Montreal during the week and dropped in to see The Grocer. This firm is already well known in the Canadian market, and intends to boom its special brands even more in the near future. "F. W. Rowley" and "S. Bodi" are the brands of Valencia raisins best known in Canada as coming from this house. Walnuts are handled in large quantities also. Wm. C. Christmas has been appointed Montreal agent.

AT THE DUBLIN EXHIBITION

Major Sloan, Toronto, Tells of His Impressions While Over the Water.

Major Sloan, of Sloan & Co., Toronto, one of Ireland's most loyal sons, and one of Front street's shrewdest wholesale grocers, has just returned from a two months' visit to the land that gave him birth, and his enthusiasm for Ould Oireland is such that one almost acquires a brogue merely through listening to him describe the glories of County Cavan. "I landed at Liverpool," says Major Sloan, "but it was not long before I was headed for the land of the Shamrock. My intentions were to see something of foreign parts, but once in Ireland I could not tear myself away, and there I stayed till work called me back.

The Dublin Exhibition.

"I paid a visit to the Dublin exhibition about the end of May, and although many of the foreign exhibits were not in place in the buildings allotted to the different nationalities, including that of France, yet I found quite enough to interest me during three visits. I was agreeably surprised to see such a magnificent show. The grounds consisted of about fifty acres, well laid out, and buildings were most suitable for the purposes of an exhibition. The Canadian building naturally attracted my attention. It is admirably adapted to do full justice to the Dominion, and the exhibits of the staple products—grain, lumber, minerals, fish, dairy, etc., were finely displayed and seemed to attract more attention than any other display there. I called on Manager Col. Hutcheson, and his assistants, Mr. Brodie and another gentleman from Quebec, who received me most cordially, and I congratulated them upon the fine showing of the Canadian exhibits so admirably arranged and displayed for the purpose of attracting the attention of that class of Irish emigrants who possessed agricultural ambitions.

"I doubt whether the majority of Canadian people are aware of the grand patriotic work the colonel and his assistants are accomplishing on behalf of our Dominion—work for which the Dominion Government undoubtedly deserve great praise. The Canadian building was most beautifully illuminated in the evening and showed views of the Northwest —well adapted to attract the attention of the class most required in our country. I hope and believe that the gallant colonel and his associates are having the marked success to which their labor and energy entitles them."

London.

In London, Major Sloan was particularly struck with the way in which everyone, both poor and rich, seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent by taking advantage of the various attractions, indoor and out, provided them as a legitimate means of spending their money without extortion. "I noticed, for instance," he said, "the admirable arrangements for people riding on horseback and driving in carriages. In our own city I remember, when a bridle path had been suggested for riders, hearing some people cry, "Oh, this is all in the interest of the 'rich and weary,' " as Mr. Dooley would say. This is a very grave mistake, because, by encouraging the rich to spend their money by keeping horses, etc., and thereby employing grooms, coachmen, harness makers, saddlers, carriage builders, etc., all classes get the benefit, directly or indirectly, and tends to keep the money in circulation at home, instead of driving people abroad to spend it. Our mayor and city council should be backed up by every newspaper and patriotic citizen in making Toronto an attractive place to live in for all classes. Certainly they will always receive whatever support and encouragement I can offer along these lines."

A Square Deal for the Stranger.

"Also in London it seems to be an unwritten law that her citizens never take advantage of strangers, who get good dalue for their money always, whether it is in the way of board or purchases of any description. Howeverj this is a matter that our enterprising business people, certainly the grocers, might well be depended upon to look after. The numerous parks, squares, gardens and playgrounds are a lively sight just now. Boating is another form of outdoor recreation which receives marked attention and with the facilities at our own doors should have more attention here.

"I certainly had a delightful trip and I feel better for it, as do all the members of my family who accompanied me, but, of course, we are glad to be back again in old Toronto, which, after all, is a city no citizen need be ashamed of and which only needs her people to continue their enterprise to place her in the front rank of the finest city in the world."

LARGER PREMISES.

Hill & Co., Orangeville, are refitting and enlarging their big departmental store. They are adapting to their use the whole of the building, only part of which they have heretofore occupied. This will give them about twice the available space they have had. Mr. Walker, partner and manager, has undertaken the extensions to meet the requirements of the rapidly expanding business. To stock the larger space he has made some heavy purchases. When the work of extension is completed the company will have one of the finest stores in the northern country.

Mr. Walker, while cautious in his methods, believes in being abreast of the times. He is pleased with the increase in the volume of business since he came to Orangeville and the idea of enlargement is his.

FIRST CAR ARRIVES.

The first car of California deciduous fruit was sold Tuesday last by White & Co., Ltd., at their auction rooms, corner Scott and Esplanade streets. The sale was considered a very satisfactory one, it being the first car of the season, and consisted of peaches, plums and apricots, Last season they handled just 50 cars and they are starting out to beat this record this season. White & Co. have now completed all alterations in their new warehouse, corner Church and Front streets, and they have one of the finest warehouses to be found anywhere.

WEIGHING IN AND WATCHING CREDIT.

Writing in regard to short weight, John A. Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, says:

From all parts of the United States come inquiries in regard to what should be done about short weight. It is a deplorable fact that many of the retail grocers have for a number of years been paying for an amount of goods they have never received, and this present agitation in regard to full weight or full count might well be taken seriously by every one engaged in the trade.

To my personal knowledge, within a short time, I have come to know the fact that cheese especially are apt to be from one to four pounds short of the weights as marked on the boxes.

Some have been apt to criticize the dealer in his effort to secure proper weight in the goods purchased. The error should not be laid at the door of the shipper so much as the purchaser, for all who have ever engaged help of any description know that there are those who cannot be depended upon, and who, rather than take a little time to weigh goods, do not use the proper care to see that they are weighed and rightly billed. So that it behooves the trade press to keep before its readers the necessity of weighing the goods that come into the store.

That there has been a tremendous shrinkage cannot be denied, and, in fact, I know of no other way where the retailer can increase his profits to any greater extent than to use the necessary caution of weighing everything that comes into his store.

Improved Methods.

My experience of the last few weeks has shown to me a considerable improvement in the trade, in the way of better business methods that are being adopted in conducting business, the care that is being taken in regard to opening up new accounts, as well as the exceptional vigilance in regard to collecting.

It is but a short time ago that anyone in the retail business would hesitate to ask a person soliciting credit for a recommendation or a statement of their financial standing, and it was almost considered a crime to ask a man to settle up his account, but those days are gone, and in many cities and towns now cards are presented to anyone asking credit, which read something like the following:

APPLICATION FOR CREDIT.
Name ....
Address ....
Employed by ....
Last deal with ....
Address ....
By week or month ....
Reference ....

Wherever this card is used, it has given the utmost satisfaction. It not only compels a person to make a statement, but calls for a written statement, and while a person may verbally make a misstatement, a great deal of caution would be used before making a misstatement in writing, so that the card used has a two-fold purpose. The first, to get a statement, the next to obtain a written statement, making a person criminally liable if he obtains goods under a false written statement. So that the card is recommended as being of great help wherever credit is extended.

Competition has come into all lines of trade, so that it is absolutely necessary that the profit on goods should be figured net. A credit rating is of material assistance.

This card, in some instances, when filled out, is given to the secretary of the association, thereby enabling members to "keep tab" on a person moving around a town or city, and eventually furnishes a record which is invaluable to the retail trade.

It would be well if this matter could be kept directly before the notice of the retail dealer, and there would be no question, then, as to the help that would be derived from the watchfulness in weighing and looking after the goods that come into the store, and as to the collecting of accounts.

Grocery Business all Right.

There is no more attractive business in the United States than that of the retail grocer. The coming in contact with every family in his neighborhood, the many experiences that come to his notice, the business men of large experience that he comes in contact with, all go to make his business a pleasant one, and with the proper care, I know of no business to-day that is as lucrative, that would furnish as comfortable an income, and would tend to make life pleasant, as that of the retail grocer, and I can truthfully say that after spending twenty-three years behind the counter, with the experience I have received during that time, that were I to start in business again with the experience I have, there is no business that I would prefer above that of the retail grocery business.

LATE J. N. CHRISTIE.

John N. Christie, who died last week, was one of the oldest grocery travelers covering territory in Canada.

Mr. Christie, or "J. N.," as he was familiarly known, was born near Aberdeen, Scotland, 59 years ago, and came to Canada in 1882. For many years he was a trusted employe of the old firm of Carter, Galbraith & Co., and later he joined the staff of William Galbraith & Son, in whose employ he was at the time of his death.

He was well and favorably known in the grocery trade and had a most extensive and valuable connection from Halifax to the Soo. He will be a hard man to replace.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF THE PACIFIC COAST

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer)

It will not be long now until the sockeye salmon will be running on the Fraser river and in the northern waters of the Pacific coast, the first week in June usually seeing the commencement of the run. The year is not expected to be a big run on the Fraser, and restrictions are imposed looking to the improvement of the run four years hence. The run of spring salmon has been very disappointing all season. Many fishermen on the river have not been putting their boats and nets in the water at all for some time. Recently some of the traps on Vancouver Island have made some hauls, putting down their nets, more by way of experiment than as a regularly planned campaign. There were some good catches, however. The springs thus caught are for the most past mild-cured for shipment to Europe, Germany taking the bulk of the exports. The market for fresh salmon is also supplied from the catches of springs.

The German steamer Lyra, which arrived recently from the Orient, brought the first shipment of refined sugar which has been received in this province for a number of years. The B.C. Sugar Refinery, which brings in the raw product from the South Seas, has had a practical monopoly of the trade. The consignment was a thousand tons, quite a factor in the local market. The steamer did not come to Vancouver, discharging the cargo of sugar at Victoria.

The sugar market in local wholesales has been advancing lately, an increase of ten cents per hundred being just announced.

Two new meat packing concerns are likely to become quite a factor in the province. The first is the Vancouver-Prince Rupert Meat Co., which has been successfully floated with a paid-up capital of $100,000, to operate in both retail and wholesale fresh meat trade. The new company takes over valuable contracts held by P. J. Russell in railway supply, and also plant and equipment of the London meat market. A number of wealthy men, including many stockmen of the upper country, are largely interested in the new venture, which is to form a rival to the old-established P. Burns Co., which has large connections throughout the country.

The second enterprise is a proposed pork-packing company to be established in the upper Okanagan valley, at Enderby, Armstrong or Vernon. Representatives of those interested have been looking over the ground with a view to satisfying themselves as to the supplies of hogs possible to be depended upon. As soon as the locality is decided on it is the intention to put up a plant at once.

MIXED 'EM.

Why does this man stand upon the pavement, trembling with terror, afraid to enter his own home?

Listen and I will tell you:

This afternoon at 3 o'clock he received a letter from his bank asking him to step around and pay a note that was due. He scribbled the following answer upon a slip of paper:

"Can't possibly do it. Got to meet another little thing this afternoon that won't be put off."

About the same time a messenger boy brought him a note from his wife asking him to meet her at his office at 4 to go with her to the dentist's.

Of course he got the answers mixed, and he is wondering whether he had better attempt an explanation or set out for Australia.

NOTES.

J. N. Bolsby, grocer and confectioner, of Kelwood, has commenced business.

J. F. Brownscombe, Uxbridge, has gone up to New Liskeard. He is in with some Toronto capitalists in a mining undertaking.

Lawrence J. Levy, of United Factories, Limited, made a flying trip to Kingston, Brockville and Belleville, and reports business brisk for this season of the year.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a 150-barrel capacity flour mill at Arcola. J. M. Dyck has the work in hand and will take charge of the mill when completed.

The Calgary Board of Trade have received notice to quit their present premises. This is on account of the C.P.R. whose intention it is to get to work immediately on their new $250,000 building.

The warehouse of J. F. Cairns, First Avenue, Saskatoon, was completely destroyed by fire on May 27th. The estimated cost is about $45,000. Insurance carried does not amount to more than $15,000. The building contained almost 20 cars of goods.

Mathewson's Sons, Montreal, have been appointed city agents for Kit coffee, Kit chutney pickles, and Kit chutney sauce. These lines are very attractive and the quality appears to be there, too. Some attractive advertising cards are being distributed.

George Gillespie, member of the firm of Gillespie & Co., Montreal, passed away recently. Deceased had been ailing for some time and had not taken an active interest in the business for some months, having been in California for his health. The business of the firm will be conducted without any change in management.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

A firmer feeling prevails in cheese this week and it will be noticed that the prices asked by dealers are slightly higher, The advanced figures were hardly expected and cannot last. Export business has been so brisk, however, that stocks have not had any chance to accumulate locally and as a consequence it was possible to put up prices as could not otherwise have been done.

Official quotations for cheese read: Ontarios, 12c to 12⅛c; Townships, 11⅞c to 12c; Quebecs, 11⅝c to 11¾c. These are good figures to be ruling at this season of the year, when prices should be pretty low for the encouragement of export trade.

Advices from the other side are to the effect that consumption is fair, but none too good. Stocks are not accumulating, however, for the simple reason that little cheese is being sent over which cannot be taken care of by the consumers.

Receipts last week show an increase over the previous week, but are behind those of the corresponding week last year, being 71,787 boxes against 63,604 boxes for the previous week, and 93,162 boxes for the corresponding week in 1906. Receipts to end of last week have been 263,594 boxes against 352,052 for the same period last year. It will be seen that receipts this year are still 88,458 boxes behind what they were for like period in 1906.

Exports are gradually picking up and each week are larger than the previous six days. Last week 72,379 boxes were exported, against 48,406 boxes the previous week and 103,645 boxes for the corresponding week last season. Total exports since May 1, 1907, amount to 261,309 boxes against 361,755 boxes in 1906.

The above figures illustrate the situation a good deal better than any words could, and a little study over them will give one an idea as to what's what in the cheese trade just now.

Contrary to expectations, there has not been any decline in butter prices, rather has there been a slight increase since the last time of writing. To-day Townships is quoted at 21c against 20c to 20⅜c a week ago; Quebec creamery is 20½c to 20¾c against 20¼c to 20½c; Ontario is 20c, same as last week, while Ontario dairy is ½c higher, being sold at 18½c.

The market is firm at the time of writing, but dealers are hoping for lower prices. There must be some decline before there can be any export trade. So far there has been very little business transacted with importers in England. Only 295 packages in all have been shipped since May 1, which is a very small amount, especially when compared with last year's figures for the same period, 50,220 packages. Last week 243 packages were exported, against 30 packages the previous week and 18,636 packages the corresponding week in 1906.

Considering conditions which exist in the Old Country it is not so very surprising to find such a small amount of business being transacted. Last year, as has been stated several times in these columns, many importers burned their fingers with Canadian butter, and they are very wary about having anything to do with the article this season. At the same time it is impossible to secure in England prices based upon those which rule here now. They are this week anywhere from one cent to two cents higher than what they should be to tempt Old Country buyers.

Plenty of fresh grass butter has been coming in for the past couple of weeks. Week ending June 15, 15,424 packages were received, against 12,908 packages week previous, and 29,266 packages corresponding week 1906. Receipts since May 1 have been 71,939 packages against 116,148 packages in 1906.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The bacon market in Great Britain is again in the buyers' favor. Cable advices on Tuesday stated that buyers were holding off and that views of agents indicated a decline this week of from 2s. to 2s. 6d. The increasing weakness of the market seems to be due to larger deliveries. Danish deliveries continue at high water mark. Receipts of American produce in England are back at full normal—about 12,000 boxes a week. Canadian shipments to Great Britain are now about 2,500 to 3,000 boxes a week, which is about 700 or 800 boxes short of normal. In the face of increased receipts from the three principal sources of supply the whole tendency of the market is weaker. Buyers are purchasing only from hand to mouth and that further tends to increase stocks, and holders are pressing for sale.

In view of these conditions, packers in Canada naturally were not so keen for hogs and prices declined slightly. The price this week f.o.b. is $6.60 to $6.65, about $7 delivered. The decline means lighter receipts. Last week the total was under 30,000, against about 40,000 the week before. Unless the situation in England improves materially the packers will endeavor to get prices still lower, but should there be an improvement the packers are to go out after more hogs by putting up the price. The opinion is held that deliveries will continue nearly normal during the summer.

Locally, conditions are about unchanged. The warm weather increases the consumption of smoked meats and prices throughout the list are firm, with the exception of lard. In that the American market is in control and the decline there necessitates a lowering of prices on this side.

The American market is easier. The Journal of Commerce, reviewing last week, says:

"The past week has witnessed more activity in future hog products, at rather better prices early, on support by packers, but the receipts of hogs continued so heavy through the week, being 100,000 more than a year ago at the west, that the packers withdrew their support after the shorts had covered, and allowed the market to decline, helped by the liquidation and break in the grain market, notwithstanding receipts lightened up the latter part of the week, as receipts promise to continue and state reports of condition of hogs in May indicate a large summer supply of well matured hogs. These conditions keep the trade from buying anything beyond immediate wants, and even concessions in prices have not stimulated demand.

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS.—With the coming of the warm weather business in smoked meats is beginning to boom in earnest. Packers in Montreal report a very active demand from all parts of the country and expect during the next couple of months to do an excellent trade. Breakfast bacon is this week one cent lower. EGGS.—Eggs are very weak and prices are likely to be lower now than they are at any time. Dealers are buying in the country at 15c and are quoting 17c to 18c, and in some cases 19c and 21c. Good eggs are obtainable, however, for the first mentioned figures, the latter being rather high.

BUTTER—Just what is going to transpire is not clear to the shrewdest dealers. Prices are lower, but dealers are still shy about accumulating stocks, expecting or fearing lower prices. Large rolls are off the market. The flow of milk is about at its height for the season, but supplies would scarcely indicate that. Probably cheese, because of the high price, is attracting more than its normal share.

SULPHUR TO PRESERVE MEAT.

A new and simple process of preserving meat has been discovered by Prof. Lapparent, Paris. The method is given as follows :

The meat to be preserved is hung up in a tight box, and then a few sulphur threads are placed in it and ignited, after which the box is closed. The meat will be preserved for a longer time than is necessary in housekeeping, and its taste is not at all affected. If it is intended to preserve meat for several months, it should be treated with sulphut fumes as soon as possible after the slaughter ; the meat should not contain any sawed bones, as decomposition proceeds from them ; the boxes in which the meat is kept ought to be air-tight and be filled for from twenty-four to forty-eight hours with carbonic acid.

By analysis Professor Lapparent proves that meat which in this manner has been preserved for three months contained no free sulphuric acid, and after being boiled contained only three to four ounces of sulphuric-acid salts in 220 pounds, a perfectly harmless quantity.

J. E. Elmsley, the Chicago representative of the Salada Tea Co., was in town last week, returning home on Monday. He reports that great progress is being made in that city, his increase for the first twenty-two weeks of this year over the corresponding period of last year being 44 per cent.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Not Much Change in the Market Situation—Flour Trade Very Quiet in Absence of Buying—Opinions Wanted on the Handling of Confectionery.

Grain markets are in much the same position as a week ago. Of course, there have been fluctuations, but the net result is about unchanged. The Chicago wheat market has receded 14 cents from the high point, and regained half of it. The Winnipeg market, which never got so high, has receded 10c., and recovered in about the same proportion as Chicago. The reason for Chicago wheat reaching a higher point than Winnipeg is that the United States think they can dispose of the coming crop within their own borders, leaving them independent of export markets. Canada, however, must export a large portion of its crop and, therefore, export prices will largely rule.

The flour trade is now almost stagnant. The trade is pretty well stocked and the lower wheat markets encourage buyers to expect a decline. What little buying there is is for immediate requirements. Some of the mills are busy, however, on old contracts, delayed by the inability to secure shipments of wheat. Ontario wheat is very scarce, farmers holding back for a dollar. Mills are working on western and quite a few are taking advantage of the lull for their annual overhauling.

Many western oats are selling in Ontario, both for milling and feed. Cereal mills report oat products unusually active for this season. There is an active demand also for wheat cereals.

Confectionery.

Why should a grocer handle, say, figs and reject confectionery? But they don't reject. Every grocer sells "candies," but many still reject the larger possibilities offered by specializing in high class confectionery. We would like to have some expressions of opinion from grocers on this subject: "Why don't they sell confectionery" There are many handling it very successfully. We would like to have from them the story of their success.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 21.

Ald. Jas. N. Massey, Chatham

Ald. James N. Massey possesses the distinction of being the youngest member of the Chatham city council. He is also one of the youngest business men in the city. In both these capacities he has proven singularly successful.

Ald. Massey is a native of Chatham, and is just 32 years of age. He is a son of Nathaniel Massey, for many years one of the best known drovers and cattle dealers in Kent, and at present license inspector for the west riding of that county.

Born, brought up and educated in the Maple City, Ald. Massey is in close touch with its business life. He received a good public school education, which was supplemented by three years at the Chatham Collegiate Institute and rounded out by a commercial course at the Canada Business College. At the conclusion of this last course Mr. Massey, then 17 years of age, entered the employ of F. A. Gonne, at that time one of the city's leading grocers. In Mr. Gonne's employ he spent five years. Then, at the early age of 22, he entered the grocery business in partnership with R. O. Knight, the firm name being Massey & Knight. This partnership subsisted for five years, when, on Mr. Knight's withdrawal four years ago, Mr. Massey continued the business alone.

ALD. JAS. N. MASSEY, CHATHAM.

Mr. Massey proved a successful business man. Incidentally, he specialized. His specialty was potatoes, in which he dealt extensively, building up a big wholesale trade in this particular line, in addition to his regular business.

Mr. Massey's business training, combined with his personal popularity, made it inevitable that he should be talked of as a good man for municipal honors. Several times he was placed in nomination, but he steadfastly declined to run till January, 1906, when he yielded to the persuasions of his friends and suffered himself to become a candidate. At the end of a week's campaign he found himself elected to the city council by a magnificent vote, he being fourth on the list. During the year 1906 he served on the property and industrial committees of the city council. Last January the public recognized his services by returning him again to the council. He is at present a member of the property and railway committees, holding the chairmanship of the latter body.

Fraternally, Mr. Massey is associated with the Masonic body, having been a popular and esteemed member of Wellington Lodge, No. 46, for some ten years past.

J. R. Croft, Limehouse, was a caller at the offices of The Grocer last Friday. As an old and appreciative subscriber, he was pleased to hand the name of a fellow grocer to the subscription department.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Warm Weather Conducive to Activity in all Branches—Florida Pines Will be Small—Rain Wanted in Ontario—Vegetables Active.

The weather this last week appears to have given satisfaction to everyone, and with the exception of one or two of the fish-men, there are no complaints. All lines of fruit and vegetables are booming and in many instances the supply has a hard job to keep pace with the demand. Cuban pineapples, notwithstanding the initial lateness of the season, are dropping out earlier than was expected, and receipts for the last week have been light. The sizes throughout the season have been unusually small, and, so far as can be learned at present, the Florida pines are likely to be even smaller. A few cases of the latter have been received in Toronto, but the stock is miserably insufficient, both in size and quality.

The gravest apprehensions are entertained for the success of the Ontario strawberries, and unless some rain comes this way very shortly, it is doubtful whether the crops will be able to stand such a long-continued drought. Latest advices report that the beds are baked hard and dry and that some heavy showers are necessary at once if the crop is to be of average proportions.

Potatoes are quiet. The hot weather has materially affected sales through checking the consumption of meat, but Delawares are in good supply, and even at top prices the movement is considered satisfactory for the time of year. Ontarios are, of course, almost done. No one will buy them in preference to Delawares, and there is a sufficient quantity of the latter to take care of all offers.

The sunny weather will bring out more local vegetables than have so far been in evidence. Tomatoes have taken a drop, owing partly to increased supply, and partly to the stock deteriorating somewhat in quality. They are selling rapidly at the reduced prices.

VEGETABLES—With the coming of warm weather business in vegetables is getting better. Prices are declining with increased receipts on the market. Parsley is now quoted 35c. to 40c. There has been quite a decline also in new cabbage. Florida tomatoes are selling $3.50 to $4.50. Green and wax beans are easier. Radishes are selling freely at more reasonable prices, while demand for cucumbers is better at easier figures. There has been a big drop in the price of new potatoes, $6 now ruling.

FISH—Owing to the extremely hot weather there is little activity in fish circles. Prices are cheaper on several lines this week. Haddock is down ½c., while mackerel are lower also, 10c. being the figure asked. New mackerel are expected to arrive in quantities any day. The season is already three weeks late. Gaspe salmon is easier through increased receipts. B.C. salmon is practically unobtainable. Lake fish are plentiful. Brook trout are scarce. In smoked and salted fish, haddies, kippers and Yarmouth bloaters are easier.

GREEN FRUITS—Contrary to the expectations of the majority of those who were in the best position to know, pineapples have again taken a drop, and there are no positive indications that rock bottom has yet been reached. The reduction scarcely affects the 24s or 30's. Of the former size there are practically none left, and the latter are quickly disappearing. In the 42's, however, there is a drop of 25c. per case. If the Ontario berries are to amount to anything there will have to be some rain very shortly. Bananas are firm, and high at seaboard.

latest arrivals has not been up to that of the first shipments, and this, together with the increased supply, is probably accountable for the reduction. Potatoes are a minus quantity so far as Ontarios are concerned. One firm had a man on the road for a month, and he was unable to pick up a carload of stuff all told. D. M. McFee & Co., general store, Sanford, have been burnt out.

S. J. Johnson, grocer, of Amherstburg, is dead.

A MONTH IN BRITAIN.

James Swan Returns from a Holiday in the Old Land.

James Swan, who is a partner with his father in the firm of Swan Bros., is again in the store, after spending May in Europe on a holiday with his sister.

They landed at Cork in the course of a week, saw some of the beauties of Erin, including the Killarney lakes, and cleared at Dublin for Wales. Carnarvon and Conway castles, grim ruins, monuments alike to the Saxon power under the Great Edward and the unquenchable spirit of the Celt, were interesting objective points; but it was the beauty of the Welsh scenery, "the mountain and the flood" that most impressed the young Canadians. Mr. Swan, speaking to The Canadian Grocer, mentioned as interesting the many splendid summer homes of wealthy Englishmen that dotted the land. After visiting Eaton Hall, the seat of the Duke of Westminster, the wealthiest of the English peers, they reached London by way of Liverpool, and during the next few weeks saw a good deal of the south of England, that had been missed in frequent former visits to the Old Country. The Island of Jersey they found very interesting. It raises three crops of potatoes in the year, enormous quantities of flowers and some figs. London is the market for everything. The little company got as far as Paris. The rest of the time was spent with 'oor ain folk" at Stow, near Edinburgh.

While in London Mr. Swan paid a visit to the works of Crosse & Blackwell, who, for over 200 years, have been making pickles almost in the heart of the metropolis. He was met by Mr. Wyatt, the manager, who was in Canada for the firm a couple of years ago, and told Mr. Swan that it was not until he had reached his father's store that he had felt at home out here. The building in which Crosse & Blackwell's offices are located was once the residence of a daughter of Oliver Cromwell. The ancient dining room, the walls of which are of oak and elaborately carved, is the private office. The carving is very beautiful. An American once offered the firm £5,000 for it. They just smiled at him. The various factories are all approachable without going off the company's land, but they are scattered, the company having acquired land bit by bit as their needs demanded it. Throughout the many buildings, however, everything was found scrupulously clean.

A TRAVELED TRAVELER.

F. W. Rowley, of London, England, who some time ago amalgamated his business with that of Underdown & Crichton, called the other day at the office of The Canadian Grocer, Toronto, to renew the acquaintance made on his last visit, a couple of years ago. At that time Mr. Rowley was only paying a flying visit to Canada, and was unable to see the great west at all. This time, however, Winnipeg is his objective point, and he intends to sound thoroughly the possibilities for trade all over western Canada. The Rowley brand of almonds, raisins, nuts, onions and oranges is not unknown in Canada, and Mr. Rowley is enthusiastic over the immense field which he has yet to cover. There is another country, a long journey from the Canadian Northwest, which has roused Mr. Rowley's enthusiasm, and that is Uganda, in British East Africa. Some time ago he made a trip out there and became imbued with the great prospects which offered themselves to traders who were prepared to put up with some difficulties and hardships in order to get at the business that undoubtedly awaited them.

In a later issue we hope to publish something on this subject from Mr. Rowley's pen, and in the meantime bespeak for him the consideration of the grocery trade in Canada.

is the real thing.

It is so real that those who "know" can't be persuaded to use any other. Thre's something so rich, clean, and flavory about a King Oscar Sardine that one can't get away from the desire for more.

WRONGS AND REMEDIES IN THE GROCERY TRADE

LITTLE LEAKS AND HOW TO STOP THEM.

Knowledge, which comes from experience, and energy, which is the result of enthusiasm, are the prime factors that make for success in any business, of which the grocery trade is not the least important. A writer in the Worker's Magazine, commenting upon the different methods adopted by retail grocers in their work, gives it as his opinion that there are five leaks which are responsible for the majority of failures :—

FIRST LEAK—Ignorance of the cost of doing business ; therefore ignorance of what to charge for goods in order to be certain of selling them at a profit.

SECOND LEAK—Failure to mark prices by the single article, by the half-dozen, or by the bushel, according to the nature of the article, and then maintaining the right prices, rendering it well nigh impossible for anybody in the store mistakenly to sell for too low a price.

THIRD LEAK—Not knowing the goods that do and the goods that do not return the cost of handling, and what percentage of the total sales consist of non-profit-paying items. Not knowing how to change the nonprofitable into the profitable items.

FOURTH LEAK—Being short-handed, running without sufficient store help ; not allowing yourself time to study market conditions and consider plans for increasing business.

FIFTH LEAK—Overbuying, which results in straining the grocer's credit and losing him opportunity to take profits in the shape of discounts, because of having bought more goods than he could pay cash for, and having the goods cost him more, because bought on longer time, than if he had remained in position to pay cash and take his discount ; by not realizing that $1 worth of business monthly can't be done on less than twice that amount of cash or credit.

There are other leaks, chief among which is the loss through extending credit to customers who "jump" their bills; but the five given above are leaks that are as certain to result fatally in the grocery business as the sun is to rise to-morrow morning. It's like running water through a hosepipe. The end to keep your eye on is the end the water comes out of ; therefore, if there are leaks in the hose, there's bound to be a loss somewhere along the route.

Some Sample Remedies.

In stopping the first leak, it is necessary for the grocer to know accurately what his expenses are. Nothing should be overlooked. The items must be figured down to a fine point, not even neglecting to count the cost of wrapping paper and twine used in tying up packages.

Other items are : Not less than 1 per cent. loss on uncollectable accounts ; about 6 per cent. should be figured as interest on the investment, and from 2 to 3 per cent. as waste, resulting from damage to goods, over-weighing, "sampling" by customers, etc.

After everything has been counted in there still is danger of committing the grave error of failing to figure the percentage necessary to be made on sales, instead of on what the goods cost. A delusion that many are under is that to make, say, 15 per cent. on their goods they can figure 15 per cent. on their cost. At least 5 per cent. additional should be tacked on.

If the retailer would be safe he must have accurate knowledge of the cost of goods and of conducting his business. The business may in all other respects be correctly and carefully carried on—but unless the first leak is soldered failure will ensue in time.

The second leak can be plugged up by refusing to play favorites or to permit your clerks to play them. A concession in price to a favored customer means a loss to the proprietor. If you sell tomatoes by the dozen cheaper than by the can there will be no chance for argument or offense to a customer if the price on the larger quantity is marked alongside that on the single package.

The third leak has to do with the percentages on specific articles, the ordinary staples, coffee, tea, sugar, flour, etc. If the grocer is buying a coffee at 17 cents a pound and selling it for 20 cents, he is losing money. He must get more than 20 cents for it.

Dollars Paid Judiciously are Dollars Saved.

No man can do everything there is to be done about a grocery store without neglecting matters which only the proprietor can properly attend to. It's a mistake to think that by getting along without one $8 a week clerk and doing the work yourself you will be saving $8. It's worth more to the proprietor of the business to have the time to study market reports in order to be able to buy intelligently, and to take advantage of price opportunities.

If the proprietor is kept busy doing a boy's work he'll never have time to read his trade papers and through them acquaint himself with market conditions that affect prices. A grocer who performs a certain work himself to save the wages of an $8 a week boy must estimate that his own time is worth only that.

Regarding the fifth leak, a grocer's inability to discount his bills costs him in a year several hundred dollars if he is doing a fairly large business. It follows, then, that if he buys more goods than he can pay promptly for he is not only tying up a lot of capital in excess stock, but preventing himself from saving several hundred dollars yearly besides.

If the grocer doesn't stop the leaks they are certain to stop him.

CHANCE TO WIN $100.

Maconochie Bros. Make a Sales Competition—Save Outside Wrappers.

A hundred dollars in cash would come in handy to a good many grocers and grocers' clerks about December 1st next. That is the first prize offered by Maconochie Bros. in the selling competition. There are eight other prizes and the nine aggregate $250. The plan is as simple as can be and there's no turn or twist in it. The grocer or grocers' clerk who sells the largest number of bottles of Maconochie's goods—pickles, sauces, jams, jellies and marmalade—before the end of November draws the first prize. The second prize is $50, the third $35, the fourth $25, the fifth $20, the sixth $10, the seventh $5, the eighth $3, the ninth $2. Every bottle of these goods is contained in an outside wrapper. All the competitor has to do is to retain the outside wrapper when he sells a bottle, and at the end of the time allowed forward the wrappers to the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, Maconochie Bros'. agents in America, as a proof of his work. The MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. also will furnish any information desired about the competition.

CIVIC ACCOUNTING UP-TO-DATE.

The city council of Winnipeg some time ago appointed a special committee on civic accounting. At the May meeting the council received the report of the experts selected to reorganize this department, and on their recommendation it was decided to award the contract for supplies to the Rolla L. Crain Co., of Ottawa, their goods being, everything considered, it was said, best adapted to the city's requirements.

Tenders were received from several local firms as well as eastern manufacturers.

Winnipeg intends to install the loose-leaf system through all the civic offices in the near future. This is a move in the right direction.

BACK ON THE ROAD.

Ed. McCoy, who for many years was a grocery traveler covering the western portion of the province and who has for a few years been off the road, has decided to again take up the wholesale grocery business and will represent James Turner & Co., on the Grand Trunk, Hamilton to Windsor, Sarnia, Goderich, Southampton and Wiarton. This will be pleasant news to many of Mr. McCoy's old friends.

OLIVE GROWING IN AUSTRALIA.

The British board of trade correspondent at Adelaide states that the annual production of olive oil in the State of South Australia is 20,000 gallons all of which is at present consumed in the country, the supply so far not being equal to the demand.

DEATH OF FREDERICK RAMSAY.

Word reached Toronto this week of the death in Pittsburg, Pa., on Sunday, of Frederick Ramsay, formerly a tea broker of Toronto, and son of Wm. Ramsay, formerly a wholesale grocer in Toronto, now of Bowland Stowe, Scotland. Mr. Ramsay has still large interests in Toronto and is a director of the Imperial Bank. He was in Canada with Mrs. Ramsay only a few weeks ago. The deceased son, who was 37 years of age, was a member of the firm of Cowan & Ramsay, tea brokers, some years ago. The other partner was J. W. Cowan, of the Cowan Chocolate Co. He went with the Canadian contingent to Africa and after the war held a position under the Government. Latterly he traveled for a Pittsburg house. The remains were brought to Toronto for interment.

A. Comte & Co., Montreal, are getting settled in their large new offices and warehouse at 444 St. Paul street. Some new machinery, a roaster among other things, is being installed, and when everything is completed the firm will be better able than ever to take care of the wants of their many customers.

Our Factory now boasts the most up-to-date equipment for making Catsup in Canada. We also have one of the best Catsup Cooks on the continent.

Nothing of the delicious flavor of the ripe tomato has been taken away, and our chef's blending of the spices and condiments has given it an appetizing piquancy that cannot be equalled.

every minute of every hour of every day in the year light either a Pebble or a Pharaoh Cigar.
Mr. Grocer! Are YOU getting your share of the profits?
There are reasons—good, strong reasons—for the popularity of

PHARAOH and PEBBLE

CIGARS. My cigars draw easily because they are rolled just right; and they burn evenly, not raggedly, for the same good reason.
Pharaoh is a ten-cent cigar and better than fifteen cents usually buys.
Pebble is a wonder for five cents and most grocers have proven it a trade-bringing investment.

Either of these cigars will impress the man of the house with the goodness of your other lines. Do you know the Payne Plan?

TRAVELING DAIRY SCHOOLS IN NOVA SCOTIA

(Special correspondencee of The Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N.S., June 17.

The Department of Agriculture is renewing this year its efforts to improve dairying in this province by means of practical lectures on milk production, cream separation, and butter-making, under the direction of competent demonstrators and lecturers. Last week Miss Bella Millar, of Ontario, accompanied by Frank Semple, of Brule, Colchester county, N.S., one of the students at the Agricultural College, left Truro in a newly-fitted and equipped wagon, bearing the sign, "Traveling Dairy School." Two days will be spent at each of the districts visited, giving instructions to the farmers' wives and daughters. The vehicle is a model butter factory, drawn by two fine horses, and is equipped with all the necessary apparatus for the work intended to be done. In addition, printed matter for distribution is included in the outfit.

The grocery markets are steady at present, though several lines show a tendency to advance. Flour shows no sign of receding from the increased price, and it is likely that it will remain stationary for some time. Onions are higher, and lard is very strong. According to advices received here, the new crop of raisins for November delivery have advanced one-half cent per pound. Prunes are probably 50 per cent. higher than they were at this time last year.

Butter and Eggs.

The demand for eggs at present is rather light, and the receipts are small. the price ranges from 17 to 19 cents for good stock. It is thought that the cold weather has had something to do with the receipts, as the quantity of eggs marketed during the past week has been considerably below the average for the season of the year.

The butter market as regards price is practically unchanged. The receipts are improving some, but are not sufficient to cause any reduction in the price. With the improved weather conditions the receipts of dairy butter in small lots have increased, but creamery remains pretty much the same. No good butter can be bought under 25 cents.

Beef and Pork.—Beef and all pork products are very high. There is a good demand for hams and bacon, and, notwithstanding the fact that there are two large pork packing establishments now in the city, both of which are doing a good business, large quantities of bacon and hams are imported from the upper provinces.

Sugar and Molasses.—There was landed at this port by three steamers last week 38,087 packages of sugar for the Acadia Sugar Refining Company. The product was all from the West Indies. The Norwegian steamer Boston, from Jamaica, landed 3,900 bags of sugar. She also had 100 puncheons of rum and 200 bags of pimento for London, G.B.; 1,000 bags of cocoanuts for western Canada, and 200 bags for Toronto. The Orinoco, from the West Indies, landed 9,000 packages of sugar and 1,400 packages of molasses, and the Norwegian steamer Talisman, from St. Kitts, had a big cargo, landing 19,787 bags of sugar.

Crop Prospects.

The crops throughout Kings county are looking fairly well, considering the weather conditions during the present season. The grass and grain bid fair to be good, and although a little late still look strong and sturdy. Apple trees of early variety are apparently full of strong buds ready to blossom, and without some unforeseen circumstances take place, must be an abundant yield. The later kinds are not so certain, probably for the reason that they are later, and, of course, the buds are not so apparent. Other fruit trees look very well; vegetables are also, although quite early yet, looking not badly. Potatoes, etc., are not, in most instances, above the ground yet, and may be affected, more or less, by the cold and backward weather.

BREAD TO BE HIGHER.

In consequence of the advance in the price of flour in Ottawa, bread in that city has gone up 10 cents per dozen loaves, making the price of a single loaf 10 to 11 cents. The advance went into effect on June 6th, and is liable to last all summer. Last year during part of the summer bread sold for 12 cents a loaf. In Toronto, bread is worth 10 cents a loaf on the average, though some bakers, a very few, sell for 8 cents. There is some talk in Toronto of an advance.

PARING CHEESE PRICES.

"The Grocer," London.

Despite efforts which have been made in several quarters to induce some of the multiple-shop companies to modify their price-cutting tactics, the game of "beggar my neighbor" is being pursued with vigor, to the regret of all who desire to see the retail grocery and provision trade conducted on the sound lines of securing a moderate profit on all articles. With the latest market quotations for New Zealand cheese 61s. to 62s., and for Canadian 63s. to 64s. 6d., the offer of these varieties at 6d. or 6½d. per pound retail shows how keenly some of the companies are cutting against each other. In many towns these ruinous prices are being brought prominently before the notice of the public by means of sandwichmen parading the streets, and the effect upon the retail trade in the districts concerned is deplorable. Mr. John Wood, a well-known member of the provision trade in London, has communicated with the Prime Minister, the Premiers of Canada and New Zealand, and the Presidents of the Board of Trade and the Board of Agriculture, calling their attention to this cutting, which he describes as "a matter of grave public interest . . . a most serious state of things in connection with the large and important colonial cheese trade in this country," and asking them, if possible, to use their influence to have the "unfair trading" stopped. Mr. Wood asserts that "wholesale and retail provision merchants are being ruined" by the "cruel, senseless and unnecessary competition"; and there is no doubt that if the policy of selling cheese at 6d. per lb. and giving a penny in the shilling discount to purchasers were largely adopted the retail trade in cheese would represent a heavy loss to all who tried to compete against such prices, instead of yielding the fair margin of profit which every retailer has a right to demand. We are afraid there is little chance of Mr. Wood's representations to the Ministers referred to bringing about the desired result, but his letters show the absurdity of entering upon a "war of prices" and should serve to convince retailers of the inadvisability of following the lead of the cutting companies. In the direction of securing better profits on sugar the Retailers' Sugar Association (London and Suburban) has done excellent work, but complaints are being made of the lack of appreciation of its efforts which characterizes many of those upon whom it confers benefits. Its operations ought not to be checked through want of funds, and grocers who derive advantages from its decisions ought to give some financial support in return.

The secretary of the Kingston Lord's Day Alliance has notified the Prince Edward Cheese Board that the making of cheese on Sunday is unlawful.

TEASHOP FORTUNES.

London's £5,000,000 Turnover in Cups of Tea and Coffee.

Those capitalists who were far-sighted enough to pin their faith to the teashop thirty years ago can afford to laugh nowadays at people who sneered at all catering enterprises of the "teetotal" order.

Messrs. Joseph Lyons & Co., Limited, the well-known caterers, made a profit for the twelve months ending March 31 last of £266,354, and during that period opened twelve new establishments in London.

Though several of their branches are, of course, fully licensed, the majority are "teashops." The dividend paid on the ordinary shares is 32½ per cent. for the year.

Other teashop organizations run Messrs. Lyons very close, and the remarkable thing is that the most profitable item in every case is the two-penny cup of tea or coffee.

In London teashops and cafes alone it has been estimated that two million cups of tea and coffee are consumed daily, and at twopence apiece this represents a turnover of over £16,000 a day, or well over £5,000,000 per annum. —London Mirror.

Because of the advance in the cost of materials and production the Edwardsburg Starch Co. has advances the price of both starches and syrups. The two-pound tin of syrup is now $2.25 a case, instead of $2, making it retail at 15c. or two for a quarter, instead of 10c., as formerly.

Are You Able to Meet the Demand for Canned Fruits and Vegetables?

Don't answer this too quickly, Mr. Grocer.

The demand for canned fruits and vegetables is bound to go on increasing. All reputable concerns see to it that their goods are pure and canned under sanitary conditions; but—if you want the best trade you must stock

Two Berries

It has been remarked that Nature might have made a better berry than the Strawberry, but Nature never did.
She might also have produced a better Coffee berry, but she has not yet shown any superior to those found in

"WOOD'S COFFEES"

Nature's best is good enough for mankind.

"Just As Good"

How often have these words heralded a decline in business? Your answer may surprise yourself and will please us. Because our

We are not in the habit of making exaggerated claims. It pays most grocers to handle our lines and it will pay you.

All We Ask You to do is to test C. & B. goods fairly and impartially against other brands which may be offered you. We have tried to explain to you the many advantages which you can derive from stocking C. & B. Pickles, Jams, Meats, etc., etc. We have tried to convince you of their purity, keeping properties and ready selling qualities, but a trial order of some of the C. & B. staple lines will show you quicker and prove to you conclusively once and for all the absolute truth of every statement we have made in this series of advertisements. No man living ever accomplished anything without a trial and you cannot realize the many advantages of handling C. & B. goods until you have tried them.

Dealers find Common Sense a very good seller, for the reason that it gives general satisfaction and each customer tells others about same.
Write for prices.

Do not accept a substitute for any article advertised in these columns. Insist on getting what you ask for.

A retail grocer doing a large business in one of our eastern cities bought a year or so ago some Canned Goods of a new brand, because they were cheaper than the old established brands.

The quality of these goods may have been fair, although one woman returned a can of Peas and said they were not nearly as good as Simcoe because she had counted the Peas and there were six less in the can.

These cheap Canned Goods were offered to the public at cut prices, and were largely advertised. This cheap sale naturally caused a flurry among the Trade, but, as do all such flurries, it soon died out, and the dealers in standard brands found the demand for their goods better than ever.

The price cutter, however, gained for himself the name of a purveyor of cheap quality goods, as cheap prices and cheap quality usually travel together.

The demand for the brand of goods sold at cheap prices was practically killed, and if information is reliable, is still dead as regards that particular territory.

All this is fact, not fiction.

The moral is, that it is more profitable to pay a fair price for an article that can be sold at a good profit, than less money for one that has to be sold at a cheap price.

Buy and sell Canned Goods that are guaranteed as to quality by the Canadian Canners, Limited, and that have a long established reputation, such as, e.g., "Aylmer," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Auto," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River" and "White Rose," etc.

The Wants of Women—Study Them

MR. GROCER ! You may invest more money in your business ; you may advertise the best line of staple groceries on earth ; you may know your trade from beginning to end ; but—unless you know and study the wants of women—your business acumen will avail you nothing in the struggle for commercial supremacy. Women, consciously or no, dictate the policy of the business world, and no merchant is great or powerful enough to ignore their decision. Now, sir, since these facts are indisputable, and since the women of Canada have almost unanimously declared that of Cannd Goods is peerless—beyond compare—surely you owe it to yourself to stock and talk the brand which clinches both reputation and profit. No brand of Canned Goods on the market can do more for you than Old Homestead. That much we are positive about. But the particular and economical housewives of Canada are just as positive that is so much superior to the next best brand of Canned Goods that there is no comparison. And there are strong reasons for their belief. All the goodness of succulent fruit and fresh vegetables is retained in Old Homestead Brand. The name stands for surety of purity and that palate pleasing, appetizing flavor which has made the brand famous.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

The "Quality" Salt

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we think that Windsor Salt has proved up by facts, by sales, by test. It passed the "comparison" stage long ago—now other salts are proved by "Windsor".

If "other salts" prove up, 50 per cent. that means they are 50 per cent. as pure, white, crystalline as Windsor Salt.

Windsor Salt is the so-called weather gauge —the testing glass —the "prover" — the one hundred per cent salt.

TO MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS

DEAR SIRS:

If you care to intrust to us the pushing of your interests in Western Canada, we can place at your command exceptional facilities and a wide and thorough knowledge of the trade in this territory.

We have been successfully prosecuting the business of general selling agents and manufacturers' representatives for many years. There is no better known house in Western Canada, or one possessing a larger or more loyal circle of clients.

Our facilities for storing and handling goods are excellent. We have three warehouses----one each at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton---- from which points we can readily and quickly reach all towns in this region.

We should like to receive some consignments from you, and believe you would find a connection with us very profitable.

A reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

"Any man who fails and who has not for five years before his failure kept proper books, shall be liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year's imprisonment."

That's the law.

You will notice that the law makes distinctions— it assumes that there is a difference between properly and improperly kept books.

The law distinctly specifies that a man must keep proper books.

THE CALL OF THE WEST

It is for manufacturers—The consumers are there, and American capital will seize the opportunity if Canadian does not.

Western Canada is calling now for industries as insistently and with as much reason as for the last thirty years she has been calling for settlers to cultivate her fertile prairies. For years the call for settlers went unheeded, but recently it has been answered by an influx of hundreds of thousands of sturdy tillers of the soil who have thus created a new and rapidly expanding market for manufactures of all kinds. Industries are urgently needed at the present time and the business men in the western provinces, being on the spot, are quick to recognize the opportunities offered. Unfortunately, they have not themselves the capital necessary to establish manufacturing industries on a sure foundation and the west must therefore look to the east for assistance. Golden opportunities are presented to the manufacturers who are first on the ground and the commercial history of the next five or ten years will determine whether Canadian business men have that faith in the possibilities of their own country that will induce them to grasp for themselves the business opportunities offered them in the newer Canada beyond the Great Lakes. It will decide whether Western Canada is to be developed by capital, owned or controlled by Canadians, or whether the choicest business opportunities will be grasped by outside capitalists. It will decide whether or not Canadian business men believe in their own country.

The Lesson of History.

Canadians have not always believed in Canada. Witness the indifference and hostility of the great mass of the Canadian people to the building of the C. P. R. It is a well known fact that it was the personality of two or three great men that was responsible for the building of that road. It was built only after a bitter political struggle and it is certain that only a few of those who supported Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper in the fight for the building of the first transcontinental really had any measure of their enthusiasm and confidence. The personal magnetism of the leaders and loyalty to party—these were the factors that had the most potent influence in securing the support of the vast majority of those who voted for the construction of the C.P.R. The great majority lacked faith in the future of Canada and were wanting in those powers of imagination without which men can accomplish little constructive work.

The First Boom.

A few adventurous spirits moved west while the C.P.R. was building and very soon the hopes of agricultural, commercial and industrial possibilities, which had been responsible for their coming, became profound convictions and they began to send eastward marvellous stories of the great opportunities in the new Canada beyond the Great Lakes.

Eastern Canadians looked wise and shrugged their shoulders in a knowing way at these stories and found justification for their doubts in the bursting of the boom of the early 80's. For ten years the east lost interest in the west.

But in spite of all discouragements the dauntless spirit of the few whom the prairies had adopted still kept up the propaganda and there still travelled eastward marvellous stories of the fertility of the western soil. A few responded to the call, the two Ontario counties of Bruce and Huron sending their best, but for the most part the invitation came to too cautious or unheeding ears. The eastern farmer refused to credit the stories he heard and laughed at the "western blow" of his friends who had gone west. So he stayed where he was, in many cases to eke out a scanty existence on a stoney 50-acre farm encumbered with a mortgage, when he could have had for the asking 160 acres of the most fertile soil in Canada.

The Eastern Canada farmer lacked faith in his own country.

In the year 1907 no one now doubts the agricultural possibilities of the west, for they have been proved by a succession of bumper crops and immigrants are pouring in by the thousands to take possession of the land of promise. The appeal to Eastern Canada had for years fallen upon deaf and skeptical ears and in despair the west turned to the United States with the story of Western Canada possibilities. In two years more settlers came from the United States than had come from Eastern Canada in the preceding ten years. The movement once started has gathered impetus with each succeeding year and settlers are flocking to Western Canada from all parts of the world.

What of the Manufacturers?

Will the Eastern Canada manufacturer prove any wiser than was the Eastern Canada farmer from 1885 to 1900? Will he be the first to seize the opportunities offered him by the growing western market, or will he wait until the American has shown him the way. The manufacturer who gets in first will control the trade of the west and grow up with the country.

A number of western centres present strong claims upon the serious attention of the eastern manufacturer. They offer a large and rapidly growing market for the finished product, cheap power, abundance of raw materials, good transportation facilities for the assembling of raw materials and for the distribution of the finished product—all of these advantages are offered in greater or less degree by the various western centres having claims upon the serious attention of manufacturers who are looking to the west for the expansion of their business.

The wise manufacturer will investigate these claims; for the west will not always be content to send its raw materials thousands of miles eastward and bring them back as manufactured goods. Goods "made in the west" will be popular in the west and the manufacturer who first commences to supply goods manufactured in the west will meet with a cordial reception from the buying public.

American capital has reaped the largest profits from land speculations and there is now very little land remaining which can be obtained by capitalists en bloc; but American faith in the future of Western Canada is growing stronger every day, and there is nothing more sure than that if the Canadian manufacturer does not soon grasp his opportunities, American capital will very shortly build large factories in the farthest west. The west will welcome American capital, but Canadian capital should be the first in the field.

PRINCE ALBERT

City of opportunity — A story of steady, healthy growth—Big opportunities to-day.

With its magnificent situation on the south bank of the North Saskatchewan, and surrounded as it is by a stretch of the most fertile land on the continent, it is small wonder that from the early days Prince Albert has been marked as the site of a big city when the time comes for Western Canada to come into its own. The visitor is at once impressed with the grandeur of its situation.

Prince Albert looks to the future, not to the past, but perhaps a brief survey of the history of the town will not be out of place. Long before Wolfe had climbed the narrow path leading to the Heights of Abraham, La Verandrye, the famous venturesome French explorer had explored the valley of the great Saskatchewan River and in 1748 he established a trading post on the site of the present city of Prince Albert. After the surrender of Canada to Great Britain, numerous fur trading companies competed for th? trade in the Saskatchewan valley and Prince Albert was the scene of many encounters between the traders employed by the Hudson's Bay Co. and those employed by a rival firm known as the Northwest Fur Co. The Hudson's Bay Co. were finally the victors and for a century Prince Albert was merely one of many fur trading stations scattered throughout the great "Lone Land" of the far north.

Beginning of Civilization.

In 1866 Rev. Jas. Nesbitt, a pioneer Presbyterian missionary from Kildonan, Man., visited the district and founded a mission to the Indians. He was followed by a number of sturdy Kildonan settlers who were attracted by the fertility of the soil in the valley of the Saskatchewan and these formed the nucleus of the extensive and successful agricultural settlement surrounding the town to-day.

It was the first intention of the C.P.R. magnates to build their road through the fertile Saskatchewan valley and to cross the mountains by the Yellowhead Pass. Had this original intention been carried out, Prince Albert would have been on the main line of the C.P.R. and it and Edmonton would undoubtedly have been much larger centres than they are to-day. However, other counsels prevailed, and for a number of years Prince Albert was practically out of the running in the race of the western towns. The few settlers who had moved north remained because of the fertility of the soil, but a new country cannot make progress without railways and for years Prince Albert stood still. Then came the organization of the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake, Saskatchewan Railway, Lake and Steamship Company, which, in spite of the handicap of its unwieldy name, opened a lake and rail route from Qu'Appelle to Prince Albert which did much to open up the district. The Regina-Prince Albert line, now controlled by the C.N.R., follows much the same route.

Development was slow, however, until the C.N.R. line east from Melfort became an assured fact, but since that time the growth has been very rapid. But, though rapid, the growth has been substantial. Prince Albert is no boom town ; it has never had a single business failure. Its business men believe in steady, substantial development, and discourage all tendencies towards a mushroom growth.

The Lumber Industry.

Prince Albert to day has a population of about 5,000 and is sblidly built, as her people look forward confidently to the growth of a big city. Lumbering is the principal industry and it is a big one. Four large companies are operating at present and the estimated output this year is 65,000,000 feet. Last year the output was 40,000,000 feet, but the milling capacity this year is much greater than last. One mill is to be rebuilt this season to increase its capacity from 5,000,000 feet to 30,000,000 feet, and the total output for 1908 will be at least 90,000,000 feet. Last year 1,800 men were employed in the mills and these, with the men employed in the woods, make a grand total of 2,500 directly engaged in the lumbering industry. The monthly pay roll of the lumber industry proper is over $50,000 and during the summer the sawmills require 20 cars per day to handle their output properly. Under present transportation conditions they do not always get this number, but the figures show the extent and importance of the industry. The large number of employes and their families are dependent upon Prince Albert for their supplies of all kinds and the lumber industry is indeed the backbone of the town.

Happily it may be depended upon to flourish and grow for an indefinite length of time. The supply of timber is practically inexhaustible, and it is within easy access of the town, the logs being floated down the river to the mills.

Other Industries.

Situated as it is in a rich and fertile farming district, Prince Albert is also a flour milling centre of some importance. There are three mills now in operation, with a combined daily capacity of 475 barrels. They are owned and operated by the Hudson's Bay Co. Jos. Kidd, and the Farmers' Milling and Elevator Co. This industry is, however, only in its infancy. The possibilities of Prince Albert as a milling centre are unlimited, for there will always be a large northern trade and, with the opening of the Hudson's Bay route, this city will be a natural centre for the manufacture of wheat into flour for shipment to the European markets.

THREE PRINCE ALBERT BANKS.
Bank of Ottawa. Canadian Bank of Commerce. Imperial Bank.
(Courtesy "Advocate," Prince Albert.)

For a century Prince Albert has been an important fur trading station and the shipments now are more than $600,000 per year. The Hudson's Bay Co. and Revillon Bros. are the principal buyers and there are three or four other smaller buyers stationed in Prince Albert. The two big companies maintain a string of trading posts extending far to the north and these are furnished with supplies from Prince Albert. During the summer the surplus are sent by barge and during the winter by dog train. During the week of the Board of Trade Convention the first barge of the summer season was sent down the river by Revillon Bros.

A large brewing plant has been established for a number of years in Prince Albert. It is rebuilding now and its output of beer and soft drinks will be greatly increased. There is also a small packing house which has been in operation for two or three years, but which up to the present has not done any export trade. An infant fishing industry, amounting last year to $30,000, a pottery, two lime burning yards, three brickyards and two cement block yards about exhaust the list of industries in operation in Prince Albert. It is not a long list but every industry mentioned is prospering and there are undoubtedly openings for several other industries at the present time.

Resources of the District.

Before considering the various openings for industries afforded by Prince Albert the resources of the surrounding district deserve some attention. Reference has been made already to the timber resources. But in the very forefront should be placed the fact that Prince Albert is in the centre of one of the richest mixed farming districts in the world. Northern Saskatchewan is not a prairie country. It is a well wooded rolling country, well watered and with a very fertile soil. Mixed farming and stock raising are very profitable and the district is attracting many new settlers. There is room here for many thousands of prosperous farmers and there is no doubt that during the next few years this district will get them. Wheat is grown successfully at least 150 miles north of Prince Albert and no one knows yet the extent and resources of the vast hinterland to the north. Twenty townships have recently been surveyed and are ready for homesteading. Settlers are taking them up rapidly and, with projected railway extensions, there is no doubt that the immediate future will see a tremendous development in this northern territory. Between Prince Albert and Fort Churchill it is known that there is great mineral wealth waiting for man to exploit it. Coal, iron, cobalt, petroleum and copper are known to be there in vast quantities and it is likely that investigation will result in the discovery of still other minerals. Canadians do not yet realize the vast wealth and wonderful resources of the great north country which for so many years was considered utterly valueless, except for its furs.

Transportation.

The business man is of course keenly interested in the transportation facilities of any town in which he may think of locating. Prince Albert has direct communication with Winnipeg and Regina and intervening points by regular freight and passenger service. The C.N.R. are building a railway and traffic bridge across the river and will extend their line to Battleford, thus placing Prince Albert on the most northerly transcontinental line in Canada. The C.P.R., which temporarily lost the Prince Albert trade through the C.N.R. acquiring a controlling interest last fall in the Regina and Prince Albert branch railway, are pushing their line from the east into the city and are also applying for a charter for a line from Regina to Prince Albert. J. J. Hill has a charter for a road from Vancouver on the Pacific coast to Prince Albert. A Prince Albert company are chartered to Fort Churchill. An Edmonton company are applying for a charter via Prince Albert to the Bay, and the C.N.R. have already built about 100 miles of their Hudson's Bay road.

Cheap Power.

A strong committee are at work on a proposition to develop cheap water power. The municipality has secured several sites from the Government and is under contract to expend $25,000 before November, 1908. Competent engineers have been looking into the project and they have reported that very cheap power can be obtained from the Saskatchewan and its tributaries by a comparatively small expenditure. They report that power can be delivered in Regina at a cost of from $12 to $15 per horsepower per annum and that there is practically no limit to the amount that can be developed. The municipality is in earnest about this matter, its best business men are interesting themselves actively in the project and there can be no reasonable doubt that the work will be carried through during the next few months.

Proposed Hudson's Bay Road.

Prince Albert people are enthusiastic in their support of the Hudson's Bay railway project and they have no doubt that their city will be on the direct line of any road built to Fort Churchill. They point to the following table of distances to show the great advantage to the west and to Prince Albert which would follow the building of this road :

Distances to Liverpool.

From	Miles.
Fort Churchill	2,600
Quebec	2,600
Montreal	2,775
Toronto	3,111
New York	3,168
Owen Sound	3,233
Buffalo via New York	3,518
Prince Albert via Ft. Churchill	3,200

There are openings for branch wholesale houses and factories at the present time which deserve the serious attention and consideration of Canadian business men. The northern Saskatchewan market is growing at a very rapid rate and the advantages of supplying a market from a base near at hand are sufficiently obvious.

A big pulp and paper mill would find a splendid opening in Prince Albert. At its very door are almost illimitable supplies of pulpwood, and the market for building paper, to say nothing of the finer grades of paper, is a tremendous are. At the present time these supplies are brought in from very distant points and a mill located in Prince Albert would have for its market all that vast territory from Winnipeg west to the Rockies and from the U. S. boundary for hundreds of miles northward. It would have an empire for its market.

Prince Albert is in a splendid stock raising country and there is therefore an excellent opening for a large abattoir and packing house with an allied soap factory. The products of the abattoir would find a splendid home market and there is always a strong export demand.

A big foundry and machine shop would make money in Prince Albert. There are four large sawmills in the city now and within a radius of 100 miles there are 30 or 40 more. These are dependent for their repairs on points far distant and a foundry in Prince Albert would have plenty of work from the very first.

The flour milling industry is as yet only in its infancy and there is room for great development. The Prince Albert district produces oats that are the envy of farmers the world over. Why should these be shipped out in their natural state while the people of Prince Albert and surrounding country import manufactured breakfast foods from other centres? Surely there is a splendid opening for a big oatmeal mill.

Industries could be enumerated by the dozen but perhaps a few examples are sufficient. With the vast supplies of timber there is a good opening for a match and box factory. There is clay in abundance for a pressed brick industry and it would find a ready market for its output.

Prince Albert presents many splendid opportunities to manufacturers and there can be no doubt that in the very near future important industries will be started in that city.

EDMONTON

Distributing centre of a great and rapidly developing territory—The young men's opportunity—Openings for wholesale houses.

By A. G. Harrison, Secretary Edmonton Board of Trade.

The past winter has demonstrated the fact that Central Alberta is a safe district to be located in on account of the abundance of fuel, both coal and wood, and it is apparent that great interest is being taken in this matter by incoming settlers and others. Enquiry shows that the following figures approximately cover the daily output of the coal mines at Edmonton:

Mine	Daily output
Lindsay & Daly	50 tons
Bush Mine	75 "
Brenton Mine	75 "
Humberstone Mine	75 "
John Walter	150 "
Stewart Mine	50 "
Fraser & Freeman	50 "
Baldwin Mine	40 "
Edmonton Coal Co.	75 "
Osborn & Horn	75 "
Total	745 tons

The coal seams have an average width of four to five feet, but at Morinville, 20 miles northwest of Edmonton, the seams are twelve feet wide, and at Goose Encampment, 50 miles up the North Saskatchewan River, there are exposures showing the coal seams to be 28 feet wide. Coal lands are in demand and the output during the coming year will be at least doubled.

That Edmonton, surrounded as it is by very rich agricultural land and underlain with coal, will become a good manufacturing centre in time is a foregone conclusion. With the C.P.R., C.N.R., and G.T.P. railway giving freight competition and making Edmonton the distributing centre of Alberta, wholesale houses and jobbing warehouses are assured. At the present time some thirty wholesale houses are doing business out of the city. They control the trade for 200 miles to the east of Edmonton, 100 miles to the south, 250 miles to the west, and 2,000 miles to the north.

EDMONTON - Jasper Avenue, Business Street of the Alberta Capital.

Wholesale Control.

It is only recently, however, that Edmonton has felt the benefit of railway competition, and its merchants find that they are able to control the business of central Alberta against all comers. This is due to the entrance of the C.N.R. last year, and will be further amplified by the entrance of the G.T.P. and C.P.R. this year. With dozens of new towns and villages springing up in all directions, wholesale merchants have hardly time to put up their warehouses when they are required to enlarge them owing to the increase of trade.

Jobbing warehouse men from St. Paul and Minneapolis are quietly looking over the field and predict a certain future for Edmonton in their line of business. They point out that Edmonton, being in the centre of the province of Alberta, and having railroad competition and being situated in a rich agricultural belt similar to that of the Red River, and which requires no artificial methods to ensure the yearly growth of its crops, has a certainty about it that will, and does, appeal to the average business man.

Big Harvest Looked for.

Many enquiries are made regarding the severe winter and backward spring, but "Sunny Alberta," although getting a touch of each, like the rest of the world, finds that its severe winter was not as bad as at other points and that its spring is earlier than most. Farming operations are being carried on at a lively rate and it is generally predicted that the crop will be harvested successfully and will show an increase of 10 per cent. over that of last year.

The Edmonton Industrial Exhibition Association will hold their annual fair on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th of July as usual. It speaks volumes for the growth of the city and country that it pays the association to have four days of sport and exhibits. The attendance in the past has, however, justified this, there being on the grounds each day from 8,000 to 14,000 people. Central Alberta has become very populous during the last three years, and the increase during the last year especially has been marvellous. If ever a country or district offered opportunities for young men, central Alberta certainly does. Not the shiftless class, but young men who will be content to locate permanently and grow up with the country. In five years' time, if steady and industrious, they will be astonished at the prominent place they will have achieved in the town or city in which they may have located.

Manufacturers and merchants who have sons that have been trained in business lines could not do better than give them a start in central Alberta, and it will keep them hustling to keep up with the rapid growth of the district. When towns such as Vegreville, Vermilion, Daysland, Camrose, Stettler, etc., which did not exist a year and a half ago, and whose population now runs from 500 to 800 people each, are being duplicated in all directions, north, south, east and west of Edmonton, it is surely obvious that it is time to take advantage of the situation and be up and doing. Just as the growth of these small towns is rapid, so is the growth of the City of Edmonton. Edmonton controls the wholesale business of such towns and will continue to control it. The more they grow the more Edmonton will grow, and what of the 2,000 miles of country to the north of Edmonton, the big fur country; and what of the British Columbia country to the west of Edmonton, the big mining country? It does not take much foresight to see that Edmonton occupies the same place in relation to these districts as does Winnipeg to the west at the present time. It cannot be impressed too strongly on wholesale men and manufacturers of Canada that they must act quickly if they want to get the trade. They should not let St. Paul and Minneapolis men occupy territory that obviously belongs to Canadians.

JAPAN TEAS.

To the Editor of The Canadian Grocer.

I noticed in the editorial column of this week's issue an article headed "Japan Teas," and as it seems to me that same is misleading, I take the liberty of calling your attention to a few facts in connection therewith. You mentioned that the consolidation of a great majority of Japanese houses in Japan tends to uphold the high price of Japan teas this year, but this is quite erroneous. The native houses which are affected in this consolidation are only those situated in certain advantageous places in the Province of Shidzuoka to facilitate operation of business in every way economical. The main object of consolidation is to make teas of best possible quality at least expense, and thereby be in a far better and stronger position to meet competition of the present day.

The present high market in Japan teas is not the manipulation of merchants but is owing to advanced prices on all articles of daily necessity and particularly Japanese labor. This naturally affects the tea industry as well as any other. Take silk, for instance, the price of which has advanced much more in percentage than tea, and another cause of the present high price of Japan tea is this year's short crop. Latest advice indicates that this year's crop will be shorter than that of last year. Total of last year's output was much smaller than normal. Then again the demand for Japan teas is increasing rapidly in Manchuria and Siberia, as well as at home. The U. S. market just now is practically bare of Japan teas. All these conditions go towards upholding firm market, and the advance in price is owing to nothing more or less than ordinary conditions in supply and demand.

Another statement in the article is to the effect that the organization was formed to avoid price cutting of late years, but this also seems to me quite contrary to past conditions. It is true that two or three years ago the price of Japan tea dropped to something almost unprecedented, the cause of this being nothing but the ordinary business conditions, and considerable speculation on the part of importers in United States and Canada. For instance, when the Japan-Russia war broke out many merchants, both in United States and Canada, bought teas for future supply far ahead in expectation of higher prices in consequence of the war, but this expectation did not materialize, and during the time Japan was engaged in war the production of teas was rather larger than normal. At this same time enormous quantities of Ceylon and Indian greens were brought in, and the market was naturally over-supplied with all kinds of tea with continuous low prices ruling. There never was any price cutting in the sense your statement would seem to indicate.

In conclusion, I may say my reason for drawing your attention to this article is that The Canadian Grocer, with its large circulation, has always enjoyed the reputation of being a strong factor in propounding truth. I therefore, in the interests of the trade generally, beg to present you with the foregoing facts, and ask you under the circumstances to kindly correct same in your next issue, as the impressions you have conveyed in regard to the object of consolidating the Japanese houses is absolutely misleading.

W. H. Halford.

REGINA

Progress has made its home in the Saskatchewan Capital. Great growth of business and industries.

By H. C. Lawson, Secretary Regina Board of Trade

As the capital of a province, which, though still in its infancy, produces 37,040,098 bushels of wheat, 23,965,528 bushels of oats and some two and a half million of other grains, Regina certainly occupies a prominent position. One-tenth of this whole amount is marketed in the immediate district of Regina. The figures published by the statistics branch of the Department of Agriculture of the Government of the Province of Saskatchewan show that in 1906 the district yielded 2,788,069 bushels of wheat, averaging 22.86 bushels per acre; 2,568,947 bushels of oats, averaging 44.01 bushels per acre; 54,921 bushels of barley, averaging 28.33 bushels per acre, and 76,415 bushels of flax, averaging 14.41 bushels per acre. Official figures of the increase in the acreage sown this year in the district are not yet to hand, but it is estimated that the increase in wheat will be from 5 to 10 per cent.; in oats from 10 to 15 per cent., and the same for barley.

At the time of writing (June 12) crop prospects were never better. Though the spring was undoubtedly late, we have had many years in the past when the spring has been far later and yet a splendid crop was harvested. The growth during the last three weeks has been absolutely phenomenal, with nice warm showers, and the wheat is now covering the ground.

A REGINA WAREHOUSE.

The growing wealth of the Regina district is reflected in the progress made by the city, and every branch of commercial activity has shown remarkable advances within the past five years. A canvass of some of the city merchants shows that while the lowest increase in business for the month of May over the same month last year was 15 per cent., the highest was 60 per cent. The manager of one of the principal stores in the city states that their business since the first of January has averaged an increase of 60 per cent. every month over the same month last year. In March they did their biggest month's business, and the merchants look to the summer trade to increase at the same proportion as the average months since the first of the year.

There is no doubt that the stories of hardship in the country during the winter were greatly exaggerated, as were the reports as to the lateness of the spring, and this may possibly have affected immigration to some extent, but it has not affected the business of this community. The population has grown steadily from 2,645 in 1901, to about 9,000 at present date; the assessment roll, which was completed on the last day of May, shows a total of $12,290,461, as against $1,226,000 in 1903. Post office revenue for the last fiscal year was $37,510. Figures of the important branches of commercial life are not so easily available, but it is estimated that the railway revenue for Regina in 1906 was $2,225,000.

Distributing Centre.

The growth has been steady and even, without booms or reactions, in each year the volume of trade has shown a substantial increase, as compared with the preceding year, and this fact has inspired the commercial world with confidence in the city's future. Manufacturers of all kinds of agricultural implements, who are dependent on the success of farming communities, have definitely cast in their lot with Regina by establishing their distributing depots for Saskatchewan in that city. This is the most important branch of the wholesale trade at the present time, and it is estimated that the volume of business in implements for the present year will be $5,000,000, as compared with $4,000,000 in 1905.

As regards railway facilities Regina certainly stands in an enviable position to-day. She has for many years been the chief railway point of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Brandon and Calgary. Work has been commenced on the C.N.R. extension from Virden, and the line will be completed from Regina to Brandon this fall in time to handle the crop. This will give the Canadian Northern a loop around the most important portion of the province. With Regina as a central point in their line. The Grand Trunk Pacific has, through General Manager Morse, announced their intention of building three lines to Regina, thus making this city the centre of the southern portion of its system. One of these lines will run to Yorkton, to meet the main line; the second one will run to Brandon, and the third to North Portal, on the American boundary.

Industries Wanted.

The class of industries which Regina is most anxious to secure are those which will find their raw material in the district. These include flour mills, cereal mills of various kinds, vinegar factories, distilleries, flax mills, oil mills and similar enterprises. The large number of cattle raised in the province furnish raw material for packing establishments and their allied industries, such as tanneries, soap factories, glue factories and other concerns which make use of the by-products of the packing plant. There is a magnificent opening at the present time for a wholesale hardware business.

The city council has reserved for manufacturing and warehouse sites forty blocks, or 1,600 lots, in the northeast portion of the city, and these are given to wholesalers and manufacturing industries at very low prices with certain guarantees as to the class of building to be erected. In connection with this wholesale section a comprehensive scheme of spur tracks has recently been drawn up for the council by the city engineer. Under this plan spur tracks bisect every block with access from the southeast over the C.P.R. lines and the northwest over the C N.R. lines. From these main spurs it is proposed to run spurs on either side, thus giving to every warehouse erected within the area dealt with, trackage for the loading and unloading of cars to the full extent of the property on which each warehouse may stand.

The re-opening of the Souris coal mines at Estevan improves the position of Regina with regard to fuel. This coal can be laid down in the city at about $4 per ton, in large lots, and this makes a very good steam coal. A municipal gas plant will probably be established within the next year, and this can be worked very economically in connection with the city's electric light plant. It is likely that the latter will furnish power for a great many industries of the future and additional apparatus is being installed for the purpose of supplying electric energy for manufacturing.

NEXT WEEK IN HAMILTON

Eighth Annual Convention of the Retail Merchants' Association—First Day for Grocers—Interesting Programme Prepared.

The meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, and the 3rd meeting of the grocers' section of the R.M.A., will be held on July 2nd, 3rd and 4th, in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, at Hamilton.

The opening session will be held at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, when the business of receiving and registering delegates will be gone through with. An address of welcome will be given by Adam Ballantine, president of the Hamilton branch of the R.M.A. and by J. O. Carpenter, chairman of the grocers' section. The opening address will be delivered by M. Moyer, the provincial chairman. Following this an address of greeting will be given to A. M. Green, the Dominion president; to J. A. Beaudry, the Dominion treasurer; and to H. C. Ellis, president of the Provincial Board of Ontario.

Receptions will then be given to John A. Green, of Cleveland, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States; to Elisha Winter, of Boston, national organizer of the R.G.A., of the United States; and to H. C. Beckett, president of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild.

The following programme will then be proceeded with:

1. Reading correspondence.
2. Secretary's report.
3. Receiving resolutions relating to the welfare of the retail grocery trade.
4. Appointing committees on resolutions.
5. Reports from committees on resolutions.
6. Election of officers.
7. Selecting place and date for next convention.

Some of the subjects which will be open to general discussion are as follows:

1. The present method of placing goods on the market without any guarantee as to price or quantity.
2. Manufacturers advancing the cost price of their products in such a way that the increase is taken out of the retailer.
3. The relationship between the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer and the best methods of selling goods.
4. What should constitute the standard weight of a bag of potatoes.
5. How cash should be handled in a grocery store.
6. How books should be kept by the retail grocer.
7. The advantages of organization as adopted by the Retail Merchants' Association.

It will be seen that Tuesday will be devoted almost entirely to the interests of the retail grocers. On Wednesday and Thursday attention will be given to matters of general interest to retail merchants of all classes. Among other subjects which will be taken up, that of the peddling nuisance, the amending of the criminal code, co-operative stores and the coupon question are not the least important.

HAMILTON NOTES.

Wm. Forbes, of Snowdon, Forbes & Co., Montreal, was a caller upon the jobbing trade during the past week.

Wagstaffe, Limited, showed The Grocer a single order just received for 2,100 cases of their jams, preserved fruits, etc., amounting to over $100,000.

Lumsden Bros. report business good in all lines. They have a new manufacturing department under way, particulars of which will be announced later.

The F. F. Dalley Co.'s factory in Buffalo was opened June 17th, with 62 girls putting up 2 in 1 shoe polish. Mr. Menzie, superintendent sales department, said: "We are over 3,000 gross behind with our orders."

A. C. Gyde, of Chas. Gyde & Co., Montreal, was in Hamilton last week in company with Jas. Dear, representing Day & Martin, London. Mr. Gyde is making his annual trip through the west.

W. H. Thompson, formerly with Taylor & Mulvaney, wholesale crockery merchants, is representing the F. F. Dalley Co. in the western states, introducing 2 in 1. His headquarters are Omaha, Neb. An old and tried salesman, Mr. Thompson is meeting with good success.

Balfour, Smye & Co. will be pleased to have the retail grocers visiting the R. M. A. convention in Hamilton, July 2-4, visit their offices and warerooms, and will make their stay interesting and profitable. It is worth while calling just to get that hearty grip and genial smile from Mr. Smye.

NEW TABLE SYRUP.

The Imperial Syrup Co., 88 Grey Nun St., Montreal, are putting on the market a new table syrup named "Goldenette." The product is put up in handsome two, three, five, ten and twenty pound pails, and also in barrels. It is of particularly high grade quality, a delicious table syrup for general use manufactured from the highest quality sugar cane. The reputation which the Imperial Syrup Company enjoys for the quality of their Imperial maple syrup and other excellent brands is a guarantee that anything new they attempt will be up to their usual standard.

A grocer in Victoria, B.C., contracted with a near-by farmer for the purchase of his entire potato crop for the season. The probable quantity was placed at 12 tons. On account of the extreme frost, the farmer had exactly half a ton to deliver for the fulfilment of his agreement.

Western Business Men's Parliament

Fourth Convention of the Western Canada Boards of Trade—Many Questions Relative to the Commercial and Industrial Development of the Central West Thoroughly Dealt With—Transportation—Representative Gathering in Prince Albert.

In Prince Albert, the Queen City of Northern Saskatchewan, a city noted since the early days of the west for the beauty of its site and the hospitality of its people, was held last week the fourth and most successful convention in the history of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada. Delegates were in attendance from nearly every part of the two provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan and, as in former years, the western towns sent to the convention some of the ablest and best informed of their business and professional men. It was a notable gathering, in every respect representative of the best thought of the business life of the west, and the debates throughout were of a high order of merit. Surprise is often expressed at the rapid growth and development of the west, and this development is usually attributed solely to the marvellous resources of the country. But no one could listen to the debates at this Board of Trade Convention, noting the comprehensive understanding of public questions displayed by the delegates and the business-like way in which the discussions were conducted, and fail to realize that the growth of the west is very largely due to the conspicuous ability of her business men. To understand the west one must see and know her business men, and the best opportunity to meet the ablest in the west is afforded every year by the Associated Boards of Trade Convention.

Some Veteran Representatives.

While the personnel of the conventions necessarily changes very much from year to year, each Board of Trade electing its delegates annually, there are several striking figures who have been in attendance at three conventions and one or two who have attended all four. Retiring President R. J. Hutchings has attended all four conventions and was in fact one of the prime movers in organizing the first convention, for to the Calgary Board of Trade is the honor of originating the movement. From the very first, therefore, the conventions have had the benefit of his wise, sane and eminently common sense view of business questions. President McAra of Regina has taken an active interest in the Associated Boards of Trade movement from the very start and his intimate technical knowledge of insurance and allied questions has been of immense value. A fitting honor has been done him in his election as president. Ex-Mayor McKenzie of Edmonton has been a notable figure at all conventions. He is a practical, successful man of affairs, with a thorough understanding of business questions. Two Edmonton delegates at other conventions—William Short and T. Lines—were missed this year at Prince Albert, but their places were filled by other representatives from the Alberta capital.

No convention would be a convention without William Pearce of Calgary, as his thorough knowledge of western conditions, resources and people, gained by long residence in the west and careful attention to public and semi-public duties, is invaluable. Moose Jaw sends each year two familiar figures, Hugh McKellar and E. M. Saunders, who would be greatly missed if they did not attend, and what would any convention be without the jovial "Billy" Cousins, the far-famed Mayor of Medicine Hat?

Western Canada Boards of Trade Convention—Delegates Assembled Before City Hall, Prince Albert.

Last, but by no means least, Regina sends each year to the convention one of the foremost young business men of the west in H. W. Laird, ex-mayor of the Saskatchewan capital. A clear thinker and a forcible speaker, he is one of the dominating figures at all conventions.

One well known figure was absent from this convention and many a sincere tribute of regret and respect was paid to the memory of Thomas Copland of Saskatoon.

The subjects under discussion were worthy of the best attention of the best business men of the west. Transportation loomed large for it underlies almost every other question that is of moment to the business life of the newer Canada. Happily, three representatives of the railways were present by special invitation and therefore an opportunity was given for both sides of this vexed question to be presented. A better understanding of the position of the railways will surely result from the explanations of Messrs. Peters, Shaw, and Brownlee. Closely allied with the transportation question, and indeed part of it, is the west's fuel problem, now pressing for solution. This and many other topics of live interest came up for intelligent discussion. It was shown clearly that in these questions the interests of the two western provinces are identical and the suggestion that in future years there should be two separate provincial conventions received scant consideration. The Associated Boards of Trade Convention is the last connecting link between the two provinces and it is not likely to be lightly broken.

Prince Albert was prodigal in its hospitality. The hotels were crowded, as two other bodies were meeting in the city at the same time and the citizens hospitably entertained many of the delegates in their own homes. A round of social events filled in all the time left unoccupied by the business sessions of the convention and Secretary Wallace was untiring in his efforts to assist the delegates and press representatives.

OPENING SESSION.

President Hutchings' Address — Last Year's Progress Eclipsed.

The convention was formally opened at 10.30 a.m. Tuesday, the 18th, with President R. F. Hutchings in the chair. The sessions were held in the court room, which had been placed at the disposal of the convention through the kindness of the Acting Attorney-General of Saskatchewan. President Hutchings invited the following gentlemen to take seats on the platform: Mayor Cook, Hon. Mr. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture in Alberta; Hon. Senator Davis, Supt. Brownlee, of the C.P.R.;

P. McARA, JR., REGINA
President Western Canada Boards of Trade Association.

S. J. Donaldson, M.L.A., and J. E. Bradshaw, president of the Prince Albert Board of Trade.

Mayor Cook extended a hearty welcome to the visiting delegates and presented them with the freedom of the city. This annual meeting of the Parliament of western business men he considered an event of the first importance, as subjects of national import were to come up for discussion. The fuel and transportation problems were probably the most important, the former depending for its solution on the solution of the latter. His Worship referred in glowing terms to the hopes of Prince Albert in connection with the proposed Hudson's Bay route.

President's Annual Address.

President Hutchings, on behalf of the convention, acknowledged the address of welcome in suitable terms. Messrs. Laird (Regina), Saunders (Moose Jaw), and Stockand (Edmonton) were then appointed a committee on credentials and while they were preparing their report President Hutchings delivered his annual address.

He expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present at the convention in spite of the fact that attendance involves considerable loss of time and inconvenience to all the delegates. The importance of the convention, however, and the nature of the subjects to be discussed, in his opinion, quite compensated for all the loss of time and inconvenience to which the delegates were subjected.

Conventions had been held in Calgary, Regina and Edmonton, and it was a happy thought to hold the fourth convention at the fourth corner of the parallelogram. Many delegates were visiting Prince Albert for the first time and these conventions would be of great educative value if they did nothing more than cause business men to see their own country.

The Late Thomas Copland.

"A year ago," continued Mr. Hutchings, "it was my sad duty to refer to the loss of our esteemed president, Thomas Tweed. This year it is my sorrow to have to make similar reference to the death of our honored first vice-president, Thomas Copland, of Saskatoon. He was a prominent figure at the last two conventions, in Edmonton and Regina, and no delegate had sounder views or greater facility of expression, and none was listened to with greater respect than Thomas Copland of Saskatoon.

"When delivering my last address I took occasion to congratulate you upon the marvellous development that was taking place in our country and on the splendid crop prospects that then prevailed, and the prediction of a satisfactory crop was amply justified. The development to which I then referred has been eclipsed by that which has since taken place and which is now going on. Settlers of the very best class are coming into the two provinces in numbers entirely unprecedented in the previous history of the west, and our cities, towns and villages are showing a percentage of growth probably never before equalled in any country at any period. Not only was the crop of 1906 much the largest ever harvested in western Canada; but it is believed that the average yield per acre of the various grains was probably the largest ever harvested over any considerable area on this continent. I am glad to say that notwithstanding the abnormally late spring, prospects for the growing crop are equally good. In view of the fact that crop conditions over a very large portion of the continent, and in part of Europe, have been so unsatisfactory as to cause a marked advance in grain prices, it is possible that the crop of 1907 may be the most profitable that the Canadian west has ever yet produced.

"Some doubts were expressed last year by one or two members as to the actual results of our annual meetings.

I am happy to say that during the last year actual results have been attained. The passing of resolutions at the convention in Edmonton was not the end of the matter."

Mr. Hutchings proceeded to point out that during the months following the convention and previous to the meeting of the Legislatures, Secretary F. T. Fisher had been very persistent in bringing the resolutions passed to the attention of the Provincial and Dominion Governments. As a result some actual results had been secured and ministers of the Crown had promised more. In the first place, alcohol for industrial purposes had been freed of all taxes by the Dominion Parliament in accordance with resolutions passed at the Edmonton convention. In the second place, the recommendation of the Edmonton convention, re amendment to the laws for collecting small debts, had been complied with to some extent by both local governments. Thirdly, public opinion had been educated in favor of Government support of hospitals, and early action by the Provincial Governments might be expected to result. Fourthly, the convention had recommended Government action to assist the western farmer in getting a better market for his products, and the appointment of the Grain and Beef Commission was quite in line with this recommendation.

The Alberta Government had undertaken a vigorous campaign for a publicly owned telephone system, and this was in line with a resolution of the last convention. Lastly, the association urged upon the Railway Commission that passenger rates in the west were excessive, and the Railway Commission have now ordered that three cents per mile be the maximum rate. The association did not, of course, claim the whole credit for this reform, but he had no doubt their resolutions had considerable weight. He was glad to see some of last year's resolutions up again for discussion this year.

In conclusion, Mr. Hutchings praised Retiring Secretary F. T. Fisher, of Edmonton, very highly on the efficient way in which he handled the work of the associated boards during the year.

Motions and Committees.

President Hutchings' address was received with applause and adopted on motion of Hugh McKellar (Moose Jaw) and Mayor Mills (Strathcona). On motion of P. McAra, Jr., (Regina) and W. Cousins (Medicine Hat), a vote of thanks was extended to President Hutchings and Retiring Secretary F. T. Fisher for their work during the year. On motion of Hugh McKellar (Moose Jaw) and H. W. Laird (Regina), a committee, composed of Messrs McKenzie (Edmonton), Pearce (Calgary), and Saunders (Moose Jaw), was appointed to draft a letter of condolence to Mrs. Copland. A resolutions committee, composed of President Hutchings and Messrs. McAra, Willoughby, Fisher, Saunders, Wallace and Hall was appointed and instructed to report at the afternoon session.

Election of Officers.

The convention then proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year and President Hutchings was renominated in an eloquent speech by Mayor Mills, of Strathcona, but he declined the honor. The following officers were then elected by acclamation: President, P. McAra, Jr. (Regina); 1st vice-president, K. W. McKenzie (Edmonton); 2nd vice-president, W. Cousins (Medicine Hat); secretary-treasurer, B. W. Wallace (Prince Albert).

The convention then adjourned for luncheon.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

President McAra Takes Command — Agricultural Colleges.

At the afternoon session President McAra took the chair amid a round of hearty applause.

Retiring President Hutchings then presented the report of the Law Amendments Committee, a committee appointed two years before at the convention in Regina. As recommended last year, this committee interviewed the Alberta Government and were favorably received. All their suggestions received respectful consideration and their main features were heartily approved of. Owing to pressure of work legislative effect was not given to their suggestions last session, but important legislation along the lines desired was promised for the coming session. The new Assignment Act, now become law, was along the lines suggested by the Law Amendments Committee.

R. J. HUTCHINGS, CALGARY
Retiring President, Western Canada Boards of Trade Association.

Condolence to Mrs. Copland.

E. M. Saunders, of Moose Jaw, then introduced a resolution of condolence on the death of Thomas Copland, of Saskatoon, which was carried in silence by a standing vote and ordered to be forwarded to Mrs. Copland.

The convention then proceeded with the long list of resolutions on the order paper, the first of which referred to the need of establishing agricultural colleges in the western provinces. It was introduced by W. L. Ouimette (Red Deer), and was as follows:

"Whereas, agriculture is the chief source of wealth of these provinces, as it is of the entire continent, and whereas we have no agricultural colleges in the west for the thorough training of young men who wish to engage in agricultural pursuits;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this convention strongly urge upon the provincial governments the early establishment of well-equipped colleges of this character."

In the course of an able and instructive address, Mr. Ouimette emphasized strongly the importance of agriculture as the basis of all western prosperity, and quoted figures to show the agricultural possibilities of the west. He referred to the good work done by the Ontario Agricultural College, an institution now very much appreciated by Ontario farmers. The west was in great need of an institution on similar lines.

The resolution was seconded by K. W. McKenzie (Edmonton). He emphasized the need of experimental farms as well as colleges, in order that the practical might be combined with the theoretical and scientific. The resolution carried.

Joint Stock Companies' Act.

H. W. Laird (Regina) then introduced an important resolution relating to the issue of new stock by companies holding public franchises. It was as follows:

"Whereas it has become the practice of joint stock companies to increase their capital by issuing stock to shareholders at par regardless of the prevailing market prices at which they may be selling, in some cases at a premium of 50 to 100 per cent., increasing thereby, in the case of companies operating public franchises, the burden to be borne by the public in the payment of tolls to cover interest or dividend charges;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the provincial legislatures be requested to amend the Joint Stock Companies' Act so that no company holding or operating a public franchise will be allowed to increase their capital stock, except such stock be sold on the open market or by public competition, and that such issue in any case shall be limited to the strict requirements of the company."

Speaking to his resolution, Mr. Laird said that the need for such legislation was not yet so apparent in the west as in the older provinces, but he thought this the proper time to introduce it—before the harm was done. Companies holding public franchises were in the habit of issuing new stock to their shareholders at par, although their stock might be selling at a big premium. Thus they were forced to sell more shares of stock in order to raise a desired amount of money than would be the case if they got anything like the market value. There were, accordingly, a great many more shares than necessary upon which dividends had to be paid, and the public had correspondingly heavier burdens. As an illustration in point he instanced the recent issue of C.P.R. common stock to shareholders at par when the stock was worth 170 on the exchange. The issue was much larger than necessary, simply because the stock was issued at par and there was, therefore, a larger capital upon which dividends must be earned before any reduction of rates could take place. His remedy was to have the new stock sold in the open market by public competition, and he would have the rule apply only to companies operating public franchises.

The restriction of an issue of stock to the strict requirements of a company he also considered very important for the same reasons. He argued strongly that the granting of a franchise by the public involves the granting of a concession, and that the public have a right to insist upon any conditions which may be deemed proper.

Mr. Laird said his resolution was along the lines of municipal ownership, or rather it aimed at the same object. The object of municipal ownership would be secured if there were no watered stock in public companies upon which dividends had to be earned. His resolution was designed to provide a remedy for this.

A. T. Hunter (Regina) seconded the resolution in a brief speech and a general discussion followed. When some misunderstandings had been cleared up the resolution was carried unanimously.

Annual Convention.

A. T. Hunter (Regina) then introduced a resolution recommending that in future years the annual convention be held one week prior to the meeting of the legislature of the two provinces holding the first session in the year. He argued that it was always well to strike while the iron was hot, and he thought too long time intervened now between the convention and the sessions.

E. M. Saunders (Moose Jaw) said the present time of meeting was the most convenient for business men and had been chosen for that reason. He thought it would be more to the point to ask the Legislature to meet a week after the convention. (Laughter).

F. T. Fisher (Edmonton) saw no advantage in the resolution. The legislation of any session was always prepared some time in advance and the interval of several months now existing between convention and session was a distinct advantage.

The resolution was defeated.

Chartering Companies.

President McAra then called upon Vice-president K. W. McKenzie to take the chair in order to allow him to introduce his resolution with respect to chartering companies. The resolution was long and somewhat technical. It involved considerable debate and a mental fog rested over the convention until the resolution was finally amended and passed. In its final shape it read as follows:

"Resolved, that in the granting of charters to companies seeking incorporation for the purpose of carrying on insurance business or any other business wherein the credit of the public is used, the legislature be asked to insert and enforce the following amongst other conditions:

"1. The deposit of an amount in cash or approved securities with the provincial secretary before such charters be issued.

"2. That where an unsafe proportion of such stock is held by persons residing outside of the province or without proper securities in the province, such deposit shall be proportionately increased.

"3. That as the liabilities of such companies to the public increase, as revealed by their annual statements to the Provincial Government, the deposit of such companies should be proportionately increased.

"4. That in no case may a fire insurance company insert in their policy any clause limiting their liability to any proportion of the face value of such policy except as provided in the ordinance to secure uniform conditions on policies of fire insurance, of 1903. N.W.T.

"5. That the securities to be authorized by the Provincial Government shall be submitted for inspection by, and approval of the Provincial Government annually and at such other times as an inspection may be called for."

Coal Supply.

H. McKellar (Moose Jaw) then submitted a resolution calling for a commission to investigate the sources of coal supply and the conditions governing the output of the mines and the distribution of the output:

"Resolved, that the Dominion Government be petitioned to appoint immediately a special commission to investigate the whole matter of coal supply, mining, freight rates and the providing of an adequate supply of coal at important distributing points for times of emergency."

Speaking to his motion, Mr. McKellar referred to the many conflicting statements made last winter during the fuel shortage. It was said that the railways were to blame because they did not supply cars; the railways said that there were sufficient cars, but the mines could not supply the coal. This was an important question, a "burning" question in the west, and the public wanted the truth.

The resolution carried.

Government Control of Fuel.

Mr. Leslie (Saskatoon) next introduced a resolution recommending Government control of fuel supplies which was finally laid on the table in order that it might be amended and come up again. In the course of the discussion Hon. W. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture in the Alberta Government, outlined the effective measures being taken by the Alberta Government to prevent all fuel shortages in future. The debate showed, among other things, that the fuel shortage last winter was not by any means so general as the public were led to believe by sensational newspaper reports.

Natural Gas.

W. Cousins (Medicine Hat) introduced an important resolution deploring the great waste of natural gas and requesting the Provincial Governments to investigate the matter and take effective action to prevent such waste. This might be thought a question concerning only the "Gas Town," but other points were quite likely to be affected soon. Much valuable gas was going to waste in Medicine Hat and vicinity, as people are boring for gas and then making no use of it.

Wm. Pearce (Calgary) spoke strongly in support of the resolution. Mr. Cousins had spoken of the waste by small wells in Medicine Hat. That was bad enough, in all conscience, but it did not amount to one per cent. of the waste at the Pelican Rapids on the Athabaska River, north of Edmonton. There, the Dominion Government were permitting to be wasted a volume of gas equal to ten times the whole amount consumed in Alberta. In his opinion this was the worst instance of deliberate waste and vandalism in the history of any country.

Hon. Mr. Finlay promised legislation at the next session of the Legislature of Alberta to prevent waste of natural gas, and his remarks were greeted with loud applause.

F. T. Fisher (Edmonton) suggested that a special reference to the waste of natural gas at the Pelican Rapids be included in the resolution. He explained that for nine or ten years a five inch pipe has been going off at the Pelican Rapids at enormous pressure. The waste was tremendous and should be stopped. Mr. Fisher's suggestion was adopted.

Government Ownership of Railways.

W. L. Birnie (Indian Head) then submitted a resolution calling upon the Governments to take over the railways of the country. The resolution was seconded by C. C. Rigby, of Balgonie. It was rejected almost unanimously. Undoubtedly the convention was not unfavorable to Government ownership, but the resolution as presented was much too drastic to find favor.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Merchants Want the Rights of Immigrants Protected.

At the Wednesday morning session there were present on the platform President Carruthers and Vice-President Persse , of the Winnipeg Board of Trade. G. H. Shaw, of the Canadian Northern, and F. W. Peters and Supt. Brownlee, of the C.P.R., were also in attendance.

Delay in Transporting Immigrants.

A number of resolutions relating to transportation and inspired by the extraordinary conditions prevailing last winter, were the occasion of much discussion, in which the representatives of the railways in attendance at the convention took part. The first of these related to the delays in transporting immigrants, and was introduced by A. E. Whitmore, of Regina. It was to the following effect :

"Whereas, incoming settlers are sometimes subjected to extended delays in transit caused by the failure of the railway companies to provide a proper and efficient means of transport to destination and thereby are put to inconvenience and expense in providing food and supplies for themselves and their live stock.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Minister of the Interior be requested to publish in all immigration literature sent out by the Interior Department such facts as may be necessary to inform such settlers regarding the rights to which they are entitled and which they may demand from the railway companies undertaking to transport them."

Speaking to the resolution Mr. Whitmore made specific complaint as to the treatment accorded immigrants at Regina this spring. Settlers were held there for days with their stock and household effects and did not know to whom to appeal for the discovery and enforcement of their rights. The motion was seconded by C. C. Rigby, of Balgonie.

The railway representatives having been accorded the privilege of the convention on motion of H. W. Laird, a general discussion followed.

G. H. Shaw, of the Canadian Northern, inquired the purpose of the resolution. The Dominion Government, he said, already had several salaried officers at various points, whose duty it is to take care of incoming settlers. These settlers had merely the rights of ordinary citizens and surely it was unnecessary, and would be poor immigration literature to place on record that settlers require assistance from the Dominion Government to assist them in maintaining their rights as citizens.

F. W. Peters, of the C.P.R., agreed with Mr. Shaw, as he thought it unfair to say that settlers need any help to protect their rights. Settlers coming to this country were treated fairly and generously, both by the Government and by the railways. He did not think it advisable to advertise any of the difficulties that arose in the west last winter, owing to the unprecedented weather conditions. He concluded by telling of some settlers whom he had seen in St. Paul last winter. They were bound for points on the Regina-Prince Albert branch of the C.N.R., which was then obliged to refuse settlers and their effects. He warned them not to start then, but they bought tickets for Regina, and on their arrival there could not go any farther north for a long time. What was to be done in such cases ? Were the railways to blame for the trouble into which these settlers rushed ?

H. W. Laird (Regina) said he had listened carefully to Messrs. Shaw and

B. W. WALLACE
Secretary Prince Albert Board of Trade and Secretary Western Canada Boards of Trade Association.

Peters, but had heard no valid reasons why the resolution should not be adopted. The trouble has not been confined to last winter, and it was not local to Regina. Settlers did not know their rights and were bluffed by company officials. In case of long delays they were entitled to food for themselves and fodder for their cattle, but they did not always know this and they did not know where to apply for redress.

Trouble often arose at transfer points, where passengers changed from one railway to another. In case of delay at such points, which railway was responsible ? At Regina last winter each railway disclaimed all responsibility for settlers stalled there waiting to go north. The settler should have information to guide him in all such cases and it should be contained in the immigration literature.

The resolution was carried.

Fuel Supply.

Saskatoon's fuel supply resolution came up again, having been left over from the previous day. In the course of the discussion, C.P.R. Superintendent Brownlee, of Moose Jaw, made some interesting observations. To show the serious nature of the problem he pointed out that each winter the Moose Jaw district required 300,000 tons of coal, or 10,000 cars. This meant 100 cars of coal every day for three months, and did not include railway coal. For this reason he urged strongly that dealers and public should lay in their stocks of coal during the summer months. There was no railway in the world but would sometimes be tied up for a short time, and therefore it was dangerous to keep within a few days' of a fuel shortage all the time.

The resolution as finally passed was as follows :

"Whereas, notwithstanding the fact that there are throughout the greater portions of the area of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan very large supplies of fuel, both wood and coal, conditions during the past winter were such that hardship prevailed throughout portions of both provinces for the reason that such fuel was not available at the points where needed at the period when most needed ;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this convention urges that every effort be made on the part of the Governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta to provide against the recurrence of such conditions and that the action already taken by the Provincial Governments with that end in view be heartily endorsed ; and also that this convention strongly urges upon all coal dealers and consumers of coal in general to stock up with supplies for winter use, while the railway companies are in a better position to transport the same."

Transportation.

J. E. Bradshaw, on behalf of the Prince Albert Board, introduced a resolution dealing with transportation, calling upon the proper authorities of the Dominion Government "to enact such legislation as will enable and compel all railway companies to issue single ,or return tickets between points on the railway system of Canada at a uniform rate as to mileage and by such route as may suit the wish and convenience of the passenger paying for such transportation in advance."

H. W. Laird (Regina) vigorously opposed the resolution. He contended that in a new country where we have so much to ask from the railways we should not waste time in asking for what we can't possibly expect to get. The resolution was unfair in any case, for a railway should be allowed to follow business principles.

After considerable discussion by Messrs. McKenzie (Edmonton), Shaw, (C.N.R.), and Saunders, (Moose Jaw), the resolution was defeated.

G. Stockand, on behalf of the Edmonton Board, introduced another transportation resolution, to which the railway officials voiced no objection and which met with a better fate than that of Prince Albert :

"Whereas, the development of western Canada for several years past has been very much greater than the development of the transportation facilities therein ;

"And, whereas, the railroad companies seem to be utterly incapable of providing proper and reasonable transportation facilities for keeping pace with the growth of the western provinces ;

"And, whereas, great delay in the further opening up of the unsettled portions of the territories and great consequent damages ensue to the western provinces thereby;

"And, whereas, the result of the inadequate transportation facilities has been during the past year that the crop of 1906 remained unsold by reason of the inability of the railway companies to forward the same to market, resulting in a great stringency in the money markets and consequent injury to business interests all over the country;

"Therefore, in the opinion of the Associated Boards of Trade, the Government of Canada should take prompt and effective measures to compel the railroads at present operating in western Canada to provide greater transportation facilities, in order that the products of the country may be quickly moved to market, and that the traveling public may be accommodated and merchandise moved forward quickly to points of consignment."

Mr. Laird congratulated the Edmonton delegates on their comprehensive resolution, which he was prepared to support most heartily. W. W. Rutan, (Melfort), referred to some sad experiences through delayed freight, and there were sympathetic murmurs around the room. The resolution was carried unanimously, Navigation of the Saskatchewan.

The west is anxious to see the north and south Saskatchewan rivers put to some use, and a resolution, fathered by J. E. Bradshaw, of Prince Albert, and Mayor Cousins, of Medicine Hat, urging action by the Dominion Government met with an enthusiastic reception from most of the delegates. The recommendation that express rates have been overlooked the Dominion Government be memorialized to take steps to fully prove the economic possibilities of the Saskatchewan river for purposes of navigation, by employing the most capable engineer obtainable, with special training and knowledge in such work, to survey the river from 100 miles west of Edmonton to Lake Winnipeg, and to prepare plans, specifications and estimates of the improvements needed and their cost."

Wm. Pearce (Calgary) was inclined to throw cold water on the resolution, as he was convinced the river could not be made navigable. Moreover, rivers could not compete with railways, and in his opinion were of little use as arteries of commerce. It was pointed out by Mayor Cook, of Prince Albert, that the Dominion Government commenced this work two years ago and that the North Saskatchewan was surveyed from Edmonton to Battleford. This resolution merely asked to have the work completed and to have the South Saskatchewan included in it.

Mr. Laird thought that an investigation into the feasibility of the route could do no harm. Canal and river routes in the United States have had a regulating effect on freight rates and for that reason they were important.

The resolution was carried.

Hudson's Bay Railway.

Prince Albert and other towns in the northern part of Saskatchewan are much interested in the proposed Hudson's Bay Railway and each year at the conventions a resolution in favor of the building of the road has been presented. This year Mayor Cook, of Prince Albert, asked the convention to call upon the Dominion Government to build the road as a national undertaking. He quoted authorities to show the feasibility of the route and dilated at length on the advantages that would follow the successful operation of the route.

Jas. Clinkskill (Saskatoon) warmly supported the resolution. He suggested that the road should be built from some point in the southern part of the country, in order that it might be a competing road, regulating the rates of other roads which would be feeders to it.

G. H. Shaw, of the C.N.R. thought the route feasible. The straits were open for about 18 to 20 weeks in the year, at the time when additional facilities are most required for transporting the crops. If the straits should prove impassable and the route impracticable, he would favor shipping across the bay to the Labrador peninsula, and the building of a railway across the Labrador peninsula to a port on the Atlantic coast.

lution and after a long discussion it was left over until after lunch. As finally passed, the resolution read as follows:

"That in the opinion of this convention the future prosperity of this great western country, and of Canada as a whole, largely depends on cheap transportation, and that as the Hudson's Bay is the natural outlet, and in our opinion is a perfectly feasible route, the Dominion Government be and are hereby urged to take such steps as will ensure at the earliest possible date the completion of a railway connecting the railway systems of western Canada with Fort Churchill, on the Hudson's Bay."

Express Rates.

E. M. Saunders (Moose Jaw) brought up the burning question of express rates in a resolution commending the Railway Commission for its announced decision to investigate express rates and protesting that rates are much too high as compared with rates in eastern Canada and the United States. He said that express rates been been overlooked in the west because of the concentration of attention on freight charges, but that no question demanded more urgent action. He quoted figures showing a great disparity in rates in the west as compared with rates in eastern Canada and the United States.

H. W. Laird supported the resolution in a speech which bristled with statistics. He proved conclusively that rates in the west are much higher than in the east, and that there is a disparity in rates between the Dominion Express Co. and the Canadian Northern Express Co. His speech carried the convention by storm and the resolution was carried.

Transportation Again.

A resolution, introduced by J. E. Bradshaw (Prince Albert) in favor of compelling the railways to make the same rates of charge for short hauls as for long was defeated, after a short discussion. Mr. Laird opposed the resolution as being unfair to the railway companies and not good business.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Convention Memorializes Dominion Government Regarding Lumber Combine.

Hugh McKellar (Moose Jaw) in a brief and forcible speech called attention to the alleged lumber combine and the rising price of lumber. It was the plain duty of the Dominion Government, he urged, to take effective steps to remedy the evil. His resolution was seconded by Mr. Rorison, of Moose Jaw, and carried unanimously. It was as follows:

"Whereas, the commission appointed by the Dominion Government to investigate the reported lumber combine has reported that a lumber combine does exist;

"And whereas the price of lumber is still increasing;

"And whereas the present price of lumber is prohibiting the necessary building operations in our provinces and presses heavily upon homesteaders and new settlers;

"Resolved, that the Dominion Government be memorialized to promptly take such action as will give a measure of relief to settlers from the present excessive cost of lumber."

Reciprocal Demurrage.

For some months past the Winnipeg Shippers' and Jobbers' Association have been carrying on an active campaign to have established the principle of reciprocal demurrage, whereby the railways shall be liable for damages in every case when there are undue delays in the shipment of or delivery of freight. The co-operation of the boards of trade throughout the west has been sought by the Winnipeg association and a resolution along the lines of the recommendations of that association was introduced at the convention by Messrs. Stockand and McKenzie, of Edmonton.

H. W. Laird (Regina) opposed the resolution on the ground that the delegates had not sufficient data at their disposal to enable them to arrive at an intelligent conclusion.

"This resolution," he continued, "involves much more than any other that has yet come up for our consideration. It is engaging the attention of commercial bodies all over the continent, and very few business men yet see their way clearly."

The speaker stated that the resolution had come up for consideration by the Regina Board of Trade and had been referred to the Transportation Committee, who agreed that, while there are conditions that require a remedy, it is by no means certain that this is the best solution. Reciprocal demurrage would involve far-reaching results. For instance, it might complicate the fuel situation. Various interests—wheat, coal, beef, etc.—clamor for cars, and the enforcement of reciprocal demurrage might jeopardize many important industries.

"We don't come here for the fun of the thing," concluded Mr. Laird. "We are not passing resolutions for fun, and it is, therefore, our plain duty to be careful in a matter of such importance as this. If we haven't looked into this matter as closely as we should, we should not take a leap in the dark. Remember that the decision of this board will have due consideration from the Railway Commission. I don't say that reciprocal demurrage might not be a good thing, might not, in fact, be the solution of our difficulties, but I do say that we should not endorse the principle until we thoroughly understand all that it involves."

R. J. Hutchings, of Calgary, took the same stand as Mr. Laird, and on motion of Messrs. Bradshaw and Saunders the resolution was given a 12 months' hoist. The railway representatives were not present during the discussion of this resolution, not having returned from lunch.

Telegraph Service.

Mr. Stockand (Edmonton) fathered an important resolution relating to telegraph tolls in western Canada, and protesting against the difference. Mr. Bradshaw (Prince Albert), in seconding the resolution, referred to a speech at the last session of the Senate by Hon. T. O. Davis, and as the latter was present at the convention he was asked to speak. In the course of an interesting address, Hon. Mr. Davis quoted figures to show that the west is charged 75 cents to $1 for the same service that costs the Ontario man 25 to 30 cents. And in spite of the high tolls the west was not getting a proper service for the reason that the C.P. and C.N. telegraph companies subordinated their commercial messages to the messages of the railway companies.

The following resolution was carried amid loud applause:

"Whereas the telegraph service in the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan has heretofore been largely in the hands of the railway companies;

"And whereas the railway companies have so administered such service that the commercial telegraph service has been compelled to take second place to the railways' private business;

"And whereas such service has been entirely unsatisfactory to the mercantile interests;

"And whereas the rates have been very much greater than rates charged in the older settled provinces, notwithstanding the fact that the railway companies have, in respect of such telegraph service, had practically a monopoly in respect thereof and have had greater proportionate returns therefrom than in the older settled provinces;

"Therefore, in the opinion of this convention, it is highly desirable that the Government of Canada should take such steps as will result in giving a better and cheaper telegraph service to these provinces, and to that end it is recommended that the Government itself should perfect and extend its telegraph service, now extending as far west as Edmonton, and that the telegraph companies be compelled to provide commercial wires, whereon no business whatever of the railway shall be transacted, and in respect of which telegraph operators shall be compelled to immediately forward all messages received for that purpose."

Insurance Rates.

J. W. Cunningham (Edmonton) introduced an important resolution dealing with fire insurance rates:

"Whereas it has been felt in the mercantile interest in western Canada that the rates for fire insurance were unreasonably high, and that the fire insurance companies have, in order to recoup themselves for losses sustained elsewhere, maintained, and propose to maintain, such rates as are an unreasonably high figure;

"And whereas the Government of New Zealand has inaugurated and has in operation a system of Government fire insurance which has worked greatly to the advantage of that country;

"Therefore, in the opinion of this convention, it is desirable that an investigation should be made by the Provincial Governments of the advantages surrounding the operation of Government insurance."

He took the reasonable ground that some investigation of the situation was necessary in view of the general feeling throughout the west that the rates charged in western Canada are excessive. The Edmonton rate had been steadily climbing up in spite of big improvements in their fire protection facilities and they wanted to know the reason. A system of Government fire insurance would provide some means of regulating rates.

This resolution was seconded by E. M. Saunders (Moose Jaw) and carried unanimously.

Flag Stations.

G. Stockand (Edmonton) drew attention to the flag station abuse. Numerous flag stations are maintained throughout the west at points which are now important business centres. As there are no agents at these stations all freight to these points has to be prepaid, and great inconvenience results. Mr. Stockand's resolution called the attention of the Railway Commission to this matter, and asked that the railways be compelled to appoint agents for all flag stations. The resolution was seconded by Mr. Chappelle, of Borden, Sask.

Mr. Laird argued that the resolution was so sweeping as to be unreasonable. There was a regular procedure to be adopted to get an agent for a flag station, he said, and he himself had known of many instances in which the railways had appointed agents for points where the business did not warrant the expense. He introduced an amendment providing that freight might be sent to flag stations and left there in a locked warehouse for 48 hours at the risk of the owner, the key of the warehouse to be kept at some convenient place. The amended resolution was carried.

Labor Shortage.

J. W. Cunningham (Edmonton) had the courage to father an important resolution dealing with the dangerous and delicate topic of labor shortage in the west. He took the ground that the prosperity of the country depends upon the development of her resources and that that development is being retarded by the scarcity in the west of skilled and unskilled labor. The resolution called upon the Dominion Government to encourage the immigration of skilled and unskilled labor.

The speaker pointed out that manufacturers and railway companies are being hampered in their development by the scarcity of labor and contended that in spite of the sure displeasure of the labor unions this convention should give the Government some information as to the true state of affairs.

R. J. Hutchings supported the resolution emphatically, as did Mr. Harlow, of Medicine Hat.

H. W. Laird (Regina) questioned the scarcity of skilled labor so far as Saskatchewan was concerned. He believed in letting the laws of supply and demand work their own effect. Messrs. Mills (Strathcona) and Fisher (Edmonton) supported the resolution in strong, effective speeches and it was finally carried.

The convention then adjourned to allow the delegates to take in the excursion on the river.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SESSION.

Roads to be Controlled by Government Appointed Commission.

At the night session F. T. Fisher (Edmonton) and W. L. Ouimette (Red Deer) brought in an important resolution dealing with good roads and affirming the principle that the making and maintenance of such roads should no longer be left to statute labor, but should be under direct control of a good roads commissioner appointed by the Government. The resolution was as follows:

"Whereas good roads for the ordinary vehicular traffic of the country are of the utmost importance and have at all times in the past been of the most vital importance to the interests of the country at large;

"And whereas in the opening up of new territory the construction of good roads on proper lines is, from the point of view of ultimate economy, of greatest importance;

"Therefore, to promote the welfare of the country at large, this convention would respectfully recommend:

"1. That a full and careful enquiry be made as to the best methods of constructing roads, applicable to the several sections of country.

"2. That a comprehensive plan of road-making be laid down by the Government which shall be observed in all work to be undertaken by the Government or by the local improvement districts.

"3. That complete plans thereof be made and each local improvement district be furnished with the plans and specifications required in the carrying out of a general good roads undertaking on the part of the provinces.

"4. That a good roads commissioner be appointed to oversee the actual construction and in particular to superintend the expenditure made in this behalf by the local improvement districts, and that a less costly administration of local improvement districts be provided.

"5. That in addition to, or in conjunction with, the roads furnished by the regular system of surveys adopted pursuant to the Dominion Lands Act, main roads passing through the country and affording a direct roadway between important centres, be maintained and improved.

"6. That in addition to the foregoing, roadways for the beautification of the provinces and for scenic beauty be laid out, reference being had to the advantages of the largest rivers and mountain driveways, with the ultimate intention of procuring roadways which shall be of advantage to tourists and others who may use the motor conveyances now coming into such general use and who would be enabled thereby to take the benefit of the natural and other parks now being set apart for the public enjoyment."

The appointment of a good roads commissioner Mr. Fisher considered the most important point in the resolution. Statute labor was a relic of the middle ages and should not be tolerated in western Canada in the twentieth century. He quoted figures to show the great waste in the collection of local improvement taxes by the municipalities and contended that the waste in their expenditure was greater than in their collection. In his opinion, the experience of Ontario showed clearly that the appointment of a good roads commissioner was the proper solution of the difficulty.

The resolution was strongly supported by Messrs. Ouimette and Mills and carried unanimously.

Mr. Cross of Calgary introduced a resolution of particular interest to the Alberta contingent. It was as follows:

"Whereas, it is advisable and in the interests of the live stock producers and meat consumers of Canada that independent live stock markets be established in Canada, where stock men will be assured that in consigning all classes of stock they will be sold in an open market;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this Convention of Associated Boards of Trade requests the Canadian Government assisted by the Provincial Governments and by the various Canadian railroads, to carefully inquire into the matter of establishing by subsidy or otherwise independent live stock markets in Canada, in the east and in the west."

This resolution was unanimously carried.

Railway Officials Thanked.

At this juncture the railway officials prepared to leave and on motion of Mr. Saunders a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to them for their attendance at the convention.

In a characteristic speech Mr. Shaw acknowledged the vote of thanks.

"We have departed from our usual course to-day," said he. "As a usual thing we never explain. Our friends do not need any explanations from us and our enemies won't believe them. Good night, gentlemen."

Mr. Peters said he was glad to have had an opportunity to attend and he hoped some misapprehensions had been cleared away. He was a thorough believer in such gatherings of business men and was sorry there were not more of them. Superintendent Brownlee also acknowledged the vote of thanks in a few suitable words.

CONCLUDING SESSION.

Increased Local Powers of Self-government Wanted.

At the concluding session of the convention Jas. Clinkskill (Saskatoon) and Mayor Cook of Prince Albert brought in an important resolution in favor of greater local powers of self-government. The resolution explains itself and was carried enthusiastically. It was as follows:

"Whereas, the settlement of the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta has proceeded with such unexampled and gratifying rapidity that the powers and functions entrusted to local improvement districts are found inadequate to the wants of the people;

"Therefore, this Convention of Associated Board of Trade respectfully urges upon the respective Governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta that the better-settled portions of the provinces referred to be divided into municipalities, with full or modified powers."

Redemption of Bank Notes.

R. J. Hutchings in a brief speech brought to the attention of the convention Calgary's hardy annual relating to the redemption of bank notes. It was adopted after a short discussion.

"Resolved, that the Dominion Government be asked to nominate, in each of the new provinces, a point of redemption for the notes of the Canadian chartered banks, and to appoint deputies of the Receiver-General to reside at such points, so that Saskatchewan and Alberta may be placed on the same footing as the other provinces of the Dominion in this respect."

Reforestation.

Secretary A. G. Harrison of the Edmonton Board of Trade was responsible for an important resolution relating to reforestation and urging upon the Governments their responsibility in regard to this. Wm. Pearce supported the resolution in a strong speech and it was carried unanimously.

Hospitals.

A resolution in favor of State aid to hospitals was brought in by Messrs. Miller and Pearce and carried after some debate. The Calgary delegation also secured the adoption of the following:

"Whereas, it is of the greatest importance that public general hospitals be erected and maintained in the highest efficiency at all the leading centres throughout the provinces;

"Therefore, be it resolved that, in the opinion of this Convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada, it is advisable that all local improvement districts or municipalities be given the option of levying and collecting a special hospital rate, not exceeding one per cent. per acre, the proceeds of such tax rate to be granted to any hospital or hospitals, as the council of the municipality or local improvement district levying such rate may direct."

Telephones.

On motion of K. W. McKenzie of Edmonton the following resolution in favor of publicly-owned telephone systems was passed unanimously:

"That this convention express their hearty approval of the action of the Alberta Government in so far as they have already gone towards giving effect to the principle of Government ownership and operation of telephone systems along lines advocated by this association at every convention since its organization, and the attention of the Government of Saskatchewan is respectfully drawn to the very great benefit that would accrue by the adoption of a similar policy in that province, which would not only be of great service to Saskatchewan, but would greatly augment the usefulness of the system now being established in Alberta."

Postal Service.

F. T. Fisher (Edmonton) brought up the question of inefficient mail service. He believed the department were reasonably anxious to provide a good service, but they did not realize the rapid growth of the western country. His resolution was designed to bring it to their attention, and was as follows:

"Whereas, the postal and mail service in the new and rapidly settling portions of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan has not been adequate to the requirements of the public;

"And, whereas, the administration of such service upon the basis of making the same revenue-producing may be highly desirable in respect to an old and well settled country but is, nevertheless, highly detrimental to the opening up and settlement of new territory;

"Therefore, the Government of Canada is respectfully requested to provide more adequate postal and mail service throughout new portions of the west in the course of settlement, without having regard in every instance that the same should be self-sustaining."

Carried.

Ports of Entry.

J. L. Crawford (Red Deer) succeeded in securing approval of a resolution in favor of an increased number of ports of entry throughout Alberta and Saskatchewan in order to facilitate the handling of goods through customs.

Grading of Oats.

Alberta believes that she produces the best oats in the world and her delegates at the convention wanted a resolution in favor of the establishment of a special grade for Alberta oats. Saskatchewan delegates disputed the claim and the debate soon degenerated into good-natured boosting of various western centres by the delegates representing them. The resolution was voted down.

Townsites.

The following resolution with reference to the establishing of townsites was introduced by K. W. McKenzie and carried unanimously :

"Whereas, at the present time large areas of land are being subdivided into townsites, and a large number of new townsites formed ;

"And whereas, the benefit that is received by the private individual is such as to justify a reasonable protection to the public in respect thereof ;

"And, whereas, it is, in the opinion of this convention, reasonable and fair that such should be done ;

Therefore, it is recommended as follows :

"1. That no such division for the purposes of a townsite should be permitted unless the location of such townsite is in respect of the area of land most suitable therefor in the particular locality.

"2. That the subdivision should be such as to most readily lend itself to the proper and sanitary draining of the townsite area.

"3. That streets and lanes of ample width should be provided.

"4. That parks and squares for schools and public buildings should be dedicated for the public use.

"5. That such portion of the area involved as most readily lends itself thereto should be reserved and set apart for parks, and in particular that ravines or water frontages should be preserved therefor."

Division.

The last resolution was submitted by Messrs. Pearce and Weir, who frankly stated that they did not expect it to carry. It was in favor of separation into two associations on provincial lines. It did not meet with favor and was voted down by a large majority.

Medicine Hat Next Year.

Invitations were extended from Medicine Hat, Red Deer, Moose Jaw and Indian Head for the next convention, and Medicine Hat was chosen.

Votes of thanks to Prince Albert city and Board of Trade, to Retiring President R. J. Hutchings and Retiring Secretary F. T. Fisher were carried amid great enthusiasm.

CONVENTION NOTES.

Medicine Hat next year !

The largest convention on record !

"Scotty" Westwood's "lynx" is worth a trip to Prince Albert to see.

The attendance of the railway officials was a good feature of the convention.

The delegates were from all parts of the west, and they were practically unanimous in their optimism as to this season's crop.

Secretary Wallace was the hardest worked man at the convention, and great credit is due to him for the success of the convention.

The excusions on the Alberta on the afternoons of Wednesday and Thursday were rare treats. The scenery on the Saskatchewan rivals the Thousand Islands.

The smoker in the city hall on Tuesday night was an immense success, but it is whispered that K. W. McKenzie, of Edmonton, albeit a good Scot, has sworn off porridge forever.

Mr. Laird made a hit in his speech moving a vote of thanks to Prince Albert city, Board of Trade and citizens for the hospitality shown the delegates. He has the happy faculty of saying the right thing in the right way.

Too much credit cannot be given F. J. Fisher, of Edmonton, who, as secretary of the Associated Boards last year, was responsible for a vigorous follow-up system, which simply would not permit the Alberta and Saskatchewan Governments to overlook the resolutions passed last year. That Mr. Fisher's painstaking work was appreciated was shown by the enthusiasm with which the vote of thanks to the retiring secretary was greeted.

When the discussion came up as to the relative merits of Alberta and Saskatchewan oats, the popular mayor of Medicine Hat was on his feet in a hurry. "We don't want to hear from you, Billy," said Mr. Weir, from Strathcona. "The only oats you ever sowed were wild ones." Amid the laughter that followed, Mayor Cousins had difficulty in making his point clear. It is worthy of note that he opposed the Alberta resolution. His was the only vote not cast on straight provincial lines.

"There is nothing in this sinful, jealour, spiteful world so touching," said Secretary Weir, of Strathcona, "as the sublime and tender love of Strathcona and Edmonton for each other."

"Nothing at all except the love of Moose Jaw and Regina," added a Moose Jaw delegate, sotto voce.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., June 25, 1907.

The weather lately has been ideal and both retail and wholesale merchants report business brisk. There has been but slight change in prices of staples ; but meats of all kinds are higher than for many years. The wholesale quotations for fresh beef are 10 to 11 cents and the retail prices run from 20 to 30 cents for choice cuts. Veal, lamb, and all kinds of poultry are likewise high and a storm of protest has been heard from consumers, but all to no purpose.

The reasons given for the unusually high prices are that feed of all kinds is scarce and high and many of the stock owners killed their beef early in the winter, rather than keep them through the season at the excessive price of feeding. The shortage of hay is one reason given for the unusual prices; it is now selling at $22 to $24 a ton.

BUTTER AND EGGS.—Butter and eggs are a little easier. The former is selling at 18 to 22 cents a pound in tubs and 20 to 23 cents in rolls. Hennery eggs are worth from 18 to 20 cents and case eggs 16 and 17 cents a dozen.

POTATOES.—Potatoes are being held at $2.25 to $2.50 a barrel, wholesale. Rhubarb is plentiful at 1½ to 2 cents a pound.

SUGAR.—Sugar is a little easier in the Canadian market, but dealers say that the price still holds in foreign markets and they look for even higher prices before long.

FLOUR.—Flour and meals are about the same figure as previously reported. Manitobas are quoted at from $5.35 to $5.85 a barrel and Ontarios at $4.70 to $5. Oatmeal is selling at $5.25 to $5.35 and cornmeal at $4 to $4.10 a barrel.

FISH.—In the fish market, shad are about done, and salmon are coming in more plentiful, the price dropping to 14 or 15 cents a pound.

A. P. Taylor, of the Taylor Soap Works, Toronto, manufacturers of Eclipse and other brands of laundry soaps, as well as toilet soaps and perfumery, was in the provinces for a couple of weeks, calling on the trade with the local representative, Mr. Forrestall. It was Mr. Taylor's first visit to the provinces and he enjoyed his trip very much.

W. A. Craven, representing Cebas & Souborn, the cofffe firm, was in the city last week, calling upon the trade.

The community was greatly shocked on Friday last when word was received that the river steamer Crystal Stream had been burned at Cole's Island and that four of the crew had been burned to death and other members of the crew had received very painful burns. The steamer was owned by D. J. Purdy, M.P.P., the grocer in the north end, and was valued at $22,500. A large quantity of freight, consisting of hay, potatoes, butter, etc., was destroyed.

The work of excavating for the new cold storage plant on Main Street is now under way and building operations will be rushed ahead as quickly as possible.

A SPLENDID CONVENTION.

Since its birth in Calgary in the summer of 1904, the organization known as the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada has grown mightily in influence and power, and the convention held in Prince Albert last week was the largest and most successful on record. The western boards sent to this convention their brightest and ablest business men, and at no stage of the proceedings did the delegates fail to remember their responsibilities as representatives of the business interests of the two new western provinces. Just so long as serious questions are debated and considered in this serious way will the findings of the associated boards continue to have weight with the Provincial Governments. Retiring President Hutchings, in the course of his annual address, reviewed the work of the last year and was able to point with satisfaction to the fact that several important resolutions passed by the convention held in Edmonton last year have already been embodied in legislation, while several others are receiving the serious consideration of the Provincial Governments. They would be rash legislators who would ignore the sober sentiment of the business men of the west as expressed at these annual gatherings and it is not surprising to find the legislatures of Saskatchewan and Alberta shaping their legislation in accordance with the recommendations of the Western Business Men's Parliament.

There can be no doubt that the prestige and influence of the associated boards have been increased by the fact that both provinces are represented at this annual gathering. In spite of the division made two years ago by the Autonomy Bill, the interests of the two provinces are essentially the same. The Associated Boards of Trade is now the only connecting link between the two provinces and the convention showed good sense in voting by an overwhelming majority to retain the present organization.

HEAVY EGG PRODUCTION.

He who undertakes to corner the working hen must expect to step lively. Only a few years ago Mr. Armour took a fall out of the hen. He bought eggs. But the hens on both sides of the line laid eggs faster than even Mr. Armour could buy them, and he dropped a million dollars somewhere in the scramble. The question in the egg world to-day is, how many eggs are there? In other words, what has the hen been doing? Toronto is now probably the largest egg emporium in Canada. When eggs were exported Montreal held the palm. A Toronto egg man said to The Canadian Grocer the other day that there were three times as many eggs stored in Toronto now as there were this time last year. He was not speaking with that fine regard for exactness which characterizes his statements under oath, or, perhaps, was misled by the increase in his own business, and so overstated the case—or cases. He was right in principle. There are a good many more eggs stored in Toronto than there were a year ago; how many more no one knows. Other storage centres are probably similarly situated. Last year the egg business was encouragingly profitable on a very high level of prices, and in commerce, as elsewhere, success begets adventure.

Not only are storage stocks larger than ever before, but consumption from week to week has been at a rate unprecedented. Not only has the Canadian hen been at work, but her numbers have been augmented by the thrifty farmer taking his cue from the high prices last year.

The statistical position in the United States is equally interesting. W. C. Taber, in The Egg Reporter, estimates the egg receipts at the four leading centres—New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia—from March 1st to June 1st, at 4,861,180 cases, as against 3,859,838 cases during the same time last year; an increase of 1,001,342 cases, or nearly one-third. The storage stocks at the same centres on June 1st are placed at 2,109,000 cases, as against 1,248,000 cases a year ago; an increase of 861,000 cases, or over two-thirds. Contracts for future delivery are now being made at Buffalo at 13c.

THE POTATO SITUATION.

The slump in potatoes that occurred last week on the Toronto market has injured, to a greater or less extent, every potato man on the street, with the exception of one or two who were fortunate enough to have got rid of all their stocks previous to the sharp decline. Ontario stock figured very little in the supplies with which the market was flooded. The New Brunswick farmers who have probably for some weeks been clinging to the hope of a two dollar market, finally decided that the prices then ruling would not go up and might go down. They knew very little of what stocks were held by the growers in Ontario and Quebec and at what moment these stocks might be unloaded onto a market already well stocked. They apparently determined to be on the safe side and not be caught napping. Had they hung on a little bit longer their expectations of a rising market might have been realized. As it is they have cleared out at prices ranging from $1.45 to $1.75, which, on the whole, is better than they did last year.

One thing is certain. The decline cannot by any stretch of imagination be attributed to an overflow of new potatoes. The first arrivals of Canadian new potatoes have yet to put in an appearance, and by that time, according to the present outlook, they will be three weeks behind the initial shipment of last year.

POLITENESS.

Politeness is about as profitable as any part of a grocer's capital. Combined with good nature, energy and judgment, a combination results that is hard to beat. The shrewd man will not confine his politeness to customers. He will be courteous with his clerks. If he must find fault he won't do it before customers; for two reasons—it won't have as good an effect on the clerk and it will make the customer uncomfortable.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Canned Lobsters—Firm.
Currants—Interesting figures.

Montreal, June 27, 1907.

Business during the past month has not been satisfactory to everyone in the grocery business. Jobbers, some of them, say that they expected better things of June, and that they did not realize as they anticipated. Others, however, seem satisfied with their turnover. Present business transactions are normal. The markets are featureless, speaking generally. Collections are fair.

Sugar is steady and fair business is being done. Molasses is still being delivered at unchanged prices. In canned goods there is a continued scarcity, canned lobsters being extremely scarce. Teas continue interesting. Currants are slow locally. Some interesting figures regarding the crop are given in this market. Quotations on valencia raisins have been made. Prunes are a quarter cent higher. Evaporated apples are slow. Beans are very firm.

SUGAR.—The market is steady, with sales of average size. There is nothing in the market worthy of particular notice this week.

TEA.—During the week there has been more or less activity in teas. Japans are of interest to the trade still. Very little has been heard of second crop teas so far, but first crop, such import orders as have arrived, seem to be giving satisfaction, while it appears that there is no trouble in placing the few lots of consigned teas received. There is nothing of note in Ceylons or Indians.

FOREIGN DIED FRUITS.—Offers have been made on new crop valenica raisins, but the figures given out are not any longer quoted. At the time, four crown layers were offering at a price which would bring the retailer's cost to something between 7c and 8c. Buyers seemed reserved, however, awaiting reports from Denia before doing anything. The valencia price mentioned is about 2¾c lower than the equivalent in California raisins. The California three crown would be about its equal. Currants were last week advanced 3d, probably owing to exchange more than anything else. The currants selling now are practically all Government stock. Figures to hand show that the estimated production of currants for 1906-07 was 280,000,000 lbs., while there was carried over from the season before 6,500,000 lbs., making the stock 286,500,000 lbs. To June 1 there had been exported 218,100,000 lbs., while there was held by the Government some 64,200,000 lbs., leaving a surplus of 3,000,000 lbs. It must be considered that much of the Government stock is used up, without being sold. It is estimated that there is about 7,000,000 lbs. available for export before the new crop. Writing under date of June 1 a prominent Grecian house states that the new crop depends entirely upon the weather for the next two or three weeks. At the time of writing the prospect was none too bright, there being experienced continually rainy weather. Under favorable conditions the writer estimates a crop of 160,000 tons, or 30,000 tons more than last year. Prunes have been advanced a quarter cent. They are selling freely. Dealers have been after new nuts for fall but quotations have been too high to warrant the transaction of any business worth while.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL — Canned lobsters are scarce and it is doubtful whether the canners will have much stock left for transient trade after they have filled contracts. They are now filling orders booked. Prices are high and one house, at least, is not offering at all until they supply those customers whose orders are now on their books. The scarcity in most lines continues noticeable, and it appears that there will not be enough stock in certain varieties to carry through to new crop.

TORONTO—If accurate figures for stocks of canned tomatoes held in the wholesale centres of Canada were available the entire trade wouldn't mind missing some sleep to read them. Alas, they're not, and surmise must take the place of satisfying fact. Certain it is that consumption is very heavy. At this time of year fresh vegetabkes are usually plentiful. This year they are not and the tin can must sustain the demand. What the final result of these two or three additional weeks of heavy consumption will be in reducing stocks is making every jobber think hard, but none will hazard a guess, further than that the carryover will be light. The immediate question is, will there be any? The sentiment would indicate that there will be a little. Futures are claiming attention, too. The question is what of the crops? One large packer is already sold up as far as it is safe to go at present.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:

Sugar—Firmer.
Canned Goods—The feature.
Tapioca—Firmer again.
Strawberries—Canadians in.
Potatoes—Much lower.
Tomatoes—Lower.
Lemons—Going higher.

Toronto, June 27, 1907.

The grocery trade is less active this week. This June will not measure up to June of last year, and the weather, which carries so many faults, must shoulder this also. A year ago there was an active sugar trade, but the entire absence of fruit at a reasonable price has brought consumption to the low point for this time of the year. Though retailers must be getting pretty low in sugar they are not yet in the market. Canned goods are the feature of what trade is at present passing. The lateness of the season delaying the crop of fresh vegetables is making a heavy drain upon stocks, and the opinion now prevails that there will be a very small, if any, carry over. This, with the reasonable doubt attaching to the coming crop, makes for a strong situation. Sugar is stronger but the wholesale trade here does not feet very optimistic about it. With Canadian berries commencing to arrive much heavier consumption must ensue. Prunes are still an active feature, and canned salmon is in demand. Some wholesalers report considerable export business in domestic tinned meats. Tapioca is again in a very strong position.

TEA — Trade is quiet here. Quality has gone off and buying is from hand to mouth. This market is nearly bare of cheap teas. A London mail advice says:

"The poor quality on offer, both from India and Ceylon, is gradually drawing attention to the best liquoring descriptions, and for the first time for some months a steady tone has been noticeable in the latter, to the disadvantage of the commoner grades. It is to be hoped that this tendency will continue, for a comparison with the rates obtainable at this time last year shows that, while ordinary Pekoe Souchong is realizing fully 2½d. per lb. more, good teas are selling at from 1½d. to 2d. per lb. less than in June, 1906."

COFFEE — Trade here is on an even keel. Prices appear to be unaffected by the valorization scheme, or the tales, classed by leading firms as "common humbug," of its failure.

SUGAR — The market, after developing weakness, has firmed up somewhat. The weakness was caused by unusually heavy arrivals of Cuban sugars at Amermican ports following previous heavy receipts to refiners which, with the longshoremen's strike and restricted consumption owing to the delayed fruit season, caused congestion. Concessions of ¼c. resulted. Since then the firmer tone has appeared, and indications are that the worst is over for the time being. In Cuba, at last reports, there were only four centrals grinding, the crop season being practically over. Europe, also, shows some recovery, latest quotations being 9s. 9d. for 88 per cent. beet f.o.b. Hamburg, equivalent to 4.04 for centrifugals 96 degrees test. A later reported sale of centrifugals was at 3.75 duty paid New York, showing a fractional advance of 4c. per hundred pounds over previous transactions. It will be noted that the disparity in favor of cane sugar is about 30c. per 100 lbs., and with beets firmly held it is extremely unlikely there will be any recession in canes. The condition of the market for some time past has been seriously affected by the cold weather, but that having been superseded we may look for a large increase in consumption of refined sugars. Taken altogether, the outlook at the present time is much better than for some weeks past. Stocks in United States four ports for the week ending June 19 were 425,246 tons, as compared with 354,541 tons at the same time last year. Meltings for some weeks past have averaged 43,000 tons, as compared with 46,000 tons for the corresponding period of 1906, which bears out the reports of largely decreased consumption, but it is expected the figures will shortly be reversed.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

GALT.

Emmerson Cunningham, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham, North Water St., was drowned at the power-house dam on the Grand River on Monday evening. The father of the drowned boy is employed with Sheldon & Co.

Canadian strawberries made their first appearance here to-day. They are of good quality and retail at 20 cents per box. It is expected that next week will see the berry season in full swing. The reports received in this quarter are indicative of the fact that the crop will be larger than for some years past. Galt is located almost in the centre of a great berry district, but this fact does not appear to lessen the price to the consumer, as the price very seldom goes as low as five cents per box.

The butter market in Galt is very weak at present. There are enormous quantities offered for sale and the price ranges from 15 to 20 cents per pound, a drop of ten cents in two weeks. Galt is a recognized butter market, and it is very seldom that the supply becomes so much larger than the demand, as it is the case at present.

"Notwithstanding the backwardness of the season, and the consequent loss of the fruit trade which is usually very large during the month of June," said Mr. Alex. Sloan, of the firm of Sloan Bros., to-day, "the grocery business is fully up to that of recent years. There has been a lot of talk about failure of the fruit and grain crops, owing to the backward season, but the farmers with whom I have conversed, inform me that while crops of all kinds will certainly be late, there promises to be larger crops than in previous years. It is strange," continued Mr. Sloan, "how these unfounded rumors gain such a wide circulation. While the farmers are well pleased with the season's prospects, the residents of the towns and cities are worrying themselves seriously over the farmers' prospects. Strange, isn't it?"

A local grocer in being interviewed by your correspondent to-day was asked if there was much price-cutting among the grocers in Galt. "Not a bit, not a bit," was his decided answer. "The grocers in Galt," he said, "pull together more harmoniously than in any town in Western Ontario. Why shouldn't we? We recognize the fact that an agreeable understanding is in the interests of trade, and for that reason we try to act in unison. More than one business has been ruined by indiscriminate price-cutting, and personally, I would rather dispose of my business than engage in price-cutting, such as I have witnessed in other towns. The classes and the masses unite for mutual protection and advancement, and why should not, the grocers do likewise?" The above remarks are certainly very much in favor of the organizing of a branch of the Retail Grocers' Association in Galt.

New potatoes are being imported with the result that the old variety which were selling as high as $1.50 per bag have dropped in price considerably.

The railroads have evidently taken cognizance of the complaints by Galt grocers, as goods are now arriving more promptly.

The shortage of houses in Galt still continues and emigrants have frequently to be furnished with quarters in the town hall.

The grocery store of Mr. Pat Radigan, on Main St., was entered by a burglar one evening last week. The thief gained access through a cellar window, and using burning paper as a torch he inspected every portion of the premises. When the store was opened the next morning all that was missed was 34 cents. The afternoon following the robbery Chief Gorman arrested Theodore Lutmein, who, on being tried, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison.

"I would certainly miss The Grocer if it did not come regularly," said Robert Percy, of Radigan & Son. "I think it is the best trade journal published. The correspondence pages are certainly very interesting."

We would respectfully enquire if anything is known of the whereabouts of the Preston and Hespeler Retail Merchants' Associations?

GUELPH.

W. F. Stewart, who has spent over nineteen years in Brussels, and who recently disposed of the National Roller Flour Mill there to Messrs. Pryne, has purchased the flour and feed business of J. T. Chittick, formerly owned by Thorpe & Co., and will take possession on July 1st. The business is well established, and with Mr. Stewart's long experience in the flour and feed business he should competently handle his new purchase.

The first car of strawberries this season arrived on Saturday. The quality was fair and the values high. The ruling price for this car was 18c. to 20c. a box. A car of choice pineapples is being unloaded to-day. They also keep high for choice stock.

Eggs are still firm at 20c. Butter also went up another cent, 16c. being paid by buyers.

Your Kingston correspondent asked about stringing the bags. We find shelves for different sizes of bags under the counter work all right and save time.

When out driving on Sunday just outside the city we saw a boy sound asleep beside a large-sized empty Quaker Oats box. We did not stop to ask him if he had eaten it all or just part, but it certainly was a good ad. for Quaker Oats.

Business among the merchants has been dull during the past week on account of the Made-in-Canada fair; not so much, perhaps, in the money that was spent as in the fact that all the ladies were too busy at the fair to get any time to shop. The fair is now over and the hurry and bustle that pervaded every part of the Winter Fair building has subsided into a sort of tired calm. Already every lady in charge is silently undoing what she worked so untiringly to attain. The net proceeds for the week were nearly $5,000, $4,682.22, to be exact, which is a very satisfactory revenue.

We have to give the ladies credit for such a magnificent showing.

HURON COUNTY NOTES.

P. T. Dean, grocer, Goderich, has purchased from Robt. McLean the property at the corner of East street and the Square, one of the most desirable business locations in town, and it is understood will build a large store there. The corner is at present partly occupied by McLean Bros'. butcher shop. The amount paid is said to be $3,000.

Chas. Aberhart, druggist, of Seaforth, has purchased the building and grocery stock of P. Dill. He will dispose of the stock to local merchants and remove his own goods from his present stand, where he is a tenant, fitting up the new place as a first-class drug store. Mr. Dill held the building and stock for sale only en bloc.

R. A. Climie, Listowel, will in a few days move into a much larger store, next door to the one he has occupied for twelve years. He is having a door built between the two, and will use the old store for storage and flour and feed. The new place has two splendid shop windows, specially closed in to keep out dust and flies, metallic ceiling, bins, show cases, and is in every way a most complete and up-to-date store.

P. McGaw, of Kincardine, has been remodelling his place of business and has added another storey and a new plate glass front. The building has also been bricked in, and interior fittings are being improved as well. The upstair rooms will be used for storerooms and offices, and everything is expected to be completed in time for the Huron Old Boys' reunion during the week commencing July 2nd. Mr. McGaw himself is something of an old boy, having been a resident of Kincardine for 45 years, during 20 years of which he has been in business there.

Geo. Anderson, Lucknow's "apple king," has finished the construction of a fine new business block, of cement blocks, rough stone finish. Half is to be occupied by a large dry goods store of city proportions, and the other half by H. McQuillin & Co., grocers, a new firm, who have bought the stock of Mr. Mooney there. They intend to pay particular attention to quality, and a jobbing trade will be done also. A five-car lot of sugar at rock-bottom price is one initial purchase. The new building is fitted up for steam heating throughout. Upstairs is the I. O. O. F. hall and a good office, suitable for a lawyer, and a bright young lawyer, Mr. Anderson says, is needed in Lucknow.

STRATHCONA, ALTA.

C. Sugarman, who has advertised a closing-out sale of his general store, to begin Thursday, has sold the business outright to S. W. Walter and R. J. Macdonald. The new firm, Walter & Macdonald, will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Walter hails from Listowel, Ont., and Mr. Macdonald from Seaforth. Both are experienced men.

Building operations in Strathcona are hampered through a lack of material. This is due largely to the poor freight service. Carloads of material have been as long as ten days in coming north from Calgary.

Campbell & Lucas have opened a cigar store with a pool room in the rear.

The city has over one hundred men engaged in laying sewer and water main extensions. A large gang of men is also at work laying granolithic pavements and plank sidewalks. About four miles of walks will be laid this year. Of this a mile and one half will be granolithic.

At a meeting of the city council Tuesday evening an option of thirty days was given on $60,000 of the city bonds to Wood, Gundy & Co., brokers, Toronto. Mr. Gundy, of the firm, appeared before the council. It was decided that a half year's interest should be added to the bonds, the rate was then made 97 flat. This virtually makes the issue price 94½ or a fraction under the 5½ per cent. basis.

There has been a slump in real estate business during the month of June. Early in the spring business was decidedly active and a "boom" seemed imminent. Fortunately, however, the backward spring crushed the tendency to inflation. At the present time there is good opportunity for safe investment as second payments on property, bought for speculation and not turned over, are now becoming due.

WOODSTOCK.

The municipal authorities of Tillsonburg are this year displaying particular energy in getting after prospective manufacturers and impressing them with the desirability of Tillsonburg as a location for manufactories in this section of Ontario. Their latest attempt is to get a pork packing firm. The parent company is the J. & J. Loudon Packing Company, of Strath-aven, Scotland, and it is said to be their intention to build a branch in this district. Two members of the firm were in Tillsonburg last week. They submitted a proposition to the town council at a special meeting and it will probably be put to the ratepayers at an early date. If it is entertained, the town will secure the advantages, before the end of the present year, of another industry, with a fine modern plant, that has passed the experimental stage and is supported by large interests.

MONTREAL.

Through the activities of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, the liquor license, which was made law at the last session of the Provincial Parliament, has been reduced 50 per cent. and the grocers who have been fighting for the cause are happy. All licenses will have to be paid by June 29, latest.

(Correspondence continued on page 54.)

NOTES.

Reese & Anderson, general store, Theodore, have dissolved.

The assets of Pierre P. Duval, grocer, of Montreal, have been sold.

J. B. Goodchild & Co., grocers, of Toronto, have suffered loss by fire.

The stock of Hicks Bros. & Co., wholesale grocers, of Winnipeg, has been sold.

Lt.-Col. John I. Davidson, of Davidson & Hay, Toronto, left on Saturday morning for a two months' holiday trip to the Old Country. Mrs. Davidson accompanied him.

Mr. Watt, of J. L. Watt & Scott, grocery brokers, Toronto and Montreal, has returned to Toronto, after a very enjoyable three-months' holiday trip in Europe with Mrs. Watt. They landed at Naples, and after a while proceeded northward by easy stages to Holland, crossed to London, and did not fail to make a stay in Dublin.

DISCRIMINATING BUYERS

When purchasing canned goods don't overlook the Quaker Brand. High quality is the standard under which all Quaker goods are packed, and besides this, the labels are so handsome that when displayed in your store they will attract customers.

HERE'S A CHANCE

In order to stir up business to greater achievements nowadays it is necessary to be continually on the look-out for something to specialize. As you know, the prices of most lines of dried fruits have taken a big advance and no doubt a lot of your customers are looking around for something to take the place of apples and other fruits. Now what's nicer than a good pumpkin pie. There's a big business doing in canned pumpkin right now and you should see to it that you get your share. Our price for this line is right and so is the quality.

WHOLESALE GROCERS

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, June 27, 1907.)

Business conditions show a marked improvement throughout the entire west. Last year's wheat crop is moving fast and the result is seen in the discharging of long standing obligations and the freer circulation of money. Wholesalers report a marked improvement in country payments.

From all parts of the west come the most encouraging reports as to this season's crop. Ideal growing weather has prevailed throughout the whole of the month of June and, as a result, the crop looks fully as far advanced now as at this time last year. Confidence has been restored by this encouraging news, as to the truth of which there is now no doubt, and, as a result, the trade are buying more freely now than at any time during the last three months.

There are not many quotable changes of importance this week.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—

Owing to the scarcity of California raisins some of the local houses are importing Australian raisins and the first shipments received are of splendid quality. Prunes are advancing rapidly, owing to persistent reports of a short crop in California, and it is predicted by some commission men that prices may reach the high level of two years ago. Apricots are also advancing, even above the high prices of the last season, for it is reported that the California crop is very short. Raisins are a good crop and a reduction in price is expected when the new goods are on the market. We quote:

CORRESPONDENCE—Continued.

CALGARY.

At a meeting of the retail merchants, held last week, it was decided to ask the city council to enforce the early closing bylaw which compels the closing of stores at 6 p.m. It was also agreed not to close on Wednesday afternoons during the summer, as was done last year.

A large number of new grocery stores are being opened in the suburbs and all seem to be doing a good business.

British Columbia strawberries are, owing to mutual understanding of fruit growers, 50 per cent. higher than last year. The importation of British Columbia fruit into Alberta is growing into enormous proportions.

Experiments in raising small fruits in Alberta have been carried on for some years with considerable success, and the increased price of British Columbia berries will be a great factor in promoting the industry in the irrigated district surrounding Calgary.

A. McWillie, organizer of agencies for H. J. Heinz & Co., Pittsburgh, was in the city last week and arranged with the wholesale house of Codville, Smith & Co. to take over the agency.

This firm is preparing a magnificent exhibit of Heinz's pickles and other goods at the Calgary Fair, which will be held in about three weeks.

Trade in Calgary is very brisk. Large numbers of new settlers are arriving, an immense amount of building is in progress, construction camps are in full swing, and the demand for provisions is tremendous. The season which, it was feared, would be very backward on account of the severe winter and the late spring, is likely to be earlier than usual. There has been plenty of warm rain and hot sunny days. Fall wheat on the outskirts of the city is from 15 to 18 inches high.

EDMONTON.

Edmonton, Alberta, June 14, 1907.

Grocers in the city, and other retailers also, have been very much interested in the passing of an early closing bylaw. A vigorous protest was entered by some of the smaller merchants against the passing of the bylaw, while the remainder of the retailers supported the legislation. The matter was discussed at some length by interested parties and petitions and counter petitions were presented to the city council. On June 1st, however, the matter was finally settled by the council passing a by-law compelling all retail stores, except drug stores, and confectionery stores, to close at six o'clock, excepting on Saturdays and on days before holidays.

The matter was taken up by the local board of trade and the city council were asked to pass the necessary legislation to enforce the early closing of retail stores, as it was felt that it was for the best interests of the city if such a law were in force. An early closing bylaw was in force last year, but as it had not been properly framed, it was overthrown by the decision of the magistrate. The council at once took the matter up, but no sooner had they framed a by-law than they received a petition from 42 merchants, asking that the bylaw be not passed, as they claimed it would be detrimental to their business. The other retailers who wished to have the bylaw passed at once presented a petition signed by 60 merchants and their 400 employes, requesting that the bylaw be passed. A petition was also received from the trades and labor council asking that the bylaw be passed. In the face of these petitions the council had no recourse but to pass the bylaw, which they accordingly did.

Since the bylaw was passed, however, several infractions of the law have been reported, and it is possible that prosecutions will follow. In the event of this being done there will doubtless be an interesting contest in court, as those opposed to the bylaw state that they will contest it and carry the matter to the higher courts, if necessary.

Among the many industries that are being established in Edmonton this year, perhaps one of the largest, and one that will have the greatest effect on the whole of Western Canada, is the mammoth packing plant that is being erected here this year. The plant, it is estimated, will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, and the contractors have promised to have the building ready for use by Sept. 1st. P. O. Dwyer is the nominal promoter of the scheme, but it is understood that the great packing firm of Swift & Co. are the real promoters of the enterprise.

The new plant will have a killing capacity of 5,000 animals per day, but this supply will not, of course, be available for some time, until the farmers, finding that they will always have a ready market for their live stock, will raise them in greater numbers. The plant, at the beginning, will give employment to 300 men, but this number will be increased to 1,000 as soon as the supply of animals is sufficiently increased.

The new plant will be erected at the junction of the C.N.R. and G.T.P. railways, so as to give ample shipping facilities. Near the site of the packing plant there will be erected other factories to utilize the by-products of the packing plant. These will include a soap factory, glue factory, tannery, button factory, chemical works and others close to the plant, and adjoining the railway tracks, extensive public stock yards and horse markets covering several acres are being laid out for the use of the buyer and seller. In connection with these yards a large private stock yard will be constructed, a hotel for the accommodation of the stockmen and a live stock exchange with offices for the commission men.

Work was started on this extensive plant two weeks ago and is being rushed ahead with all possible speed. In about two months the large seven-story building will be completed and active work of packing will be commenced. Michaels & Oake have the contract for the excavation work and the May-Sharpe Construction Company the contract for the brick work.

For a long time there has been bitter complaining by business men in the west about delays and general inefficiency in the postal service. Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, is earning the enthusiastic applause of the west by the energetic measures he is taking looking towards improvements. Arrangements have just been completed providing for a new postal sub-division, with an inspector and full staff, with headquarters at Edmonton. The Province of Alberta has been divided into northern and southern postal divisions. The headquarters of the southern division will be at Calgary. A. W. Cairns, formerly post office inspector at Calgary, will be the new divisional inspector for Edmonton, with offices in the Credit Foncier building, corner Jasper and Third streets. R. Bruce will be the inspector at Calgary. It is the intention of the department to have the new organization in full swing by July 1st. In addition, the Postmaster-General will open a dead letter office in Edmonton for the disposal of unclaimed, misdirected and insufficiently addressed letters. Formerly all this work was done in the Winnipeg branch.

The delivery of mail in the city of Edmonton began Saturday, June 22, and there are two deliveries a day.

KINGSTON.

Kingston is to have a school of pedagogy, and a handsome lime-stone building is in course of erection. As we don't use the word in the grocery business, I asked Webster what it meant for fear some youngster might quiz me and I wouldn't want to appear ignorant. Well, Noah Webster said it was to give instruction in the first rudiments, preparatory discipline. Would that such a school were opened to instruct young boys and girls to become good clerks; to teach them to face the public; to speak clearly and know what they were talking about; to know the value of goods and where they grew and all about them; the different processes used to make the many food products.

I forget the poet's name, but he spoke truly when he said:

"May blessings fall on each and all
Who rightly use the means intrusted;
But shame on wealth that keeps in stealth
The talents dull and dim and rusted."

The Baking Powder It Pays to handle

Is the one so well advertised that it sells quickly, and so high-grade that it perfectly satisfies your customers, and brings them back for more.

That's BLUE RIBBON exactly.

Of course cheaply made, unknown powders may be had for less money. But they're hard to sell, usually prove unsatisfactory to your customers, and lose your trade instead of gaining it. How's your stock of Blue Ribbon Baking Powder? Mail orders filled direct from the Factory.

Blue Ribbon LIMITED WINNIPEG

Brother grocers, don't try to run the store, keep the books, wait on customers, drive the wagon, etc. You may make a pile of silver dollars high as any tower, but what good is it, if you wreck your body by over-exertion? Employ good help and you will feel better and make as much if not more money. Hundreds of us all over the country are doing more than the law allows.

When the delivery-horse gets sore in front or shows his ribs, he is sent out to green pastures and when the bridle is taken off he tries to kick the sky, rolls over, gallops around and around, snorts, and in many other ways illustrates the full meaning of freedom. A merchant in the penitentiary said he didn't feel as much a prisoner there as he did when running a store.

Stop and think. You can make great improvement in running the store by doing less work and managing it properly.

Grocers throughout the country sorrow over the death of their old and well-tried friend, J. N. Christie. To us who knew him well he represented what was best in the traveling man—courtesy, honesty, intelligence and ambition. His death leaves a real blank in the lives of many of us, but his hearty handshake and contagious smile will linger in our memory until we, too, are called to that land in which there is neither sorrow nor parting. Peace to his resting place and honor to his memory.

The Hedley-Shaw Milling Co. have shut up their large flour mill at Kingston. Their lease here expires in about a year and a half. They spent about $5,000 in machinery, which will be thrown in to pay up the balance of lease. They put in a fine cornmeal plant which was never used. Mr. Plewes remains in Kingston as agent.

W. G. Craig & Co., not being hampered with the coal and boat business as formerly at the old premises, intend having a quick delivery system. Last week they purchased a handsome bay gelding, of the Clyde type, three years old. It's a beauty and has fine action, and weighs about 1,300 lbs.

Will some of our wise scribes tell me which kind of paper is the best and most economical to use—white, grey or manila. White my paper man says, is the cheapest all round paper for the grocery trade. I had some manila sent from a Toronto house as thick as paste board. I am waiting for the traveler with a club. And the man who sold me dates, out of date, old, soft, sloppy and sugared, will also receive my attention. He sold them for best, new Hallowee. Of course, the storeman will be blamed.

Kingston merchants were all overloaded with figs and the man who tries to sell figs for future delivery the coming season has a hard proposition to handle.

Mike Purtell has built a new grocery store for himself on the corner of Montreal and John streets. Mike minds his own business, gets a profit on what he sells, and doesn't worry about the grocers around him.

I am informed that some of the corn and peas sold so cheap lately are three or four years old, with beautiful, new labels. Is it any wonder that the death rate has increased in Canada? There is food for thought in the above assertion and work for the Government and its inspectors. It would be a good thing if glass or pottery were used instead of tin.

J. M. Kirk, of the Sherbrooke Cigar Co., made his usual call the other day. He feels sad over the death of his old friend, J. N. Christie.

ST. CATHARINES.

The Board of Tarde of St. Catharines is doing its best to promote the best interests of the town. They have secured permanent rooms in the Carnegie library building. By recommendation, the fee for membership was reduced from five to two dallars, this being an incentive for hitherto lukewarm supporters of the cause. The Board of Trade, as it now exists, is composed of bankers, manufacturers, wholesale and retail merchants in the various lines of trade. One of their platforms is to induce outsiders to come to St. Catharines to make their purchases. If a quantity of goods purchased amounts to a certain sum of money the car fare—either steam or electric—will be refunded. This offer seems to have had a good effect and trade generally is picking up.

The Retail Merchants' Association is now a strong body, but their meetings are irregular. The platform of the association is for mutual protection, that is, to guard against giving credit to customers who have the habit of purchasing goods and neglecting to pay for them. The merchants think they have a grievance against the Dominion Government. They do not think they are justified in paying for testing their weigh scales. They think the Government gets quite enough from them of a dutiable nature without piling any further expense upon them.

Trade generally in the grocers' line is picking up and now that home grown fruit, such as strawberries, are on the market with early and choice vegetables, the money is kept in the country and not transferred to other people.

Speaking with gardeners and fruit growers, they tell me that there will be a fair crop of cherries, plums and peaches; the pear crop will not be as big a yield as some years, and strawberries are a light crop owing to the late spring and cold weather. Potatoes are picking up wonderfully well considering the backward season. The farmers and gardeners should not grumble on money matters for the prices of all commodities grown or raised by them have ruled at high rates for some time. A slight drop has taken place in the price of butter, eggs and hay, but meats of all kinds and vegetables are commanding good prices. The original agreement between the retail grocers to close their stores on Wednesday afternoon of each week was broken the first Wednesday, and there was quite a howl, but mutual forbearance has effected reconciliation.

Good roads is a matter that is receiving considerable attention and it is high time the subject should be forcibly taken in hand. For the past one hundred years the system of road making has been the same in this division of the Province of Ontario. Plowing, scraping, rolling the ground has been the order, till the farmers of Grantham township and elsewhere have concluded to make a change. A bylaw was submitted to the ratepayers of that township recently, and the voice of the large majority of the property owners decided there must be a change to better the condition of the roads.

The City of St. Catharines has concluded to improve a most important thoroughfare—Niagara street, to the limit of the corporation—by macadamizing, and the many farmers, gardeners and fruit growers who travel that street hail with delight the present purpose of the corporation, as in spring and autumn, during the wet seasons, this road becomes almost impassable.

I see that the retail merchants of Welland are taking a leaf from the book of St. Catharines and other places by organizing a local Retail Merchants' Association. One of the principal promoters of this association is Michael Goodsir, a former St. Catharines business man, but now a resident and business man in Welland.

The carpenters succeeded in gaining their demands and have resumed work. By this strike business was impeded, and there are but few buildings in course of erection, principally private. The Sovereign Bank and the Bank of Toronto are the only two public buildings in course of erection. Both of these, when completed, will be handsome and imposing in appearance.

ST. JOHN'S, NFLD.

The Wm. Smith Co. are advertising some special values in teas. This firm is doing a large business in canned goods and fruits.

Beef, pork and flour are again on an upward tendency. Prices this spring on all staples are very stiff.

E. J. Horwood, the Water street merchant, is advertising seeds, oats, etc. Mr. Horwood also makes a specialty of "Molascuit," a cattle feed.

Edwin Murray, New Gower street, is advertising a specially choice lot of large and small cheese.

Berrigan's, head of Theatre Hill, do a fine general store business. This old reliable house keeps up with the times and are great believers in printer's ink.

R. Wright & Son have been appointed sole agents for Stewart & Young, Glasgow, manufacturers of confectionery and preserves.

Rothwell & Bowering make a specialty of Galaxy and American Beauty flours. This firm do a large business in staples and other goods.

T. A. MacNab & Co. are wholesale agents for Windsor table salt.

A. W. Bullock, one of Georgeville's progressive grocers, has just issued a neat little booklet descriptive of the pretty district surrounding Lake Memphremagog. Mr. Bullock certainly knows how to get after the best trade, as after reading the little book one would be tempted to visit the scenes described.

Business Management

By HOWARD R. WELLINGTON.

Systems for Retailers.

A great deal is said in this advanced age about "applying system to business." There is a danger of over-doing this, but there is no doubt that far more may be accomplished, both by the head of the house, and also by the employe through the introduction of systematic records and methods into any business. Of course, it must be remembered always that results depend largely on the employer and the employe, for an office or a business house may be filled with systematic devices and labor-savers and still there are no beneficial results, because those operating the systems are not working them to the best advantage. In a simple matter, such as filing correspondence and invoices, the greatest care should be exercised, as the time of the merchant is valuable, far too valuable to waste looking through heaps of letters and invoices in order to find the address of a certain concern he desires to write to. There are a number of simple devices for filing correspondence in a small office, although probably the box alphabetical file is the most convenient where a regular filing cabinet is not employed. A letter is received—and, by the way, letters should perhaps, be classified into "purchase" and "sales"—and as soon as a reply is prepared a carbon copy should be written at the time and attached to the original letter; in this way the whole history of the transaction is easily secured for future reference. These letters and replies are filed loose in the box file mentioned above, and any subsequent letter is treated in exactly the same way and filed on top of the previous one according to date. In a large business a great deal of time may be saved and some mistakes in names and addresses avoided by handing the stenographer the letter which is being answered, after placing the figure 1, 2, or 3, as the case may be, the stenographer using the same number in her note book, in place of writing out in full the name and address of the customer. For instance, the letters requiring answers may be accumulated and the dictation given at one time. Should the letter be from Messrs. Brown & Jones, Teeswater, instead of calling this to the stenographer, simply place the figure 1 opposite the name, the stenographer marking her notes in the same way. There will be absolutely no mistakes in names or addresses, and the time saved is worth while. Give it a trial.

System may be employed in so simple a matter as opening and handling the mail. It is the man who studies his business, and plans his time, who succeeds. If a system does not deal with a business you are in, it can easily be adapted to it; in fact, every business has its peculiarities, but there are few which cannot be improved by system. Some men will putter around shop or office all day and accomplish about as much as a systematic man may accomplish in one hour, and the latter's work seems to move so smoothly and without friction.

A word might be said here as to allowances for the return of goods, or for defects or overcharges. This occurs with both the wholesaler and the retailer. Where the customer makes a claim or returns some goods, and the allowance is to be made, it is safer to have a small book for the purpose, called "allowance book" or "credit book," into which is entered the amount of the allowance or returns, when the transaction takes place, and thus avoid the annoyance of having the customer return his account for correction on the first of the month. Similarly, if the retailer is making a claim on the wholesaler, this method is preferable, as almost invariably, if the claim is to be allowed, a credit not confirming the allowance will be sent by the wholesale house.

We should strive to do not only better work, but more work in less time. Now, in reference to purchase invoices, the first step is naturally to check over the receipt of goods correctly; and then the order, to ascertain if the goods have been delivered and charged as ordered. Should any difference arise, it should be reported immediately. After the invoice is found correct in every way, the prices of the various lines of goods should be recorded in some convenient way, so as to be easily accessible at a moment's notice. Probably a small price book, alphabetically arranged, will answer the purpose, giving the following particulars, for instance:

Stock	Date	From	Cost	S.P.
Groceries	April 8	S. B. Co.	$4.50 ea.	$6

This book may be arranged alphabetically in acoordance with the concern from whom the goods were purchased, or in accordance with the particular stock, the latter probably being the preferable method. This price book becomes simply invaluable around an office, both in buying and selling goods.

* * *

There are a number of methods for entering or recording purchase invoices, which will be outlined in a later issue. This is one of the most important branches in the work of an office.

ADVERTISING.

The average merchant usually gives advertising too much or too little credit. If the store management and service are bad—if the stock is poor and the sales force inefficient and discourteous—he is likely to have a poor opinion of the efficacy of advertising, for advertising can do very little for a store of that sort.

On the other hand, the merchant who has a fine store with a good stock of merchandise and excellent service is apt to think that it is not necessary to advertise. He thinks he can get along without it on the presumption that the store will advertise itself. That's where he is wrong. The better the store is the more this fact should be advertised.

S. W. EWING, CHAIRMAN.

S. W. Ewing, chairman of the Montreal Branch Canadian Manufacturers' Association, was elected by acclamation last week. S. S. Boxer was chosen vice-chairman.

The nominations for the positions mentioned, as well as for a board of twenty for the executive committee, closed last Thursday. Eighteen members of the executive are elected in Montreal and two in the district towns. Twenty-four names were posted for the city and only the two required for the district. Consequently elections will be held for the city executive members while the district nominees, Louis Simpson, Valleyfield, and S. T. Duclos, St. Hyacinthe, are declared elected by acclamation. The nominations for the city are: C. P. Bingham, Fred Birks, C. W. Bowman, A. H. Brittain, Wm. Cauldwell,

S. W. EWING.

GOLD STANDARD EXHIBIT.

The Winnipeg Pure Food Show in August promises to be one of the leading trade features in the western metropolis this summer. Foodstuff merchants of every degree are taking a lively interest in it and some of the big fellows are doing their share very effectively to make it a huge success.

The Codville-Georgeson Co., manufacturers of Gold Standard goods, are sending out invitation cards to all retail merchants in the west, requesting them to visit the Gold Standard exhibit at the Food Show. They are taking pains to make their exhibit one of the finest at the show. Hot coffee and dainty foods will be served by their experienced demonstrators and every merchant who can accept the invitation may rest assured of most courteous treatment.

While in Winnipeg it would also be worth the while of every retailer of foodstuffs to visit the new seven-story warehouse of this firm, right in the heart of the wholesale district. Everything is fitted up with the most modern equipment and many interesting processes are used in manufacturing Gold Standard goods. This firm's great business has been largely built up by their willingness to guarantee every product of their manufacture to be of the highest quality.

C.P.R. BUYS LEVER BROS.' LAND.

The property recently acquired by Lever Bros., corner St. Timothe and Notre Dame Streets, Montreal, has been sold to the C.P.R., the purchase price being in the neighborhood of $77,250. The land is occupied by the factory of the William Strachan Company, makers of Gilt Edge soap, and is required by the C.P.R. for the enlargement of their freight yards. The makers of Gilt Edge will build elsewhere in the city, it is understood, but when they shall move, and where, has not yet been made public.

TRAVELERS' HOLIDAYS.

The wholesale grocery houses of Ontario south of, and including, North Bay, have agreed upon July 27th to August 10th for the dates of travelers' holidays.

PERSONAL.

F. R. Lawlor, M.P., of the executive of the Canadian Canners, was in Montreal last week.

C. D. Cowles, representing the St. Charles Condensing Company, was in Montreal recently.

Mr. Tobias, for sixteen years traveler for Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton, has accepted the position rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Swain, with Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. He commences his duties for his new firm immediately.

C. D. Cowles, of St. Charles Condensing Co., Ingersoll, was in Toronto last week. The trouble with the ubiquitous Cowles is not lack of business, but difficulty of his company to keep up with their orders. To help themselves out in this respect they have ordered him to take a month's holidays, and he is off to his Syracuse home.

J. J. Campbell, of the firm of M. Campbell & Co., grocers, etc., of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, died recently.

A company will be formed at Battleford for the erection of a flour mill and elevator in that town. The company will be capitalized at $40,000 and work on the buildings will be commenced as soon as half of this amount has been subscribed. The capacity of the mill will be 125 barrels.

The Secret of Success

Commercial supremacy does not just happen. There are strong and apparent reasons for the the success of all live merchants. Many grocers attribute their success to the fact that they stock of Groceries and Provisions, and that reason will certainly stand all the argument one can bring against it.

CORONA BRAND is merely another name for the best brand of Groceries and Provisions on the market.

The Montreal Packing Co.

MONTREAL, P.Q.

THE SHREWD GROCER only stocks that brand of provisions which adds to his reputation while it boosts his bank account.

RYAN BRAND

is demanded by particular housewives because it's their surety of purity and wholesomeness.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

There is a dull feeling in cheese at present and prices quoted are rather lower than those which ruled last week. Very little trading was done in Montreal, particularly the early part of the week. The make continues larger, receipts each week showing a gratifying increase over previous weeks. Last week 98,956 boxes were received, against 71,787 boxes the previous week, and 87,677 boxes for corresponding week in 1906. It will be noticed that the receipts for the week in 1907 show an increase of over 10,000 boxes, when compared with the same week in 1906.

These figures give one some idea as to the large amount of cheese being turned out by the factories this year. Factorymen are devoting a great deal of attention to cheese, and are using for it milk that in former seasons would be utilized for butter. One can see the falling off in butter make this year immediately upon comparing figures with last season.

Still, speaking of receipts, it is noticeable that while the weekly output of cheese seems to be increasing, the make for the season is yet behind 1906. Since May 1 receipts have been 362,550 boxes, against 439,729 boxes in 1906.

Shipments are also behind 1906. Since May 1 this year, 324,776 boxes were exported, against 442,855 boxes in 1906. Last week, shipments amounted to 81,094 boxes, against 72,379 boxes previous week, and 81,100 boxes corresponding week last year.

Dealers are asking for Ontarios 11¾ to 11⅞ cents. Townships are bringing 11⅝c. when there is any trading, while 11½c. to 11⅝c. is obtainable for Quebecs.

Butter is quiet. Prices are weaker and by some are expected to decline in the near future, but whether they will or not is a question. Dealers have been expecting low prices for the past month, or for the past three weeks at any rate, and, contrary to expectations, the quotations fluttered first one way and then the other, so that they are now not any better than they were three weeks ago. In fact, on some lines prices three weeks ago were better than they are to-day. For instance, townships creamery was then quoted 20½c. to 20¾c., against 20¾c. to 21c. to-day; Quebec creamery is quoted on the same basis as three weeks ago, 20¼c. to 20½c.; Ontario is also the same, 20c. Ontario dairy butter is lower, being 17½c. to 18c., against 18c. to 18½c. three weeks ago.

Looking at these figures it does not seem so likely that there will be any immediate drop in prices.

Making it further probable that prices will be firm is the fact that stocks are none too large, and while there is no export demand worth considering at present, it is likely that towards the middle of next month Canadian butter will be wanted in England, and at the present rate of arrival of receipts it would not take a very long period of strong demand to clean up the market here.

Last week receipts of butter were 18,403 packages, against 15,424 packages week previous, and 26,658 packages corresponding week, 1906. From May 1 this season 90,342 packages were received, against 142,806 packages in 1906.

Butter exported last week amounted to 1,498 packages, against 243 packages previous week, and 14,900 packages corresponding week, 1906. Since May 1 dealers have exported 1,793 packages, against 65,120 packages for the same period in 1906.

The rain which we had the early part of this week will have a beneficial effect upon the situation, in that it will help the farmers more or less.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The export provision situation is again in a very unsatisfactory condition. Prices in England declined 2s. 6d. last week, and indications point this week to a further decline of 3s. This brings the market to the position it held before the recent advance, making the export of bacon a losing undertaking for the Canadian packer. This week's clearances are said to be at least 4s. under the cost of product. That is not satisfying. The Old Country market is practically in buyers' hands, as holders are pressing their stuff for sale. The primary cause of the decline is increasing stocks of Danish, and to some extent, of American, coupled with unfavorable, cool weather. The backwardness of the season has kept the people away from the summer resorts, which are usually large consumers of bacon at this season. Canadian shipments to Great Britain are still below normal, about 3,000 boxes a week. There has been a tendency in Canada this year to turn a larger portion of the product than heretofore into channels for home business. This tendency has been assisted by the poor market abroad and still there is no evidence here of over-stocking. Domestic demand continues active and prices firm.

Packers are trying to get the live hog price down, but not very successfully as yet. This week prices are variable from $6.40 to $6.65 f.o.b. at country points. Last week it was $6.60 to $6.65. Deliveries are light. Last week receipts were not over 25,000. The hogs are in the country all right, but when prices decline farmers and drovers hold off.

In the United States last week witnessed very little change and no activity in hog products, either for spot or future delivery. The tendency in prices has been lower, dragged down by lack of spot demand and some pressure to sell, on increasing stocks, especially of lard. Receipts of hogs were liberal, but no larger than a year ago.

BUTTER—Butter prices have been very steady, having fluctuated very little the past three weeks. It will be noticed on referring to The Grocer of three weeks ago, that prices given therein are practically the same as those quoted below. In London, England, a factory has been built for the manufacture of paper pails for milk. 50,000 are turned out daily, but it is said that, if the demand is to be met, this quantity will have to be increased to several millions.

WAREHOUSEMEN ON ORGANIZATION.

Montreal warehousemen employed by the various wholesale concerns are talking of organizing in order to obtain better conditions for themselves. They say that their wages do not average more than $1 to $1.50 a day and that their hours are longer than those of any other body of workers. They believe that by founding some sort of a union they will be able to secure several much needed reforms.

A FRUIT SEASON SELLER.

An article which ought to sell well at this season of the year is a brush for cleaning fruit jars, In small jars, at any rate, it is hard to insert the hand, and a brush of this kind may be secured to be retailed at 15c. each. It is made on a wooden handle about twelve inches in length, the handle being twisted on a wire and then fastened over the end of the handle.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Prices Continue Firm in All Lines, But in Flour Buying is At a Low Ebb—Good Demand for Cereals—Confection ery.

The grain markets have been much less interesting of late. The approach of the end of the month settlements has put a bar against speculation for the moment. Holders who do not wish to take delivery must sell. Sporadic crop news continues, but time is needed for the development of weather possibilities upon which the situation depends. Despite the glowing reports from the west, eastern grainmen are inclined to be pessimistic. Responsible grainmen express the view that the Ontario fall wheat crop has suffered considerably and no matter what the weather may do the crop will be curtailed.

The flour trade is very dull. Domestic business is at low ebb, and while there is free export enquiry Old Country buyers are only just getting into line. Newfoundland is taking some winter wheat flour. Millers are holding to their prices, knowing that it is nip and tuck with the western wheat crop and believing that a couple of weeks of unfavorable weather would put the market on a much higher level. Many of the small millers are out of both wheat and flour and what trade there is is going to the big mills. The cereal mills are quite busy and there, too, prices are being maintained.

Confectionery.

These are good days for the retail grocer. He is making money. For that reason some of them may give confectionery the go-by as not being worth while. The big retailers don't. Nearly all of them who make any pretence to keep abreast of the times give confectionery a conspicuous, if not a large, place in their business. They find it worth while, and so would every grocer who followed their lead intelligently.

NOVA SCOTIA TRADE NEWS

Markets on the Atlantic Seaboard—A Big Run of Mackerel—Big Cold Storage and Canning Scheme—Meat Famine Threatened.

(By The Canadian Grocer's Special Correspondent.

Halifax, N.S., June 24.

There is quite a good demand for canned goods at the present time, the sales of peas, beans, corn and tomatoes being heavy. The price of all canned goods is steady, and fair stocks are held. No complaint is made of a shortage in any lines. Prunes are selling freely, and also evaporated fruit. Sugar and flour are steady. Trade on the whole is very good, and collections are considered to be satisfactory.

The steamer Ocamo, which arrived here from the West Indies last week, landed 10,000 bags of sugar and a quantity of molasses. The steamer Foster Rice arrived during the week with a cargo of molasses from Barbadoes.

The Furness liner Shenandoah, which sailed from Halifax last week, took 12,994 cases of canned lobsters for Havre, France, and 3,000 cases for London.

The steamer Veraston, from Cadiz, is discharging a cargo of 3,500 tons of salt.

FISH—There is an abundance of fresh fish on the market. During the past week the waters along the coast were teeming with mackerel, and the fishermen reaped a harvest. The fish are of excellent quality and very large, some of them tipping the scales at 4 pounds. Thousands of barrels were taken, iced and shipped to the American market. The heavy catches caused a big drop in the price. Fish that sold at 18 cents last week are now quoted at 10 cents. Two D.A.R. steamers took over 2,000 barrels to Boston.

BUTTER AND EGGS—There is a considerable improvement in the butter market, and the receipts increased during the week. Dairy butter is coming in more plentifully and the price is on the downward trend. This is a welcome relief to the consumer. Creamery is firm at 27 cents, but small dairy tubs can be bought at retail at 24 cents. There are only average receipts of eggs, with a fair demand. They are quoted at 19 cents by the case.

VEGETABLES—There is a growing scarrity in some lines of vegetables, and in consequence the price keeps advancing. Potatoes are 25c. a bag higher, and carrots, parsnips, beets and turnips are practically off the market. The few turnips offered for sale are of a very poor quality. New cabbages are now on the market and the quality is very good, $3 per box is the price quoted, Cucumbers are 6c. each. Lettuce, spinach, rhubarb and radishes are in good supply.

FRUIT—Some lines of fruit are very scarce, pineapples in particular, and the price is high. Jobbers say that it is very difficult to secure good pines. The importation of American strawberries is quite heavy this season, and the price is very reasonable for the quality of the fruit, the most of which is good. The selling price is 18c. per box. Bananas are not very plentiful, the receipts being below the average. They are quoted at $2 to $2.50 per bunch. Cherries are $3 per box, navel oranges from $3.75 to $5, and valencias, $4. Nova Scotia asparagus is $1.50 per dozen.

Cold Storage and Canning.

It is stated on reliable authority that a big industrial scheme, which is being promoted by Sir Frederick Borden, is about completed. It includes the establishment of cold storage plants at Halifax, St. John and other places in Canada, and the opening of canning and vinegar factories in the Annapolis valley. R. J. Graham, of Belleville, Ont., is the managing director of this enterprise. Early this spring the promoter of the Middleton Produce Manufacturing Company opened correspondence with Mr. Graham in reference to the establishment of an evaporator at Middleton, and obtained a promise from Mr. Graham that if Sir F. W. Borden's scheme materialized, a factory would be opened in Middleton. If it did not, Mr. Graham would himself take half the stock in the Middleton Produce Manufacturing Company. It is now definitely stated that the larger enterprise will be carried out. The intention is to establish evaporators at Canning, Kentville, Kingston, Middleton, and six other points in the valley this year, and also a vinegar and vegetable canning factory at Kentville. All the factories are to be ready by September.

Meat Famine.

Advices from North Sydney say that there is a fresh meat famine in the town and prices will soon soar. P. Jackson & Co., received a telegraph order last week for a carload of fat cattle for shipment to St. John's, Nfld., for the British warships, and as has been their custom, at once wired to Antigonish for a number of beef cattle. After scouring the county the agent telegraphed that there were not ten fat cattle in the county. Charlottetown was next communicated with, but yesterday Messrs. Rattenbury & Co. wired Mr. Jackson that it was impossible to send him any. A similar message was received from Toronto.

BIG ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

Wm. Clark, packer and preserver of meats, Montreal, is entering upon a most complete and extensive campaign of advertising in Ontario. Special copy for 400 line advertisements has been prepared and will run in the leading dailies in Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa, whilst 25 of the prominent provincial dailies and weeklies in as many live towns throughout the province will also receive liberal copy. In addition to this the street cars of 20 busy city and suburban systems are being used. The copy is particularly attractive and has been prepared by the Desbarats Agency, Montreal, who have charge of the campaign. In addition to advertising to the consumer, special trade literature and trade advertisements are being prepared, pointing out to the merchants the advantage of keeping a stock of goods for which there is bound to be an increased demand.

TRADE NOTES.

Employes of the Acme Can Works will hold their annual picnic on August 10, going to Isle Gros Bois.

James Turner & Co., Hamilton, are meeting with satisfactory orders in their own bottling English malt vinegar.

Wilson & Merrill, grocers, of Hastings, have dissolved partnership and the business will be continued by J. C. Wilson.

The hot weather and advent of the pesky fly has induced Lucas, Steele & Briston, Hamilton, to get their "Sticky Fly Paper" out among the trade. It's a line that is "bound to stick"—the fly.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol are pushing with good success their specially put-up in England "Empire Brand" pickles, "Empire" olives. A fine lot of English malt vinegars in decanters is also a leader with them.

Lowney field day was pulled ioff at Mansfield, Mass., June 17, and was one of the most enjoyable occasions participated in by the employes of the Lowney Company. There were two trainloads of people present, and with music, dancing, sports, and good lunch, everyone enjoyed himself to the limit.

Crawford & McGarry, who carried on business for years in Montreal as dealers in smoked meats and other packers' lines, have dissolved partnership, and both gentlemen are now running under their own name. George McGarry & Co. are operating at 590 St. Paul St., and David Crawford is conducting a business at 555 St. Paul St.

It is reported that two New York houses have quietly bought up all of the available seconds and thirds of Moyune Young Hyson teas. These are being held for a considerable advance, so it is said, on account of the high price of Panfired Japans, and the tea is being held for an advance of 25 per cent.

James Turner & Co., of Hamilton, have made a specialty of introducing Red Feather "Readv to Use" puddings, cake icings, pickling spices, and the very latest thing before the trade in the sugar line, the B.B.C. (berry, bar and cereal) sugar, in five-pound bags. This is a non-caking, finely powdered sugar. A sugar shaker may be had free with the line.

R. Pratt, of Red Rose tea energy, spent last week at the Guelph Poster Show and, as usual with R. P., he made a hit—not as a poster, but as a purveyor of tea, the best of beverages. It was an undertaking in aid of the hospital, and a matter of many booths. At the King's Daughters' booth, the Japanese booth and the June garden, Red Rose tea was served, and R. P. saw to it that justice was done in the making and that the delicious liquor did not please unknowingly.

Potatoes Dropped Twenty Cents—New Brunswick Farmers Flooded the Market—Lemons Going Up—Florida Pines in Small Compass.

The man who mentions spuds to any one of about 90 per cent. of the Toronto potato merchants this week does so at his own risk. The situation has become acute, and those who have not lost money have failed to do so only by reason of the fact that they have not yet begun to sell. In this weather there is no chance of holding on in hopes of a rising market, and sooner or later the inevitable must be faced. Some have been hit harder than others, but not more than one or two have escaped unscathed. Delawares can be bought as low as $1.05, the drop occurring about the latter part of last week, and taking the whole street completely off its guard. The market was flooded, and the price had to give way. The demand, even at the lowest figures, is spasmodic and uncertain, and dealers who have large stocks on hand may find some difficulty in getting rid of them before they become unsaleable. Very little Ontario stock showed up in the course of the slump, which may be taken as proof positive that the farmers have already cleared out their season's holdings. Some of the local dealers anticipate a higher market within the next fortnight, but the fact that none of them are attempting to act on this assumption says very little for its value as a prophecy.

The hot weather has stimulated the demand for lemons and a higher market is looked for shortly. The price is a little firmer this week. Navel oranges are virtually out of the ring, large sizes only being quoted and the supply of these small. Florida pines are getting scarce and the stock is not improving. Small sizes have been the rule throughout the season.

It is said that the Georgia peach crop will be very short. So far only five carloads have been shipped out—four to New York and one to Philadelphia. This is a great decrease from last year, Both Ontario and Quebec receive a good proportion of their peaches from this quarter, but the principal markets are New York, Philadelphia and Boston, which have first call on all supplies.

VEGETABLES—With the warm weather business is beginning to boom. New vegetables are becoming plentiful and prices are declining. Among the lines which are cheaper might be mentioned tomatoes, beans, carrots, beets, potatoes. New potatoes are selling very freely. They are better than the old, even though the price be a little higher, in that there is no waste and because of being fresh.

FRUITS—Trade is very brisk. The first home strawberries have arrived, but the stock will not be in full supply for another week or two. The local berries are at least two weeks late this year as compared with last. All dealers are making great preparations for Dominion Day, and it is expected that California peaches, plums and apricots will by that date be in sufficient supply to take care of the increased demand. Florida pineapples are rapidly getting cleaned up. The quotations given below for local strawberries are liable to considerable fluctuation until the supply becomes steady.

VEGETABLES—All Ontario vegetables are now being received in good quantities. Tomatoes are again slightly lower this week, but are likely to stop at present quotations for some time. Potatoes have furnished the surprise of the week, and even the shrewdest dealers have been caught on the drop. Very little Ontario stock has come in, and the first Canadian new potatoes have yet to arrive. By the time the first shipment gets here it will be three weeks behind that of last year. There have been some offers of Bermuda onions lately, but there is practically no stock left on the market.

FISH—Weather considered, the fish business is excellent. Consumers seem hardly able to realize the fact that summer has actually come, and buying continues almost as brisk as it was several weeks ago. All kinds of lake fish are scarcer than they have been for some years, and this may probably be accounted for by the late spring. Trout and halibut are in big demand, and are rapidly taking the place of other lines. Trout is the old standby of the Ontario fish dealer. There is always a greater demand for it than for any other line—taking an average throughout the season—and the dealer can usually count with confidence upon the supply being equal to it.

C.P.R. AND THE POTATO MARKET.

W. R. McInnes, freight traffic manager for the C.P.R., during the course of an interview given to a reporter at St. John, N.B., referred to the phenomenal growth of the potato business in New Brunswick, especially in the counties of Carleton, Victoria and Madawaska. It is the intention of the C.P.R. to assist the New Brunswick farmer in finding markets for his potatoes, other than those of Toronto and Montreal, and to impress upon him the vital necessity of good storage houses wherein to hold his stock until the market is at its most favorable point.

Conservative estimates place this year's probable crop for the three counties mentioned at four times greater than that of last year. The acreage sown is increasing every season, and it would be a great boon to the farmer if he could find, near at home, a profitable market for his whole year's crop. Mr. McInnes said that the secret of success in the potato business was in being able to hold the potatoes until the market was at its most favorable state.

Mr. McInnes also gave it as his opinion that the Government should interest itself in the construction of a proper number of storage houses, and said that he was considerably surprised to find that the business had been built up entirely by the residents themselves and without any practical assistance from the Government. The farmers, if they were to be successful in their enterprise, would have to have the sheds erected without delay. About fifteen large sheds, he thought, would be sufficient for the present.

WHERE HALIBUT COMES FROM.

The richest halibut banks in the world are those of the Queen Charlotte Islands, which lie within five hours' steaming off Prince Rupert, the new city which the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. proposes to establish as its western terminus in Kaien Island.

To these banks the New England Fish Company of Boston send their steamers and load from their catch the halibut specials which carry the frozen fish to the tables of New York, Philadelphia and the New England States. Salmon, clams, herring and other food fish abound in the neighborhood. The climate is extremely mild, snow seldom falls, and work is carried on in the open the year round.

WANTS WINDING-UP ORDER.

A petition was filed Monday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, by Emmett Wells Snelgrove, of Cockburn, for the winding-up of the Dawson Commission Co., organized in 1897, to sell fruit, fish, etc. The nominal stock of the company was $60,000. The petitioner is creditor to the amount of $430, and the company admits inability to meet its debts, but offers to pay 20c. on the dollar.

EASTERN OYSTERS ON PACIFIC.

To Be Grown for Western Market—1,175,000 Oyster Seeds Planted.

Will eastern oysters thrive in western waters? On the answer to this question depends the success or failure of the experiment lately inaugurated by Col. Markham, of Victoria, B.C. The colonel and another military friend, Captain George V. Williams, of Wellfleet, Mass., have constituted themselves the committee of arrangements for promoting the growth of oysters at Magazine Island cove, Esquimalt. They have secured from the Government a lease of 56 acres at the cove, and have gathered 1,175,000 oyster seeds from the Connecticut and Massachusetts coasts. Business in native oysters, clams and crabs, in addition to eastern oysters, in which the company will specialize, will be carried on under the title of the West Coast Oyster Company, and both Col. Markham, the president, and Capt. Williams, the general manager, are confident of the complete success of the undertaking.

Discussing the plans of his company with a reporter, Capt. Williams said that he could see no reason why eastern oysters should not do well in western waters. The temperature of the water on the Pacific coast was lower than on the east coast, but that should make no difference, for oysters flourished in a temperature anywhere from 15 to 20 degrees below zero to 80 above. This accommodating adaptability of the bivalves should eliminate all difficulty, for the conditions were the same on both coasts.

If everything went well, said the colonel, the company would have western-grown eastern oysters on the Victoria market next fall.

TAKING CHANCES

There are still a few grocers in Canada who stock Cigars in a haphazard fashion. Cigar-quality they do not consider, because they do not appear to realize the immense power for good or ill cigars are in the grocery business. The almost unanimous decision of the grocers in the Dominion is that cigars make or mar a business. I know this positively because most grocers feature my

PHARAOH and PEBBLE

Cigars—cigars admitted to be quite superior to many sold at double the price. The reason for this marked superiority lies in the fact that I personally select and supervise the maturing of every leaf of tobacco used in my factory.

PHARAOH is mighty near my ideal cigar. It retails for ten cents, although most are convinced that it's easily worth fifteen.

PEBBLE is still far superior to the next best five-cent cigar.

N.B.—The Payne Plan of doing business says more for the sterling quality of my cigars than all the words we could print. Do you know that plan?

BUSINESS AS A PROFESSION

Relation of Education to the larger success — Conditions now demand the professional business man.

Joseph French Johnson, dean of the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance of New York University, was one of the chief speakers at a recent banquet of the Cincinnati Bank Clerks' Association, held in the rooms of the Business Men's Club, that city. He said, among other things :

"A trade is founded on the senses, a profession on the intellect. Any calling which can be mastered by the training of the five senses is a trade. Any calling which demands knowledge and intellectual effort is a profession.

"But is business a profession. Does it require the exercise of brains rather than of mere muscle and keen senses? Is business founded upon science? If so, it is a profession. If business, on the other hand, is a matter of mere muscle, quick eyes, sharp ears and delicate touch, then it is a trade.

The Art of Making Money.

"The word 'business' in its broadest sense means the art of making money, and men have found many ways of doing that. In common usage, however, the word is restricted to occupations which are concerned with the manufacture, transportation and exchange of merchandise. In its scientific sense business is the art of satisfying human wants. The successful man of business must produce things which people desire. Now let us see if business as a calling demands a knowledge of any of the sciences. On this subject we do not have to think long before we discover that the phenomena of business obey very definite laws. Although each business man seems to be independent of all others and to be struggling for the largest profit he can get, we discover that he is bound by laws from which he cannot escape, and that if he ignores them the sheriff soon takes possession of his office and the bankruptcy courts distribute his assets. These laws governing business phenomena constitute what we may call the science of business. In our colleges it is called tne science of political economy.

Rests Upon Mathematics.

"We find that business, like some other professions, rests also upon the science of mathematics and we call it accounts or accounting. We find that it involves a knowledge of many of the natural sciences, for commerce deals in articles which are products not only of the soil, but also of the laboratory. We find, furthermore, that business involves knowledge not merely of geography, of the characteristics of the soil of this and that country, of the routes of transportation by sea and by land, but also knowledge of the tastes and habits and customs of the different peoples of the earth, for business draws its commodities from all quarters of the globe, and markets them among the people of all countries. But this is not all. We find that men are exchanging goods not directly, but indirectly, through the use of a mysterious medium of exchange called money, and that upon this as a basis a vast and delicate structure of credit has been built, as sensitive and intricate as a spider's web. We call this great web of credit our system of finance, and we find that the business man who wanders carelessly into this labyrinth is hopelessly lost. We find, indeed, that through careless handling of the structure of credit a whole nation may be cast into years of gloom, the conservative and the reckless suffering the same evil fate.

Big Combinations of Capital.

"When we consider the work done by the large dealers and producers, we find men producing goods for millions of people, giant corporations, with capital assets amounting to many hundred million dollars. The whole field of industry in this and in other countries is dominated by a comparatively few combinations of men and capital, and the costs of making and handling goods are kept down to the lowest possible point. In this field there is no room for carelessness or ignorance. Here there can be no trusting to luck, for profit margins are often in the fraction of a cent. An untimely frost in Kansas or Argentina, a rise in the rate of interest in London or Paris, a shifting in the rates of foreign exchange, a break in the London stock market, a strike by the employes of a single industry—a single one of these things may change the character of the whole world's trade, and incidentally wipe out the profits of every great business whose managers are not quick to foresee the course of events and protect their interests. Steam and electricity have practically made the entire earth one great business organization. Different nations still have their different political emblems, but the flag of commerce and finance is the same for all. To many of our business men a famine in India or Russia is more important than would be a famine in Massachusetts or Ohio.

Must See the Significance.

"So close and all embracing are financial relationships, that the large-scale business man, no matter where his headquarters may be, must keep in touch with many different markets, and be quick to see the significance of every important event. The year 1906 gave us a striking illustration of the world's economic interdependence. When San Francisco was almost annihilated by fire and earthquake, no untrained business man could have foretold results, but the professional business man, the kind of man we have been talking about, knew that the shock would be transmitted to every great market centre of the earth. As has been proved by events that catastrophe drained first the idle capital of the east, and then made inroads upon the loan markets of Europe, causing everywhere a rise in the rate of interest, alterations in the plans of many great corporations, a sudden shifting in the demand for labor, and disturbance in the market for various commodities. The business men who were quickest to foresee these results were the ones who profited by them, while some of those who lacked foresight were ruined.

Theory is Essential.

"The curriculum of a professional school or business must be based on the science of business, theoretical and applied. I know some men dislike the word 'theory,' yet we can't get on in education, or for that matter, in life, without it. Theory is merely the 'why' of things. Why have prices risen in the last ten years? Why are wages lower in England than in the United States? Why is Cincinnati a prosperous city? Why do panics come about every ten years? Why do bartenders get high wages and bank clerks low wages? We can't answer questions like these without theorizing. One reason, I imagine, why practical men dislike the word 'theory' is because certain philosophers have gone to great trouble to explain why things happen, which never have happened and never will happen. Their theory may be perfect, but their facts are hypothetical.

Conditions Demand Education.

"This is not the place to discuss in detail the courses of study that should enter into the education of a business man. I wish only to impress on you the fact that conditions demand the professional business man and that our universities must prepare to train him scientifically, practically and adequately. Bridge building has become a science, and the man who now guesses at the strength of materials is marching toward a verdict of manslaughter. Even war has become a science, and God is no longer on the side of the strongest battalions. Business is no more a game of chance than war or bridge building. It is controlled by laws as inflexible and definite as those which control the phenomena of nature.

"In conclusion, lest I be misunderstood, I want to say that the professional school of business will not give us any better bookkeepers or bank clerks than we have to-day. It is not the purpose of such a school to train clerks. The work is already well done by our public schools and the so-called business calleges. But if any bank clerk is ambitious to rise from the ranks and become a bank president or if any bookkeeper feels that he is fit for something better than matching up debits and credits, he must seek a thorough professional education in the science of business, for the day has come when industry and fidelity alone will not earn the coveted promotion."

WINNIPEG BUSINESS CHANGE.

Blue Ribbon, Ltd., is a new firm recently incorporated to take over the business of the Blue Ribbon Mfg. Co., of Winnipeg, which has been run in connection with the wholesale grocery business of G. F. & J. Galt. The new company is an independent organization, but G. F. & J. Galt will continue the sale of Blue Ribbon goods.

Blue Ribbon, Ltd., has a fine manufacturing plant, one of the largest and best equipped in Canada, and the trade may rely upon the new company maintaining the quality of the goods. The Blue Ribbon lines include tea, coffee, baking powder, jelly powder, extracts, cream tartar, and many Blue Ribbon specialties.

GET FRESH TEA.

The Salada Tea Co. are having a great deal of trouble with some of the wholesale houses, who pile their new arrivals of goods on top of old shipments, and so have some Salada tea a long time in stock.

The Salada people are cautioning the retail trade to look at the top of every box that is shipped to them by a wholesale grocery house, and see the date on which it was packed, and requesting them, if it is more than three months old, not to be taken in, but either to send it back to the shippers, or to the Salada Tea Co., Toronto.

All tea loses flavor with age, they say, and therefore it is against the retailer's interest to have old tea in stock. If there is no rubber stamped date on the box lids, the retailers are cautioned from accepting them at all.

SOAP TRUST'S GHOST.

Crude cotton oil touched the highest point on record in England about the middle of May. In six weeks the price rose from $95 to $165 a hundredweight. The American consul at Hull, writing of the rise, says :

"The 'corner' has been effected by soap manufacturers. Only one firm has appeared in the operations so far, but it is believed that others are concerned. Early in the year the soap manufacturers bought large quantities of cotton seed oil from the Hull manufacturers, practically, so it is stated, the whole of their possible output for five months, and they are now taking delivery. Various other causes have contributed to the abnormal increase in prices. There has been a considerable 'crush' of cotton seed, with the result that the stock in Egypt is much lower than usual. The soap people have also bought cotton seed as well as oil, and that has assisted to put the market up."

COMFORT SOAP PICNIC.

The annual picnic and games of the employes of the Comfort Soap Works was held at High Park, Toronto, Saturday last, and proved most enjoyable and successful, there being in attendance upwards of three hundred. An exciting baseball match, married vs. single employes, was won by the latter by a close margin. The winners were presented each with a beautiful silver pendant by the factory manager, Mr. Massocar, to whom much credit is due for the success attending the employes' annual outing. The firm very generously gave the employes the entire day for their picnic and furnished the prizes. Appreciation of the same was manifest by the pleasant smile carried by all present.

At the conclusion of the baseball match the following games were carried out:

"What's in a Name?"

Of course, "the rose by any other name would smell as sweet."
A Coffee by another name might smell as sweet as

"WOOD'S COFFEES"

but it would not unless perfected like them.
Richest aroma means unchallenged superiority, and both are found in "WOOD'S."
